NEW YORK "JUSTICE."

Jersey justice came in for considerable criticism from the New York papers when a boy was recently sent to jail for 100 days for killing a rabbit out of season. It would seem, however, after the verdict in the Cleary case, that the New Yorkers would do well to consider the conditions in their own State a little more seriously. It is no wonder that Justice Morschauser, who sat in the Cleary case, so far departed from the usual custom of judges, as to say that he was not satisfied with the verdict.

Cleary deliberately shot his son-in-law, when the latter went to tell him that he had married his daughter. The young man was unarmed, and was on what might truthfully be said to be a peaceful mission. The shooting was admitted on the witness stand by the defendant, who pleaded some kind of a "twilight period" in which he did not realize what he was doing, and said that he had been drinking prior to the time that he shot young Newman. All this was brought out clearly at the trial, and yet a jury of men, suposed to be in their right minds, were swayed by a lot of gush, and found Cleary not guilty. It was a situation which seemed so impossible prior to the verdict that probably a dramatist would not have dared to picture a similar incident on the stage, for fear of being criticised as a theorist.

"There may have been reasonable doubt as to the degree of the defendant's guilt, but murder is murder, call it by whatever name you will," Justice Morschauser is quoted as saying in an interview after the case was over. "It seems some people lose sight of the crime itself. The jury controls the rendering of the verdict and we are bound by it, however much it may lack of accord with our own views."

Once acquitted a man cannot be retried for murder, under a provision of the Constitution of the United States, which says "* * * nor shall any person be subject, for the same offence, to be twice put in jeopardy of life and limb." When such situations arise as in the Cleary case, it would seem that the time has come to amend the Constitution, so that murderers can be tried under a change of venue, in another county from the one in which the original case was tried. It certainly was a travesty on justice.

SHIFTING PINS.

Remaining neutral, as requested in President Wilson's proclamation, is not easy. In the back of a well known local store there is a map of the present war situation in Europe—one, which, according to the elaborately headed pins, should portray the locations of the contending armies.

The broad-minded man who first started the idea possibly intended to keep in touch with all the movements of the Kaiser and the Kaiser's cousin, the King, but his intention far from carried out President Wilson's desire for peaceful thought.

At present newspaper maps are as misleading as their reports and therein lies the trouble with this local war map. The first clerk arrives in the morning with a Staats-Zeitung under his arm. He pushes all the pins out to sea. The next man reads the Journal. He conscientiously pulls out all the pins according to the number reported killed. The third clerk comes in later, after reading the "Evening Telegram." He has been buying up all the red pins in Plainfield, according to the information that a million or so troops have reinforced the Allies. A French sympathizer has put the line of battle within three or four miles of Berlin, while the Austrian janitor has the Russian troops cooped up in St. Petersburg surrounded by the entire Austrian army.

As long as there are pins and war maps neutrality seems impossible.

"Say Raid Was Ordered to Cheer Up Kaiser," says a newspaper headline in referring to the attack on the defenceless towns on the coast of England by a German fleet. If the murdering of defenceless men, women and children, in the same manner that a thief would shoot in the back, cheers up the Kaiser or any other man, it is good evidence that the proper place for that kind is an insane asylum. If the statement is true, the ignorant leaders in Mexico have nothing on the German Kaiser.

$1,000 for a Community Christmas; $1,600 for the Belgians; caring for the unemployed who are in actual want, and a big community Christmas tree. That's some record for Plainfield for a very few months, and it makes us all proud to be residents of the Queen City. Surely the "Do It For Plainfield" spirit is in the air this year more than ever.

Although Christmas is but three days off, it is not too late to get what you want from Plainfield merchants to make suitable gifts for every member of the family. Better buy at home late, than never.

IN BETHLEHEM TOWN.

In Bethlehem town, so far away,
The Christ Child came. Oh, glorious day.
In lowly guise and modest power,
A saintly babe of heavenly dower.

The wise men came with gifts and prayer,
Angelic songs burst on the air,
The little town so calm and still,
Thrilled with joy, peace and good-will.

The star so bright guided the way,
Where Mary in the manger lay.
While, hark! The happy shepherds cry,
See, here is where the Christ doth lie.

The little town so calm and still,
Became the fort of Zion's hill,
While radiance from yonder star
Swell the tidings near and far.

Ring out, ye bells, with gladsome mirth!
Tell of this babe to all the earth.
Ring out, sweet bells, your sweetest chime,
This is the happy Christmas time.

SEND CONDENSED MILK TO BELGIAN LITTLE ONES

In an effort to provide nourishment for the tens of thousands of babies who are suffering in Belgium, the local relief committee has delivered to the Rockefeller Foundation in New York, for shipment to Belgium, 4,800 sixteen ounce cans of condensed milk, which were purchased through a large New York wholesale grocery house for $300, a little over six cents a can. They have also sent 100 substantial pairs of shoes to be given to the needy of King Albert's kingdom. The ninth box of clothing from the local relief committee was shipped last Friday, and another box will be sent soon.

It is figured by those in charge, that the condensed milk which has been sent by the local committee will keep three hundred babies alive for three weeks, and in the meantime an effort will be made to raise more money for the cause. As has been told a number of times in the Daily Press a Plainfield man has agreed to give $100 to the cause if eleven others will do the same thing, none of the money to be paid unless all subscribe. Up to date four have agreed to participate in this plan, and two of the four have paid their money. Others wishing to contribute to this list may do so by sending their names to the Press office.

REHEARSAL OMITTED.

CANNOT USE 1915 MARKERS BEFORE JAN. 1

Trenton, Dec. 22—The chiefs of police throughout the State were notified today by State Motor Vehicle Commisioner Job H. Lippincott, to stop the use of 1915 markers on automobiles until January 1. Commissioner Lippincott discovered that a number of the new markers for 1915 were already being used by motorists on their cars. The motor vehicle act provides that these markers shall not be used until on or after January 1, each year. In his notice to the police chiefs, Commissioner Lippincott said:

"The department would ask you to issue orders to the officers under your command to stop any person when using a 1915 New Jersey marker and to instruct them to place their 1914 markers again on their machine. The department does not recommend arrest in these cases unless the offense is committed the second time, in which case, the driver should be arrested for driving without markers, as the 1915 markers have no force and effect until 1915."

WAR NEWS

the present for military reasons."

The Germans' attack north of the Vistula have been driven back until Russian troops have crossed into East Prussia, gaining complete control of the north bank of the Vistula. In the south the Austrians have been defeated in their movement from the Carpathians, while the Russians maintain their grip on the situation about Przemysl.

The successes of the Russian army in the north are imperilling the German centre, which is unsuccessfully atacking the Russian positions on the east bank of the Bzura. Every attempt the enemy has made to cross the Bzura has resulted in failure, the Russian guns smashing their pontoons in every attempt made to bridge the river.

Greece and Roumania are believed to be about ready to enter the war. The Bulgarian government has given categorical assurances of its intention to remain neutral, and Great Britin, France and Russia, following this, have given guarantees to both Athens and Bucharest that Bulgaria will not attack either in case they enter the war.

Copenhagen, Denmark, Dec. 22 (Central News Cable).—German military experts, while reaffirming that the German army under General Von Hindenburg gained a victory of great importance in Poland, nevertheless, warn the public against exaggeration of its general result. They state that the Russians have stopped their retreat and have occupied new and strongly fortified positions.

Berlin, Dec. 22 (via wireless to London).—The following statement was given out by the general army headquarters:

"Yesterday we stormed and captured trenches held by Indian troops. They lost heavily. We took one cannon, five machine guns, two mine throwers and 270 prisoners, including ten officers. Attacks by the French northeast of Chalons were repulsed. We took four officers and 310 prisoners.

URGE THE PASSAGE OF BURNETT BILL

Union County Patriotic Societies Write to President and Senator Martine.

The Union County Federation of Patriotic Societies, of which Percy Brown, of this city, is the president, and W. H. I. Cubberly, of the borough, is secretary, has sent the following communications to President Wilson and United States Senator James E. Martine, urging their approval and support of the Burnett Immigration Bill. The communications, copies of which are given below have been sent to Washington. To President Wilson they wrote

"Our federation, composed of Patriotic societies in Union county, respectfully urge your approval of H. R. 6060, known as the Burnett Immigration Bill and beg to state that we consider it the most important legislation now pending. Your approval of the bill will be most gratefully welcomed in your home State."

Senator Martine's letter was as follows:

"We understand that you are recognized as one of the leading opponents of H. R. 6060, known as the Burnett Immigration Bill, which is now before the Senate for consideration. Our federation is on record as suporting the measure as we deem the legislation of greater importance than any other now before the Senate.

"Your objection to the 'literacy test' is, according to the newspapers, the main reason for your activity against the bill. Your constituents would be gratified to have an opportunity of hearing your views on this subject and would be pleased to have you advise us whether you would consider taking the platform either at Plainfield or Elizabeth in order to debate the bill with one of its supporters. Inasmuch as you represent the people in Washington you wish to act, not as you feel personally, but as a majority of your constituents desire. We feel confident, therefore that, if it will not interfere with your duties, you will welcome the chance of expressing your views and hearing those of the people you represent.

"We might say in conclusion that New Jersey expresed its desire for immigration restriction at the polls in November, and there can be no doubt that the majority do in fact desire this legislation. In this district, our representative, Mr. W. E. Tuttle, Jr., failed at re-election solely because of his opposition to the immigration bills which appeared before the House during his term of office.

"We sincerely hope that, recognizing the fact that the majority has expressed its opinion in the matter, you will change your views to coincide with theirs."

DONAVAN FOR YANKEES.

Chicago, Dec. 22—President Comiskey, of the White Sox, is quoted today as saying that "Wild Bill" Donovan will be the new manager of the Yankees. The names of the five new players that will be transferred to the New York Americans have not as yet been made public. President Johnson, of the American League, is expected to make the announcement sometime today.

DISCUSSED PROGRAM FOR MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB

Members of the literary committee of the Monday Afternoon Club met in the parish house of the Congregational church yesterday afternoon, and discussed tentative plans for the coming year's work. Various suggestions were made for plans to be pursued during the ensuing term and it is probable that a definite program will be drawn up from the various phases of work discussed.

Miss Tweedy read a paper at the meeting on "Henry James." This offered an insight in the life of the character with which it dealt and the reading was the result of considerable research work conducted by the author.

DISPLAYED RARE NERVE IN STOPPING RUNAWAY

Displaying rare nerve and presence of mind, Jules Margentino stopped a runaway in Dunellen, yesterday afternoon, that probably would have resulted in serious injury and possible loss of life among the pedestrians in the vicinity at the time. Young Margentino dashed out of Clarence T. Voorhees' butcher store just as a team owned by the American Express company came tearing down the avenue.

He raced out in front of the frenzied animals, and seeing that it would prove useless to tug at the heads of the steeds inasmuch as they had been stripped of their headgear for the noon-day meal, Margentino swung his body over the back of one of the equines and attempted, by wrapping his arms around its neck, to choke off its wind.

Riding in this fashion the man was carried from Washington street into Front street and thence to Jackson avenue. It was finally brought to a stop in front of the residence of James Craig at Dunellen and Jefferson avenues. Several narrow escapes were recorded during the wild flight, when the big truck was swung within an ace of passing vehicles.

PRANKS OF THE AUTOMOBILE.

"Hanged be the mortal whose brain gave thee birth,
Worse of all evils devised upon earth,
Hell upon earth for the one you despise,
Testing his temper a key to devise
To solve the problem of thy queer actions,
Driving all to the point of distraction!"

The elation and joy of your master
Is quickly transformed into disaster;
A moment before he guided aright,
Halting abruptly, O, what a sad plight!
For man to be when in great hurry,
Dispersing all hope, by causing great worry.

Without delay, you quickly alight,
Scan to full view, that confronting your sight;
The complex "dilemma" under the hood,
Of which you know little—less than you should.
The spark plugs are then brilliantly assailed,
But to discover, my efforts have failed.

Various problems confront the sick mind,
Their proper solution, a path to find Dreading in horror the height of the bill,
I then decided to test my own skill
Thinking there may be some bolts that are loose,
I worked like a Trojan—if not like the deuce.

Renewing my efforts 'neath the car
I crept,
Until fatigued with labors—almost wept;
From 'neath the car I finally rolled
To the nearest 'phone slowly strolled
Calling my rival to the scene of sorrow,
Forgetting my plight till on the morrow.

Man and machine are both cursed alike:
When both are drunk they're ready to strike,
Whiskey, or "gas," it matters not which,
When imbibed freely, into a ditch
Either will cast you—that we know well,
The pranks of either, few can excell.

Owing to frenzy they lose self-control,
Evading the road by striking a pole;
Lucky is he who knows his machine,
Guiding the wheel about to careen:
Tempest and car seem one from afar,
No force on earth their flight can bar.

Poor car! since they master hath deserted thee,
Thou hast revealed all they secrets to me;
The awful condition thou didst present
Would cause all men such abuse to resent.
Despite thy bruises I shant thee divorce,
Prizing thy beauty above any horse.

Upon one condition I shall cherish thee:
Providing thou remain loyal to me.
Never surrender to other's affections,
Almost always they end in dejection.
"To serve with zeal," is the motto
I seek,
Since thou art my slave always be meek.

Repaired and donned in a new coat of paint,
Your old home you seek with never a taint.
In your strong frame, of which I am proud,
None need decry or your beauty enshroud.

The following morn I assumed full control,
O'er roads and hills you merrily rolled,
Flying so swift, not a sound did you make,
Pausing but once, for a long breadth to take.
"O, what delight to be with you once
more,
Shall herald your fame from shore to shore!"

Beautiful autumn arrived and went,
Every man to his natural bent,
Into the country with my only friend
On many occasions, Sunday to spend.
Viewing the grandeur of Mother Nature,
The effects of which one's soul may allure.

Like all things in life they soon vanish,
Even their thoughts we sometimes banish;
The mind harbouring but a faint glimmer
Of by-gone days, as they grow dimmer,
Until, but a mere speck, the mind reveals
All of our actions—it secretly conceals.

Troubles increased when Jack Frost arrived,
It is only in winter he greatly thrives;
As cold days progress more wicked
he grew,
Freezing all things, though he very well knew
The sting of his breath, none could withstand,
Not even fearing man's reprimand.

So far, Mr. Car, stood the acid test
well,
Proving his worth more than I can tell.
Like the toper, whose blood cold weather affects,
Demanding hot drinks he rarely rejects,
Warming his blood one degree or more,
Giving new vigor to limbs so sore.

Giving no warning, early one morn,
I cranked my car until I was worn;
Losing temper, with renewed effort,
I cranked, and cranked, till my breath grew short.
Cruelly treated by one so adored,
"Cursed be thy maker," I vehemently roared!

Resting a while, I began to reflect,
Deciding the car's vitals to inspect;
Forgetting myself for a little while,
Despite my efforts I began to smile.
Realizing at last what should be done,
I worked away until I thought I won.

Desiring relief from this abject state,
Labor and labor until it was late,
Disgusted, forlorn and numb from the cold,
I struck an idea—not new, but old.
"Drain all icy water, till the last drop,
Pour in hot water right from the top!"

This feat accomplished, I tried again
To crank the car, was useless and vain;
My anger by this time knew no bounds,
Search if you will the whole world round,
No one you'll find, with you to agree,
If you laud the car o'er land and sea.

As sluggish and clogged as one's blood may be,
A drink, now and then, will fill him with glee;
Sending his stagnant blood through his veins,
Stimulating his senses, heart and brains.
No other time does he feel at his ease,
As when, through his nose, he snorts like a breeze.

And so with the car, I boldly declare,
The above contrast can with it compare;
Water it drinks in quantities galore,
Once tasting alcohol, demands more and more.
"I drink in excess till my breath smells bad,
So that, when I'm drunk they think I'm mad!"

"Revenge is sweet," is an adage most true;
"The blessing of Hades," I give unto you;
Pity, and pride, is a thing of the past,
Such virtues lost, one becomes an outcast.
The best abode for you upon this earth
Is, return to the land that gave you birth!

BALL PARK FOR FLEMINGTON.

Flemington, Dec. 22—Flemington's baseball enthusiasts have purchased a tract of land here to be used as a baseball park. An association is to be organized and incorporated for the purpose of taking a title to the land. The grounds are to be in readiness for the opening of the baseball season. The tract contains between nine and ten acres. For the last few years, since the old park was torn up, the teams have been playing on the lot next to the Pennsylvania Railroad and two of the fielders stand on the tracks.

POSTPONE HARD GAME.

Because of the hard game that awaits the Y. M. C. A. team Friday night and, also because of the injuries to Captain Brynarski, the game that was scheduled with the Washington Heights Y. M. C. A. for next Saturday has been postponed. This game was to have been played in New York and the return game that was booked for February 27 will be played on the local court.

LEALS LOSE GAME BY SINGLE TALLY

Schneider Good at Foul Shooting But Failed in Last Few Seconds.

South Orange High School team won another basketball game yesterday afternoon and once more it was Tom Fitzsimmons who brought victory to the South Orange School. The suburbanites defeated the Leal "Prep" School team, in the gymnasium of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., by a score of 34 to 33. The game was a hummer and was not decided until the last half-minute of play, when Fitzsimmons caged a free throw which gave the South Orange lads a victory. In the last five minutes the play was especially hot and three fouls were called against each side. Two were called against Leal and the visitors made good on both occasions. There were then two fouls called against South Orange and Schneider dropped the ball through the net for Leal. Another foul was called against Leal and Fitzsimmons again was there for a point, putting his team one point to the good. Schneider had a chance to tie the score on a free throw but failed and the whistle soon blew, announcing the end of play.

Fitzsimmons was ringing them in from all parts of the court and accounted for eight field goals and six free throws, scoring a total of twenty-two points. Dickerson was Leal's star, he getting six field goals in the first half. He was played by Hegan in the second period and did not score a point.

FIRST TITLE GAME IS ON TOMORROW

North Plainfield and Leal Aggregations Will Face Each Other at Y. M. C. A.

Interscholastic basketball hostilities will be inaugurated for the 1914-15 season tomorrow afternoon when the North Plainfield High School and Leal School teams will meet on the Y. M. C. A. court in the first game for the city championship. Both teams have been practising hard for the game as both want to get a good start by annexing the initial game. Because of previous performances, the borough aggregation is the ruling favorite for this game, but the private school team, that has been holding down last place in the league for the past several years, is planning to spring a surprise on its opponents.

The boroughites' record so far this season is higher than Leal's, while the latter team will have the advantage of their home court. North Plainfield practised on the association court yesterday and are laying off this afternoon. The game will start at 3:30 o'clock and the teams will lineup as follows:

N. P. H. S.	Leals
Townley	Stewart (Capt.)
Conroy	Dickerson forwards
VanMater	Schneider

APAWAMIS GOLF CLUB GETS METROPOLITAN

For the third time in its history the Apawamis Club, at Rye, will be the scene of the metropolitan amateur golf championship next summer. The new executive committee of the Metropolitan Golf Association met yesterday in the office of the president, Darwin P. Kingsley, and settled that matter. Apawamis first held the amateur championship in 1901, on which occasion Findlay S. Douglas became the title holder. In 1909 Walter J. Travis captured the honor.

The date for the amateur championship will be about two weeks later next year than in the season just closed, the time selected being from June 2 to 5, inclusive. The last tournament was held at Englewood, May 20 to 23, and Oswald Kirkby won the championship.

The Paterson pinners fell down ninety-nine points in the second encounter, while Plainfield managed to keep above the 800 mark. None of the local players made very high scores, Woolston getting the highest, which was 190, but a pair of low scores were credited against the home team, which pulled their total score down. LAWYERS TO APPEAR BEFORE JUSTICE LAMAR

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 22.—Following the refusal of United States District Judge Newman to sign a certificate of reasonable cause for the appeal of Leo M. Frank, sentenced to die January 22, attorneys for Frank left here for Washington. They will appear before United States Supreme Court Justice Lamar, who has jurisdiction over the Georgia territory, and ask for the writ, and if this is refused will then make the same application to probably every other member of the Supreme Court bench, and as a last resort to the full court as a body.

SETTLED LIBEL CASE.

Thomas Coppenhaver's suit for $15,000 against the Plainfield Press Company, for an alleged libel published at the time of the disappearance of Ruth Naylor last April, was settled when brought up for trial this morning, in the United States Court at Newark. Because Coppenhaver is a minor it was necessary to draw a jury and he testified that the article in question about him was untrue. The amount of the verdict was nominal, and was decided upon by the lawyers before the case was called, so the newspaper company did not put in any defense. The costs of the trial were borne by Coppenhaver.

DEATH OF SON.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman L. Wyckoff, of Newark, but formerly of this city, died early this morning. The child was one of twins.

HAHNE & CO. WORKERS RECEIVE GENEROUS INCREASE

Hahne & Company, the progressive Newark department store, at the first of the present year inaugurated a percentage basis for their employes by which they received a percentage on their sales together with their salaries. This plan has worked out most successfully, and has been a great incentive to their workers to put forth their very best efforts. So well pleased have been the firm with the efforts of their employes that last week fully one-fourth of the entire huge salesforce received letters of congratulation on their splendid work, and also notifying them of a liberal increase in salary. The employes were assembled and the superintendent, H. T. Martindale, told them of the good news, and gave them an interesting talk on their work.

Coming at the present time, and especially in view of the conditions this year, it is unnecessary to say that the notification of an increase in salaries to the Hahne employes was very much appreciated. It shows the splendid way in which employers cooperate and encourage their workers to make good.

YALE PLAY HAS WONDERFUL STRENGTH

"The Ghost of Jerry Bundler," one of the four one-act plays to be presented in this city at the Plainfield Theatre next week, Thursday night, by the Yale Dramatic Association, is a tragedy of wonderful strength. It is simple; but intense, and dramatically effective. A group of travelers are met at an inn, and tell stories about the hearth. A strolling player is one of those present, although one traveler in particular claims that he is not superstitious, nor afraid of ghostly appearances. Accordingly, the player, with one of the company as his accomplice, arranges the "scare." He enters the darkened inn room as a ghost. The company are terrified; the man who scoffed at ghosts— But it is said that foreknowledge of a play spoils enjoyment of it. For those who are not familiar with the piece, we advise attendance at the performance noted above. For those who have read the play, we offer the same advice, not only in order that they may witness "The Ghost of Jerry Bundler," but also because there are to be three other plays of the same calibre.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Beside the big feature picture, "The Seats of the Mighty," Proctor's Theatre offered five excellent vaudeville acts as the program for the first half of the week. The bill is headed by the Laurent Trio, two men and a woman, who performed difficult feats on the trapeze and demonstrate their claims of being among the world's strongest people. The female member of the troupe has all the Sampsonian ability of her colleagues and carries both of them about at the same time with perfect ease, one wrapped about her body and the other seated on a chair balanced on her shoulders. The act reaches a climax when one of the troupe smashes rocks with his fist. A lively sketch with plenty of good comedy is offered by Mr. and Mrs. William Morris, and Caryle Grindell keeps the audience laughing with a singing and talking skit. High-class singing in the form of burlesque opera is presented by Marion and Miss Clement, and Herskind, a clever cartoonist, who mixes comedy chatter with his drawings, are the other numbers of the bill. The feature picture, "The Seats of the Mighty", made a big impression yesterday and will be repeated Thursday afternoon and night. The final episode of the serial film, "The Perils of Pauline," will be shown this afternoon and tonight and the third installment of "Zudora" is scheduled for tomorrow. "The Zudora mysteries" have already gotten to be the popular fad with Proctor patrons and those who missed the opening presentations should lose no time in "following the crowd."

CITY TO PURCHASE AUTO AMBULANCE

It Will Be a Combination Vehicle for Hospital and Police Use.

BIDS TO BE RECEIVED

John Fritts and John Neylon Appointed Regular Patrolmen—Council to Seek Lower Insurance Rates After January 1.

Steps were taken at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, to purchase an up-to-date combination automobile police patrol and ambulance, to take the place of the present horse-drawn vehicle. Mr Calkins offered a resolution providing for the invitation of bids, the cost not to exceed $2,000. It is provided that the successful bidder shall also take in exchange the ambulance now in use in this city. For a long time the city officials have felt that an automobile patrol and ambulance should be purchased to meet increasing needs for quick service.

Mayor Percy H. Stewart appointed John Fritts and John Neylon regular patrolmen, they having served the probationary period in a satisfactory manner to the police board. The appointments were confirmed.

Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett reported the granting of three sewer permits since the first of the month. Horace G. Adams, clerk of the District Court, reported receipts for the month of $134.07 and expenditures of $42.07.

In accordance with resolutions offered by Mr. Blatz the work of macadamizing certain streets which was done by Burke & Bonham, was accepted, and $589.78, balance due on the contract, was ordered to be retained for a period of sixteen days. Another resolution by Mr. Blatz, provided for the building of culverts on West Eighth street, in response to a petition from R. H. Leveridge.

A resolution offered by Mr. Cose and adopted, authorized arrangements for securing copies of all legislative bills during the coming session, the expense not to be more than the actual cost. Heretofore the Council has appropriated a fixed sum for obtaining these bills.

Mr. Calkins suggested that inasmuch as the city will have a full paid fire department beginning January 1 it would be well to communicate with the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, for the purpose of securing a reduction of insurance rates to which the city is entitled. He then offered a resolution to that effect which was adopted. The Council voted to hold its last meeting of the year on Wednesday night, December 30. The new Council will meet Friday night, January 1, for organization purposes.

The various heads of committees referred back all petitions in their hands to be disposed of by the 1915 Council. A resolution offered by Mr. Edgar provided for the installation of three fire hydrants, one on Berckman street, another on Belleview avenue and a third on West Eighth street. F. C. Langhorne's request for street paving on East Seventh street, was granted in accordance with a resolution by Mr. Blatz. The communication from the New York Telephone Company regarding the repair of the police system wires was referred by Mr. Babcock to next year's Council.

In view of the fact that after January 1 the city will establish a full paid fire department, thus doing away with the call system, the callmen, through Joel Pennington, requested the Common Council, last night, to issue certificates to them showing their length of service. This request is made so that the men can get the benefit of exemption to which they are entitled under the law. The matter was referred to the fire committee and the request will no doubt be granted.

The Laing Auto and Machine Company, which recently acquired the property at West Front street and Central avenue, where it will engage in business, in a petition to the Council, last night, requested that the building line be established at that point and made a further request that steps be taken to widen both Front street and Central avenue in that neighborhood when the improvement can be made without much trouble and the sacrificing of great property interests. The matter was referred.

The Plainfield-Union Water Company communicated with the Council in reference to a hydrant on West Eighth street, which it appears was installed sometime ago, but until recently was not included in the bill to the city. The matter was referred to the fire and building committee and later in the evening was adjusted through a resolution offered by Mr. Edgar, which was adopted.

MAYOR'S COMMITTEE MAKES ITS REPORT

Brief Resume of Efforts Made to Equalize Tax Assessments Here.

The special committee on the equalization of taxes, appointed by Mayor Percy H. Stewart several months ago, presented its report at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, giving a brief resume of its labors. This committee comprised DeWitt C. Ivins, John G. McLaughlin, Frank J. Hubbard and Thomas Hughes. According to their report they endeavored so far as possible to balance land values, not taking up buildings at all. They stated that many increases and many reductions in assessments had been made, and regretted that the work had to be confined to the land solely. Attention was called to the fact that the Board of Assessors had adopted the committee's report on land values.

The committee in conclusion made four recommendations, the first being that steps be taken to make a survey of all buildings, that a copy of building permits be filed with the Board of Assessors, that the assessment maps be made to conform to the State law and that proper quarters be secured for the meeting of the Board.

Accompanying the report was a letter from Mayor Stewart in which he took occasion to thank the special committee for its work, its services being given without compensation, and to express the hope that the people of Plainfield will be appreciative of the great amount of labor expended by the committee in trying to equalize the assessments in the city. He also suggested that the special committee be continued another year.

PLEASING XMAS PROGRAM AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH

The First Methodist church Sunday-school held its Christmas entertainment in Vincent chapel last night. A fine program of moving pictures was enjoyed. Among the films that were shown were "The Geranium," "A Girl of the Ghetto," "The Runaway Leopard" and "A Christmas Story." By the courtesy of the Yale Alumni an unusually interesting film, showing the Yale-Harvard football game in the new Yale Bowl, last month, was presented.

The school had a giving Christmas instead of receiving boxes of candy. Each class donated offerings of fuel, provisions and money which will go to the Community Christmas Fund. This fund will receive $17.45, making a total of $32 from the school for this cause. The school also made gifts to Miss Gertrude Sharp and Isaac Kennedy and a dictionary and holder to the superintendent, James R. Joy. At the close, Mr. Albin called for three hearty cheers for George L. Babcock, who very kindly gave his apparatus and services in projecting the pictures. The party broke up at 10 o'clock, each person carrying a big red apple home.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

The bi-monthly sewing meeting of the Sigma Gamma Kappa society's circle will be held in the Y. W. C. A., Monday night. The date for the meeting, which had been formerly set for Friday, having been changed as Christmas falls on that day.

The Christmas exercises of the High School will be held tomorrow morning at 8:20. The custom of the school has been to hold the exercises the last two periods of the morning and to dismiss school immediately afterward, but due to the interference of the grades' exercises the High School has changed its program to the first two periods. The exercises will consist of singing by the High School quartet and an address will be given by the Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church. Singing by the school will also be another feature of the program as the pupils have been working hard on their Christmas songs for the past month.

A new geometry class has just been started by Mr. Early. The class meets during the two vacant periods left by the algebra II class every Tuesday and Thursday mornings.

North Plainfield High School rooters expect to turn out in large numbers tomorrow afternoon, to help cheer their team on to victory in the opening game of the interscholastic series against Leal's.

"Curly" Taylor, of the '12 class of North Plainfield High School, paid a visit to the school this morning, having returned home from Colorado, last night, where he is taking a course in the School of Mines.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Vegetables' New Year Threat.

"DOWN in the dark cellar the vegetables were talking." Daddy was beginning the evening story.

"They were talking about a New Year's party which was to be given on that day. 'They will dig out my eyes!' yelled the big potato, 'so I can't see anything, and then they will put me in a kettle and boil me with my coat on. Now what do you think of that?'

"'Well, think of what they will do to me!' sighed the carrot. 'They will wash me in nasty cold water, and then they will scrape me. Dear me, how it hurts when they scrape all my hide off!'

"'Well,' said the onion, 'every time the cook sees me she cries. Now, what do you suppose she cries about all the time?'

"The cabbage listened for awhile and then spoke up, rustling its leaves furiously. 'They will chop me up and cook me, and then they will say: "Oh, my, what a terrible odor! How plebeian cabbages are anyhow!"'

"'Now I have a plan. I'm only a cabbage head, to be sure, but I think I'm a good sound one. Let's go on a strike and have things different at this New Year's party.'

"'Very well,' said the potato. 'If I can keep my eyes I can help.'

"'And if you won't cry like the cook does when I'm around I can help,' agreed the onion.

"'And if I don't have to be scraped and lose my hide I'll help,' said the carrot.

"'Well, then, I'll lead the way, and we'll invade the kitchen,' said the cabbage.

"So the cook, who was sitting dozing in the kitchen, was wakened by a terrific din at the kitchen door.

"'Let us in; let us in!' demanded a squeaky voice.

"The big fat cook opened the door, and there rushed and tumbled in all the vegetables that had taken part in the conference down in the cellar.

"The potato brandished a knife and threatened to cut out the cook's eyes, the onion looked on and cried, the carrot threatened to scrape all her skin off, and the cabbage was going to chop her up if she didn't let them run the kitchen.

"But the big fat cook wasn't at all frightened. She just scooped the vegetables together, put them in a pan, stood them under the water tap in the kitchen sink and stood there with arms akimbo.

"'Oh, hum,' she yawned: 'the next time that scullery boy dumps the dinner vegetables against the door like that I'll tweak his ear.'"

The Wife's Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"I think the ten years between fifty and sixty are the most tragic in life," remarked Mrs. Reinland, biting off her thread.

"Oh, I don't know," said Mrs. Cullen, easily. She was thirty-five.

"People who are most happily situated find themselves alone in their homes by the time they are sixty. The children are married and gone, and while this is natural and to be hoped for, no one will for a moment pretend that the lonely old hearts don't ache in the awful silence and solitude. Then there are the widows, who have no homes. Sometimes they live with their children. Often they are not wanted. They are too old to fill any positions, even if they are fitted to earn money, and if they are penniless they have the added agony of dependence," and Mrs. Reinland looked out of the window.

"People should prepare for that time and have money laid up to take care of themselves with," said Mrs. Cullen.

"Some people cannot do that. A widow left with children to rear and educate cannot prepare for her old age. It takes all she can make to pay running expenses," and Mrs. Reinland resumed her sewing. "But hard as the work is while she is raising them, it is easy compared to the awful blank that confronts her when the last one is married off and her home is four walls and nothing more. Probably by that time she is so old that she loses her position, too."

"Yes, I know of a woman who has been treated that way. Of course the children will take care of her," said Mrs. Cullen.

"Young Mrs. Carter was in the other day," continued Mrs. Reinland. "She said, 'Charles' mother is a very kind, cheerful old lady and very agreeable to have around, but sometimes I think I would give anything in the world if we could be alone together. I think it is the right of every young couple to live alone.' Imagine living with them when they feel like that," and Mrs. Reinland tore off a strip of muslin as if eliminating the troublesome member of the family.

"I am very glad James' mother does not have to live with us. It always makes trouble," and Mrs. Cullen tatted with a cheerful face.

"So long as it doesn't make trouble for the young people I suppose it is all right," replied Mrs. Reinland with asperity. "Mrs. Carter is a sweet little woman," she continued, her voice softening.

"I said to Charles' wife, 'I will help you out. I am a lonely old body and I will invite your husband's mother to spend the summer with me in my cottage at Lakeside.' The little woman was so pleased it was pitiful, and the mother jumped at the chance to get away. She is not so old, not much over sixty, and we had the best time together.

"I made up my mind to propose to the young folks that she live with me and that they pay half the actual living expenses so she would not feel dependent on me. She is such a capable woman she would earn her own way anywhere. When I proposed it, the wife wouldn't hear of it.

"'Oh!' she said in a shamefaced way. 'We have had our time together, and we miss mother dreadfully. Charles would never consent to any such arrangement.'

"The mother was pathetically pleased when she learned they had refused to give her up. I feel that I helped to avert one tragedy," and she rocked placidly.

"I mean to see to it that I have something saved to take care of myself with, when I am old," and Mrs. Cullen put her work in her bag.

"It stands one in hand to do it," said her hostess.

"I must be going. It is supper time. Goodby," and Mrs. Cullen closed the door.

Mrs. Reinland looked around the comfortable, lonely home and sighed

Temperance

NEWS AND VIEWS

Conducted by

THE W. C. T. U.

To characterize in definite terms the forty-first convention of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union—declared by many to have been the greatest in the history of the organization—is somewhat difficult.

It will, however, we believe, be agreed that it was, first of all, a statesmanlike convention, which dealt in dignified, broad-minded, unprejudiced fashion with matters of profound moment to society. The Atlanta press remarked on its likeness to a political convention, but conceded that it differed from such gatherings in the businesslike and expeditious manner in which it was conducted and the disconcerting way its members had of greeting each other in an affectionate fashion. Its presiding officer, Miss Anna A. Gordon, delighted every one with her graceful and gracious management. While always the strict parliamentarian, deciding all questions with wisdom and justice, maintaining order and closing on schedule time, she injected into the proceedings a spirit of serenity and joy that made even the cutting short of eloquent speech as an occasion for smiles rather than annoyance.

It was also a convention in which the note of victory was dominant. Never was there a finer demonstration of the "undismayed" character of white ribboners. The representatives of the States which at the polls, November 3, had failed to achieve the desired result, told as exuberant a tale of victory as did those who had accomplished their heart's desire. The determination of these women and their faith in certain victory was a prophecy which spells doom for the liquor traffic forever and forever.

The spirit of the convention was that of the Christ—"in honor preferring one another." Difference of points of view and of opinion there must be among women of strong, positive character, leaders in their own States, but in every discussion there was plainly an effort to put aside prejudice and preconceived ideas and listen to those of the other side with open minds and hearts. And the women whose motions were voted down and whose pet policies or propositions met defeat were more than likely to be seen at the end of the discussion congratulating their opponents in the most friendly and cordial fashion.

The reason of these things is not difficult to trace—the convention was above all else a convention of prayer. For weeks and months the white ribboners of the nation had been remembering it definitely and fervently in their daily petitions. It was preceded by an all day prayer service; it was permeated with the spirit of prayer from beginning to end. The theme of the sermon by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, "Like Him," epitomizes the ambition that prompted each member of the great gathering to make it a convention which should help to establish on earth His Kingdom.

Sunday, December 6, might have been called National Constitutional Prohibition Day in Washington, D. C., for at the same hour in the afternoon there were held six great meetings, at which the theme of speech and song and prayer was the abolition of the liquor traffic from the nation. In spite of the rainy and disagreeable weather all were well attended. The meeting under the auspices of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, held in the Columbia Theatre, was a tremendous success. Over fifteen hundred people were in the audience and the enthusiasm was great.

CHRISTMAS CAKES

Brown Peppernuts—Three cups light brown sugar, one cup butter, five eggs, two heaping teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon allspice, one cup ground (any kind) nuts, seven cups flour. Mix all well together with spoon, set away in warm place for two or three days. Butter pans, and with a teaspoon put little pieces in pan and bake a nice brown. Don't have oven too hot; they are done in a short time.

White Peppernuts—One pound flour, one pound sugar, four eggs, three ounces citron cut fine, rind of one lemon, one nutmeg, one tablespoon cloves, two teaspoons baking powder. Mix all well together, form little nuts, bake slowly a light brown.

Xmas Spice Cake—Put into sauce pan one cup sugar, one cup cold water, half cup shortening (half lard and half butter), one cup seeded raisins, one teaspoon each of ground cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg, a saltspoon of salt. Boil together about four minutes. Take from the stove, and, when cold, add 1¾ cups sifted flour in which has been mixed one level teaspoon baking soda. Mix the ingredients thoroughly and bake in one loaf in moderate oven. Frost when cold with boiled white frosting. This cake contains no milk or eggs and keeps moist and fresh a long time.

THE TABLE.

Chestnut Soup—Peel a quart of large chestnuts. Scald with boiling water, remove skins, then boil nuts in fresh boiling water till soft. Drain and mash. Cook slowly two onions chopped fine, and a teaspoon of minced parsley, in a pint of chicken or veal stock for 10 minutes, then add chestnuts and press all through a sieve. Return all to the fire, add a quart of milk, heat just to boiling point, and thicken slightly with two tablespoons flour rubbed into two tablespoons melted butter. Season with salt and a dash of cayenne pepper. Serve hot with heated crackers.

Chestnuts as a Vegetable—Chestnuts have considerable food value. The boiled and mashed pulp may be used as one would use meat or vegetable, even croquettes being made of it.

Meat Shortcake—Give your household a meat shortcake sometimes. Make shortcake as you would for a fruit filling—a rather short biscuit dough, and put between the layers creamed chicken or creamed veal. Serve with plenty of gravy.

Lima Beans—Dried lima beans, need not be soaked at night, just cover with cold water and when it boils pour off, cover again with cold water and, while boiling, add a little cold water from time to time; they will cook tender in about an hour. Cook a piece of salt pork or bacon with the lima beans; the flavor is delicious and no milk, butter or other seasoning will be needed.

Graham Pudding—One egg well beaten, one-half cup molasses, one-half cup sweet milk, one-half cup raisins, two cups graham flour, one-half teaspoon soda, a little salt. Steam two hours; do not lift the cover the first hour. This is very simple and will be found to agree with the most delicate stomach. Sauce for Pudding: Mix well one tablespoon flour with three tablespoons sugar, good sized lump of butter, pinch of salt; pour on boiling water, stirring until smooth and creamy; boil a few minutes. Flavor as liked. When milk is scarce this sauce is very convenient.

All Prices Good for Balance of This Year.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY.

THE Household Loan Company, a local corporation, licensed, bonded and supervised by the Banking Dept. of the State of New Jersey, now offers a limited amount of its preferred stock to the public. Its par value is $10 per share, and may be purchased by people of small or large means, desiring to help the deserving. Six per cent. interest is guaranteed, and all loans are amply secured by chattel mortgage. The number of worthy people desiring loans is very large, and we are not able to serve them all. It is planned, therefore, to extend our work by taking the investing and interested public into partnership with us. We thus hope to be the medium of bringing supply and demand together to their mutual advantage. We invite careful investigation. A statement with our little green book will be sent anyone on request. Who will fill the stockings and pay the bills NEXT Christmas?

You may not be here then.

But the stockings would be hung up and the bills would come in just the same.

You can guarantee the filled stockings and the paid bills for next Christmas, and the next Christmas, and every other Christmas, by arranging now for the payment to your loved ones, or any one of them, of a fixed sum of ready money on the first day of every month for life.

Be a real Santa Claus and fix this income for your family THIS Christmas.

SPECIAL NOTICE

The Plainfield Trust Company has been requested by some of its customers to close the fund earlier next year and while the Club is a copyrighted scheme and supplies are made up in bulk for some two hundred and fifty banks throughout the country on the basis of the fifty-week Club, the Company is working out a plan whereby it hopes to be able to distribute checks a week earlier next year. It has always been the policy of the Company to co-operate with every good work in the community and it desires to meet the wishes of its customers whenever it is possible to do so.

SERVICE

A 4% SAVING PLAN

The opportunity is presented to the people of Plainfield to acquire the "habit" of systematic saving. We have been a nation of spenders, but there is ample evidence that people are now seriously considering the matter of laying aside a portion of their income regularly, and no better method for saving in a systematic way can be found than that offered by our four per cent. saving bond plan, which we heartily commend to anyone having a regular fixed income as a method by which he may lay aside automatically a regular amount monthly, to be used when the unexpected happens or for some particular purpose.

Many objects for such saving readily suggest themselves—a fund for the higher education of son or daughter; a capital fund with which to take advantage of investment opportunities; a fund to start a son in business; money to pay off a possible mortgage on the home; money to defray the expenses of some long anticipated trip; and last, but not least, a fund to provide against the exigencies of misfortune that may some day overtake you. Any of these objects should be sufficient to stimulate a desire to make a beginning, and a beginning once made will be easy to continue.

The operation of the plan is as follows: An Installment Bond in denomination of from $40 to $1,000 is purchased, the first payment being from $1 to $25. A similar payment is made monthly, and at the end of 38 months, all that has been paid in may be withdrawn, together with 4% interest. In the meantime, if necessity requires it, 80% of the paid-in value may be borrowed, OR payments may be discontinued and the amount paid in withdrawn at any time. Begin now while the suggestion is before you. Save to save and not to spend.

BORO BONDS GO TO STATE TRUST

Local Banking Institution Pays $156,255 for the Two Contracts.

ALL BIDS WERE HIGH

Successful Bidder Exceeded Nearest Opponent's Figures by $350—Will Yield Borough a Profit of $6,255—Other Business.

Presenting figures that surpassed those of the nearest rival bidder by a margin of $350, the State Trust Company was awarded the $50,000 five per cent. joint sewerage system gold bends and $100,000 five per cent. sewerage collecting system gold bonds at a special meeting of the Borough Council held last night. The local banking institution made a proposal of $156,255 for the two contracts, this amount yielding the borough a profit of $6,255. An amount equal to .0317 cents on the dollar will be paid by The State Trust Company for the aggregate number of gold bonds called for.

Other bids received follow: R. M. Grant & Company, $51,845 for $50,000 worth of joint sewerage system bonds; $104.100 for $100,000 worth of sewerage collecting system bonds; Plainfield Trust Company, $103,068 for $100,000 worth of sewerage collecting system bonds, and $52,004 for $50,000 worth of joint sewerage system bonds; John Everett & Company and A. B. Leach & Company $102,815 for $100,000 sewerage collecting system bonds, and $51,526 for $50,000 worth of joint sewerage system bonds; Harris-Forbes & Company, $153,126 for both contracts; Clark-Dodge & Company, $51,600 for $50,000 worth of joint sewerage system bonds, and $102,980 for sewer age colecting system bonds.

The firm of R. M. Grant & Company was second lowest. Both lots will be in denominations of $500 each and will bear interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum.

Following the awarding of the two bond contracts, the Council reconvened for the regular order of business and reports for the month of December were turned in. Councilman Julius Stahl, of the fire and water committee, reported an expenditure of $497.25 for the month. Inasmuch as this figure exceeds the appropriation by $100 the Council authorized the transfer of $150 from the borough fund to the fire and water fund. Councilman Milne, of the street committee, was also granted a petition for the transfer of $200 from the borough fund to the street fund and reported an expenditue of $227.90 up to December 20. The police department has paid out $477.68 and $390 was transferred from the light fund to the sewer fund. A $200 warrant for payment of interest on the firehouse bonds due January 1 was authorized and one for $10,000 for the bonds. Councilman Rushmore introduced a resolution asking for authorization to have 300 copies of the report for the fiscal year published. Suffern & Company, of New York, were awarded the contract for the auditing of the borough reports for the year and $10,000 warrant for the payment of school taxes was issued.

WILL CONTINUE STUDY.

At the Park Avenue Baptist church tonight Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson will continue the study of the Book of the Acts from the point of view of the founding of the church. It is expected that a great many Sunday school scholars will be present as they are to rehearse for Christmas at the close of the meeting. Assemblyman-elect W. N. Runyon will lead the singing.

ARRAIGNED TO DETERMINE RESPONSIBILITY FOR CRASH

Louis Fulton, chauffeur for Albert Redfern, of Martine avenue, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning to determine the responsibility for an automobile crash that occurred at Park avenue and West Seventh streets several weeks ago. Redfern's car, in charge of Fulton, hit a machine owned and driven by Arthur Newman, damaging the latter vehicle to a considerable extent.

The case lasted over two hours during which much testimony was taken on both sides, Newman being the complainant. Walter L. Hetfield represented Mr. Redfern and William N. Runyon was counsel for Newman. Judge DeMeza found Fulton guilty of a technical charge of wreckless driving and suspended sentence.

CHILDREN DONATE TOYS TO CHARITY

Young and Old Enjoy Xmas Entertainment at Crescent Avenue Church.

The Christmas entertainments of the Crescent Avenue Sunday-school were held yesterday afternoon and evening, and were enjoyed by many members of the school and their friends. The entertainment consisted of moving pictures, which were loaned and operated by George L. Babcock, of this city. In the afternoon the little children were entertained and refreshments were served. All of the children donated toys, which will be given to the Community Christmas committee for charity purposes.

The main school held its party in the evening and witnessed the recent Yale-Harvard football game played in the new Yale bowl, in moving pictures. Other films that were shown were "The Belgium Military School," which showed troops of infantry, cavalry, grenadiers and difficult feats of horsemanship; "Hagenbeck's Wild Animals," and a two-reel feature of Dickens' "Pickwick Papers," featuring John Bunny. Mr. Babcock was given great applause for his generosity. After the program was concluded ice cream and cake were served and a general social time enjoyed.

Mrs. Duncan Taylor, of West Seventh street, was the chairman of the entertainment, and she was assisted by Mrs. William Griscom, Miss Mary Runkle, Miss Harriet Halloway, Miss Mildred Miller, Howard Williams and Theodore Burnet.

Mr. Rockwell is a graduate of the Plainfield High School, and is now a practicing lawyer with offices in Newark. Two years ago Mr. Rockwell was the Democratic candidate for Mayor of Montclair, but was defeated by his Republican opponent.

LICENSE SEEKERS WANT SAME PLACE

Excise Applications Next Month Will Reveal Unusual Complications.

When the usual liquor license applications are presented to the Common Council at the regular meeting next month, the unusual proceedure of two men seeking a retail license for the same location will be brought to light. The place in question is the Schorb property at 11 East Front street, where E. C. Wescott has conducted the Central Cafe for several years. Mr. Wescott will make his request for renewal, while John M. Schorb, who is one of the owners of the building, is circulating a petition asking that a license be granted in his name as a new applicant.

An explanation of the apparent complication is not forthcoming at this time, but it is understood that Mr. Schorb, as one of the heirs of his father's estate, has been at odds with the other heirs, regarding the rental of the property. A difference of opinion has existed for some time, it is said, and Mr. Schorb decided to make personal application in place of leasing the building to the present incumbent. The outcome ofthe disagreement is awaited with much interest.

It is probable that no other new applications will be made next month, so far as known. Christian Gloekler has made no move to apply and neither has A. D. Findlay, both of whom were former saloon proprietors. The latter recently purchased the Mansion House business at Madison and took possession Monday.

Petitions are bing circulated for two wholesale licenses, the prospective applicants being Henry Vosseller and George Wescott, brother of E. C. Wescott. Applications made by them last year were refused, but the belief exists that one of the two will be granted this year.

SAYS HE RESIGNED FROM BORO BOARD

Newton B. Smalley Long Ago Decided Not to Continue as Member.

Newton B. Smalley, who has not attended a meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education for several months, and whose place in the Board was filled Monday night by the election of Frank O. Dunning, says that he sent his resignation to the Board sometime ago. So far as known no official action on the resignation was taken by the Board. On Monday night the Board elected Mr. Dunning as successor to Mr. Smalley.

For a long time it has been known that Mr. Smalley has not been in harmony with the actions of the Board and it was generally known that he did not intend to retain his membership in that body. Mr. Smalley's friends, however, thing that he was treated unfairly, for when his resignation was presented they believed it should have been acted upon in a businesslike manner.

ANDERSON GETS A JOB.

What appears to be an authentic rumor has it that William de LaR. Anderson, of North Plainfield township, has received a legislative job for the coming season. The story from Trenton has it that he is to be secretary to the Senate appropriations committee on appointment by Senator W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook. The position is one of no mean importance as legislative plums go and it is understood that Anderson was selected in the face of strong opposition.

THE CITY OF GOOD WILL MAKES GOOD

A Total of $1,353 Contributed to the Community Christmas Fund.

PLAN OF DISTRIBUTION

Workers Are as Busy as Bees Sorting and Packing Gifts for 730 Children and 300 Families in City and Borough.

For two days the Y. M. C. A. has been alive with the workers of the distributing committee of the Community Christmas, sorting and packing the gifts for the 730 children and 300 families to whom W. H. P. Veysey and his associates will distribute them on Thursday in forty loaned automobiles. The work is being done systematically and economically, and the plan is to have "some one who cares" go with each car and add a kind greeting in every home that is visited. There surely ought to be some difference between the Santa Claus of the City of Good Will and the driver of a New York delivery wagon.

The treasurer, Charles A. Rice,, acknowledges receipts of $447.97 from the following, bringing the total amount to $1,353.32:

H. E. PARKER TO LEAVE FEBRUARY 15

Y. M. C. A. Secretary Presents His Resignation to Board of Directors.

Herbert E. Parker, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who has resigned to take a similar position with the Passaic association, as stated exclusively in the Daily Press of yesterday, will not leave Plainfield until about February 15. Mr. Parker's resignation presented to the board of directors is as follows:

"Gentlemen—I hereby tender you my resignation as General Secretary of the Plainfield Young Men's Christian Association to take effect on or before February fifteenth next. I have decided to accept the call of the Board of Directors of the Passaic Association to become their General Secretary.

"The affectionate regard in which I hold you and so many others as friends, my interest in and hopes for this Association and a keen appreciation of the manifold attractions of Plainfield as a place to live and work, all have made it difficult for me seriously to consider any other field. It is only because of a firm conviction that, presenting a greater need and a larger opportunity, the call to Passaic carries with it the possibility of larger usefulness in extending the Kingdom of God, that I have been led to make the change.

"The seven years that I have been permitted to spend with you have been years of highest privilege. I shall ever remember with gratitude the splendid spirit of unselfish devotion with which you and the Association's host of friends and supporters have helped forward its many undertakings. This spirit has been and will continue to be an inspiration to me. In it, I see the guarantee of future accomplishment far surpassing anything already done.

"My prayer is that the blessing and favor of Almighty God may continue to rest upon and make increasingly fruitful the work of this Association."

ELKS' SOCIAL AFFAIRS.

The fourth cabaret social in the series started three weeks ago will be held next Saturday night. A number of affairs are under consideration for the early part of the new year, notice of which is to be given later.

GIANT CHRISTMAS TREE IN POSITION

A Job for All the King's Horses and All the King's Men.

ELECTRIC STAR AT TOP

Thousands of Lamps Have Been Strung and Will Be Tested Today for the Big Celebration Tomorrow Night.

Moving the giant Christmas tree from the Scotch Plains line to the City Park at Ninth street and Arlington avenue, proved a job for all the King's horses and all the King's men. The spread of the boughs forbade its passage over the Terrill road bridge, and it crossed the line of the railway at Berckman street with so little room to spare under the bridge that some of the foliage was scraped off. But Contractor Edward Mobus did his work skillfully and well and the noble tree now stands in its permanent place. The yard-stick shows that it is much larger than the first estimate, and the electric star which crowns it is more than 70 feet above the base It is probably the largest tree ever moved in this city.

The lamps have been strung in the tree and will be tested tonight. The big lighting takes place tomorrow at 7:30 sharp, Mayor Stewart applying the city's official forefinger to the button. It would be a beautiful sight if, at the same time throughout the city every dwelling should have a light placed in a front window and the shade pulled up.

People generally are requested to arrange the supper hour so that all the young people may be present when the trumpets strike up the air for the first carol, as soon as the tree is lighted.

A good many aged folk and invalids will be brought to look and listen, automobiles having been generously offered for the purpose.

If the clerk of the Weather Bureau does his part as well as everyone else has done the demonstration promises to be a success. Nothing but a blizzard or heavy rain would cause a postponement.

W. C. Hubbard, who has been active in the affair, announced last night that the Cooper Hewitt Company would light the park for the carol singing with three of their "Boby Targon" lamps of 3,500 candle power each. This is a new incandescent lamp and Plainfield will be the first to use it as a community reading lamp.

DECISION RESERVED IN HILL DIVORCE ACTION

Elizabeth, Dec. 23.—William J. Magie, an advisory master, who heard testimony at the courthouse yesterday on the petition of John Parker Hill, of Plainfield, for a divorce from his wife, Martha D. Hill, now residing at 214 Elm street, Westfield, reserved decision. Mr. Magie also postponed decision as to the custody of the three children of the couple who are now with their mother. The children are Charles, Mildred and J. Parker, the latter but four years old. His action with relation to the children are due, he said, to the nearness of Christmas, as he did not want to take any action that would interfere with their Christmas pleasures.

Mrs. Hill denied any wrong doing during her testimony yesterday afternoon. John Ricketts, for whom she is acting as housekeeper and who is named in the petititon, was also a witness and denied any misconduct. His relations with Mrs. Hill, he said, were those of employer and employe.

LOCAL FUGITIVE CAUGHT AFTER TWO YEAR SEARCH

On the strength of an indictment found against him by the Union county Grand Jury in 1912, Dominic Rocco, formerly of this city, was brought back from Little Rock, Ark., last night, and lodged in the Union county jail at Elizabeth. He was turned over to County Detective John Gallatian by the Arkansas authorities the latter part of last week.

Rocco, together with two other Italians, it is said, was held responsible for a disorderly house being maintained in Cottage place two years ago and when the local police took up the case he is said to have fled West.

BORO COUNCIL MMETING.

An adjourned meeting of the North Plainfield Council will be held Monday night, December 28, at which time the unfinished business of the year will be completed.

REPORT FORCING OF DARDANELLES

Allied Fleets Bombarded Forts at Entrance to Channel on Monday.

RUSSIANS NEAR THORN

Slight Progress by Allies in Belgium in Last Twenty-four Hours—Germans Massing Men at Zeebrugge, Which is Closed to Travel.

London, Dec. 23.—A news agency despatch from Athens declares that the Allied fleets off the Dardanelles on Monday bombarded Kilid Bahr. Its fire was answered from the Turkish fortifications guarding the entrance to the channel. During the bombardment two ships, believed to have been Turkish cruisers, approached the outer entrance of the Dardanelles, but turned back.

A despatch from Rome declares that it is rumored that the French and British warships have silenced the Turkish forts and gained access to the channel. This report is unconfirmed and is not generally credited.

The Russian army which pursued across the frontier the German column defeated north of the Vistula River is marching rapidly toward the Thorn-Allenstein-Interburg Railroad, the main strategic line in East Prussian paralleling the border, while the retreating Germans are endeavoring to reform for the protection of Thorn.

The Russian advance is a menace to the left flank of Marshal Von Hindenburg's army in Poland, and to the right flank of the German army in East Prussia defending the Masurian lake region.

South of the Vistula, between the Bzure and the Pilica, however, the Germans continue their advance, and announce that in a fierce battle they have succeeded in crossing branches of the Bzura and Rawka Rivers at many places.

This should bring the main armies close together, and a few days will tell whether the German advance is to be definitely checked, or whether the Germans are again to threaten Warsaw.

Fighting also continues in Galicia, but here, as along the East Prussian frontier, the Russians seem to be holding back the Austro-German forces.

Paris, Dec. 23.—The French war office gave out the following statement this afternoon:

"In Belgium we made slight progress between the sea and on the road from Nieuport to West Ende yesterday, as well as in the region of Steenstratte and Bixschoote, where we captured a woods and some houses. To the east of Bethune we recaptured, co-operating with the British army, the village of Kivenchy Les Iasbassee, which had been lost.

"In the region of Arras a thick fog lessens activity both on our part and on that of the enemy. To the east of Amines, on the Aisne, and in Champagne, there were artillery combats.

"In the region of Perthes Les Hurlus, we captured, after a brisk cannonade and two assaults, the last of the main line of the trenches partially taken on December 21. We gained more than 800 yards. In the last trench captured we took a section of rapid fire guns, both the weapons and the men manning them. A violent counter attack was repulsed. Nothing has happened from the heights of the Meuse to Upper Alsace.

"Russia. In East Prussia the Germans have been repulsed on the line of Neidenburg, Soldau, Lautemberg. In Poland the Germans have succeeded in gaining a foothold on the Lowes B Yura, north of Sochazew. Farter to the south we have reached the Rawka River at Bolimow, and have advanced beyond Skiernewice toward the east.

"The Austro-German forces are defending in Poland on a front which runds from southeast of Pietrkow to the west of the Nida. In Galicia they have reached the Dunajec, and occupied the line Grybow, Smigrod, Sanok. An attempted sortie by the garrison of Przemysl has been completely repulsed."

Amsterdam, Dec. 23.—There is now a force of 17,000 Germans at Heyst, a few miles inland from Zeebrugge, according to a despatch to the Handelsblad from its correspondent at Sluis. A contingent of 600 arrived yesterday. Guns are being posted there in position to withstand an approach from the coast. Since yesterday morning no civilians have been allowed to leave or enter Heyst. Shelter trenches, 800 metres long, have been constructed between Heyst and Ovinbergen. A conflagration in Heyst was observed last night from Sluis and Oostberg.

One family, it is understood, will be given a half ton of coal. The money that has been collected is to be handed over to Cashier Arthur J. Hamley, of the local bank, who will pay the bills.

The Methodist church Sunday-school will hold its Christmas exercises tomorrow night and on Saturday night the Episcopal church entertainment will be held, and last of all will come that of the Willow Grove chapel on Tuesday night.

The annual Christmas entertainment of the Baptist church Bible school was held in the church, last evening, when the boys and girls gave a pleasing program of songs and recitations. Included in the program was a musical, "The Star of the West," in which most of the members of the school took part. The evening's entertainment closed with the distribution of gifts to every one in the school and on the cradle roll by Santa Claus, A. Gilmore taking the part to perfection.

The local schools closed today for the annual holiday vacation and will re-open on January 4.

At the January meeting of the Fanwood Fire Company, of the borough, and the Excelsior Hook and Ladder, of Scotch Plains, the annual election of officers for the year of 1915 will take place.

At intervals during the rest of the winter meetings under the direction of the Fanwood Township Sunday-school Association will be held in the various churches of the association for the purpose of instructing the teachers and older pupils along religious lines. The first of these meetings will be held in All Saints' Episcopal church on January 18 and will be on teacher training. Dr. W. D. Murray, of Plainfield, will be asked to speak and it is expected that Isaac Burgess, president of the State Sunday-school Association, will also be present.

Mrs. Falkner is detained at the home of Mrs. Thomas Norton, on Martine avenue, by illness.

For the first time this year the monthly spelling match in the local school was omitted, as it is always held on the last Friday in the month and there will be no school on that day.

The articles of food and clothing donated at the last meeting of the Ladies' Sewing Circle of the Willow Grove chapel have already done a great deal of good to needy people and the committee appointed is kept busy and will be as long as the supply lasts.

Plans are being made to hold a dance in the Fanwood firehouse under the auspices of the Sunshine Club sometime during next week.

The local church societies will not meet this week owing to the holiday.

FREIGHT RATE INCREASE MAY AFFECT CONTRACT

The recent five per cent. increase in freight rates is likely to have an important bearing on sewer contracts in the borough, according to North Plainfield officials, unless the contracts are awarded very soon. There is a rumor that the bidders for the sewer work may recall their bids unless a decision is reached within a short time. The effect would be in the increased cost of transportation, which would naturally add to the whole cost of the work. The bidders submitted figures on the present rates for transportation.

If the successful bidder was compelled to pay more for the transportation of his materials he would undoubtedly lose money. It is understood that the Borough Council will award the sewer contracts on Monday night. The committee has three bids under consideration, all being very close.

The Tije reports that an aeroplane using a searchlight dropped three bombs on Bruges last night. Violent explosions followed, but the result is not known.

The Berliner Tageblatt publishes a private telegram from Hamburg stating that large shoals of sprats have been sighted in the River Elbe, and that this is taken as glad tidings of another source of food supply for Germany.

Rome, Dec. 23.—A bomb exploded in front of the Church of St. Clemente, damaging the court yard and adjoining buildings. Another bomb was found inside the church, but was removed.

Washington, Dec. 23.—Charges that the recent bombardment of the towns of Scarborough and Whitby, England, by the German fleet was in violation of the Hague agreement were made yesterday by the British Embassy. The statement was issued in reply to a claim by the German Embassy that the places were defended. The British announcement says that both places are absolutely undefended, and the bombardment took place without the slightest notice and churches seem to have been specially singled out for attack.

Berlin, Dec. 23 (via wireless to Sayville, L. I.).—The following official statement was given out by the German headquarters staff today:

"Attacks in the region of Lombaertezyde and also south of Bixschoote were easily repulsed by us. At Richebourg and Lavoue the English were again driven from their positions yesterday, notwithstanding desperate counter attacks, and we retained all the positions captured from the English between Richebourg and the canal of LaBassee.

"Since December 20 we have captured 750 British and colored soldiers, five machine guns and four mine throwers.

"In the neighborhood of Camp Chalons the effemy is showing greater activity. Four attacks north of Sillerie, southeast of Rheims, at Souain and at Parthes were partly repelled by us with heavy losses to the French.

"The situation is unchanged in East and West Prussia. In Poland the battle before Bzura and Rawka continues. The situation on the right bank of the Pilica is unchanged."

RECEIVE WORD FROM TWO MISSING YOUTHS

John McCormick, of 1042 Sherman avenue, this morning received a postal card from his son, Arthur McCormick, sixteen years old, who, with Howard Westerland, twenty years old, has been missing from Plainfield since Monday. The communication stated that he was safe and well and en route to the home of a cousin in Philadelphia to spend the holidays. The postal bore a Philadelphia postmark.

This word from the missing youths sets aside the fears entertained by the two families for the safety of the boys who left home Monday morning to go to school and have not been seen since.

UNKNOWN MAN KILLED BY FLYER

Victim Struck at Westfield Crossing of the New Jersey Central.

An unknown man about 45 years of age, was struck and instantly killed at a crossing of the New Jersey Central near the Westfield station about 11:30 o'clock this morning by a Reading flyer which left Philadelphia at 9 o'clock. The man's head was badly cut and his arms broken. He was over six feet tall and weighed about 200 pounds. He had a brown mustache and hair. He carried an old scar the full length of his chin, wore a grey cap and blue suit of good material. The suit was made by the Leopoldi-Morse Co., of Boston. He also wore tan Regal shoes.

Nothing could be found on the victim's person to identify him, although there were several articles in his pockets. He had a black pocketbook containing twenty-five cents, a comb and a rabbit's foot. Seven typewritten sheets of paper on religion were also found and the following note, "put this man to work at 11 o'clock. Signed Jim." The man was neatly dressed and looked like an American.

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

People want to see it and, if satisfied, want to buy it.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

HOW RED CROSS SEALS HELPED ONE GIRL TO HEALTH

She was real pretty, and so full of fun that the dimples were always showing in her round red cheeks. Her eyes were big and brown, and nut-colored hair curled naturally in little ringlets over her forehead and ears. She was just eighteen when we first met her, and so neat and attractive that one would think she belonged to the well-to-do class of working people, but when we followed her to her home one day we confronted startling facts.

The red in her cheeks was the flush of unnatural inward fever, the high spirits were a pitiful antidote to pitiless conditions, and the big, brown eyes saw only squalor when they were not fixed upon a typewriting machine or closed persistently to any view but an imaginary bright one.

The room we entered was a general living space, used also as an eating, cooking and sleeping apartment. There was but one bed, and Betty had to sleep in it with her mother, who was too weak to sit up. An open cuspidor sat where it would be conveniently near the bed, which placed it by the stove, where their food was cooked. The mother, who was suffering in an advanced stage of tuberculosis, did not like cold air, and her querulous demands caused Betty to keep the door and windows closed.

"Well," said cheerful Betty, with a laugh, "that isn't so bad as not having any windows or doors to close, is it? Things might be worse."

"Infinitely worse," said the Wise One. "You might even take a notion to stuff the windows and doors with rags to cut out what oxygen comes in through the cracks."

Red Cross Christmas Seals, with their cheery message of hope, gave Betty a chance to get well after her mother died. Is it worth while to save the Bettys? Buy your share today.

ERRORS IN THE NEWS.

Some people are under the impression that newspaper publishers do not care whether errors creep into their columns or not. They see from time to time in the local papers reports of events which they have themselves attended, and which contain inaccurate statements. Aside from the most important events it is impossible for any newspaper to have a representative attend gatherings which may be held in this or any other city. The expense to provide enough reporters to do so would be prohibitive.

Those who are engaged in newspaper work, and realize the rush and grind of getting out a daily paper, whether it be a great one in a large city, or a comparatively small one in a city like Plainfield, think that it is remarkable that relatively few errors do creep into the papers. Of course it goes without saying that reporters are instructed to write the facts about an event as they find them; to use every endeavor to verify statements made by interested persons; and to be unjust or unfair to no one.

And yet, as the Editor and Publisher says, in spite of every precaution and in spite of all rules that have been adopted to secure accurac misstatements are printed that often lead to libel suits, loss of readers and loss of advertising.

If the editors were always able to distinguish between what is false and what is true it would be possible to publish a perfect newspaper. Unfortunately that gift of the gods was not bestowed upon them. They are, perhaps, keener in detecting errors in the news than other people but they possess no power of divination, no second sight, no infallible test that they can apply to detect error.

If the reading public would only remember that newspaper men are human, like other people, and therefore liable to make mistakes, perhaps they might be less severely critical than they are when they discuss a misstatement of fact in their favorite paper.

A NEW POINT TO CONSIDER.

Now that the Court of Errors and Appeals has decided to receive an application for a re-argument of the ninety cent gas rate decision on January 14, Counselor Frank H. Sommer, representing the Public Utility Commission, will present new reasons why the order of that commission and the judgment of the Supreme Court thereon should be sustained. The Trenton Times sums it up this way:

There is new material to be introduced. The question is the broad one as to the factors to be taken into consideration in fixing the price to be paid for gas. As to this the Passaic district stands in a position quite different from many of the South Jersey municipalities that are quite as greatly interested in the gas rate. While they are served by different companies, all are under control of the Public Service Corporation, which really fixes the price.

Take Trenton, which, in common with thirty-two other cities and towns, is served with gas made in Camden; but the gas is not made by the South Jersey Gas Company nor by the Public Service Corporation. It is one of the bi-products of the Camden Coke Company, which has no right to distribute its gas, and therefore sells it to the South Jersey Gas Company, which is subordinate to the Public Service. In this case, assuming the Public Service to be the concern with which the people must deal, it is acting merely as a middleman—a peddler of gas.

In a case recently decided in the Court of Chancery the evidence showed that the Camden Coke Company's plant is the most economically administered of its kind in the East; which must mean that its output of gas costs less than that served to Paterson and Passaic. Yet the 90-cent rate has been general the same to Woodbury on the south, and to New Brunswick, Somerville and Plainfield on the north, as to Camden, where the gas is made.

If franchise values are to be taken into consideration in fixing gas rates, so also should be the distances the gas is carried by the lighting corporation that is really engaged in the business of transporting and peddling the gas which another concern makes while manufacturing coke for foundry and domestic purposes. Camden should get a lower rate than Trenton, and Trenton ought to fare better than New Brunswick and Plainfield.

According to one of "Billy" Sunday's admirers, who spoke in Paterson the other night, the following was the result of Sunday's visit to Wilkesbarre, Penna.:

One hundred and sixty-nine bartenders discharged.

Sixteen beer wagon drivers sweeping the public streets.

Poker club turned into a Bible study class.

Pool parlor turned into a chapel.

Anti-cussing club organized in large business houses.

Cuspidors and cigar stumps eliminated from public buildings.

Men bringing their pay checks home for first time in twenty years.

Sixty thousand people "hitting the sawdust trail" in two weeks.

If all this is true, we'd like to see the record after a Sunday campaign in Newark, Elizabeth and New Brunswick.

Richard A. Canfield, the famous gambler, left an estate worth a million dollars. The difference between Mr. Canfield and most speculators is that the gambler knew how to keep some of his gains.

Now that the railroads have secured their five per cent. advance in rates, we'll await with pleasure the prosperity which they said would follow the increase.

Themistocles Mancusi-Ungaro is a new police judge in Newark. Hope no one will be adjudged in contempt of court who cannot call his honor by name.

One consolation comes from the preponderance of war news. Harry Thaw's troubles are occupying only the minimum space in the newspapers.

The twenty-fourth of December is one of the shortest days in the year, but there are a whole lot of youngsters who think that it is the longest.

FIRST ANNUAL BALL.

The plans for the first annual ball at Sebring's Auditorium New Year's eve under the auspices of the Plainfield Allied Trade Committee have been practically completed. FORMER LOCAL GIRL WILL SING AT ASTOR THEATRE

Featuring the program for Christmas in the new Astor theatre on West Front street will be the rendition of operatic selections by Madame J. Shafer Bettinetti, a native of Plainfield. The singer lived in this city as a girl fifteen years ago and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shafer, are well known here. She is a performer of pleasing personality and is a talented singer having proven popular with numerous metropolitan audiences before whom she has appeared. Last night she rendered several selections at the local theatre and the music lovers in the audience marveled at her display of talent.

Manager Joseph Coven has secured the right to the presentation of the well known motion picture productiton "Thais" in the theatre Friday afternoon and evening. This screen feature is a four reel production filled with thrills and interesting points. It is taken from the well known opera with Constance Crawley and Arthur Maude playing the leading roles. The theme of the play is based on incidents typical of the early Christian era and tells a wonderful story in a pleasing manner.

GIVEN SIXTY DAYS.

Charged with loitering in an unoccupied house on West Seventh street, Angelo Delino, a vagrant, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza, in the city court, this morning, and sentenced to serve sixty days in the county jail. He was arrested by Patrolman Fritts while sleeping in the house Monday night.

WILL ELECT OFFICERS.

Washington Camp, P. O. of A., will meet in their headquarters in the Babcock building, tomorrow afternoon for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year.

—Your "for sale" ad will be found and considered—probably investigated—by some of your "logical buyers."

Miss Edith Beers, and son, Albert D. Beers, for which a large number of invitations have been issued.

Mrs. Eugene H. Hatch and her daughter, Miss Eleanor Hatch, have issued invitations for a reception to be held at their home on West Eighth street, Tuesday afternoon, December 29, from 4 to 7. This will be followed in the evening with a dance at the Park Club. Many guests have been invited to both the reception and dance.

The Yale University Dramatic Association will visit here on Thursday night, December 31, presenting at The Plainfield Theatre, three one-act plays, "At the End of the Passage," "Behind the Beyond," and "St. Bartholomew's Eve." The local committee of arrangements comprise John Leal, '74; Thomas M. Day, 86; Louis K. Hyde, '87; Edward A. Stevenson, '88; Frederick W. Wallace, '89; Mayor Percy H. Stewart, '90; Henry L. DeForest, '97; Murray Rushmore, '13; Lewis A. Williams, Jr., '03.

The theatrical performance will be followed with a dance at the Plainfield High School, under the auspices of local society folk. This will be a subscription affair. The dancing will begin shortly after 10 o'clock. The committee in charge comprises Austin W. Andrews, Henry W. Brower, Thomas M. Day, Jr., J. Hartley Mellick, Murray Rushmore, W. F. Smith, Jr., W. B. Tyler, John Valiant and C. Ames Brooks, from whom tickets can be secured.

Still another of the pleasant holiday affairs announced is a dance to be given at the Park Club on Wednesday night, December 30, by the In His Name Circle of The King's Daughters, of which Miss Russell is the president. This is an annual affair of the circle and promises to be successful.

The annual New Year's Day reception at the Park Club, which is an event of more than usual interest to members and friends, will be held from 4 to 7 o'clock and will be in the nature of a The Dansante. The wives of the governors of the club, together with the entertainment committee, will be in charge to receive the guests and friends of the club.

Society is also looking forward to a dance to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Sandford for their daughter, Miss Sadie Roome Sandford, at the Park Club, on Saturday evening, January 2, at which there will be a large number of guests from the city and borough, as well as New York.

Miss Helen Brynairski, captain and manager of the Plainfield High School girls' Alumni basketball team, is arranging a second game with the North Plainfield High School sextet for the early part of next month. The game will probably be played in Saengerbund Hall. These teams have already met and the game resulted in a victory for the borough sextet.

A game between the Alumni teams of the two schools is also pending and will probably be played soon.

SENIORS CLEAN UP IN ANNUAL CLASS "SPREE"

P. H. S. Students Had "Rough House" Session in School Gymnasium.

The boys of the senior and junior classes of the Plainfield High School had a general "rough house" in the High School gym last night. A basketball game was played between the two classes, a tug-of-war, inter-class wrestling match and a cane-rush were contested. Everything went off in fine shape, although every contest was fought hard, and strong class spirit was exhibited on both sides.

The "rough house" was confined strictly to the seniors and juniors and no spectators were allowed. The senior class won every event, except one of the wrestling matches. In most of the events they had a walk-away, cleaning up in the basketball game by the score of 30 to 7, and winning the cane rush by 23 hands to 9. The cane rush was the feature event of the evening.

The first event on the program was the basketball game, which was hotly contested, even though the seniors had little difficulty in rolling up a big score. The game consisted of one twenty minute period and the two teams lined up as follows:

Seniors.	Juniors.
McNamee	Dunham

Juniors	2	0	1000

Freshmen	0	1	.000

The North Plainfield High School Sophomore team was put back another game in the inter-class basketball league, yesterday, when they forfeited to the Junior class delegation. The Sophomores did not have five men out to make up a team and as they were consequently not able to play according to the rules of the schedule the game was forfeited

The loss of this game by the Sophomores not only places them back a step, but it also gives the third year men a fine hold on first place. The Freshmen team has only played one game and has lost that, putting them in last place. Their second game will be played this afternoon against the Juniors in Saengerbund Hall.

REAPING BENEFIT.

From the Experience of Plainfield People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Plainfield residents on the following subject will interest and benefit many of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

Mrs. William E. Gardner, 322 East Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I suffered a great deal from rheumatic pains across my back. My kidneys were weak and irregular in action. I was in a miserable condition for months. Nothing I tried seemed to give me any relief until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's drug store. They seemed to take hold at once, banishing the rheumatic pains and regulating the action of my kidneys. They improved my condition so much that I soon felt like a different woman. I will always endorse Doan's Kidney Pills."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Gardner had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, snuffing, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.—Adv.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

To Be Sung at

COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS TREE CELEBRATION

City Park, Plainfield, December 24, 1914.

Those Who Are Planning to Attend Are Urged to Read These Carols Over to Familiarize Themselves With the Words.

O COME ALL YE FAITHFUL.

O come, all ye faithful,
Joyful and triumphant,
O come ye, O come ye to Bethlehem;
Come and behold Him
Born the King of angels;

O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
Christ the Lord.

Yea, Lord, we greet Thee,
Born this happy morning:
Jesus, to Thee be glory given;
Word of the Father,
Late in flesh appearing.
O come, etc.

HARK THE HERALD ANGELS SING.

Hark! the herald angels sing,
"Glory to the newborn King;
Peace on earth, and mercy mild,
God and sinners reconciled!"
Joyful, all ye nations, rise,
Join the triumph of the skies;
With the angelic host proclaim,
"Christ is born in Bethlehem!"
Hark! the herald angels sing,
"Glory to the newborn King"

Hail, the heaven-born Prince of Peace!
Hail, the Sun of Righteousness!
Light and life to all He brings,
Risen with healing in His wings.
Mild He lays His glory by,
Born that man no more may die,
Born to raise the sons of earth,
Born to give them second birth.
Hark! the herald angels sing,
"Glory to the newborn King."

IT CAME UPON A MIDNIGHT CLEAR.

It came upon a midnight clear,
That glorious song of old,
From angels bending near the earth
To touch their harps of gold:
"Peace on the earth, good will to men,
From heaven's all-gracious King:"
The world in solemn stillness lay,
To hear the angels sing.

Still through the cloven skies they come,
With peaceful wings unfurled,
And still their heavenly music floats
O'er all the weary world:
Above its sad and lowly plains
They bend on hovering wing,
And ever o'er its Babel-sounds
The blessed angels sing.

For lo, the days are hastening on,
By prophet bards foretold,
When with the ever-circling year
Comes round the age of gold;
When peace shall over all the earth
Its ancient splendors fling,
And the whole world give back the song
Which now the angels sing.

THERE CAME THREE KINGS.

There came three kings, ere break of day,
All on Epiphanie.
Their gifts they bare both rich and rare,
All, all, Lord Christ, for Thee:
Gold, frankincense, and myrrh are there,
Where is the King? O where?
Where is the King? O where?

The Star shone brightly overhead,
The air was calm and still,
O'er Bethlehem's fields its rays were shed,
The dew lay on the hill:
I see no throne, no palace fair,
Where is the King? O where?

An old man knelt at a manger low,
A Babe lay in the stall;
The starlight play'd on the Infant brow,
Deep silence lay o'er all.
A maiden bent o'er the Babe in pray'r,
There is the King! O there!

SILENT NIGHT.

Silent night, Holy night,
All is calm, all is bright
Round yon Virgin Mother and Child.
Holy Infant so tender and mild,
Sleep in heavenly peace,
Sleep in heavenly peace!

Silent night, Holy night,
Shepherds quake at the sight,
Glories stream from heaven afar,
Heavenly hosts sing Alleluia;
Christ, the Saviour, is born!
Christ, the Saviour, is born!

Silent night, Holy night,
Son of God, love's pure light,
Radiant beams from Thy holy face,
With the dawn of redeeming grace,
Jesus, Lord, at Thy birth,
Jesus, Lord, at Thy birth.

THE FIRST NOEL.

The first Noel the angel did say,
Was to certain poor shepherds in fields as they lay;
In fields where they lay keeping their sheep,
On a cold winter's night that was so deep.

Noel, Noel, Noel, Noel;
Born is the King of Israel.

They looked up and saw a star,
Shining in the East, beyond them far,
And to the earth it gave great light,
And so it continued both day and night.
Noel, etc.

And by the light of that same star,
Three Wise Men came from country far;
To seek for a King was their intent,
And to follow the star wherever it went.
Noel, etc.

Then let us all with one accord,
Sing praises to our Heavenly Lord,
That hath made Heaven and earth of nought,
And with His Blood mankind hath bought.

O LITTLE TOWN OF BETHLEHEM.

O little town of Bethlehem!
How still we see thee lie;
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by:
Yet in thy dark streets shineth
The everlasting Light;
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee tonight.

For Christ is born of Mary,
And gathered all above,
While mortals sleep, the angels keep Their watch of wondering love:
O morning stars, together
Proclaim the holy birth!
And praises sing to God the King,
And peace to men on earth.

O holy Child of Bethlehem!
Descend to us, we pray;
Cast out our sin, and enter in,
Be born in us today.
We hear the Christmas angels
The great glad tidings tell;
O come to us, abide with us,
Our Lord Emmanuel!

WHILE SHEPHERDS WATCHED.

While shepherds watched their flocks by night,
All seated on the ground,
The angel of the Lord came down,
And glory shone around.

"Fear not," said he,—for mighty dread
Had seized their troubled mind,—
"Glad tidings of great joy I bring
To you and all mankind.

"To you, in David's town this day,
Is born of David's line,
A Saviour, who is Christ the Lord,
And this shall be the sign:

"The heavenly Babe you there shall find
To human view displayed,
All meanly wrapt in swathing bands,
And in a manger laid."

Thus spake the seraph, and forthwith
Appeared a shining throng
Of angels praising God, and thus Addressed their joyful song:

"All glory be to God on high,
And to the earth be peace:
Good'will henceforth, from heaven to men,
Begin and never cease."

THREE KINGS OF ORIENT.

We three kings of Orient are,
Bearing gifts we traverse far,
Field and fountain, moor and mountain,
Following yonder Star.

Chorus:

O Star of wander, star of might,
Star with royal beauty bright,
Westward leading, still proceeding,
Guide us to the perfect light.

Born a babe on Bethlehem's plain
Gold we bring to crown Him again;
King forever, ceasing never,
Over us all to reign.—Chorus.

Frankincense to offer have I;
Incense owns a Deity nigh;
Prayer and praising all men raising,
Worship Him, God on high.—Chorus.

Myrrh is mine; its bitter perfume
Breathes a life of gath'ring gloom;
Sorrowing, sighing, bleeding, dying,
Seal'd in the stone-cold tomb.
—Chorus.

Glorious now behold Him rise,
King and God and Sacrifice;
Heaven sings "Hallelujah!"
"Hallelejuah" earth replies.
—Chorus.

The following song of peace was written for the occasion by the Rev. Edward William Hude Neilson, of Plainfield, and will be sung immediately after the singing of "O Little Town of Bethlehem" and to the same tune.

"THE SONG OF PEACE."

Mid cannon's roar of cruel war
We sing the Song of Peace.
An Infant Hand gives its command
And bids the conflict cease.

Cease from the deed of selfish greed:
From brutal lust refrain:
And let the Child, pure, undefiled,
Your wayward steps restrain.

"A child shall lead"—Oh! may the need
Of aching hearts be filled;
The Angels' song still floats along.
Oh! may our doubts be stilled.

"Glory to God," the Angels' word,
At length shall be fulfilled—
The Christmas Child, in mercy mild,
Love's victory has willed.

"THE STAR-SPANGLED BANNER."

Oh! say, can you see, by the dawn's early light
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars thro' the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watch'd were so gallantly streaming
And the rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof thro' the night that our flag was still there.

CHORUS.

'Tis the star-spangled banner, Oh! long may it wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

On the shore, dimly seen thro' the mists of the deep,
Where the foes haughty host in dread silence reposes,
What is that which the breeze, o'er the towering steep
As it fitfully blows, half conceals, half discloses?
Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam,
In full glory reflected, now shines on the stream.—Chorus.

Oh! thus be it e'er when freemen shall stand
Between their lov'd homes and war's desolation;
Blest with victory and peace, may the heavn' rescu'd land
Praise the pow'r that hath made and preserved us a nation,
Then, conquer we must, when our cause it is just,
And this be out motto, "In God We Trust."—Chorus.

GOD REST YOU, MERRY GENTLEMEN.

God rest you, merry gentlemen,
Let nothing you dismay,
Remember Christ our Saviour,
Was born on Christmas Day;
To save us all from Satan's power,
When we were gone astray;
O tidings of comfort and joy, comfort and joy,
O tidings of comfort and joy.

From God our Heavenly Father,
A blessed angel came,
And unto certain shepherds
Brought tidings of the same;
How that in Bethlehem was born
The Son of God by Name.
O tidings, etc.

The shepherds at those tidings,
Rejoiced much in mind,
And left their flocks a-feeding,
In tempest, storm, and wind:
And went to Bethlehem straightway,
The Son of God to find.
O tidings, etc.

And when they came to Bethlehem
Where our dear Saviour lay,
They found Him in a manger,
Where oxen feed on hay;
His Mother Mary kneeling down,
Unto the Lord did pray.
O tidings, etc.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

The idea that a woman has not a sense of humor is more than disproven by Margaret Mayo, who several years ago wrote the laughing success of the season, "Baby Mine." This farce ran for a year in New York and was played on the road by several companies, to the intense joy of the large audiences which greeted it everywhere.

And now Miss Mayo has repeated with "Twin Beds," now in its sixth month of successful merriment at the Fulton Theatre, New York. The piece is a farce comedy of much naturalness. Ludicrous situations are constantly occurring in every-day life, particularly in a large apartment-house.

Given a flighty young wife, who likes excitement and to entertain, whose husband is quite content to sit by the fireside and enjoy his evening paper after a day at the office, and you have one situation. But when the wife has a penchant for forming new acquaintances, likewise in flirting with a famous Italian tenor, and you add to the complications.

Furnish the singer with a raw-boned wife, who is alternately torn by emotions which one instant cause her to be jealous of him and the next ready to thrash him within an inch of his life, and to be unconscious of her husband's flirtation with the child-like Mrs. Hawkins, and you add to complications.

Have an almost bride catch her fiance trying her wedding ring on the fingers of Mrs. Hawkins, where it unfortunately sticks, just as the near-bride enters the room, and the growing trouble is apparent.

Add to this that the three couples all dwell in the same apartment-house, and that each, unknown to their neighbors, decide to move to a new apartment building owned by the same landlord, to escape from unpleasant surroundings and atmosphere, and you have all of the ingredients of the laughing success of the season, "Twin Beds."

With the care which marks all of their productions and casts, Selwyn & Co. have selected the road company to present "Twin Beds" outside of New York city, where the original cast is enjoying the sensation of presenting the laughing festival of the year.

"Twin Beds" is coming to Plainfield on Monday, December 28, and will be seen at the Plainfield Theatre for one performance only.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

A Party of Pigeons, Sparrows And Squirrels.

One Big Squirrel Climbed Up My Coat.

"I HAD a very amusing adventure one day in late November the last time I was in New York," said daddy as the children cuddled down beside him upon the divan before the blazing log fire.

"It was a wonderful afternoon. The air was fairly intoxicating, and the city was in a holiday mood, since it was Saturday afternoon. There is no feeling in the world just like the one you have when you are walking on a beautiful street with well dressed people who are talking and laughing and making merry. There is an electric thrill of gladness that one is a part of so wonderful a sight.

"So I continued my walk up Fifth avenue until I arrived at Central park. All the entrances to Central park are named, and the one which is at the plaza is called the scholars' gate. I passed on up the street until I came to the mall.

"You hear so many descriptions of trees all leaved and green and bright, but I have never seen trees more beautiful than the ones outlined against that brilliant November sky.

"There was a long aisle of them that looked like the nave of an immense cathedral. You see, the branches were gray, which made the illusion more perfect.

"So I walked along, feeling as if I were in church, when suddenly there was a fluttering and whizzing and whirring, and there dropped all about me—I can't tell you how many—English sparrows. They looked like big, fat, brown leaves hopping around on the stone walk.

"I bought some peanuts and popcorn of the vender who stood near with his little pushcart, and then I proceeded on my way toward a place called the Ramble, so called because you go up hill and down dale, over rocks and under rocks, in a most fascinating fashion. As I went I strewed popcorn and peanuts, and those greedy, fat, little birds followed me.

"Soon I reached the Ramble and stood still and scattered my gifts.

"Such a commotion you never heard, and from the tall trees and shubbery big, fat, saucy squirrels began to arrive. Then I heard another whirring sound, louder than that made by the sparrows and which could be heard above the chatter of the squirrels. Looking up, I saw a flock of pigeons coming to my party.

"Well, perhaps I wasn't a surprised host, and really it was one of the prettiest parties I have ever seen, this out of doors party under the blue sky and with the sun shining so brilliantly."

The Wife's Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

The fine snow whitened the air and a stiff gale blew the tiny particles against the face like stinging needles. A traveler was toilsomely riding up the mountain gorge in the teeth of the wind. The tough little pony bent her head and slowly picked her way over the rocks, made slippery with the sleety covering.

The traveler raised his head, and, shielding his face with his fur glove, peered through the white air. Finally he discovered a black spot against the white mountain side. "Surely that is the place," he opined. "Get along with you, little Molasses Ann!" and he struck the flank of the pony with his hand.

Molasses Ann bobbed her head vigorously and put forth renewed exertions to reach the journey's end. She was soon climbing the steep trail to the cabin. The door opened to a resounding knock and the visitor, looking like a polar bear, his fur coat, cap, and gloves covered with snow, stamped his feet and stepped inside.

"Oh, doctor, I am so glad you have come. It's an awful storm we are having. I was afraid you couldn't get here," said a thin, dark-eyed woman, taking his cap and gloves.

"I've got the best car on the track," laughed the doctor, shaking the snow from his coat in a room so small that the stove hissed viciously as the particles struck the hot surface.

"Here, Bub," he said, thrusting a sack of candy into a lad's hand, "you put my little Molasses Ann under cover, will you?"

The boy grinned and went out.

"Where's Jake?" asked the doctor.

"Working in the logging camp. He hopes to get home Christmas," replied the woman, hanging up his coat.

The doctor was a red-headed, red-bearded little man, as cheerful and companionable as a robin. "Now, where's my sick baby?" he asked gaily, as if ordering a confection. The mother led the way to two chairs placed against the wall with a board tied across the front to keep the mite of humanity from falling to the floor. He took the little creature up, pillow and all, and laid it on his lap still asleep. The anxious mother stood near, watching every move.

"What is the matter, doctor?" she whispered.

"You get a big kettle of hot water and a foot tub. The little chap's trying to have the measles and they won't come out. We'll fix him all right," he answered.

Together they worked over the baby until far into the evening, the wind howling and shrieking around the tiny cabin hugged against the bank. As last a pink rash all over the little body told them the danger was over.

"Now keep him warm and he'll be all right. Isn't he a rose?" laughed the little man.

After supper the doctor lay down on the lounge and slept, and the children went to bed, while the mother watched the baby and fed the fire.

The next morning was clear and cold, the dazzling snow reached up to the blue mountain peaks that stood out like jewels. The doctor scraped away the frost and peered out of the little window. "The snow is not very deep, except in a few places where it is drifted. We'll get through all right. I'll see Jake when he comes through Jasper and send up some medicine."

* * * * *

"Now, Mrs. Santa Claus," said the doctor to his wife that evening, "have you anything for those Hollesters? I tell you they need cheering."

"I'll order stuff by the wholesale next year; it will be cheaper," laughed the bright-eyed little woman. "I can't complain, though, for Molasses Ann and I get all you collect. You're surely good to your women folks."

The doctor shook a warning finger at her as he departed and Mrs. Santa went to work.

From a drawer she took some baby clothes, carefully wrapped in tissue. "I'll give Mrs. Hollester some of these," she said, kissing the tiny garments on which the tears fell. "It is better so; they should be used, not left in a drawer. There are surely three or four toys left. Yes, here is a rag doll for the little girl, and a jumping jack and a top for the boys, and I'll give her half of my fruit cake and three pairs of mittens Grandma Field gave me to distribute.

* * * * *

"I saw Jake Hollester at the store," said the doctor on Christmas eve. "I gave him the package and the medicine. He went home loaded with good stuff for dinner tomorrow. He got each of the children candy and an apple. Peters was selling three for a quarter as a Christmas special."

"I am so glad for them," said his wife with shining eyes.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

MERRY CHRISTMAS AND VOTES FOR WOMEN.

In the window of the Philadelphia Equal Franchise Society is the figure of Santa Claus bearing on his bag this message:

"Here is a very previous gift which I am leaving at the homes of the American women. I shall never stop until I have left one at every home in this country and in the world. Use it well, and the nation will have Merrier Christmases when the women vote."

For the first time in the history of the suffrage movement in New Jersey there has been no slackening of work or interest among the 150 suffrage organizations of the State because of Christmas preparations. Suffragists have evidently heeded the admonition to "Shop early!" Rummage sales are being conducted this week in Plainfield, Newark, Jersey City and other places. A large and successful school for suffrage workers was held last week at Trenton and similar schools are to be conducted in Camden, Jersey City and East Orange in January and in Montclair in February. These are under the direction of the State president, Mrs. E. F. Feickert.

Doctor Anna Howard Shaw spoke at mass meetings during the past three weeks in Summit, Cranford, Plainfield and Trenton.

The work of dividing the cities into wards and districts for the better canvassing of voters has actually begun and it is expected that all this work will be completed by the first of February.

NEW FIELD WORKER FROM MONTANA.

Miss Florence Leech, of Montana, who has been engaged as a field worker by the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, will leave her home right after Christmas and begin work in New Jersey, January 4.

WOMEN AND WAR.

It was amusing to find in the same papers the other day, an article by the New Jersey Anti-Suffrage Association, harping on the old argument that women should not vote because they cannot fight, and a dispatch from England saying that the Government was mustering in three regiments of women reservists, of which Lady Castlereigh is to be colonel, who are to be called on in case of a German invasion.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S CHANGING.

President Wilson told Mrs. Feickert, one of the spokesmen for the New Jersey delegation to Washington a year ago, that he was "impressed" by the demand for Equal Suffrage. He told Miss Anne Martin, the victorious president of the Nevada Suffrage Association, the other day, that he was "deeply impressed." Why has the President added an adverb to the description of his feelings on this subject? The answer may perhaps be found in the great number of prominent statesmen and National organizations which have endorsed suffrage since he first spoke. Among these are the National Federation of Women's Clubs, the National Education Association and the National Trades Union League.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

To make nice sick room shoe in which you can step around softly, cut from old felt hats sole and heel pieces, glue these on and you have a quieter shoe than those sold as nurses' shoes. The patter of little feet, so hard on some folks' nerves, is easily deadened by the same method, also helping to keep their little feet warm when playing on cold floor.

When taking young baby out, slip your rubber sheet in a pillow case and take it along; you need never worry about putting your baby down on a nice spread or a pillow.

To Clean Duck or Goose—Do not scald feathers, but pick them dry in this manner: Pick DOWNWARD with the feathers—never upward against the feathers—and with thumb pressing against flesh of fowl in a rubbing manner, taking the down and feathers off at same time, leaving the flesh entirely clear of all down as you go along. This way has been tried time and time again by an old duck hunter's wife.

THE TABLE

Toothsome Chicken (original)—Rub the bottom of an iron pot with a piece of garlic, boil a chicken (fat one) in it until tender, using a good deal of water. Chop three green peppers and as many onions very fine, also a little green parsley, and add to chicken broth (after removing chicken), add a large can of strained tomato juice and an ordinary-sized box of spaghetti broken in small pieces. Cook until thick and tender (slow fire). Cut chicken and place around sides of platter into which the stew has been turned.

Eggs in Prison—Two cups cold cooked meat chopped fine, stale browned bread crumbs, four eggs, seasoning to suit taste. Grease four small cups or molds and sprinkle thickly with the crumbs. Season meat rather highly and line molds with it, leaving a hollow in each cup, sprinkle with butter, salt and pepper. If meat is dry, moisten slightly with gravy or white sauce. Bake in moderate oven till eggs are set. Turn out on platter and garnish with parsley.

Celery Cabbage Creamed—Wash two heads of celery cabbage, cut in small pieces about two inches long, drop in boiling salted water, boil two minutes, drain. Make a dressing of one tablespoon flour, one tablespoon butter, one cup boiling milk, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar. Stir all together, boil five minutes, pour over celery cabbage and serve.

New Cranberry Dish—To one quart cranberries add three pints cold water, boil down to about one quart, add two or three cups sugar (according to taste), boil until quite thick. Have ready one pound mixed nuts; cut meats in small pieces, saving some whole ones. Put nuts into cranberries, take immediately from fire, stir them through well, put in dish to set and cool. Lay whole nuts around on top of dish while hot. This makes a fine dish for holidays.

Cornmeal Pudding (for family of eight)—One cup sugar, one-half cup butter, two cups sweet milk, three eggs, one pint cranberries, three teaspoons baking powder, one cup wheat flour, three cups cornmeal. Stir butter and sugar, add eggs, wheat flour and baking powder, then milk, cornmeal and cranberries. Steam three hours.

Chicken Potpie—Disjoint chicken and stew until almost tender; add salt and lump butter if not fat. Cook six medium-sized potatoes diced rather large, to which has been added one small onion. Make good biscuit dough (one quart flour will make enough dough), roll out and cut in squares; line sides of greased pan with squares. Place layer of chicken in bottom, then potatoes, dust generously with flour and pepper, then again chicken, potatoes and flour; cover all with squares of dough. Take part of broth of chicken and pour over all in pan until it can be seen at top of pan; place in oven and bake in moderate oven 20 to 30 minutes. Take remainder of broth and thicken it by taking one egg well beaten and thickened with flour, then thinned with milk; pour in hot broth and stand back of stove; if allowed to boil the egg will curdle.

Our New York Letter

Wednesday, December 23rd.

There will appear in the newspapers next Sunday (December 27th) an announcement of a most remarkable sale of high class apparel for women's every occasion. This will be announced by the Smart Shop of Maison Maurice on Fifth Avenue, at 43d St. I am informed, however, that Saturday, the 26th inst., will be devoted to patrons so that (prior to the published announcement) they may have the widest selection of some very wonderful bargains. This should be attractive news to those who will be the fortunate recipients of Cash presents for Yule Tide — or to any woman, for that matter — because charged bills will not be rendered until February 1st.

Exclusive Neckties are appropriate gifts for men—and for exclusiveness at low prices I suggest that you go to Doyle & Black, 45 W. 46th Street. For 50 cents you may choose scarfs in materials ordinarily found in $1 and $1.50 grades—perhaps not quite so wide, but nevertheless, very rich and quite wide enough for the smart, tight knot now in vogue. Thursday will revise big selection and you may choose in quiet and in comfort.

To-morrow, when you make your final Christmas purchases of candies (and such things are usually deferred by preference), go to Gimbel's and look at the fascinating array of Tea Room Chocolates (eighth floor)—wholesome and delightful, the super-excellent kind—surprisingly delicious in the varied assortment of fillings.

One dollar a pound, in handsome round boxes. Now here is a good suggestion: On the 2d floor in the fancy needlework sections, you will find a great variety of dainty tin or fibre-lined boxes, round or square—finished either in cretonnes or brocades—trimmed with gold lace, medallions, etc., which may be used in the boudoir as workboxes, or utility boxes. Prices from 75c to $7.50. One of these filled with Gimbel Tea-Room Chocolates would be a charming present and a subtle way of prettily overcoming the formalities—which bind certain folks to flowers, books or candies.

Just in time for the Holiday festivities and functions comes the news of most unusually low prices at Miss White's Smart Salon at 46 W. 46th Street. I saw yesterday a select group of exclusive and fascinating Dance and Evening Frocks which have been heavily reduced. You will marvel at what $25 to $35 will procure between now and the first of the year, and those in need of another frock or two to freshen up one's winter wardrobe need look no further than Miss White's.

Most of us will begin the New Year with domestic replenishing. Those desiring Hemstitching, Pleating or Made-to-order buttons should write to Mehrlust & Grossman, 3480 Broadway, at 141st Street, whose excellent work and promptness I can well recommend. You will, upon request, receive a booklet of instructions how to prepare materials.

I don't think any of us can remember a season when GOOD FURS could be bought so advantageously. Manufacturers and importers are driven into a corner in many cases by the extraordinary adversities of Wars and Weather. They cannot survive unless they sell their Furs. What is the result? Retailers are offering unheard of bargains—but there is a place I know of on Fifth Avenue where a group of manufacturers have themselves assembled a fine assortment of every new and fashionable pelt made up into the season's latest modes, and the selling prices are actually half, and less than half what they should be. If only for investment's sake you should try and discover your Fur needs at once and so share in a saving you could never regret. The address is 504 Fifth Avenue. Sale is in charge of MR. LINDAU, an expert Furrier.

CAPITAL $100,000. SERVICE

A 4% SAVING PLAN

The opportunity is presented to the people of Plainfield to acquire the "habit" of systematic saving. We have been a nation of spenders, but there is ample evidence that people are now seriously considering the matter of laying aside a portion of their income regularly, and no better method for saving in a systematic way can be found than that offered by our four per cent. saving bond plan, which we heartily commend to anyone having a regular fixed income as a method by which he may lay aside automatically a regular amount monthly, to be used when the unexpected happens or for some particular purpose.

Many objects for such saving readily suggest themselves—a fund for the higher education of son or daughter; a capital fund with which to take advantage of investment opportunities; a fund to start a son in business; money to pay off a possible mortgage on the home; money to defray the expenses of some long onticipated trip; and last, but not least, a fund to provide against the exigencies of misfortune that may some day overtake you. Any of these objects should be sufficient to stimulate a desire to make a beginning, and a beginning once made will be easy to continue.

The operation of the plan is as follows: An Installment Bond in denomination of from $40 to $1,000 is purchased, the first payment being from $1 to $25. A similar payment is made monthly, and at the end of 38 months, all that has been paid in may be withdrawn, together with 4% interest. In the meantime, if necessity requires it, 80% of the paid-in value may be borrowed, OR payments may be discontinued and the amount paid in withdrawn at any time. Begin now while the suggestion is before you. Save to save and not to spend.

ALL READY FOR BIG CELEBRATION

Community Christmas Service Promises to Be a Great Success.

DETAILS ARE COMPLETE

Mayor Percy H. Stewart Will Light Giant Tree in City Park at 7:30—Committee Announces That No Gifts Will Be Distributed at Tree.

The Park was the centre of interest yesterday, and scores of persons went a little out of their way to see and admire the wonderful tree which the linemen were stringing with electric bulbs. In the evening the current was turned on with beautiful effect. The three "Baby Targon" lamps of 3,500 candle-power, which the Cooper-Hewitt concern has installed, to furnish light for the carol singing, illuminated a large area so brightly that print could be read many yards away.

The committee hopes that the whole community without distinction of age, race or creed will share heartily in this demonstration. Attention is called to a few points:

First. The hour is 7:30 p. m. The Mayor will touch the button and the Aida Quartet will lead the singing, and render instrumental selections. There will be no speaking, and the exercises should close with the National anthem at 8:30.

Second. Space for the school children near the tree has been roped off and the police will see that it is reserved for them. Everyone, however, will be welcome, and all are urged to join in the carols.

Third. All householders are requested to place lights in their front windows and raise the shades during the outdoor celebration.

Fourth. There will be no distribution of gifts at the tree. The Community Christmas committee has been busy all day delivering the gifts at the homes of the poor.

Through the generosity of several persons taxicabs have been furnished for bringing a number of "shut-in" invalids to see the tree and hear the singing. These guests were selected by the Charity Organization Society and include persons of all ages and races, few of whom have ever ridden in an automobile. Two of them are old women, who have not left their homes in two years. One is an aged colored man, a paralytic. Quite a number are crippled boys and girls. "Will they appreciate it?" asked one of the committee. "Appreciate it?" was the reply. "Why, it'll be as good as the grand opera to them!"

In some respects it will mean more to the city of good will than a whole season of grand opera.

THE TRUMPETERS OF THE OUTDOOR CAROL SINGING

The chorus at the big community celebration at 7:30 on Christmas Eve will be held by the Aida Quartet, of New York, whose members form the celebrated trumpet-choir in the Ocean Grove Audtiorium in the summer.

WHERE WILL YOU BE ON XMAS?

If you are away from home or without a home at this holiday season, come to the Young Women's Christian Association, 210 East Front street, on Christmas day. We keep "open house," and here you will find a bright fire, a warm welcome and Christmas cheer—4 to 6 p. m.

EFFORTS TO IDENTIFY TRAIN VICTIM FUTILE

Railroad Authorities Investigating Death of Man at Fanwood Yesterday.

Efforts to establish the identity of a foreigner killed on the Central Railroad tracks just below Fanwood yesterday afternoon, have proven futile and the body still remains in the undertaking establishment of George Coles in this city awaiting a claimant. The man was struck by a flyer traveling in a westerly direction and in his pocket was found a slip of paper reading as follows: 'Put this man to work at 11 o'clock."

It has since developed that he was in the Fanwood depot getting warm a few minutes before the mishap occurred and told the station master that he had come from Easton, Pa., and claimed to be going to Jersey City for work. It is the supposition of those interested in the case that he had "freighted" it from Easton to this city and had set out on the remaining part of the journey to Jersey City when hit and killed by the train. In his pockets were found coins aggregating a sum of seventy five cents, a rabbit's foot, a comb and a typewritten article of a religious nature.

As stated in this paper yesterday he was about forty-five years of age six feet, one inch in height, weighed 200 pounds and had brown hair and a moustache. He was well dressed. Railroad officials visited Fanwood this morning in an effort to determine the man's name and former home.

POLICE CHIEF SAYS TO LOCK HOUSES UP TONIGHT

Chief of Police Kiely this morning issued a warning to Plainfielders who are planning to attend the Community Christmas celebration in City Park tonight. He urges that so far as possible no houses be left without anyone in them, but in case they are vacant he wants everyone to be sure that all windows are securely locked.

BARBER SHOPS CLOSE.

HOLIDAY EVENTS FOR CHRISTMAS

Plenty of Entertainment in Store for Pleasure Seekers Here Tomorrow.

SERVICES IN CHURCHES

Banks, Stores and Library Closed all Day—One Mail Delivery—Theatres Have Special Programs—Basketball Title Game.

Entertainment of every variety is in store for local and borough amusement seekers tomorrow and, while the usual Christmas "stay-at-homes" will probably be as numerous as ever the local playhouses and other resorts have made preparations to provide diversion for large audiences. Wiseacres who tell us about the weather before it is "served up" say we will have a snowless Xmas and that Santa Claus will have to employ an automobile or airship in his house-to-house trip tonight. Many had hoped for a snowfall prior to Christmas and the promise of a green holiday is not altogether welcome. Heavy clouds were in evidence today and some weather seers claim that the official forecaster's predictions will once more be shattered.

Local merchants plan to keep their stores open until a late hour tonight to accommodate those who neglected

CHRISTMAS DANCE AT THE PARK CLUB

Holiday Festivities Ushered in With An Enjoyable Social Function.

The holiday season was ushered in with the delightful Christmas dance at the Park Club last night. The affair proved to be one of the most popular in the history of the club, about four hundred guests being present to enjoy the festivities which lasted until 2 o'clock this morning.

The dance which was arranged by the entertainment committee, of which Mrs. Hugh Jarvis is the chairman, was marked by several pleasing features, especially in the decorations which were most elaborate. The large auditorium was decorated with hundreds of yards of green roping and red poinsetta with a large electric star in the centre. This was the artistic work of Henry Johnson, the steward.

The stage decorations which were arranged by Mrs. Jarvis, was most attractive, it presenting a picture of a living room. On the left was an old-fashioned fire place, and the Christmas tree, with the candlesticks. Before the fire place was a clever reproduction of a small boy, made out of cardboard and wearing a "polar-bear" suit, filled with expectancy over the arrival of Santa Claus. On the right was VanEps' orchestra of four pieces.

The program of music for the dancing was unusually popular and all thoroughly enjoyed this feature. The orchestra kindly responded to many encores. Among the large number of guests were many college boys and girls home for the holidays. About 11 o'clock refreshments were served after which the dancing continued until early morning. The junior dance of the club will be given New Year's Eve from 7 until 9 o'clock, after which the older members will have a dance.

MRS. HUFF'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Mrs. Aletta Huff, who died at her home in Centreville, on Tuesday, will be held at the Centreville church at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Carriages will meet at Neshanic the train which leaves Plainfield at 7 o'clock in the morning. The burial will be at Somerville. Mrs. Huff was the mother of Horace Huff and Mrs. Arthur Mosher, of this city.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 24 degrees; 11 a. m., 26 degrees; 1 p. m., 25 degrees.

—Following the usual custom there will be no edition of the Daily Press tomorrow. The office will be closed all day. Carrier boys will distribute the Daily Press calendars for 1915 during the day, and every reader of the Press should receive one of these. The picture on each is an attractive young woman, reproduced from original paintings by Penryn Stanlaws. Any subscriber not receiving a calendar will confer a favor on the office by notifying us, and same will be forwarded at once.

CHRISTMAS MESSAGE.

(Written for The Daily Press.)

The shadow of the great war rests upon every American's heart and home. We cannot be merry while our brothers die. They are fighting for us. Their wounds are for the healing of the nations. We must recognize the debt we owe them; send to them what succor and sympathy we may; and, when our opportunity comes, as come it will, we must strive to make permanent the priceless principles for which they are giving their lives.

There can be no real peace on earth so long as any part of our social structure rests upon injustice or a lie. God is at work today smiting falsehoods and tearing down injustice from its place of pride and power. Tomorrow He will build a new world upon foundations of truth and right. To this task He is calling America. Let us therefore celebrate our Lord's birthday by a new and solemn dedication of our lives to His great task. "He shall not fail nor be discouraged till he hast set justice in the earth." And we who labor with Him find joy unspeakable and full of glory in the high emprise to which he calls us.

CHARLES A. EATON.

ELKS WILL ENTERTAIN THE KIDDIES AT PICTURE SHOW

Several reels of motion pictures will be run off under the auspices of the Plainfield Lodge, B. P. O. E., in Proctor's Theatre, Tuesday morning from 10 to 12 o'clock, for the entertainment of the city's children. The entire building has been turned over to the lodge and a general invitation has been extended to those interested in the "movies."

In former years the Elks have given their entertainment before Christmas, but the demands for relief of a substantial character has kept the club committee so busy that it has been deemed advisable to hold the affair after tomorrow. Manager Harry Sanderson, of the theatre, is past grand exalted ruler of the Elks, and always takes an interest in this Christmas work.

CHILD CRIED FOR JOY WHEN GIVEN XMAS DOLL

Christmas exercises were held yesterday afternoon at the open air school for tubecular children on Muhlenberg place. The twenty pupils participated in exercises, and William S. Tyler, president of the Board of Education, told them a Christmas story, while Dr. Edward S. Krans made a short address. Dr. Krans told the children that the committee in charge had arranged to have a quart of milk delivered to their homes each day during the Christmas vacation, and that every child that did not lose weight during that period would receive a prize upon returning to school.

Toys were presented to all of the pupils, and to several who have been pupils in the past, and all were given hot chocolate and cake. There was a big Christmas tree. Each girl received a doll, which had been dressed by some local woman interested in the school, and for some it was the first real doll they ever had. One small girl cried from joy when her doll was given to her. Among those who assisted in preparing the entertainment and attending to the comfort of children and guests were Mrs. E. W. Bulkley, Mrs. D. N. Rowland, Dr. and Mrs. Edward S. Krans, Miss VanBoskerck and Miss Lahey. A number of young women assisted in serving the refreshments.

J. B. Groendyke, of Carlton avenue, returned yesterday from a business trip in the West.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB NOT DEAD ISSUE

Enthusiastic Gathering Last Night Sets Aside Erroneous Report.

OFFICERS NOMINATED

Plans for Coming Year Discussed—Unanimous Vote Taken Demonstrating That No Move Has Ever Been Made to Disband.

Any doubt that may have existed as to the future of the Plainfield Democratic Club was set at rest last night, when, after one of the most enthusiastic and spirited meetings in the club's history, steps were taken to outline the work for the coming year on a broader and more liberal scope than ever before attempted. In addition to this, officers for the approaching year were nominated and in every instance harmony and concord marked the proceedings.

The ticket just nominated and which will be voted on at the next regular meeting, the first Tuesday in January, follows:

For president, Richard A. Claybrook; for secretary, James J. McCann; for treasurer, William Flee Taliaferro.

Mr. McCann's nomination amounts to re-election, he being the only general office rechosen.

Four vice presidents were chosen,

CHRISTMAS SONG HAS BEEN SET TO MUSIC

Mrs. Elizabeth Bowen Foster Writes Air for Dr. Neilson's Words.

Dr. William Hude Neilson, of East Ninth street, was requested by a friend to write a song appropriate to the present Christmas season, at a moment's notice, and he prepared the "Song of Peace," which will be used at the Community Christmas tree celebration tonight in City Park.

It has been set to music by Mrs. Elizabeth Bowen Foster, but owing to the shortness of time, it was impossible to have any rehearsals of the chorus, so the words will be sung tonight to the tune of "O Little Town of Bethlehem." The "Song of Peace," with Mrs. Foster's setting, will be sung at the Sunday afternoon services at both the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and Grace Episcopal church. The words follow:

Mid cannon's roar of cruel war
We sing the Song of Peace.
An Infant Hand gives its command
And bids the conflict cease.

Cease from the deed of selfish greed:
From brutal lust refrain:
And let the Child, pure, undefiled,
Your wayward steps restrain.

'A child shall lead"—Oh! may the need
Of aching hearts be filled;
The Angels' song still floats along.
Oh! may our doubts be stilled.

"Glory to God," the Angels' word,
At length shall be fulfilled—
The Christmas Child, in mercy mild,
Love's victory has willed.

Here is a gift for man's uplift
O'er sorrow, guilt and shame;
Not sordid pelf or thought of self
His gentle deeds proclaim.

So we His followers still to be Upon His name rely
And sing again the glad refrain
Of Christ's nativity.

URGENT APPEAL FOR ADDITIONAL FUNDS

Commission on Unemployed Seek United Co-operation in Relief Work.

A few days ago a wounded British soldier was asked to describe the battle in which he was hit. His answer was a model of brevity and vividness. "First you 'ears a 'ell of a noise, and then the nurse says, 'Try to drink a little of this'."

The suffering in this country as a result of the war is of a different sort. There is no "'ell of a noise." It comes quietly as the result of lack of employment and exhausted savings. And in many cases there is no nurse to give either nourishing food or knitted mufflers.

Every Eastern city of the United States is now facing almost exactly the same problem—unemployment, caused by a business depression which began long before August 1 and has only been accentuated since that time. "This situation," says Henry Bruere, chamberlain of the city of New York, "is likely to become the chief concern of every patriotic New Yorker in 1915." To a proportionate degree it will concern every patriotic Plainfielder also.

Plainfield may well take pride in the prompt and efficient way in which steps for relief were taken, in the appointment of the Commission for the Relief of the Unemployed, composed of many leading citizens who are directing the work and are responsible for it. This Commission will not encourage dependency. Everyone who is helped will be made to work for what he gets, just so far as work can be provided. And the employment committee is now making excellent progress in that direction.

However, while work is being developed, where none naturally is, relief must be given. This community has answered in a wonderful way the many appeals this winter. It cannot pass by this one from its neighbor, and it will not. Even now the response has begun.

Up to last Saturday evening, the amount received by A. M. Haris, treasurer of the Commission, was $1,265. This is just about enough to take care of the estimated requirements for the first of the four months.

The contributors to the above sum were: The finance committee of the Commission, Mayor Percy H. Stewart, The Plainfield Yale Club, James P. Murray, Miss Mary E. Tweedy, Miss Florence Tweedy, Miss Saran Bissell, Mrs. William W. Myers, L. V. F. Randolph, H. G. Phillips, F. C. Colton, Mrs. Sydney Titsworth, Mrs. M. E. Darby, Joseph Tate, John Bushnell, Andrew J. Gavett, E. L. Bonny, R. V. Carpenter, Raphael Yood, Mrs. Harriet Milliken. Additional lists of contributors will be published at intervals. BOROUGH CITIZENS HAVE SCARE OVER "EARTHQUAKE"

Several resident of the east end of the borough were amazed yesterday morning to hear a loud report, evidently as a result of a nearby explosion, and the toppling of dishes and pans from tables and shelves. Michael Higgins, of Franklin avenue, and Brooks Carson, of Norwood avenue, both report considerable damage to crockery about their homes, as a result of what is believed to be a blast at the stone quarry back of Scotch Plains. Whether this was actually the cause could not be ascertained.

One or two of the residents in the vicinity were of the opinion that it was a case of earthquake, but the report similar to that of an explosion does away with the earthquake theory. The whole matter up to this time is somewhat of a mystery, and the inhabitants of the borough are awaiting further development.

AIRMAN DROPS BOMB ON DOVER

German Flier Crosses North Sea, But Missile Lands in Garden Injuring None.

ALLIES ARE ADVANCING

French War Office Statement Takes Optimistic View of Situation—Kaiser Reported at Cologne—Activity at Antwerp.

London, Dec. 24 (Central News Cable).—Official announcement was made today that a German aeroplane flew over Dover this morning, but did no damage. A British aeroplane went after the German but was unable to reach it, the weather being foggy. The German aeroplane was first seen at 10:55 o'clock. It dropped a bomb, which fell into a garden. The German machine disappeared toward the North Sea.

A despatch to a news agency here from Paris says that a German taube aeroplane, which attempted to reach Paris on Sunday, was pursued by a French airman and compelled to make a descent at Pontoise.

A citizen of a neutral nation, who has just reached England after a trip into Germany, declares that there are now sixty-four Zeppelins in existence there. Some that he saw are filled with large floats like pontoons, fitted under the cars.

A despatch to the Daily Express from Amsterdam says the Germans at Brussels have withdrawn their demand for a new war contribution of $100,000,000, presumably owing to the protests of the American minister, who asserted that the levy violated the Hague convention.

Paris, Dec. 24.—Advances at several points in Belgium, and repulsing of the Germans elsewhere along the two hundred mile battle front in Paris, are reported in the official statement issued this afternoon by the French war office. It is also claimed that the Germans have been unable to make any gains in Russia. The statement reads as follows:

"Between the sea and the River Lys we have advanced through the work of sappers in the sand dunes, and have repulsed an attack before Lombartzyde. At Zwartelen, southwest of Ypres, we have captured a group of houses constituting the southern part of the village, in spite of very vigorous artillery fire on the part of the Germans and a counter attack on infantry.

"The Belgian army has pushed forward detachments on the right bank of the Yser River to the south of Dixmude, and has made effective a position at the heads of a bridge in this vicinity.

"In the region of Arras the fog continues and renders all operation impossible. To the east and southeast of Lasigny there have been artillery conflicts. In the region of the Aisne the Zouaves through the day brilliantly repulsed several attacks, and ended the day by remaining masters of the trenches captured on the twenty-first, near the Puisleins road.

"In the Champagne district we have made more effective the gains of the night before. In the region of Craonne and Rheins, near Perthes, all the counter attacks of the enemy upon the positions captured by us on the twenty-second have been repulsed.

"To the northeast of Mesnil les Hurlus we have seized 400 yards of German trenches and repulsed a counter attack. The Germans attempted to take the offensive at the hillside of Ville dur Toufve, but our artillery dispersed the enemy. We have gained a little ground in the forest of Grurie and repulsed a German attack toward Bagatelle.

"In the region of Verdun there have been no important operations, because of the fog. The enemy has made a counter attack, but without success. In the region of Ban du Sapt, northwest of St. Okie, our infantry, through a charge in force established itself in an advanced position. There is nothing to report in Upper Alsace.

"RUSSIA. On the Bzura River the Germans have maintained their position at two points to the north of Sochaozen. On the other hand they have been driven on the river to the southeast of that city.

"The attempts of the Germans to move forward to the east of Bolimov have been checked. They are trying desperately to cross the Rawka to the southeast of Skierniewicz. To the south of Rawka they are resisting stubbornly a Russian offensive movement launched from the north bank of the Pilicia River."

An appropriation of $1,700,000,000 was voted unanimously by the Chamber of Deputies yesterday. This will cover expenses during the next six months, including the cost of the war.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS' XMAS EXERCISES

Interesting Programs Are Presented by Children at the Theatre.

The Whittier School exercises were held in the local theatre at 10:30 o'clock this morning. Considering the weather and the fact that the exercises were held in the morning there was a goodly representation of mothers present. The program was as follows: "O Come All Ye Faithful," school; recitation, "The Week Before," Frances Costello; exercise, "Christmas Candles," second and third grade pupils; recitation, "Waiting for Santa," Irene Titus; recitation, "The Fur Tree's Secret," Elizabeth O'Leary; recitation, "Through the Telephone," Gertrude Dean; piano solo, Marion Houghtalling; recitation, "Canning Christmas," Helen Williams; recitation, "Story of the Unwise Men," Dora Whitford; recitation, "The Christmas Tree," William Murphy; vocal solo, "Coming of Santa," Joseph Forgach; exercise, "Letters to Santa Claus," six pupils of first year; song, "Silent Night," school; recitation, "Poor Santa Claus," Everett Ayers; recitation, "Christmas on the Train," Jessie Sutphen; exercise, "Keeping Christmas," fourth, fifth and sixth year pupils; piano solo, Mildred Mattis; recitation, "The Wonderful Tree," Phoebe Voorhees; exercise, "Around the Christmas Tree," first year pupils; recitation, Horace Vail; class song, Miss Herder's room; recitation, "The Strange Child's Christmas," Madeline Sutphen; recitation, "Two Little Stockings," Nancy Johnson; class song, "Message of Christmas Time," sixth grade; recitation, "Jes Fore Christmas," Joseph Gaff; recitation, "On Christmas Day," Sadie Kuntz; recitation, "A Christmas Legend," Ruth Walker; song, "Hark the Herold Angels Sing," school.

The Christmas program of the Lincoln School was held in the theatre at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Almost every seat in the house was taken and, although it took only an hour to complete the program every one surely must have felt repaid for coming out as the program was a most delightful one and could not have been improved upon. The first on the program was a recitation, "The Christmas Long Ago," by Mildred Deering. Then followed two other recitations, "A Christmas Wish," by Elizabeth Hamley, and "Christmas," by William Beck. After a piano solo "The Jolly Brothers," by Ronald Hamley, then came the feature of the program, the cantata, "The Spirit of Yuletide," by the school. The cantata commenced with the four heralds, Howard Dayton, Ernest Brown, Weimer Snyder and Edward Terry, with gold paper horns calling forth the frost fays and snow sprites; a dozen girls dressed entirely in white from the third and fourth grades, who sang, danced and formed various maneuvres and then took seats arranged for them on the stage in order to make room for the Icicle Elves, pupils from the second and third grades. After the Icicle Elves, the heralds brought forth six girls dressed in white, three of whom wore red ribbon waist sashes and three who wore green to represent Holly and Mistletoe. Annabel Hague spoke for the Hollies and Margaret Vail for the Mistletoes. The heralds then brought forth in turn Jack Frost, in the person of Stanley Field; the North Wind, impersonated by Percy Vroom; the Star Rays, young girls arrayed in white and wearing gilded stars, from the first and reception grades, and Cornelia Craig arrayed in white to represent the Spirit of Christmas. The singing of the care free, well trained voices was beautiful and the speaking and the execution of the difficult maneuvres all showed painstaking training upon the part of the teachers and a spirit of corporation on the part of the scholars. The boroughites will wait a very long time before they will hear a cantata that is better than the one that was given yesterday.

Scene from Selwyn & Co.'s Laugh Festival, "Twin Beds," at Plainfield Theatre, Monday Night, December 28.

It is both embarrassing and terrifying for a young wife to arise in the morning, slip her little feet into mules and run across the bedroom floor to the other twin bed and call "Harry" without any response from the sleeping figure. It is terrifying to pull down the sheet and discover on the pillow the head of an Italian tenor, with whom you have had a mild flirtation, still wearing a battered silk hat. Terror amounts to horror on the discovery that the singer is clad in your husband's favorite blue pajamas. While you are trying to extract an explanation, it causes a panic to hear your husband rattle the door knob and enter, as your quandom admirer seeks safety under your twin bed. You forget that it is breakfast time, that your husband has been all night at the club and is still in evening dress; your brain refuses to grasp aught but the terrifying fact that "Signor Monti" is under your twin bed. Here is a situation which the dramatist, Margaret Mayo, author of that other famous farce, "Baby Mine," has handled with extreme delicacy, but with the utmost humor. It is a succession of peals of merriment and spasms of laughter. The suggestion of the risque disappears in the cleverness of the dialogue and the rapid shift in unexpected situations. "Twin Beds" is still the laughing festival of New York and is in the sixth month of its carnival of merriment at the Fulton Theatre with, no signs of waning interest. Selywn & Company have acceeded to insistant demands to permit "Twin Beds" to be seen outside of New York, and to this end have selected a remarkably balanced cast and given the piece the production which is characteristic of all their efforts. "Twin Beds" will have its Plainfield premier at the Plainfield Theatre next Monday night. Seats now on sale.

HUNT VANISHED MILLIONS.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 24.—Search has been begun by the probate court for the vanished millions of Captain W. A. Neville, of "Jimtown" mining fame, who was at one time before his death worth six millions. When Neville died some nine years ago, his estate was supposed to have dwindled to a million. The last will of the gold pioneer, recently filed, was found only after nine years' search. It was at Jamestown, in the Hawhide mine, that the Neville stake was made. The Captain took $60,000 out of three buckets of ore. A vast fortune accumulated, but it evaporated in the same ratio. In the will just titled, Captain Neville cuts off his son with a $10 bequest, explaining that the son threatened his life and had secured many thousands from him.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB

one from each ward, and these consisted of: Theodore Martin, First ward; LeRoy J. Ellis, Second ward, Percy H. Stewart, Third ward: Frank Cullen, Fourth ward.

"An executive committee of fourteen active members was chosen and from the character of the men selected for these posts it was evident that those in attendance at last night's meeting purpose not only to inject new life into the club, but each member has obligated himself to put his shoulder to the wheel and give an impetus to the work which will have for its object the placing of the Democratic party on a firmer basis than it has ever enjoyed in Plainfield in the past.

Many complimentary nominations were in order before the real and more serious work of the meeting was set in motion. In every instance the recipients of these complimentaries almost insisted that their names be withdrawn, all realizing that in Mr Claybrook the club would be headed by an ideal president, one whose tact and personality would soon iron out any rough spots that might have existed in the past. As the only representative of his party enjoying a seat in Common Council, it was argued that Mr. Claybrook was the one man with a strong enough following to instill backbone and enthusiasm into those members whose drooping spirits all but succumbed immediately following the recent election. Mr. Claybrook was loathe to accept the post citing the many demands that already had been made upon his leisure hours in the cause of public duty. Mayor Stewart made such a ringing speech lauding Mr. Claybrook as the ideal candidate that he withdrew his objections and accepted the nomination in a graceful speech.

Mr. Taliaferro is well known to all Plainfielders as a man of purpose and above all as a man of wide acquaintance and a hustling and good business man. His election as treasurer insures ample sinews of war for the coming year. Mr. McCann needs no introduction here, for his devotion to the cause of Democracy in general and the Democratic Club in particular, places him in the forefront of the ranks of the party's workers.

Plans for the coming year were freely discussed, among them those for procuring more commodious and more comfortable quarters. The club meetings are to be made a feature of the future, and steps will be taken to make these meetings so atractive and so popular that a "full house" will always be assured.

The question of disbanding the club, informally discussed at a previous meeting, was taken up and by a rising and unanimous vote, it was demonstrated that such a step had never been seriously contemplated and that any publication to this effect was not only unwarranted, but without foundation of fact.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

For the convenience of its holiday patronage, Proctor's Theatre will be open continuously from 1 p. m. until 10:30 p. m. Four shows will be given during these hours, commencing at 1 o'clock, 3:30, 7 and 9. An excellent vaudeville bill is offered, composed of five high-class acts, and in addition there will be feature photo-plays. Taken all in all, Proctor's Theatre will be one of the best places in town to spend a part of Christmas, and the day will not be complete unless a visit has been paid this home of wholesome, clean amusement. Lovers of up-to-date and realistic moving pictures are reminded that the dramatization of Sir Gilbert Parker's great novel, "The Seats of the Mighty," will be shown at Proctor's this afternoon and tonight. Failure to see it means missing what is conceded to be the most sensational moving picture ever brought to Plainfield.

THE CHRISTMAS.

The world celebrates the Christmas—the birth of the Christ. And this is true even where the Christ is not much worshipped and where the Christian religion has but litttle foothold. Even if Christ be considered only as a man, what a wonderful man he was. What an example. The one human person against whom no wrong was ever laid, and whose short but wonderful life was absolutely ideal. He never wrote anything, he only talked. Yet His words are ever repeated and always tend to human uplift.

Maligned He never maligned others; crucified, but forgiving his malefactors; always good, but never upbraiding others for their errors only expressing regret that they knew not what they did; unlettered yet the wisest man who ever lived; simple yet strong; tender as a child and as sympathetic as a mother. He loved the human race and died because of his devotion to it.

Do you read the story of the child Jesus and the man Christ? Oh! that this race would read it more. No man ever arose from the reading of that life but he was ever humanely better for it. No other had such absolute purity, tenderness and love. Was he only human? Can you rise from the reading and feel so? If you can, even then you get a wonderful satisfaction and benefit He went about doing good. That is the whole story, that is the lesson of the life if you only consider it from the human side.

But does Christmas mean even more than this to you? To many it does. It is the blessed time. And if Christ is to us not only the man Christ, but the Divine Christ, how much more does Christmas mean. The shout of the Angels on the plains of Bethlehem was a glorious shout. The birth of the child Jesus was a redeeming birth. The death of the man Christ was a saving death. Never was there a Christmas when we should be more glad for the advent of the one who heralded "peace on earth good will to men." Oh, that the natives of the earth today, might drink in the full import of the fellowship of man in Christ. That would bring the end of wars, the full and permanent entry of peace.

God speed the day when all shall give heed to the Prince of Peace. Let us all be thankful for Christmas and be happy in the thought of what our civilization is, under Christian beliefs, and what the happiness of the world might be if His principles dominated the whole earth.

Herbert E. Parker's decision to leave the local Young Men's Christian Association, to accept the secretaryship at the Passaic association carries with it the regret of hundreds of residents of this city. Mr. Parker, in addition to the splendid work he has done at the Y. M. C. A. here has been much identified with the various civic interests of Plainfield, and every thing that he has undertaken has been well done. While we are sorry to learn of his intended departure we wish him all the success in the world in the new and larger field which he has chosen, and hope to hear of his continued success there.

Self preservation is one of the first laws of nature. Therefore, safety first. Safety and the preservation of one's self depends largely upon his ability and willingness to co-operate with those who, like himself, go to make up the community in which he lives. The fact that the local merchants, shopkeepers and business men help us to pay the running expenses of our city is sufficient reason within itself to justify our patronizing home trade. We must preserve the community if we preserve ourselves.

Now that the Community Christmas tree is assured for the city, would it not be well for the Shade Tree Commission to consider the advisability of planting a few more evergreen trees in the City Park. For some time, the older trees have been disappearing without a sufficient number being planted to take the places of the veterans.

Don't fail to visit city park tonight. See the lighting of the Community Christmas tree, and get a little of the cheer to be provided by the singing of carols. It should be one of the most impressive events ever held in Plainfield.

A popular educator, and one of North Plainfield's well known citizens, has prepared the editorial for Saturday. H. C. Krebs, superintendent of schools for Somerset county, will be the writer.

New Year's resolutions may now be framed. May we suggest a renewal of acquaintance with some of those who we have not met since the first of last January.

$1,353 raised for the Community Christmas, double the amount of one year ago! That's another evidence that the "City of Good Will Makes Good!"

Taxes off his mind and Christmas shopping practically over, father can now save his spare pennies until Easter hats are in order.

DISCUSS BURNETT IMMIGRATION BILL

Effect of Illiterate Foreigner on Industrial Conditions Considered by Craftsmen.

The Burnett Immigration Bill now pending before Congress, and to which United States Senator James E. Martine, of this city, has expressed himself as being opposed, was discussed to some length last evening at the Building Trades Council. The effect of the coming illiterate immigrant to this country from the old world upon labor and industrial conditions of the nation was the point in issue during the discussion. The subject will be further discussed at the meeting next Wednesday evening.

House Bill 8593, dealing with the regulation of scaffolding and elevators in buildings in Washington, as passed by the House of Representatives last June, was read and discussed. It was decided to ask the State Legislature to pass a similar bill for the protection of the building mechanics of the State.

The representatives in the body from Painter's Union, No. 480, reported that a working agreement with the master painters covering a period of two years had been signed.

ALLEGE UNION ELECTION SYSTEM IS DEFECTIVE

Elizabeth, Dec. 24—Defects in voting on the ballot in use under the Geran Election Law discovered during the recount in this city has led the Union County Republican Committee to take steps with the three Assemblymen and Senator-elect from this county looking to the amendment of the law in this respect.

Approximately twenty per cent. of the ballots cast in this city were thrown out. Separate ballots for referendums, elimination of the "X" method and the substitution of some other mark, as well as more privileges for the voter, are suggested.

BORO BOYS THINK THEY HAVE A FIRST BASE "FIND"

North Plainfield High School baseball notables are already having some luck in filling the vacant positions left by those leaving the school last June. The latest news is that Harold Meade, who recently enrolled as a member of the senior class, coming from Philadelphia, is very capable of holding down the position at first base. This position was played last year by Ashley Burner, and since he graduated from school last June Meade will have a fine chance of showing his ability when the time comes for try-outs.

The first base position has been practically the only place on the team which a man had not yet been picked for, although Van Mater played first in the opening part of last year's baseball season, but he is a valuable outfielder and is needed more for that position.

Cable)—The Kaiser arrived at Cologne yesterday, according to a despatch from that city. He was accompanied by his entire staff and is proceeding to the front.

The Telegraaps Roorendeal correspondent wires that there is great activity along the Dutch frontier of Belgium in the province of Antwerp. All defensive works constructed by the Belgians north and northeast of Antwerp are being considerably reinforced by the Germans, who are digging new trenches behind the old Belgian works between Heide and Brasschaet, a distance of 15 kilometres. The population is forced to work in these trenches at three francs daily. They could only be used against an attack from Dutch territory. The trenches and railway lines into Holland are rigorously guarded.

The newspapers of Germany are making much capital of the fact that one of the enemies submarines had been sunk. The Deutsches Tagezeitung says that the sinking of a submarine by the Austrian coast batteries is without precedent.

Despite the fact that part of this message has been struckout by the English censors, it is evident that it refers to an action between the allied fleet in at the southern tip of the Peninsular, or in the region of the Adriatic and the Austrian fortifications either at Pola or Trieste.

Three new forty-two centimetre gune arrived at Cologne, yesterday, from the Krupp works at Essen, to be sent to Thorn to be used in the advance against Warsaw. Forces of the Landstrum passed through Cologne all of yesterday numbering 58,000. Thirty-eight Russian guns, which had been captured in the eastern theatre of the war have arrived in Essen for repairs.

Berlin, Dec. 24. (via wireless)—The official statement was given out here today

"In the western theatre of war the enemy did not renew his attacks in the neighborhood of Nieuport yesterday. At Bixchoote, in the engagement Tuesday, we took 230 prisoners. The enemy is again inactive in the neighborhood of Camp Mhalons. In the region of Suain, and Perthes, infantry attacks by the enemy followed fierce artillery attacks yesterday, which were all repulsed. Trenches which had been retaken by us here were abandoned because of the continuous artillery fire directed against them. We took more than 100 prisoners in the figuting in this district

"In the eastern theatre of war, we resumed the offensive, advancing from the Niezenburg-Soldau line. After several days of fighting, we have repulsed the enemies' attack against Mlawa and the Russian positions there have been taken. More than 1,000 prisoners were taken in the battles. On the right bank of the Pilica and southeast of Tomaszon, the Russians have delivered a number of violent attacks, but the Teutonic allies repulsed all with heavy loss to the enemy. Further south, the situation is generally unchanged.

Rome, Dec. 24 (Central News Cable)—Advices from Petrograd state that the German and Austrian offensive movement everywhere has been broken. It is further stated that the Russian advance guard has again arrived in the vicinity of Gracow.

Petrograd, Dec. 24—A new German strategical move is seen in the massing of troops on the Bzura. This force will be available either for the battle before Warsaw or for a movement to the north across the Vistula, which would threaten the Russian army that was pushed forward there across the East Prussian border.

DETECTIVES SHOT AT MEN STEALING COAL

Investigating One Case Sergeant Higgins Unearths Another Outrage.

Bringing to mind several outrages commited here several years ago by railroad detectives, officers in the employ of the Central Railroad were this morning caught in the act of firing on men stealing coal from a car in the vicinity of Liberty street by Sergeant Maurice Higgins. Higgins had gone to the West End after being informed that a boy was running around the streets in that section with blood flowing from his arm. Rumor had it that an attempt had been made to murder his family and that he was the only one who managed to escape alive. Residents in the vicinity of the boys' home, 664 South Second street, were in a high state of anxiety and when Higgins appeared on the scene he was ushered into the house.

He found Felice Lista, a nine-year-old boy, standing in the middle of the hall with blood oozing from his wrist. The lad told Higgins that he had been chased from an empty house near his home and in making his escape had tripped on some scrap iron and cut himself. He was taken to the office of Dr. Levinson. Rumors of murder proved groundless.

In returning to headquarters from the South Second street house Higgins was attracted by the sound of pistol shots near Liberty street. An investigation revealed two men fleeing from the railroad bank. They had been taking coal from a car on a siding and were swooped down upon by the detectives. Several years ago a coal stealer was badly hurt in this way and only last year a man was killed for similar depredations at the Lehigh Valley yards in South Plainfield.

RETIRED CAPTAIN INJURED.

Christian Frederickson, retired police captain of the local force, was rendered unconscious yesterday afternoon on Berkeley avenue near Leland when he slipped on a patch of ice in the road. Frederickson was leading a horse from a nearby blacksmith shop to his home when the accident occurred. Chief Kiely was summoned and he in turn called Dr. C. B. Lufburrow. The injured man was removed to his home where he was revived and is said to be resting comfortably today.

HONOR OLD AND YOUNG ON CHRISTMAS DAY

ESPECIALLY in the southern part of France great preparation is made for Christmas, which begins the 4th of December with planting St. Barbara's grain. Women fill plates with wheat, which are well watered and then put in the sunshine or in warm ashes to germinate. If St. Barbara's grain grows well or fil so will the coming harvest be. Later comes the cutting of the Yule log. The oldest man of the family cuts a fruit bearing tree—almond, apple, oak or pear. The grandfather uses the ax, and then the son finishes the work. The log is five feet long and is expected to burn, if covered all night, from Christmas eve to New Year's day. Before the eating of the great supper the youngest members of the family light the log.

The little gayly painted "creche" and other small, inexpensive clay figures are found in every home. Before dark Christmas eve the children go out to look for the magi. They carry with them confectionery for the magi, figs for the servants and hay for the tired camels. They also put up sheaves for the birds, and the wealthy send out donkeys laden with bread, meat, figs and almonds, which are sold for a few cents to the poor. The nougat pie or pudding of almonds and honey is on the table for the great supper.

GET ALL THE FUN YOU CAN OUT OF CHRISTMAS.

Get all the fun you can out of Christmas. Plunge into the atmosphere right away. Smuggle packages up and down stairs and hide them in the "old fashioned" hiding places.

And remember everybody, not with the substantial presents you have thought it imperative to give, but with a jar of jelly, a piece of fruit cake or book or magazine cover made from bits of linen your scrap bag has furnished, a dainty sachet made from silk scraps or any one of a hundred other simple things you can work on at odd times. These are the sort of presents which will restore the old time thrills that have been well nigh lost in the loveless gift giving of recent years.

Teach your children that Christmas time is a giving time as well as a getting time. Teach them particularly to think of children whose nests are less downy than their own. There are so many such. And there is no more tragic thing in a child's life than to be forgotten on Christmas day. Is there any picture on earth so appealing as to see a child at a shop window with only a windowpane between his pinched nose and pointing finger and a high piled world of dolls and drums and skates and picture books? Can you imagine a keener pang, a more sorrowful thing, than the unanswered prayer of a little child at Christmastide?

HAZEL DAWN.

"The Debutante," with Hazel Dawn in the stellar role of Elaine, continues most prosperously at the Knickerbocker Theatre, Broadway and Thirty-eighth street, New York.

Miss Dawn, lately elevated to stardom, carries her new honors with grace and charm, retaining her youthful gaiety that marked her performances in "The Pink Lady" and "The Little Cafe."

In her present role she sings, dances and plays the violin to the complete satisfaction of her host of admirers. The score of the operetta is by Victor Herbert and contains several of the very best numbers that have been given to the light opera stage by that distinguished composer.

The book and lyrics are by Harry B. Smith and Robert B. Smith. Among the members of the large company assembled by Manager John C. Fisher are Will West, William Danforth, Stewart Baird, Wilmuth Merkyl, Robert G. Pitkin, Thomas Reynolds, J. Abbott Worthley, Zoe Barnett, Maude Odell and Sylvia Jason. Magnificent stage settings, gorgeous costumes and the present of a chorus of fifty unusually beautiful girls are among the many attractions of this most attractive production. Matinees this week will be given today, Christmas Day and Saturday.

MOULTON WINS MATCH.

Harry Moulton advanced another step in the Y. M. C. A. handicap pool tournament this morning, when he defeated Al Brynairski in the second round by the score of 5 to 24. Moulton started from scratch and gave his opponent a lead of fifteen balls on fifty. The winner made the high run of the tournament, which is ten and will now meet Bell in the semi-finals. H. E. Parker acted as referee of the match.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

WILL CONNIE MACK WELD ANOTHER CHAMPION TEAM? HE'S DONE IT BEFORE WITH FEW STARS; 'TIS THOUGHT HE CAN DO SO AGAIN

Left to right, top: Barry, Baker and Schang. Bottom: Bush (left) and Connie Mack.

Connie Mack's wonderful machine has been badly broken up, but critics believe the great baseball general stands a good chance of winning the American league pennant again next year. Bressler and Busi prob ably will be his star twirlers in 1915. The rest of the lineup probably will be like this: Davies, left field; Strunk center field; Thompson, right field; Baker, third base; Barry, shortstop; Murphy, second base; Schang, first base; McAvoy, catcher.

WILL THIS BE THE ATHLETIC LINEUP OPENING DAY, 1915?

Don't be surprised if this is the lineup Manager Mack puts in the field on the opening day of the 1915 campaign:

Strunk, center field.
Thompson, right field.
Baker, third base.
Barry, shortstop.
Murphy, second base.
Schang, first base.
McAvoy, catcher.
Bressler, pitcher.

While fans in other American League cities have been expressing great satisfaction over the breaking up of Connie Mack's wonderful machine, Connie himself has been saying nothing but sawing wood.

The time to laugh best is at the last. Mack has developed pennant winners before with few stars, and critics who have the most discernment are pretty sure that what he has done before he can do again.

Startling changes in the Athletic lineup for 1915 have been announced; others are likely to follow, especially in view of the fact that the Feds probably have annexed two more of Connie's stars, McInnes and Lapp.

In 1908, Connie ripped up a veteran lineup and started 1909 with a team of kids, Baker, Collins, McInnes, Barry, Lapp, Strunk and several of the pitchers making their start at that time in one bunch. Everyone knows what a wonderful success that team was from the start.

Connie plans to send Davies and Thompson, his young outfielders, into his regular lineup next year. Although they are a great pair of youngsters, fandom can scarcely believe that they will replace Oldring and Murphy. Eddie, however, is slated to succeed Collins at second base. The fact remains that Murphy is a better infielder than outfielder, and Connie intends that he shall prove it to American League fans.

It is reported that Jack McInnes will hurdle to the Indianapolis Federals, and if he does Wallie Schang will be stationed at first base. In the game every day, Schang would be just as successful a hitter as Mac, is a better and faster thrower, a perfect handler of thrown balls, and lighter and speedier on his feet. And if Jack Lapp also jumps to the outlaws, or even if he remains with the Mackmen, McAvoy, secured from Baltimore, will do the bulk of the backstopping work, this, of course, being contingent on whether McInnis jumps.

Bush and Bressler will be the Bender and Plank of next year's pitching staff, with Shawkey, Pennock and Wyckoff up to the mark all the time, this latter task developing on Ira Thomas.

STRIKES AND SPARES

Columbus Club Alleys.

Frank McInerney, Sr., came in for the individual high score honors on the Columbus Club shutes last night, spilling 216 wooden images in the middle contest. His pinning was good in all three games, recording a 174 in the initial setto and 164 in the final.

After annexing the first combat in sensational fashion the Quails fell thirty-two pins below par in the second and came out in the lead with a seventy point margin in the last. All of the engagements afforded the "Rooters' Club" some spicy entertainment, however, and there were plenty of incidents to create a rumpus over.

The "Rooters' Club," while only sparsely represented in number, was there in volume and kept up a constant din in the first and third encounters. In the second contest they remained neutral, the result being a verdict for the Hawks.

Horseshoe luck pursued the Quails last night, and many and varied were the reasons assigned for the absence of the usual jinx. One of these was John Duffy' invention of a new kind of a bird. He scribbled the name of the cellar champs on the scoring board as "Qaills." Yougottahandit to him for originality.

Duffy has served faithfully in the role of lightning calculator and human adding machine for the club and the star pinners in the feathered league are now passing the hat around to raise a fund for providing a correspondence course in spelling for "Duff."

Vincent, alias "Mike" Meaney came in for his share of the laurel picking in the games last night. Meaney probably set up more strikes in the triple engagement than any other individual on the lanes and although he fell into some bad splits his bowling on the whole was good Meaney started off by ringing up a trio of strikes, then fell down to a spare and followed this up with another strike. He then took a tumble and went completely to pieces in the remaining frames.

You have to keep your nerve to pin on the Columbus chutes. Plenty of joshing is handed out by the "Rooters' Club" and the members don't miss any compliments of the personal variety when they are making their presentations.

Meaney's sudden shift from the sensational verge to the role of a mere bowler may be attributed largely to the fact that the rabid rooters got his "goat."

Making his first appearance as a pin splitter on the Columbus chutes last night, Frank McInerney, Jr., taking Fred Hillman's place as leader-off man on the Hawks, showed up in fine style. Frank looks like one of the best spare bowlers in the club and demonstrated his consistency in his debut.

Mike Moynihan, captain of the Quails, did some consistent spilling in the trio of contests last night. Scores of 202, 163 and 199 fall far short of being poor.

They tell us a regular game produces twelve times as much noise as we were treated to on the club chutes last night. We'd hate to be around when the full volume was set in action. Maxim silencers have been ordered as a means of doing away with protests from peaceable citizens of Grove street, who want to get some sleep during the nights the tourney is in action.

"Water-Can" Doyle was another pinner who romped into the limelight last night. He rang up a 191 in the second and came through with a 189 in the third.

Guterman, pointed out to us as the club's star pin artist, failed to live up to his reputation, last night. A 140 tally fails to savor of championship possibilities.

"WHITE HOPE" ROUTED.

Another would-be "White Hope" was eliminated last night at the Empire A. C. when Gunboat Smith knocked out Tom McCarthy in four rounds. The result came as a surprise after McCarthy had held a commanding lead for three rounds. The end came so quickly that few of the spectators realized it.

LEAGUE CHAMPIONS GIVEN BIG SCARE BY SPEEDY LEAL SQUAD

Private School Interscholastic Leaguers Sprang a Big Surprise in Opening Tilt—Boroughites Had to Travel the Limit to Come Out on Top—Battle Waged in a Clean-cut and Interesting Fashion—Score Always Close With Winners Acting as Pace Setters.

Exhibiting a calibre of basketball such as has been foreign to teams representing Leal School in the past five years, Coach Wardlaw's aggregation of Interscholastic Leaguers sprang the surprise of the year on the Y. M. C. A. court, yesterday afternoon, holding the speedy North Plainfield High School quintet to a three-point verdict, the final tally favoring the boroughites by a score of 23 to 20. The three-point difference in the respective scores falls far short of being indicative of just how closely the struggle was waged. Leal battled tooth and nail against every phase of the game that has brought success to a North Plainfield contingent. Brilliant tactics that have aided the "Canadians" in vanquishing rivals of the highest scholastic ranking were quelched by the light but versatile private school aggregation and to say that the result was a veritable victory for the West Front street youths would only be giving them their just dues.

Leal's took command of the situation at the start and although they drew first blood the boroughites soon retaliated and from that point until the final whistle accepted their responsibilities as pace-setters. Leal's good showing was not due to the fact that North Plainfield was off form. On the contrary, the borough clan was in its best trim for a court encounter. Wonderful smoothing out and mastery of the rudiments of the pastime has brought the cellar champions up to a level of real merit for the title. The former "fillers-in" in the league must be reckoned with until the curtain goes down. What they will do to Plainfield, of course, is a matter of speculation at this time, but from indications very prominent in yesterday's game the future does not look any too bright for the red and blue combination.

Leal's fighters swapped point for point with the boroughites. Seldom did the score diverge more than a basket or two and in many instances the teams were really battling on even terms, for the decision was anybody's up to the last chirp of the whistle.

For a contest of such a nature where so much appeared to be at stake a wonderful display of good sportsmanship and keen but clean rivalry was in evidence. The fouls that were called were of the technical variety and but few were levied for intentional infractions. The contest was clean-cut, swift and full of thrills. The honors were about even, the final three points, of course, being as big as a mountain in the eyes of borough cohorts.

To the guards must be attributed the bulk of the credit for the closeness with which hostilities were waged. It was a battle on the defensive rather than the offensive and had Leal's taken advantage of as many of its foul attempts as did North Plainfield the final score would have been reversed in favor of the private school youths.

Conroy led the basket getting for the victors and he was well supported by Van Mater and Townley. Van Mater's ability to get the ball away from the pivot position played a big part in the decision and the teamwork of the boroughites centered closely around him. Hebert and Abrams both came in for their share of the laurels at guard, doing some phenomenal work in holding in check such crack goal getters as Stewart and Dickerson.

Captain Stewart and Dickerson, his running mate at forward, were conspicuous factors in the losers' game. Schneider, although outjumped, played a prominent role in the goal getting department and gives prospects of becoming a big factor in the race this year. Harrington and Garrigues both loomed up well in the guard berths.

Crows	3	6	.333	953
Quail	3	6	.333	876

The Hawks lost a good chance to tie the Robins for first place in the Columbus Club five-man tournament, last night, and were taken down one peg by the Quail, who captured two of the three games. The Hawks were tied for second place before last night's tilt and now are tied for third position with the Parrots. By taking a pair last night the Quail advanced from individual holders of last place to a triple tie with the Doves and Crows for the cellar pennant.

The Quail outplayed their opponents in the first and last rolls, although most of the scores were low. Cannon led the Quail attack with a 201 at the start and Moynihan put on the finishing touches with a 202. Frank McInerney, Sr., made the highest score for the Hawks, which was 174, and Meany was second with a 167. The scores of the first game was 849 to 773. McInerney's score helped greatly in taking the game to the Hawks' side when he made a 216 and his teammates bowled much better than in the first game. Doyle and Cannon were the high men on the Quail and there was a difference of 32 points in the scores.

The Quail won the odd roll with 70 points to spare, the scores being 876 to 806 and not one of the players went up to the two hundred mark, Moynihan falling one point short of this.

KEARNY H. S. QUINTET WINS OVER WESTFIELD

Coach Sargeant's Kearny High School basketball team defeated the Westfield High School quintet at Kearny yesterday afternoon by a score of 29 to 22. The game was hard fought, as the score shows, and at the end of the first half the Kearny boys had but a two-point lead on the delegation from Westfield, the score reading 18 to 16. The passing of the Kearny boys was far superior to that of their opponents and it was really the passing that won out for Coach Sargeant's team. Cook and Margette played best for Kearny, while Trayner was the star for Westfield. The lineup follows:

The Danes are going in for boxing no doubt attracted by Bat Nelson's career. Copenhagen sports have sent to America for an instructor.

The International League has not yet succeeded in shifting Jersey City and Baltimore clubs to Richmond and Syracuse. The season will be 140 games, starting April 27.

The Champion Billiard Players League has suspended until January 4. After the holidays the league schedule will be resumed on the circuit.

New Orleans has hot fight rivalry, due to the ousting from California. Tom McCarey is the butter-in, and Totorich is defending his cultivated field.

Jess Willard is burdened with a lawsuit. Charles Cutler, the wrestler, wants $2,500 for training him, claiming he put Willard into the game, under agreement by which they were to divide the spoils.

Snowy Baker raised $10,000 for war relief in one boxing mill at Sydney. All he lacks is boxers; there are fans in profusion.

"Babe" White, the massive Syracuse football player, is entered for the shotput at the A. A. U. meet on Tuesday night.

Pat Moran is resting at Fitchburg, Mass. He says that he is ready for the big job handling the Phillies the coming season.

Shaefer, the Senators' court jester, is canned. He was an ornament and pinch hitter for five years.

Tommy Burns, former "White Hope," met with an accident in Wyoming that has wrenched him severely.

Chicago athletes are expected to compete in the junior indoor championships at Brooklyn next Tuesday.

The big Christmas marathon at San Francisco promises to develop some classy cross-country speed.

McGraw and Comiskey will take their outfits to South America on a chartered vessel next winter.

Willie Ritchie made $123,000 while he held the title; Freddie Welsh has gleaned $50,000 since he became champ, and Jack Johnson's total to date is $313,000.

An unusual thing is praise from a Boxing Commission. George Chancy and Benny Kaufman have been lauded by the Cincinnati Commission. Panning and suspension are the usual handouts.

Azure pinners, of Cranford, of the Masonic bowling league, entered the percentage column for the first time last night when they won their first two games, after losing an even dozen to various opponents. They chose for their victims the Jerusalem team, of this city, and the match took place on the Second street alleys. The local five won the first game and it looked at first as if the Azure team would not get out of the losing rut. By winning these two games the Cranford aggregation changes places with the local team and Jerusalem goes into last place. Both teams have won the same number of games and Jerusalem has lost three more.

The scores of the game which went to the credit of the home team were 771 to 701, but Jerusalem fell down to 695 in the second game while their opponents hit the pins for 774. The Cranford team went this score one hundred points higher in the last and deciding game while the local men totalled 786. Houghout made high score for the night in the last game when he chalked up a 203. The scores follow:

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

What Happened After Daddy's First Theater.

I Had Stolen the Spool of Thread.

"DADDY, tell us a story about when you were a little boy," said Evelyn as she and Jack ran to daddy for the evening story.

"Do you like to hear about daddy's 'cut-ups?'" asked daddy laughingly.

"Yes!" cried both children.

"Very well," said daddy. "I'll tell you about what happened after my first theater.

"I was a very little boy, about five, I think, when one day mother and father took me for quite a long journey in a carriage. We rode nearly all day, and when we arrived at my aunt's house I was very tired and sleepy and went to bed directly.

"But the next day I was rested and restless, too, I suppose, so my aunt proposed to my mother that they should take me to a matinee. There was an amateur production of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' on at the town hall.

"I was immensely excited, I remember, and waited by the gate until mother and my aunt appeared, when I fairly danced down the street.

"We arrived at the hall, a big barnlike structure, and I shall always remember the stage as it appeared that day. We were a little late, and the place was darkened, and upon this brilliantly lighted stage was a beautiful little golden haired girl standing with her hand on the knee of a big black man.

"'Little Eva and Uncle Tom,' mother whispered to me, and then as I was breathlessly listening there bounced in upon the stage the funniest human being I had ever seen.

"Topsy, of course. Well, I had no eyes for any other person but that nobby headed little darky. Uncle Tom's death left me unaffected; Eva's death also, but everything Topsy did took hold of my imagination with a grip I find it difficult to account for.

"Topsy danced through my dreams that night, and the next day I set about imitating her.

"I did all sorts of outlandish things, but the climax came toward evening. My aunt was sewing and continued to miss her thread all the time, but when she would look for the spool I would give her a needleful of thread.

"After awhile mother said, 'I wonder where sonny gets the thread?'

"And then they discovered what I had done. I had stolen the spool.

"Mother spanked me, and I howled: 'Topsy stole, and everybody laughed! Why do you spank me?'

"But I never imitated Topsy any more in that particular way."

The Wife's Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Gaston, if you are determined to go, I will sell the cattle father gave me to help you get the money to go with," said his wife. "But it does seem as if after all father has done for us, you might be a little more patient with him," and pretty Mrs. Young laid her hand on the arm of a broad-shouldered, upstanding young fellow, who stood with his hands deep in his trousers' pockets.

"I tell you, Marcia, your father and I can never be friends while we live side by side. I am grown up and he treats me like a boy. He finds fault with every last thing I do. I am afraid he will get such an active devil at work in me that I'll be mean and unreasonable to my little wife," and he swept her off her feet into his strong arms. "I was irritable only this morning," he continued. "Let's go away together into the broad world. I can support my wife. I am sure of that if I can get a start, and the cattle would give it to me. I'll pay it back, every cent, just as soon as I can."

"I'll go where you want me to go," she said, laying her head against the shaggy coat.

So it was settled. The cattle were sold; the furniture stored, to be sent for later, and an automobile stage route was bought, running between Owanto and Lacona. The purchase included the automobile and gasoline to run the machine a month.

For a while all went well with the stage business. There were plenty of tourists to carry and the free life in the open just suited the high spirited young man. One night they were awakened by a wild cry and the whole world seemed one red glare. Gaston sprang to the window. "It's the gasoline," he gasped, and seizing his bathrobe he dashed down the stairs.

The gasoline had been stored behind a hill, near the house, and was so isolated that nothing else was endangered. "There's a hundred dollars gone," Gaston said gloomily when he returned. "I paid out nearly all I had on hand for that only a few days ago. I can't think what I'll do. I must pay cash to get more."

"Can't you send to your folks for money, dear? They never have done anything for you since you left home," suggested his wife.

"I suppose I must, but I hate to most awfully," he answered.

But there was no other way out and the money was borrowed. By the time that debt was paid and the living expenses, and a big bill for tires and general repair work, the pocket book was empty again. Then the travel began to drop off and the landlord raised the price of their board to help him come out even.

Just at this time a traveler came to the hotel who was so anxious to reach Laguna that night, that he offered Gaston $20 to take him over. It was a long run; to go and return would take six hours and the roads over the mountains required daylight to be at all safe. His finances were in such shape, however, that he decided to risk it.

He was running slowly on his return trip when, on rounding a curve, he smashed into a great rock that had rolled down the mountain side. His lights were put out and his machine was disabled. There was nothing for it but to wait for daylight, wrapped in the blanket.

When morning revealed the extent of the damage it confirmed Gaston in his resolution, reached in the night, to own himself defeated and go back to the farm.

Marcia, who had silently suffered torture of homesickness, was wild with joy, when told of the decision.

Both parents were at the station to meet them. Gaston marched manfully up to Marcia's father and said: "The prodigal has returned. I hope he has had a little of his cocksureness knocked out of him. Forgive me the past and try me again."

A kindly smile lit the father's face as he shook hands heartily.

"Oh, how happy I am to be back!" said Marcia, squeezing her mother's hand as they rode home. "I never realized how beautiful this country was before."

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

In the illustration is shown a double breasted blouse carried out in one of the new broche cottons trimmed with silk. A smart little blouse could be made from crepe de chine or from pongee or foulard, with skirt to match.

For a simpler costume cotton crape or eponge would be pretty or one of the lawns or pongees that are always charming. Crepe de chine or messaline satin in a golden color is worn with white lace frills and white lace vest, and perhaps a fall of lace over the collar would make an exceedingly handsome waist to be worn over a white skirt. Whether the sleeves be long or short is entirely a matter of individual choice.

For the medium size the blouse will require three and a half yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, with five-eighths for collar, cuffs and belt.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 34 to 40 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 7931, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

ANNIVERSARY OF TREATY OF GHENT

The American People Have Enjoyed a Century of Peace.

Washington, Dec. 24.—America's Christmas present 100 years ago was the Treaty of Ghent, which put an end to the two years' conflict with England known as the War of 1812. The treaty of peace was signed in the little Holland town of Ghent on Christmas Eve, December 24, 1814, and it was heartily welcomed in England as in the United States.

Although one of the signers of the peace contract is now at war in the greatest European struggle of all time, the day was not passed without exchange of felicitations between the heads of the two great English-speaking nations. The centennary was a big day in diplomatic circles, for much has been learned of treaties since the little gathering at Ghent adjusted the differences of the war a century ago. The Treaty of Ghent has stood the test of time. Under it have been settled many disputes of the greatest importance to the two big nations. It is hailed as a great landmark in international intercourse.

News did not travel so rapidly a hundred years ago as it does today with the facilities of the cable and the wireless, and instead of reading of their gift on Christmas morning, it was six weeks later before the inhabitants of the Atlantic coast cities learned that the war which had ruined American commerce was ended. The first news of the signing of the treaty was brought by Charles Carrol, one of the secretaries of the American Commissioners, who arrived in New York on the British sloop of war Favorite, February 11.

"It has come," said one of the newspapers of the day, on Monday February 13, for even a treaty of peace did not bring out a Sunday extra, "and the public expressions of tumultous joy and gladness that spontaneously burst forth from all ranks and degrees of people on Saturday evening, without stopping to inquire the conditions, evinced how really sick at heart they were of war, that threatened to wring from them the remaining means of subsistance.

"The public exhilaration showed itself in the illumination of most of the windows in the lower part of Broadway in less than twenty minutes after Mr. Carrol arrived at the City Hotel. The street itself was illumined by candles carried in the hands of a large concourse of the populace; the city resounded in all parts with the joyful cry of 'A peace! A peace!' and it was for nearly two hours difficult to make one's way through unnumbered crowds of persons."

"It is wonderful to see the change produced in a few hours in the city of New York," was the comment a day later. "In no place has the war been more felt nor proved more disastrous, putting us back in our growth at least ten years, and no place in the United States will more experience the reviving blessings of peace."

The news spread from town to town until it had reached the furthermost settlements North, South and West. Celebrations were held to mark the arrival of the gratifying news, and the bitterness which had characterized the feelings of Americans toward their parent country at once turned to joy.

Plans were made in New York for a celebration and illumination on Washington's Birthday, February 22 but owing to a severe snowstorm the festivities were postponed until February 27. John Jacob Astor illuminated his mansion, which stood where the Astor House, a big hotel, was later erected. City Hall, which had recently been opened, presented a glorious appearance. "Figure to yourself the most magnificent building in the United States in one blaze of light, from basement to the top of the cupola, all arranged with taste and in perfect order, and you have a faint conception of the reality," wrote a New York editor. The Shakespeare Tavern, kept by the famous actor, Hopkinson, showed figures of Columbia and Brittania shaking hands. This peace celebration was long remembered in New York, for nothing so elaborate had ever been done before.

BISHOP-ELECT MATTHEWS IS FORTY-EIGHT YEARS OLD

Very Rev. Paul Matthews, bishop-elect of the Episcopal diocese of New Jersey, who will be consecrated next month, is an Ohioan by birth, and it was in Ohio where he achieved fame in the religious world as a forceful speaker and successful church organizer. He was born at Glendale, O., December 25, 1866. His college training was at Princeton, and he completed his ecclesiastical studies at the General Theological Seminary, New York. He was made a deacon in 1890, and a priest of the Protestant Episcopal Church in 1891. After assisting at the Church of the Advent in Cincinnati, he went to Omaha, in charge of St. Paul's and St. John's churches. In 1896 he accepted a call to St. Luke's, Cincinnati, which pulpit he held until he was chosen dean of St. Paul's Cathedral in Cincinnati, in 1904. Two years ago he became dean of the Cathodral of Our Merciful Savior at Faribault, Minn.

Dean Matthews will be consecrated as bishop of New Jersey next month, and Bishops Tuttle and Vincent will take part in the ceremonies. The bishop-elect once declined election as bishop coadjutor of Milwaukee.

Dean Matthews married Miss Elsie Proctor, of Glendale, in 1897. They will soon take up permanent residence in New Jersey.

THE NATIONAL PALACE MINUS CELEBRATION

Mexico City, Dec. 24—The National Palace was minus its holiday yesterday. The scene of diplomatic splendor which last year celebrated the birthday of Huerta, was lacking at the big palace, which echoed with hurrying footsteps bent on negotiations to settle the more pressing affairs of state. The former companions and supporters of Huerta informally celebrated the birthday of their deposed dictator, but officially, Huerta is eliminated in the flurry of the new contentions that are threshing out the factional claims of aspirants to fill his boots.

A year ago yesterday, the National Palace revived the custom begun by President Diaz of celebrating the birthday of the chief executive. Huerta was 59 years old on that day, and he planned an elaborate celebration of his three-score anniversary this year.

Before daylight military bands marched up and down in front of the Palace one year ago, serenading the chief, who during the afternoon received the congratulations of committees representing all departments of the government. The final event of the day's celebration was a reception to the diplomatic corps, when all the foreign representatives were received.

It was 60 years ago yesterday that Victoriano Huerta was born in an humble cottage in the village of Colotland in the State of Jalisco. From a parish priest he gained his early education, and became proficient as a writer and mathematician. Opportunity came his way in 1871, when General Cuerra came to the village and wanted letters written. Young Huerta accomplished the work, and as a reward was sent to the military college. He developed great ability in the field and was early recognized as a natural leader. He took part in many battles, and after Diaz administration was disrupted forged rapidly to the front. When he was made provisional President, he was unable to check the spirit of insurrection that had become a fever in Mexico, and was forced to flee this year to Spain. General Huerta celebrated his birthday yesterday in Barcelona, where he lives in a little cottage outside the village.

STOPS HEADACHE, PAIN, NEURALGIA
Don't suffer! Get a dime pack of Dr. James' Headache Powders.
You can clear your head and relieve a dull, splitting or violent throbbing headache in a moment with a Dr. James' Headache Powder. This old-time headache relief acts almost magically. Send some one to the drug store now for a dime package and a few moments after you take a powder you will wonder what became of the headache, neuralgia and pain. Stop suffering—it's needless. Be sure you get what you ask for.

STOP CATARRH IN NOSTRILS AND HEAD
Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Relieves Head-Colds at Once.
If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed and you can't breathe freely because of a cold or catarrh, just get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed, swollen mucous membrane and you get instant relief.
Ah! How good it feels. Your nostrils are open, your head is clear, no more hawking, snuffling, blowing; no more headache, dryness or struggling for breath. Ely's Cream Balm is just what sufferers from head colds and catarrh need. It's a delight.—Adv.

MANY CASES OF RHEUMATISM NOW
Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure, and Eat Less Meat.
Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat less meat, drink lots of water, and above all take a spoonful of salts to keep down uric acid.
Rheumatism is caused by poisonous toxin, called uric acid, which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.
At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.
Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousand of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE
Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.
If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.
To neutralize these irritating acids to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's poisonous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the juice of grapes and lemon [illegible] lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in urine, so it no longer causes this strong, [illegible] condition.
Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure anyone, makes delightful effervescent lithia water drink. Adv.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR
Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Thickness and Lustre at Once.
Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of mess.
While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.—Adv.

SERVICE

A 4% SAVING PLAN

The opportunity is presented to the people of Plainfield to acquire the "habit" of systematic saving. We have been a nation of spenders, but there is ample evidence that people are now seriously considering the matter of laying aside a portion of their income regularly, and no better method for saving in a systematic way can be found than that offered by our four per cent. saving bond plan, which we heartily commend to anyone having a regular fixed income as a method by which he may lay aside automatically a regular amount monthly, to be used when the unexpected happens or for some particular purpose.

Many objects for such saving readily suggest themselves—a fund for the higher education of son or daughter; a capital fund with which to take advantage of investment opportunities; a fund to start a son in business; money to pay off a possible mortgage on the home; money to defray the expenses of some long onticipated trip; and last, but not least, a fund to provide against the exigencies of misfortune that may some day overtake you. Any of these objects should be sufficient to stimulate a desire to make a beginning, and a beginning once made will be easy to continue.

The operation of the plan is as follows: An Installment Bond in denomination of from $40 to $1,000 is purchased, the first payment being from $1 to $25. A similar payment is made monthly, and at the end of 38 months, all that has been paid in may be withdrawn, together with 4% interest. In the meantime, if necessity requires it, 80% of the paid-in value may be borrowed, OR payments may be discontinued and the amount paid in withdrawn at any time. Begin now while the suggestion is before you. Save to save and not to spend.

CITY CELEBRATES BIRTH OF CHRIST

Community Demonstration Sets Precedent in Civic Xmas Festivities.

HUNDREDS VIEW TREE

Monster Evergreen Brought Yuletide Cheer to Old and Young—Counterpane of Whitness Adds to Setting—Cosmopolitan Gathering.

Kaleidoscopic with its hundreds of colored electric light bulbs standing out in profile against a fresh white counterpane that had fallen but a few hours before, Plainfield's Community Christmas tree injected the Yuletide spirit into a cosmopolitan assemblage numbering close to 5,000 persons, in the city park, Thursday night. The wide-spreading illumination of the multitude of small fixtures was supplemented by the glow of three "Baby Targon" lamps of 3,500 candle-power each and so effective was the lighting scheme that the starless black night was transformed into day. Hundreds of individuals, of every race, creed and standing in the world's work, were given a new conception of the meaning of Christmas and joined in the festivities marking the year's greatest holiday. The public demonstration was without a doubt the most wonderful, inspiring and impressive ever attempted in this city and the object of the community workers—to enhance the Yuletide spirit into the lives of the populace—was accomplished beyond the semblance of a doubt.

Apprehension lest the threatening weather conditions of the afternoon would put a blemish on the plans was cast aside in the early evening when the storm abated and a clear, cold Christmas air greeted those who ventured out. The light, dry covering of flaky whitness left nothing to be wanted to complete the setting of the big green tree in the centre of the City Park. The huge, towering evergreen held out abundant cheer to the little ones and brought back youthful memories of fireside and stockings to the older generations. In its immensity there was enough joy for everyone who gathered around it with plenty to spare. While the Christmas tree plays the leading role in all Yuletide celebrations, the seventy-foot mass of trunk and limbs in the City Park was but a piece of stage setting in the community demonstration. The singers in the audience were assisted by the Aida Trio of New York, and rendered Christmas anthems. Directed by Charles L. Lewis the multitude joined in the singing of verses, printed copies of which were supplied by the workers at the helm of this notable event.

The clear, frosty air acted as a carrier for the well-known and oft-repeated strains and while the festivities were in progress the entire city was gripped by the Yuletide spirit. The four feminine trumpet artists world-famous in their chosen profession, supplemented the singing with instrumental guides.

Age played no part among the guests. Old enjoyed it as much as young. Included in the lookers-on were toddling stripplings and gray-haired seers. Those who were too feeble, or for physical reasons were unable to walk to the Ninth street rendezvous, were transported in taxicabs and private touring cars loaned for the occasion by the more fortunate. Carriages lined the avenues on all four sides of the park and these vehicles appeared to be nearly as numerous as the people. Many gathered a half hour before the appointed hour for the illumination and when the button was pressed by Mayor Percy H. Stewart, thousands of upturned faces, aglow with the delight manifested by the sudden transformation of night into day, surrounded nature's stage.

DEATH OF JOSEPH ROSS, AGED 65 YEARS

Well Known Resident Passes Away in Hospital Following Operation.

Joseph Ross, aged about 65 years, of West Front street, who had been a resident of this city for nearly twenty years, died at Muhlenberg Hospital, last night, following an operation performed two weeks ago for appendicitis. At the time Mr. Ross was removed to the hospital for the operation his condition was serious, and later complications developed which caused his death.

Mr. Ross was born near Somerville, where he lived for many years before coming to this city. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Ross. His father died several years ago, while his mother died two weeks ago. Mr. Ross was engaged in business in New York for many years as a rice broker, and was well known in the trade. He possessed many fine qualities and during his residence in Plainfield made a host of friends through his quiet, but genial manner. He was a member of Somerville Council, Royal Arcanum.

There survives a wife, who was Miss Carrie Apgar, of Somerville; four brothers, former Sheriff Frank Ross, Daniel and David Ross, of Somerville, and James Ross, of Jersey City, and four sisters, the Misses Phoebe and Elizabeth Ross and Mrs. Hannah Gould, of Somerville, and Mrs. Sarah Watson, of Jersey City. The funeral will be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the late home and the burial will be in Somerville.

MAN OF MYSTERY WRITER OF NOVEL

W. Arlington Danton, Alleged Kidnapper of Policemen, an Author.

Edward Farley, alias W. Arlington Danton, formerly of 413 Central avenue, this city, who was charged with kidnapping two Summit policemen, and now in jail on a murder charge, has written a book called "Redemption." It deals with the life-history of the author and it is understood that the "eternal triangle" and the woman of "good influence" are other characters that figure in the tale. He is now in jail at Rennselear, N. Y. accused of causing the death of a Troy dentist with whom he battled in an office. Danton, as he was known here, is supposed to have entered the office of the dentist for the purpose of robbery and when he secured entrance he was confronted by the proprietor. A suffle ensued and both fell headlong from an open window to the grooud, thirty feet below.

When picked up the dentist was dead and Danton suffered serious injuries. He was hurried to a hospital where it was feared for several days that he would die. He has since sufficiently recovered, however, to warrant his transfer to the county jail and is awaiting trial on the murder charge.

He was an inmate of the Union county jail in Elizabeth for several months following his indictment on the charge of "kidnapping" the Summit policemen on the night of February 22 last. He proved a successful alibi, however, and the Grand Jury failed to sustain the charges against him.

It is understood that a part of his book deals with his life in this city and may lead to the solution of many mysteries that have baffled the police since he spent the summer of 1913 here. In Plainfield he was known as a mechanical dentist and claimed to be a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Dental College. While he was here he was suspected of having looted several dental offices, but so slick is he alleged to have carried on this work that no direct evidence could be found against him.

He is well educated and his book is said to be excellently written and full of thrilling incidents.

FLAMES GUTTED FINE RESIDENCE

Fire Did $2,500 Damage to Home of W. J. Power on Field Avenue.

STARTED IN CELLAR

Fire-Fighters Did Good Work Although Hampered by Lack of Hydrant Power — Invalid Woman Rescued From Second Floor.

Shortly before noon today fire was discovered in a house occupied by W. M. Power, of 1018 Field avenue, and before the flames were extinguished damage to the extent of $2,500 was done to the structure. Good work on the part of the firemen and neighbors made it possible to get all of the furniture out without entailing any damage to these articles. When the firemen arrived on the scene the entire building was a mass of flames. The fire started in the cellar and made rapid headway through the walls and flooring. The conflagration had its origin in an ash barrel in which the maid had deposited hot ashes a short time before the smoke was noticed. A telephone alarm was sent into headquarters and when Chief Doane arrived with the apparatus from the East Second street house a survey of the scene convinced him that the blaze was a bad one and he sent in a general alarm, which brought the entire fire fighting corps from the central portion of the city.

Handicapped by the lack of hydrant power the firemen did excellent work in getting the flames under control. Hollow spaces in the wall through which hot air heaters had formerly run, but which had not been closed up after steam was installed, made it easy for the flames to circulate throughout the house and fire was shooting from all directions. A rumor was circulated to the effect that an invalid woman was confined on the second floor, and although an investigation failed to reveal her whereabouts at first, members of the family became insistent that she was in the burning structure and Chief Doane detailed his men to search each room. The woman was found on a side porch on the second floor and owing to the fact that the flames had cut off escape by means of the stairway it was necessary to carry her down a ladder and she was taken to the home of a neighbor.

Three long lines of hose were run in from the big Knott engine and a check on the spreading flames was soon effected. It was necessary to tear away a large portion of the walls and flooring to get at the heart of the fire and considerable damage resulted in this way.

The house is located on the Field property and is isolated from surrounding residences, being the only building on that avenue. It is a handsomely constructed homestead and the interior furnishings, which were transferred to the lawn, were elaborate and costly.

CRUSHED BETWEEN TRAIN COUPLINGS

Local Young Man Succumbs to Injuries in New York Hospital.

Terribly injured when his body was caught between the couplings of two cars in the Jersey City terminal of the Central Railroad early yesterday morning, John H. Brick, twenty-one years old, of Terrill road, was removed to St. Luke's Hospital, in New York, where he died yesterday afternoon. The young man had been engaged in his usual duties as brakeman and after attaching the couplings of two cars in "making up" a train, failed to pull away from the wedge-like mechanism that holds the heavy vehicles in place.

The young man's left leg was severed above the knee and his arm was broken. These hurts coupled with the numerous internal injuries made his condition critical and suffering in great agony, he was removed to the metropolitan hospital. The family in this city was notified by the police and went immediately to the victim's bedside, being with him when he passed away.

The brakeman's untimely end is a particularly sad one inasmuch as he received news of his promotion to the position of conductor one hour before he met his fate and was preparing to assume his new duties the first of the week. He has been a life-long resident of Netherwood, being born in the Brick homestead on Terrill road and was well-known both here and in Scotch Plains. He was educated in the Scotch Plains public schools and upon his graduation five years ago entered the employ of the Central Railroad, serving as brakeman ever since.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Brick; three brothers, George, Harry and Walter, and three sisters, Rae, Gertrude and Mae.

SAD TIDINGS END CHRISTMAS PLANS

Plainfield Women Preparing for Father's Visit When Informed of His Death.

Preparations for a joyful celebration of Christmas by the family of Mrs. Margaret Hansen, of East Second street, and Mrs. Frank Sheppard, of Washington street, were terminated suddenly Thursday by sad news. A long distance telephone call to Mrs. Hansen's home informed her of the death of her father, Donald McKay at Syracuse, N. Y. He had stopped off in that city while enroute to Plainfield, to visit another daughter, Mrs. Anna Corey. He was stricken with heart disease while waiting for an elevator in the foyer of the Moore apartment house and died before medical aid could reach him. Mrs. Hansen and her sister, Mrs. Sheppard, left for Syracuse immediately after the receipt of the news.

Mr. McKay was 76 years old and was a resident of Inverhuron, Ont. He was well-known in Plainfield, through long stays with his children, five of whom lived here at one time. Six years ago he came to this city and spent several months. Beside Mrs. Hansen, Mrs. Sheppard and Mrs. Corey, he is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. Chris. Angerbauer, formerly of this city, and Mrs. James Matthews, both now of Winnipeg, Man. There are in addition, two sons, Daniel and John McKay, who lived in Plainfield for many years, but are now located at Winnipeg.

The body was taken to Inverhuron, yesterday, and the funeral and burial took place there today.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT OF MISS MARION G. MARSH

Mr. and Mrs. Warren H. Marsh, of Union street, yesterday announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marion Grace Marsh, to Robert H. Bellows, son of Colonel C. E. Bellows, of Woodland avenue. Both Miss Marsh and Mr. Bellows are well-known in the younger society set. Mr. Bellows holds a position with the Grover C. Kirchoff Company, marine engineers. He is a member of the National Guard of New York and well known in local athletic circles.

DOUBLE FRACTURE OF LEG.

James Emejarto, 28 years old, of 943 West Third street, while walking along Woodland avenue neaf East Seventh street, at 8:30 o'clock last night, fell and broke his leg in two places. He was picked up by passersby who summoned an automobile and took him to the hospital. Today he is resting as comfortable as could be expected.

MANY FAMILIES IN GREAT NEED

Greatest Suffering Among the Unskilled Laborers of the City.

"I see by the papers," said Marcus O'Shine,

"That business is booming and soon will be fine.

"It's better, they tell me, than anyone hints,

"I see by the big metropolitan prints

"I wonder," said Marcus, "could I get a job?"

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the merchant, a-twirling his fob.

"Those Harvards could certainly carry that ball,

"And isn't it warm for so late in the fall?"

To most of us this poem, which appeared recently in the "Conning Tower" of the "New York Tribune" merely seems slightly "pessimistic." We want better business, and the more optimism we show, the better is the chance for it. But to the man who has been out of work for weeks, there is grim reality in the situation accurately portrayed here.

Fortunately in Plainfield most of the skilled workmen are now employed. The suffering is among the unskilled laborers, who even in busy times earn only $1.50 a day, and can lay nothing aside for emergencies. These men are the chief concern of the Commission for the Relief of the Unemployed.

When the Commission started its work, there were over 100 families positively needing immediate relief, simply because they had no work and no savings. This number has since increased considerably, and will increase still further as resources become more and more exhausted. There will be no active demand for unskilled labor until about April 1.

In the meantime 250 or more families will probably require some attention. Temporary or "relief" work must be provided if possible, so that they will not become simply dependent on charity. And some must be helped financially. The Commission is formed to take charge of all of this. The community must furnish it with the necessary funds. It must realize that this suffering is not imaginary nor impending. It exists now, and will continue in greater or less degree until spring.

The first appeal was issued only after an exhaustive investigation both of conditions among the employers and the unemployed. Each month the survey committee will estimate carefully the probable needs for the coming month. The whole matter is being handled with efficiency and the greatest possible economy. "THE STRANGER" HAS DRAMATIC VALUE

Yale Play is Filled With Action From the Start to Finish.

"The Stranger," the one-act tragedy by Almet F. Jenks, Yale 1914, which will be presented by the Yale University Dramatic Association at The Plainfield Theatre on Thursday night, is a remarkable example of the amount and quality of dramatic value that can be wedged into a very brief interval of time. The piece is, furthermore, a demonstration of the fact that few characters may support as much action as a stage full.

In manuscript form the play takes up only a little over ten typewritten pages, yet in this time an atmosphere of extreme poverty is produced; the biting cold of a hard winter is vividly pictured; a mother's joy at recognizing in the Stranger her long lost boy is portrayed; the extent to which poverty can unbalance a man's mind even to the point of his killing, unawares, his own son and the mother's self-control in not revealing the boy's identity, all take place in this short interval.

There are but three parts in the piece. The Stranger, the Woman and the Man, upon whom falls all the burden of supporting about five minutes of intense melodramatic emotion. For these reasons, if for no others, it is believed that the play will be warmly received wherever presented during the holidays.

SUBMARINE SUNK IN POLA HARBOR

Paris Hears That French Vessel Has Been Lost—Crew Rescued Are Prisoners.

PACIFIC NAVAL BATTLE?

Chilean Torpedo Boat Reports That British and Germans Have Been Engaged Near Valparaiso—Air Battle Seen by Englishmen.

Paris, Dec. 26—According to the Matin, it is stated in the Italian press that a French submarine belonging to the fleet of Vice Admiral Lapeyere has been sunk by attempting to torpedo Austrian battleships in the naval base of Pola. The members of the crew were rescued and taken prisoners.

Slight advances along the battle line in France, and the repulsing of the Germans by the Russians are reported in the statement issued at 3 o'clock this afternoon by the French war office. It says:

"There was a slight cannonade on the front between the sea and the Lys, where a thick fog paralyzed operations. Between the Lys and the Oise we repulsed numerous counter attacks by the enemy at Noulettes, west of Lens; at La Boisselle, northeast of Albert, and at Lihons, west of Chaulnes, where a trench taken from the enemy was lost and then retaken after a sharp fight.

"Between the Oise and the Aisne we report that during the day of December 24, a very severe German attack was repulsed at Chivy, northeast of Soupir. In the region of Perthes, our artillery silenced the batteries which were bombarding the trenches recently taken by our troops. The strong counter attacks by the Germans were rolled back. During the nights of December 24 and 25 a new counter attack, particularly strong, made on a front of 1,500 yards and with powerful troops, suffered a complete check.

"In upper Alsace the day was marked by some progress before Gernay. We reached the edge of the woods on the hill west of the town. We maintain our position despite numerous attacks. We now occupy the outskirts of lower Alsace, and the heights which dominate Carapach to the west.

"Russia. The Germans who have forced a crossing of the Bzura to the south of Sochazcow have been thrown back after suffering considerable losses. All their attacks on Bolimow have been checked. In the region of Inowlodz on the Pilica, and to the south, stubborn combats continue.

"Along the whole course of the Nida and to the south of the Vistula the battle is going on under conditions favorable to the Russians."

Valparaiso, Dec. 26—A wireless message from the Chilean gunboat Tome reports the British cruiser Newcastle cannonading fifteen miles from Valparaiso.

It is supposed that she has engaged the German cruiser Dresden and converted cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich.

A British squadron and Japanese warships are known to be cruising not far from this port.

Southend-on-Sea, England, Dec. 26—Three aeroplanes, one a German and two British, were flying overhead at seventy miles an hour, almost a mile high in the air during a fight on Christmas afternoon.

The German Taube was moving more swiftly than the others, which swung above it. The British were spitting fire, while the German was unable to reply on account of the strategic position of her pursuers.

When the German flyer came in sight the fort guns fired several shots, but after the British aeroplanes took chase it was impossible to fire without danger of hitting them.

The spectacle lasted only five minutes. The German dodged and twisted to escape, but the British were on both sides, pouring in rapid volleys. The speed at which the aeroplanes were traveling made the aim uncertain, but one of the British machines swooped down close to the German and pumped in several shots at close range, which the German returned, but so far as the people on the waterfront could see no damage was done on either side.

Later three British aeroplanes tried to outflank the German machine, but the latter was flying too fast and disappeared to the eastward. The weather was misty at sea, but comparatively clear on land. Nothing has been heard regarding the dropping of any bombs.

London, Dec. 26—A "Times" correspondent wires:

"I hear on good authority that the French have carried the forest of Le Pretre, to northwest of Pont-a-Maus-

AUTOISTS' NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Paul Brakeley Has a Thrilling Experience Climbing a Mountain.

Paul Brakley, of Baltimore, Md., who with his wife and child, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Helen Brakley, of Front street, had a narrow escape from a serious and probably fatal accident on Wednesday night. Mr. Brakley is an agent for a motor car company, with territory covering the entire State of Virginia and portions of the States of West Virginia and Tennessee. Tuesday evening of this week found him with a business associate at Staunton, Va., 236 miles from his home in Baltimore. Desiring to be home in time to leave on Wednesday morning for this place, he decided to make the trip to his home that night, so he and his associate started out. On the way they had five mountains to cross. They made four of them without any mishap, but the fifth one proved very difficult. With the exception of a couple of turns it was a straight pull of 2½ miles up this mountain, and to make matters worse the road which had thawed out in the day time had frozen up by the time they arrived at its foot and was a glare of ice. Without taking the time to put chains on the wheels of his car, Mr. Brakley started to take the steep mountain road on second speed at the rate of 40 miles an hour. After ascending a hundred yards or so, Mr. Brakley in glancing at his speedometer noted that it was only registering 25 miles an hour and shortly afterwards that it was only registering 10 miles, so he then threw the gears of his car into first speed.

The car promptly responded to the change of gears and continued to climb steadily for a space when Mr. Brakley noticed another perceptible slowing down of the car in its ascent. Half of the distance up the mountain had been covered when the car refused to climb any further and commenced to go backward. Mr. Brakley at once threw his brakes on, but this did not stop the backward progress of the car. On one side of the descending car was a steep precipice and on the other side was the steep sides of the mountain sloping down to the roadway, while a hundred yards or so down the mountain the roadway took a sharp turn. With ever increasing momentum the car continued its backward course towards this sharp turn and an inevitable sheer drop of many feet over the precipice to the rocks below. About fifty yards from this turn had been reached, then forty, then thirty-five, when Mr. Brakley's companion, who was standing up in the car and directing him in the difficult and delicate task of stearing the car, noticed a large snowbank on the mountain side of the roadway and directed Brakley to stear his car into it. The car hit the snowbank and after plowing its way for a yard or so stopped. The distance from the bank of snow and the sharp turn in the roadway as paced off by Brakley was not twenty-five yards.

It was with considerable difficulty that Brakley and his companion, who had no shovels, removed the snow from the rear of the car so that they could jack it up and put non-skid chains on the rear wheels. This was finally done, however, and the car continued its climb up the top of this, the last mountain, without any further trouble. The two arrived in Baltimore at 2 o'clock the following morning, it having taken them nine hours to cover the 236 miles, which under the circumstances, could be considered great time.

STYLISH SR RELIABLE

"Should Auld Acquaintance Be Forgot"

This is not an advertisement—that is, not primarily an appeal for customers—it is a message to old friends that we have not seen for some time.

We wish we could sit down and write to every one of you—and tell you just how glad we would be to see you here again.

But a typewritten letter is a cold message at best—while Rothberg's is a friendly store and it is impossible to describe the warm welcome that awaits you here, as it is to describe the smell of a rose.

But we do want to see you again—we do want you to feel that we are more than a mere "store," for we are very human, and we do like to see familiar, pleasant faces, just as you do.

So do come in, and if there should have been something that has kept you away, won't you please give us a chance to make good?

XMAS ENTERTAINMENT AT M. E. CHURCH

"Santa Claus, Jr., Substitute," a Playlet, Pleases Dunellen Children.

The Christmas entertainment of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday-school was a delightful affair. The entertainment was held in the church, which was comfortably filled. The entertainment consisted of recitations by several of the scholars, an anthem by the choir and a playette entitled, "Santa Claus, Jr., Substitute."

The characters of the playette: "Santa Claus," Leslie Vail; "Mrs. Santa Claus," Anna Wiedenhaupt; "Santa Claus, Jr.," Moris Stites; "Aurora," Winnifred Schenck; "Baby Crystal," Thomas Eible; "Brownie," Ellsworth Schenck; "Rev. Mr. Beecher," Harold Seal; "Mrs. Beecher," Lila Stites; "Dotty Beecher," Elizabeth Seal; "Harvey Beecher," Milton Schenck; "Mr. Stacker," Harold Neely; "Miss Primrose," Ruth Seal, and eight little fairies.

The outline of the playette was as follows: Santa Claus had the rheumatism and felt unable to go his annual rounds so Santa Claus, Jr., asks permission to substitute for his father. Permission was granted and Santa, Jr., furnished with the lists of the presents to give each deserving inhabitant of the globe between the North and South Poles. Santa Claus, Jr., starts out, but he does not go far before his reindeers become scared and knock over the North Pole, losing the valuable lists of names. Santa, Jr., after an unsuccessful search for the lists decides to proceed without them. His first stop is at the home of Rev. Mr. Beecher. Without the list, Santa, Jr., has become all mixed up and he leaves Mrs. Beecher a smoking set, Mr. Beecher a night cap, and Miss Primrose, a maiden sister of Mrs. Beecher, a shaving mug. The consternation that existed in this saintly household when each viewed their respective present was appaling. The eight little fairies become aware of how badly Santa Claus, Jr., has mixed things up and they hasten to the North Pole to apprise Santa, Sr., of what has happened and banish his rheumatism with a lightning express liniment and Santa, Sr., hastens in the wake of his son and straightens things out.

After the entertainment came the distribution of presents. The school presented the pastor of the church and his wife with a sheet of brand new 36 one dollar bills. The presentation speech was made by J. M. Barto, who held a small parcel in his hand, which looked as if it might contain a necktie or some other ordinary gift. Mr. Barto, in addressing the pastor and his wife, said in part: "We didn't want to give both of you a present so we thought we would give you something that would interest you both and accordingly we are presenting you with a set of engraved resolutions," whereupon with sleight-of-hand alarcity he revealed the sheet of bills. The school presented Isaac J. Stites, the superintendent, with a handsome umbrella.

MR. AND MRS. W. A. CRAIG GIVE A XMAS PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Craig, of Second street, gave a delightful Christmas party to a few of their friends on Christmas eve. The home was prettily decorated with holly, mistletoe and streamers of red and green crepe paper. The evening was very pleasantly spent in dancing and listening to tales of the Adirondacks by Frederick Robert Haynes, who annually retreats to these mountains. Mr. Haynes has quite a local reputation as a story teller and the tales told in his usual delightful manner were rendered more charming by the atmosphere in which they were unfolded, the lights of the home having been put out and the guests forming a crescent around a blazing log fire. The yellow glow of the flames reflected on the faces of the guests, the crackling of the fire blended by Mr. Haynes' mellow voice created a scene and an atmosphere that will ever linger in the minds of those present. A sumptuous repast was served at 11 o'clock, after which the party broke up. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Craig, Sigard Nicolaysen and Frederick Robert Haynes.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH NOW FREE OF DEBT

$4,000 Mortgage is Burned at Interesting Christmas Exercises.

The feature of the Christmas celebration at St. Peter's Lutheran church, the borough, last night, was the burning of the $4,000 mortgage, thus clearing all indebtedness on the church property which has been carried for the past twenty-five years. Dr. Richard Moldenke made the address previous to burning the mortgage, in which he briefly reviewed the history of the organization. He said that this is the only Lutheran church in Somerset county, taking the place of one started near Somerville about 1700, but which afterward disbanded. Richard Warneck, secretary of the church, touched a lighted match to the mortgage papers.

Then followed the annual entertainment of the Sunday-school, after which all of the children received presents. The program was as follows:

Violin solo, Karl Klotz; duet, "The Holy City," by Erna Schurig and Oscar Heinold; Begruesung, Pastor Dauble; hymn, "O Du Froliche;" "Begruesungerede," Karl Klotz; Psalm-Isaiah 9, 2-7; "Ich Bin Ein Kindlein Klein," Emma Ackner; "A Christmas Secret," Walter Burgess; "Weihnachtsgeschihte," Luke, 2, Lillian Burgess, Erna Schurig, Olga Eckner, Heins Schurig, Karl Klotz, Ella Eckner and Carl Haurand; "The Cradle Hymn," by John Heim; "Vom Heilgen Christ," Carl Haurand; hymn, "Stille Nacht;" "Ansprache," Pastor Dauble; "A Birthday Gift," August Fassler; "Kommt Zu Jesu," Martine Schaffer; "Merry Xmas to All," Raymond and Lester Kirchner and Eugene Haurand; hymn, "Come Hither, Ye Faithful;" "Dort Oben," Albert Fassler; "O, to Have Dwelt in Bethlehem," Adelle Liebenow and Edith Kirchner; "Ich Bin Klein," Ida Eckner; "Weihnachtslied," by Alfred Eckner; hymn, "O Tannenbaum;" burning of the church mortgage, choir, "The Lost Chord;" distribution of presents.

EFFORTS TO IDENTIFY TRAIN VICTIM FUTILE

Further efforts to identify the body of a man killed on the Central Railroad tracks near the Fanwood cut Wednesday morning, have proven futile and unless some clue is obtained today it is likely that the body will be buried at the expense of the county. The remains are being held at Cole's morgue.

Another search through the man's clothes have revealed a second note reading as follows: "Put Mr. Rush to work at $12 a week. The other note read: "Put bearer to work at 11 o'clock" and was signed "Jim."

New Evidence Constantly Being Published.

Since the long succession of Plainfield reports were first published in the local press there has been no looking back. Plainfield evidence continues to pour in, and—better still—those whose reports were first published many years ago, verify all they said in a most hearty and unmistakable way. Read the experience of Mrs. E. Dorflinger, of 400 Clinton avenue, Plainfield, N. J. She says: "The first symptom of kidney trouble was a dull, heavy pain in my back and head. This was followed by a tired, languid feeling and I knew that my kidneys were gradually giving out. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and getting a box at Randolph's drug store, I began using them. Before long I improved and I continued taking Doan's Kidney Pills until I was cured. I hold just as high an opinion of them now as when I gave my former endorsement recommending them. The cure they made has been permanent."

The Christmas entertainment of the Sabbath school is being held this afternoon, with the singing of carols under the direction of Miss Jessie Utter, to be a feature. Gifts of clothing were received for distribution. A part of the Symphony Orchestra will be present to accompany the singing.

VIGILANT TAXI-CAB DRIVER DISCOVERS MIDNIGHT BLAZE

The vigilant eye of William Hawley, a taxicab driver, discovered flames creeping up the side of J. P. Allen's home at 1017 East Seventh street, as he was driving by at 12:3. this morning. He hurried to the Netherwood fire house after failing to locate a box and roused No. 4 company by pounding on the doors. The firemen were quickly on the job, putting out the blaze with chemicals. The damage was small.

All of the inmates of the house were asleep when the firemen arrived and were roused by the arrival of the apparatus. The blaze was caused by sparks from an open fire-place.

PATIENTS AT HOSPITAL ENJOY CHRISTMAS FESTIVITIES

Christmas Day was a jolly one for many patients at Muhlenberg Hospital, the majority being able to enjoy the festivities arranged by the Woman's Auxiliary. Christmas trees were placed in all the wards with a generous distribution of holly, a sprig being placed over the bed of the patients. Many relatives and friends also sent flowers and other suitable gifts. The children's ward was a veritable fairyland, there being a large supply of toys, etc., for the children.

The hospital provided a fine turkey dinner with all the fixin's for those who were able to eat it. The arrangements for the observance of the day were in charge of a special committee comprising Mrs. Evarts Tracy, chairman; Mrs. Isaac Schwed and Miss Harriet Halloway.

STORY OF BATTLE PASSES CENSORS

Robert Wilson Describes Two Hours' Engagement With German Cruiser.

MANY SAILORS KILLED

English Gunners Riddled the Enemy's Ship, According to the Writer, and She Went Down Blazing From Stem to Stern.

In these days when strict consorship on all news from the European nations at war prevents much information from reaching this country, an occasional letter gets through, escaping the sharp eyes of the officials. Such a letter under date of September 30 last was received by Mrs. Robert Wilson, of Liverpool, from her son, Robert Wilson, who is third engineer on H. M. S. Carmania, a converted English cruiser, a copy of which was received yesterday by his cousin, Robert Wilson, of 128 Duer street, the borough. In this letter the writer describes a sea battle between the Carmania and the German merchant cruiser "Captrafalger," a new ship. Mr. Wilson was at Gibraltar when he wrote it. He has visited here several times, where he has many friends. His letter follows:

"Cunard R. M. S. Carmania
"Sept. 30, 1914.

"Since writing the last letter we have had some exciting little adventures, but the largest of all was the battle with the German merchant cruiser 'Captrafalger,' a new ship only on her second voyage, 19,000 tons, triple screw, supposed to be the last word said in ship building and in appearances just like ourselves. To describe the battle would take too long and even then you wouldn't have any idea what it was like. From the first shot fired to the last it was one hour and forty minutes. We plugged her 417 times. Of course, we didn't get off scott free.

"Our top deck and bridge was simply riddled. The room father had on his way out has five holes through it, so it was just as well he was not in it. There are more ways into the drawing room than through the doors and there are more ways for the smoke to come out than the top. The engine room and stockholds were not touched and nowhere below the water line damaged. The bridge and office quarters were burned out. Our bridge steering gear, telegraph and telephone, etc., was rendered useless, so that the last ten days we have been steering and navigating from the bridge aft. We had five killed and fifteen wounded and a dozen of minor injuries. Four of the wounded died in the next three days.

"We could not render any assistance to the crew of the other ship, but left them to a German collier which was one we saw in the distance. We hear on our arrival here that 292 were saved and have no doubt there will be 300 at the least go down with her. No doubt you will read all about it in the newspapers. We beat her in every move, our gunners were a treat, simply riddled her along the water line. She went down bow first, blazing from stem to stern, and then we 'hooked it' for all we were worth, as there was another German ship up on the horizon, not knowing what she might be, and ourselves in such a crippled condition. The next day we picked up a warship which escorted us part of the way here, and then landed us to an armed 'P. and O.,' which brought us in here.

"We are getting fitted out again and expect to be in service again in about three or four weeks. Up to this date this has been the only battle between ships of the same class and size. We beat her in every way on skill. She had more guns than us and some machine guns, heavier manned, new ship with everything up to date. Everything was in her favor but her shooting was rotten. She was firing twice as fast as we were, but the way our gunners coolly placed every shot was a treat with a little message with every one. I could write for an hour of what passed in that two hours, but you will have to wait until I get home to tell it all and the way things are going we cannot tell and do not know where we are going to."

This note was added by the writer's mother:

"Since Bob has written this letter we know he has been a long time in Gibraltar, but where he is now we cannot say, as everything regarding the ship's movements are kept quiet."

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, DECEMBER 26, 1914.

On Saturdays the editorial columns of the Daily Press are conducted by citizens who are free to express their own views. The contributing editor for today is H. C. Krebs, Superintendent of Schools for Somerset County.

HOW MANY MORE MUST BE KILLED?

In the European war? No—in New Jersey, in time of peace, in a highly civilized State, of comparative wealth. How? By grade crossings and automobiles.

The local papers of December 4 contained a graphic account of a Plainfield man of twenty-seven being hurled to death at a grade crossing at Manville, Somerset County—of the great distress that was caused to his family and friends; that at this same crossing a prominent and wealthy citizen was killed a year ago, and that the Board of Freeholders would insist that HEREAFTER a watchman must be on duty at night as well as during the day.

The cost of abolishing the grade crossing at this point by running the road beneath the tracks might perhaps, at a guess, be $25,000. There would then be the saving of a watchman day and night, which at $4.00 per day would amount to $1,460 per year—the interest on $29,200 at 5 per cent. There would be the further saving of all damages for accidents which would otherwise lie against the railroad company.

From the purely financial side the abolition of grade crossings would therefore be a small hardship even if the cost were twice as large as above assumed.

The traveler in Europe finds no grade crossings except in remote districts and there a watchman with a club is on guard. Travelers are not allowed to cross a railroad track at any station. There are always facilities for underground or overhead crossing. Any person found walking on a railroad track is heavily fined.

It would seem that we could accomplish in this country what has been done abroad. We should certainly equal Europe in our regard for human life if we are to consider ourselves equal in civilization.

Some years ago the railroad tracks were elevated in Plainfield. Since that time not one life has been lost at crossings. The Manville death was caused by the driver's inability to see and hear the train. If that crossing had been underground, he would be alive today. If all crossings had been underground, not a life would ever have been lost in accidents of this kind. This is so elementary as to be almost childish; and yet as long as we are placing the dollar above the life we go on sacrificing humanity at a fearful rate.

Gates at crossings are insufficient. An absent-minded person or a child will not always notice the gates. A runaway team of horses may break through gates. The gateman may be sick or asleep. An automobile or a team may be stalled. The delays of traffic at gates consume much time of the business and the traveling public. There is only one certain means of protection for everybody, and that is through underground crossings.

Automombiles bid fair to increase in numbers for many years. They are a necessity of modern life. But too many people are killed by them. Our present laws are too lenient. We punish after the accident sometimes, but not often enough before it happens.

A prominent resident of New York, who died recently, had a mania for driving rapidly in city streets. He boasted that he had been arrested thirty-three times for speeding. He was often fined, but that only amused him. Fining only amuses many other men of wealth. It means too little to them to have any salutary effect.

The speeder endangers the lives of others much more than his own. He too often considers that nobody has any right on the road but him. He takes chance after chance, and does not desist until a fearful accident happens. Then it is too late to be sorry, and no amount of damages or imprisonment will bring back the life of the innocent victim.

If a State would really set out to protect the lives of its citizens from reckless automobilists, it could undoubtedly accomplish its purpose. Suppose a law were passed that any automobilists or motorcyclist found exceeding a speed of thirty-five miles per hour should be put in jail not less than ten days for the first offense, with no fine alternative whatever. The man above referred to would hardly have continued his recklessness if he had been imprisoned a number of times. Then there should be heavy fines, and imprisonment for more than one offence, for those who exceed established speed limits below thirty-five miles per hour.

Nobody can bring forward any good argument for running above thirty-five miles per hour. The physician, who might be most excusable, had better arrive at his patient's house a few minutes later than kill some one else on the way. The speeder should be taught that the public has some rights even if he does not think so.

would be easy to secure drastic legislation; and yet would these

It is not the intention of this article to be hysterical, or to emphasize unduly the two points above treated. But the writer believes the time has come when something besides sorrow for the dead should be expressed. If every membr of our State Legislature had lost a member of his family either at a grade crossing or through being run down by an automobilist it lives be any more valuable than those that were actually lost the past few years in other families? Was their sorrow less keen?

Meet any group of men who have read the Monday morning papers. You will almost always find some mention of an automobile accident of the day before. "Too bad," they say, "such reckless drivers should be put to jail." But we have thus far done little but talk, and express regret. This is hardly the proper attitude for a civilized people, and for a race that is proud of its business ability. We may have entire confidence in the members of our Legislature to cope with this problem and solve it wisely if public opinion will but demand effective action. As long as we tolerate the evils complained of, we cannot expect them to be removed. LET US WAKE UP!

"The forest, which covers the heights just to the north of the road leading from Pont-a-Mousson to St. Mihiel, has been held in great part by the Germans for many weeks, but several recent communiques have mentioned the fact the French were making progress there.

"The capture of this wood brings the French up to the Norroy Ridge, which is within the range of the nearest of the Metz forts, particularly that of St. Blaise, which is almost on the frontier and dominates the village of Pagny-sur-Moselle."

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

HOPE CHAPEL WAS EASY PREY FOR SPEEDY Y. M. C. A. COMBINATION

Final Score of Initial City Title Tilt 48 to 21—Battle Was Waged in a Speedy Style and Witnessed by Large Gallery—Home Squad Outclassed Rivals in Every Department of the Game.

Exhibiting a calibre of bastketbal only displayed when Hope Chapel is furnishing the opposition, the Y. M. [illegible] chalked up a victory [illegible] association court, last night, in the initial city title tilt. The final score, 48 to 21, is the best evidence [illegible] the aggregation when lined up against its bitterest rivals. The teams fought tooth and nail for every advantage, Hope Chapel going down to a noble defeat, scrapping until the final whistle. The Chapelites, though beaten, won the admiration of the record crowd, by their hard battle against seemingly impossible odds. Although outweighed by the opposition and playing on a foreign court, the Hope contingent displayed an excellent quality of the indoor pastime and kept the Y. M. C. A. players constantly on the alert. Coach Jack Martin's words, "The Y. M. C. A. has the best team and we're not ashamed of being beaten by it," are probably the most expressive of the result.

Individualism in last night's game was offset by the clock-like precision with which the respective teams worked the ball up and down the floor. Passing and good team-work were predominant factors in the tussle and the exhibition was a rare treat to the gallery of fans who witnessed it. The fact that forty fouls were called, twenty-three on Y. M. C. A. and seventeen on Hope Chapel, were due to the closeness with which the battle was waged rather than any attempt to intentionally violate the rules. Hope made good on nine of its twenty-three chances and Y. M. C. A. could chalk up but four of the seventeen. Penalty shooting was extremely poor on the part of both teams.

Taylor and Dunning led the scoring for the victors, with nine field goals each, and Tommy Heron and Snyder did the best work for the losing side. Moulton and Johnny Heron were conspicuous factors in the passing and Glover, Burner, Snyder and Hunter did some good guarding.

The score:

SAYS BOB FITZ WAS NOT A "CHAMPION" HUSBAND

Robert Fitzsimmons, former heavyweight champion, whose home is at Dunellen, was not the champion husband, according to Mrs. Julia May Gifford Fitzsimmons, who testified Thursday in her suit for divorce in Chicago. Judge Walker took the case under advisement after Mrs. Fitzsimmons had entered her plea.

The day before the final separation in July, 1910, the wife said, her husband kicked her. "We had a quarrel earlier," she explained, "about his drinking, and I hadn't been speaking to him because he refused to quit, and when I passed by the door he kicked me."

Threats to shoot her were related by the witness.

"I don't want any alimony," she told the court. "I always worked before we were married and I have had to since."

Mrs. Fitzsimmons asked permission to resume her maiden name of Julia Gifford.

CONNIE MACK'S BIRTHDAY IS CELEBRATED BY FANS

Conelius McGillicuddy, "Connie Mack," the greatest baseball manager the game has known, and the idol of every boy from the Atlantic to the Pacific, was born December 23, 1862. It was baseball that early came as his most striking accomplishment, in the little village of East Brookfield, Mass. It is baseball in its most difficult phases that is today occupying the mind of the gallant warrior of the baseball diamond. For he has cast to the four winds the parts of his magnificent baseball machine, and is beginning all over. The dismemberment of his great "Athletics" is a cause of grief to the worshippers of that ideal aggregation of stars. But Connie has faced a similar situation before. He can build up a machine over night, and can make stars in a few weeks out of the rawest timber. Back in 1902, when a court decision robbed him of such stars as Lajoie, Flick, Bernard and Duggleby, Mack went out and grabbed a lot of so-called misfits and won the American League pennant.

Connie Mack made his debut in big league company, catching Gilmore, of Washington, in a game played in New York on September 16, 1886. He was a star catcher in his playing days, but his head work placed him higher than a player. He managed the Milwaukee team, and was one of the originators of the American League. A quiet, calm, dignified man, he knows how to handle men. His word is law in baseball. Winning or losing, he is the coolest man in the baseball park. His recent defeat by the Braves for the world's championship has caused him to discard many of his star players, and he is again building up a team of youngsters that will be the centre of baseball interest next summer.

TEAMWORK IS NEW MANAGER'S SLOGAN

Clarence Rowland.

Teamwork and speed. These are the things Clarence Rowland, newly appointed manager of the Chicago White Sox, will insist upon when his men begin to train for the battles of 1915.

"It is my principle to cut out individual play on the diamond," said Rowland. "I insist on teamwork, and want to see the men hustling all the time. I don't care how many errors a fellow makes if he convinces me that he is hustling. Anything rather than have them caught flat-footed.

"I believe a whole lot in speed. The public demands speed in baseball the same as in other business. I don't go in just for a pennant; I'm after the game. In fact, every single battle is the same as a pennant to me.

"And I'm going to be out there on the coaching line all the time. They will never run me off that line. I want to be sure the boys are hustling, and want a close view of them.

"Another thing, I'm not a believer in that hand-shaking stuff. It don't make a hit with me when the other fellow asks, 'How are they breaking?' I claim a club makes its own breaks, and the hustling club gets them. The other clubs are my enemies all the time in uniforms.

"I think the White Sox have a great chance next year. There are a whole lot of fine players on the roll. Eddie Collins I consider one of the most valuable players in baseball today. He is always in hard plays, and getting them. And he will have a hustler alongside of him in Weaver, whom I consider another great ball player. He's out to win all the time. And the same can be said for Schalk.

"There should be a good fight for first base between Jack Fournier and Bunny Brief. From what I've heard of the latter he is a good man. And we all know Jack Fournier.

"Six of our fielders will be trying for jobs, I understand. It is a coincidence that Larry Chappel played for me when he was a youngster on the Jacksonville, Ill., squad. He was only a kid at the time.

"And that's a great string of pitchers, too. I know several of them. Walsh, Faber, Scott and Jasper, especially. Faber and Jasper both worked for me here. Faber has shown what he can do. Jasper has a lot of stuff, and always had a ball in his hands ready to work for me."

BORO GRADS WILL COME BACK TONIGHT

Saengerbund Hall Will Be Scene of Week-end Basketball Game.

This city will have no basketball games tonight, as both of the teams that play every Saturday night were in action last night and will lay-off tonight. The only game that will be played in this vicinity will be staged in Saengerbund Hall, when the North Plainfield High School and the Alumni teams will meet. The borough team has lost one to its Alumni this season and a good game is expected.

The 1912 champs will lineup with the Taylor brothers in the forward positions, Dunning in centre and George Townley and Ashley Burner, guards. The High School aggregation will have its regular lineup. The game will start at 8:15 and will be preceded by a preliminary. After the game there will be dancing.

Y. M. C. A. SECONDS BEAT TEAM FROM BORO SCHOOL

The North Plainfield High School second team was defeated by the Y. M. C. A. seconds, last night, on the association court by the score of 24 to 18. The game was interesting and close throughout, not more than six points separating the two scores at any time. The association five took the lead at the start and held it until the last few seconds of play in the first half, when John Dawe tied the count with a nice goal from the middle of the field. The half ended 12 to 12.

The home team scored three baskets at the beginning of the second half and held this lead for some time. North Plainfield made a spurt and came within one point of tieing the score, but three more field goals by the home team put the game away. Borden and Ricketts were the main point getters for the association team while Dawe and Adams scored most for North Plainfield.

The score:

THREE GAMES FOR Y. M. C. A. AGGREGATION NEXT WEEK

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team faces a hard schedule next week, when it will be called upon to play three games. The first will be next Tuesday night, when the team will motor to Hasbrouck Heights and meet the Hasbrouck Heights Field Club five, the champion heavyweights of Passaic county. The trip will be made in a large auto truck and a large crowd of rooters will accompany the team. New Year's night the attraction of the season will take place on the local court, when the strong N. Y. U. Law School five will appear here for its annual game. Last year the New York aggregation came here twice and lost two hard games and is coming this year for revenge.

The Company F team, of Elizabeth, recently went down to defeat before this quintet and the local boys will have to step a few in order to keep in the running. One half will be played with collegiate rules and the other half A. A. U. Saturday night the Y. M. A. five, of Bound Brook, is booked to appear on the local court.

MORE GAME TO BE REARED IN JERSEY

Plan Big Increase in Stocking of Turkeys, Pheasants and Other Game.

Forked River, Dec. 26.—Wild turkey hunting, a royal sport, limited now to a few southern States, soon will lure New Jersey sportsmen to the wilds of their own State, according to officials of the State Fish and Game Commission, who have achieved a decided success in their efforts to rear this species of fowl for restocking purposes in the commonwealth's game farm near Forked River.

A flock of fifty of these big game birds is being wintered in the game park on the big reserve, most of them reared this season from a few imported stock birds, and Superintendent Duncan Dunn hopes to have several hundred of them ready for liberation in the South Jersey pine barrens and the North Jersey mountain wildernesses by next fall. Another year or two to permit these feathered denizens to become acclimated, to rear their young in their regained liberty and to again become as wild as their ancestors and New Jersey will be able to offer her gunners a sport as thrilling as deer-hunting.

The wild turkey, however, is only one of the interesting products of the game farm, where the Fish and Game Commission is putting to work the dollars contributed in gunning licenses by native and non-resident gunners. In a big deer park there is a herd of native New Jersey deer that is doubling in size every two years. It now numbers seventy head and promises to be an abundant source of supply for restocking purposes. "Big game" hunting is by no means a bygone sport in the Garden State, as was shown by the records this year, when more deer were killed in the open season than in any previous year in the last ten years. This is due to intelligent preservation and to game laws well enforced, and the prospect is that deer will continue to become more plentiful yearly.

Pheasants were practically extinct in New Jersey a few years ago, but these birds now are fairly plentiful in many parts of the State. More than 3,000 pheasants were reared on the game farm this year, with incubators and bantam hens for foster mothers. Efforts are made for raising the birds to keep them as wild as possible, and the majority of the pens for the older birds are situated in the pine woods, with surroundings as wild as nature can make them. The smallest species of bantams for hatching the eggs and rearing the young chicks also have solved the problem of raising quail in captivity.

Practically every kind of game bird that can be bred in captivity is being or will be raised at the game farm. Among the varieties that are being successfully bred in addition to those previously mentioned include Mallard ducks, Canadian wild geese and Hungarian partridges.

With the inauguration of an angler's license next year the additional funds that will be available for the work of renewing the natural resources of fish and game in the State will enable the commissioners in charge of this work to greatly increase the facilities at the game farm. Money raised from gunning licenses heretofore has helped pay the expenses of the new fish hatchery at Hackettstown, but, with the anglers contributing their share toward the sport they now are able to enjoy, more funds can be used directly in game propagation here, and Superintendent Dunn can then boast of one of the biggest menageries in America, as well as a profit-sharing institution in which every sportsman in New Jersey will be a delighted shareholder.

PRESENT MISS MAHL WITH AN UMBRELLA

Miss Mae Mahl, an employe of Rosenbaum Brothers' department store for the past year and half, was this morning presented with a silver handled umbrella by her fellow employes. Miss Mahl, who has a large circle of friends in this city, leaves the first of the week for Detroit, where she expects to make her residence. Henry Rosenbaum, one of the firm, made the presentation, complimenting Miss Mahl on her efficient service, and expressing the sense of sorrow on the part of the other employes at her departure for the West.

MANY WORSHIPPERS ATTEND CHRISTMAS DAY SERVICE

Christmas day services were held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning, when Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, the pastor, preached an appropriate sermon and Christmas music was sung by the congregation.

"The service back of the Christmas season," said Dr. Zelie, "forms a solid foundation for a reality that is everlasting. In this season of goodwill, God is well pleased in the race he has created, not because of their sins, but because of its ability to absorb his goodness.

"Paul's great joy was being a messenger of the good tidings of the Christ. It we should see ourselves from God's point of view, we would rejoice with Paul in the spirit of Christmastide. Christmas cheer is not the outcome of conventional or social custom, as in its track it leaves something more solid than conventional custom."

BIG TRUCK RAMS TAXI, PASSENGER SLIGHTLY HURT

A Feigenspan brewery truck, backing into West Second street from Linke's alley, early Thursday evening, charged squarely into a taxicab from Huff's livery driven by William Cregar. The lighter vehicle did not overturn, but was jammed to the far curb and Miss Missouri F. Martin, a passenger, was slightly hurt by being hurled about the interior of the tonneau. She was showered with broken glass from demolished windows and sustained a badly wrenched arm. She was taken to her home on Sycamore avenue in a cab.

The taxicab was put out of commission by the crash, all of one side being staved in. Cregar escaped with a slight shaking up. The blame for the accident is placed on the Feigenspan driver.

MANY MOURNERS ATTEND MARTIN REGAN'S FUNERAL

The funeral services of Martin Regan were held this morning, from the residence of his cousin, Mrs. Patrick Kane, of Liberty street, and later at St. Mary's church, where a high mass of requiem was celebrated. Father Vincent Sciolla officiated. The bearers were John Sloyan, Thomas Farrell, Samuel P. Flatley, Peter Kelly, Michael Harrington and William McCarthy. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. Regan was a native of Ireland, and had been a resident of this city for some time. He leaves no immediate relatives in this city, although a number of cousins survive. He was a member of Division No. 4, A. O. H., and of Pond's Mutual Aid Society. Mr. Regan was a machinist by trade, and was employed for a long period at the shops of the Pond Machine Tool Company.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

MARTINE THRILLS SENATE WITH RHYME

Explains in Poetic Fashion His Reasons for Opposing Illiteracy Test.

Washington, Dec. 26.—It is not often that "Farmer Orator" James Edgar Martine, senior Senator from New Jersey by grace of Woodrow Wilson, fails to find language in his vocabulary of prose English to describe his picturesque homely thoughts," says the Washington correspondent of the Newark Evening News. "He is not called 'Farmer Orator' out of mere courtesy or habit. He has had a speech for every occasion and every subject that has engaged the Senate in his time.

"Mr. Martine's prose has been brilliant, sonorous and as filling as the church organ, but the News is compelled to report to the home constituents of the Senate that, not content, he has taken to reciting poetry in the Senate chamber. He has abandoned his own melodious and justly renowned prose for the poetry of some undisclosed songster.

"As always, the Senator has an explanation. He doesn't mind telling reasons for going into rhyme. He is intensely stirred by the literacy test in the immigration bill. His convictions and emotions have set him strongly against such a contrivance for keeping out immigrants. Prose, he says, has failed to give adequate expression to the feelings that heave within him. The other day came a poem, yclept 'The Man at the Gate.' Its lines stirred him; at least he told the Senate they did, so that he was moved to adopt it as his very own.

"Here it is; the Senator wants it published to the whole world so that his opposition to the literacy test may be better understood, particularly by the broad-minded members of certain 'patriotic' orders:

"The Man at the Gate."

We've dug your million ditches,
We've built your endless roads,
We've fetched your wood and water
And bent beneath the loads;
We've done the early labor,
Despised by your own breed,
And now you won't admit us
Because we cannot read!

Oh, statesmen high in Congress,
From East, West, North and South,
You render valued service,
But mostly with the mouth.
The sons are like the fathers;
Hard work is not their creed;
They won't swing picks and shovels,
But then—they all can read!

We've given honest labor,
And liked our humble lot.
Our children learn the letters
Their fathers haven't got.
We've fled from persecution
And served you in your need,
But now you would debar us
Because we cannot read!

Most crooks are educated
And to the manor born;
Their white hands show no callous;
They look on us with scorn.
Mere learing is not virtue.
The word is not the deed;
Disdain, then, not your toilers
Because we cannot read!

Good friends, if we are brothers,
Why do you raise the test?
Will talk, then, till your acres
And feed your children best?
Your children trained as idlers—
Some workers you must need;
Don't bar our only refuge
Because we cannot read!

Your farms are half deserted;
Up goes the price of bread!
Your boasted education
Turns men to clerks instead.
We bring our picks and shovels
To meet your greatest need—
Don't shut the gates upon us
Because we cannot read!

"As Mr. Martine finished his recitation up rose Senator John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, and said:

"'What enfantillage!'

"The Senator from New Jersey was shocked.

"'Enfantillage!' Who wouldn't be shocked?

"It is understood that Mr. Martine will rise to a question of personal privilege to ask if it's 'Senatorial courtesy' to shout 'enfantillage' (whatever it may mean) at a brother lawmaker, be he young or old."

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion is nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hyrdochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

Keep a Firm Hand on the Tiller.

The sails of boats are our emotions, the rudders are our characters. Our sails are breathed upon by gentle zephyrs of affection and inclination, of hope and love and of hate. They are torn by sudden gusts of passion. We are blown hither and yon by conflict of quarreling winds, driven from our course by angry squalls. The only force by means of which we can counteract the effect of the winds and hold our course is the rudder of character.

Relics of Old Persia.

Shuster, the old capital of Persia, is one of Iran's wonder cities. In the dawn of Persian civilization it took a leading part. On the bank of the only navigable river the country can boast, the city gets its name from the famous ruler, Shapur, who built great irrigating dams and a noble bridge across the Kurun, now wrongly credited to the Emperor Valerian. Sixteen hundred years have left the great bridge, a quarter of a mile in length, with yawning gaps, but the water of the river runs today through the channels and tunnels made to fertilize a land that had not yet been overrun by the Arabic barbarians who destroyed the culture of Persia.—London Mail.

Barley water is a safe and cooling drink and is nutritious as well. Put into a pitcher one large tablespoonful of well washed pearl barley, pour over it two quarts of boiling water, cover and let stand until cold. Drain off the liquid, add one-half cupful of sugar and a little nutmeg. If liked the juice of a lemon is a pleasant addition.

PROGRESS AND PROSPERITY IN PLAINFIELD

UNIFICATION OF THE COMPENSATION LAW

Efforts Being Made to Have Similar Measures in all the States.

Nearly every State in the Union has either passed a law or is about to do so, establishing the system of compulsory payment of damages to workmen who are injured in the course of their employment. The laws are not all alike; are not in many cases clearly drawn; are a prolific source of controversy, and have not resulted in the expected benefit of eliminating the lawyer from the procedure of compensating the injured. Where business is carried on by a concern in more than one State the problem of insurance against liability is the cause of much dissension and of much complication.

If a workman employed in New York State is sent to do some work in New Jersey the compensation comes under the laws of the latter State because of the established principle that the laws in the place where an accident occurs must prevail and not those of the place where the contract of employment is made. Some of the large companies send men into many States and only most expert knowledge of the various acts will solve the intricacies involved. Private compensation systems which have worked effectively, and to the complete satisfaction of the workman, have been legally discountenanced even though their terms were more generous than those named by act of Legislature.

One great trouble is that each State has attacked the problem in its own way. While advantage has been taken of laws already enacted by other States, and by various European countries, each succeeding State law is still built up to a large extent on the theories of its own people. A good deal of law has been made which is not sound, and some of it has been found to be unconstitutional. The work already done by investigators, Legislatures and courts would seem to make it comparatively simple to frame an act, were not the material at hand so involved in contradictions and opposing theories. In the States where Legislatures are now at work on workmen's compensation it is known that proposals are seriously considered which have been found unsatisfactory elsewhere.

TENEMENT-HOUSE WORK SHOWS BIG SLUMP

Tenement-house construction last week showed a sharp monetary slump, but a numerical increase, compared with the previous week, according to the plans approved by the Board of Tenement-House Supervision. Twelve grants, amounting to $56,200, were made during the last week. During the previous week ten, reaching $121,600, were issued.

Of the plans approved during the course of the week ending last Saturday, four called for new buildings at a cost of $47,000, while eight covered alterations, the estimated cost of which is to be $9,200.

JUST NOTES

The building page of Saturday, January 9, will contain a summary for the year of 1914, which should be of interest to local contractors and real estate agents for future reference.

With the closing of the year of 1914, Plainfield may rightly glory in her record for construction work during that time. Plainfield has more than held her own, all things rightly considered.

Burke & Bonham, local contractors, have secured the contract from the Atlantic county Board of Freeholders for the construction of a road commonly known as Wheat road, at Buena Vista. The local concern's bid for the work was placed at $69,519.58.

The North Plainfield Board of Education is awaiting the approval of the plans for the Harrison Avenue Schoolhouse by the State School Commissioners before proceeding any further with the work. Actual work on the proposed building will start early in the spring.

The wrecking of the old Force homestead on the new postoffice site on Watchung avenue was completed this week. It is expected that bids for the contracts for the new building will be advertised for shortly after the new year.

Outside building work has been at a standstill during the past week owing to the weather conditions. With the possible exception of a few painters, local building craftsmen who are at work inside of building which were enclosed prior to set in of the bad weather.

The opening of the New Year in this vicinity will probably witness the return to work of many of the unskilled laborers of the city and borough, with the work on the joint sewer system. The widening of East Second street, from Watchung avenue to Church street, and other street and road work will also tend to relieve the unemployment problem which is confronting the city at the present time.

George Hummer, borough contractor, secured the contract for the garage being erected on Dixie lane for C. E. Loizeaux.

Real estate operations, both in this city and the surrounding suburbs, are again resuming normal life, and the return of spring should show a marked improvement over the conditions which existed last spring and summer in this vicinity.

IN THE SUBURBS

The following sheriff sale at New Brunswick on Wednesday is recorded: Dunellen property in Chancery between Henry Wrage, complainant, and Annie Elizabeth Doty, et. al., defendants. Decree and costs, $552.11. Sold to Henry Wrage and Arthur J. Hamley, for $100.

J. Newton Apgar, contractor, of Dunellen, who has erected a number of dwellings at that place during the past season for speculative purposes, will erect another in the near future on Lincoln avenue. Mr. Apgar has recently sold the house he is now constructing on Second street, to Mrs. George Apgar, Sr., who will take possession about April 1.

South Plainfield and Fanwood still remain on the map in construction lines, and preparations are being made at both places for a busy season in 1915.

It is expected that the construction of the sewer collecting system in Dunellen will be started within the course of the next two or three weeks. It is generally expected that the presence of a modern sewerage system in the hustling suburb will mean a building boom another season.

BUILDING OPERATIONS ARE NOW AT A STANDSTILL

Building operations during the past week have been practically at a standstill owing to the inclement weather conditions, together with a holiday coming during the week. No further permits have been issued by Inspector T. O. Doane.

Very little change in the building conditions of the city is expected during the next two months by the local contractors because of the weather conditions which generally exist during this time of the year. The steady improvement of the industrial conditions throughout the country and a combination of local conditions, brightened the horizon, however, and an early spring revival of building operations is generally conceded to be anticipated for this city and the surrounding towns.

Considerable indoor work is keeping a number of the craftsmen busy during the bad weather, but this type of work will probably give way long before the break of spring.

INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS SHOW EXCELLENT RESULTS

Trenton, Dec. 16.—One hundred and ten industrial plants ceased to operate in New Jersey in 1913, and 192 began operations, a net gain of eighty-two establishments. These figures are given by the annual report of the Bureau of Industrial Statistics, submitted to Governor Fielder recently. Of the withdrawing concerns ninety-eight reported their withdrawal as due to inability to continue profitably and the remaining twelve moved to other States, three of them going to Pennsylvania.

The previous year's report from the withdrawing establishments shows an aggregate capital of $12,006,763; the cost value of material used, $6,477,411; the selling value of all products, $11,388,826; the amount paid in wages, $2,611,398, and the number of wage earners employed, 5,989. Thirty-three of these plants were located in Newark; thirteen in Paterson, five in Jersey City, five in Trenton and three in Camden.

The report says that, deducting the losses sustained by the moving away of the 110 plants, the net gains to the industries of the State are as follows: In capital invested, $31,652,192; in stock or material used, $21,320; in selling value of all products, $32,082,848; in amount paid in wages, $4,814; in average number of wage earners employed, 7,350.

STATE LOAN ASSOCIATIONS MAKE GREAT PROGRESS

Trenton, Dec. 26.—Substantial progress has been made by the building and loan associations of the State during the past year, according to the annual report of Banking and Insurance Commissioner George M. La Monte, which was filed with Governor Fielder recently. He showed that the number of these associations in New Jersey has now reached the large total of 758, a net increase for the past year of 34. The number of new associations incorporated was 44, and ten discontinued business.

Essex county leads the State with 310 associations; Hudson county comes next, with 90; Camden county is third with 79; Bergen county is fourth with 48; Union county is fifth with 42, and the remaining 189 societies are distributed among the other 16 counties.

The new associations formed during the year were distributed as follows. Atlantic county, 2; Bergen county, 1; Camden county, 5; Cape May county, 1; Cumberland county, 1; Essex county, 17; Hudson county, 7; Gloucester county, 2; Mercer county, 2; Middlesex county, 3, and Union county, 3. Of the ten associations that quit business, 3 were in Newark; 2 were in Camden; 1 in South Orange, and 1 in Strathmere. In two cases in Newark, two associations were merged into one; 1 in Jersey City also was merged into another one.

ROSELLE PARK PLANS TO BUILD BORO HALL

Roselle Park, Dec. 26—The old Shakespearian truth, "What's in a name; a rose by any other name would smell as sweet," was recalled in a vigorous verbal battle in the Roselle Park Council chamber, but none of the arguments of Mayor Harwood Fish and Borough Attorney Martin P. O'Connor, would appease Councilmen Bender and Johnson at the Council session. So with the Council divided, the resolution calling for a public election on Tuesday, January 26, to secure an appropriation of $12,000 for the erection of a borough hall, was put to a vote and passed on Mayor Fish's deciding ballot.

TOTAL COST OF BUILDING OPERATIONS IN 1913

According to figures which have just been issued by the United States Geological Survey, the total cost of building in operations in 1913 in the 147 cities from which it obtained its data was $859,657,250. In 108 of these cities the new wooden buildings erected cost $174,197,886 and new brick buildings $226,473,584. All other buildings cost $15,894,022. In 48 of the largest cities of the country the cost was $659,515,746, as compared with $738,989,710 in 1912.

The largest amount of building construction projected was in New York city, where total building operations aggregated $107,104,707, but this represents a decrease of $56,414,655 as compared with the previous year. Most of the cities which showed increases in 1912 showed decreases in 1913, while a few of the cities which showed decreases in 1912 showed increases in 1913. The latter statement is true, however, only with regard to the smaller cities.

The largest increase in any city was in Chicago, where the amount of building in 1913 was estimated to cost $6,492,527 more than in 1912.

NOTES FROM LABOR FIELD

The Alabama peonage law has been declared invalid by the United States Supreme Court.

From the report of charities in Chicago, it is learned that one resident in every ten accepts charity.

Despite press reports, the strike of the shop employes of the Illinois Central and Harriman lines is still on.

A Chicago decision exempts corporations engaged in interstate commerce from the provisions of the Illinois compensation act.

In the Textile Manufacturers' Journal, a writer states that only 5,000 children under 14 are working in American mills. He ascribes higher figures to "muckrakers."

The Ohio attorney-general has ruled that injured workmen may sue employers not connected with the compensation act.

The General Fire Extinguishers Company of America has decided to recognize the plumbers and steamfitters union at its numerous plants.

The Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad has confessed judgment in 14 to 19 suits, several of which were under the hours of service act.

The New York Supreme Court upholds the law that every employe must have at least twenty-four hours of rest in each week. A Buffalo packing house was found guilty of violation.

The typographical union has voted down a provision for an extra per capita tax of 5 cents per month to enlarge the printers' home in Colorado.

Dr. Henry J. Waters, of Kansas Agricultural College, surprised Missourians by the statement that 51 per cent. of Missouri income is from factories.

Glass workers in Pennsylvania are getting back much of the reduction in wages which has gradually grown to 40 per cent. A big boom is reviving the old scale.

Tommy Began Running After the Children.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Terrors Of Country Life.

"IT will make you kiddies laugh when I tell you that city children are afraid of cows and geese and roosters," said daddy as the kiddies cuddled down before the fire to listen to the evening story.

"No; are they really, daddy?" asked Jack and Evelyn, laughing at the very notion of any one being afraid of cows and geese and roosters.

"I'll tell you about two little children who had lived in the city all their lives and had never been nearer to an animal of any sort than to watch it through the bars of the city zoo.

"But, of course, the zoo does not have cows and geese and roosters running about, and all the other animals are behind bars, so children are not afraid of them.

"So when Marjorie and her little brother Ben were invited to the country to visit last summer they had no idea that animals ran around in the fields without being behind bars as they were in the city.

"Of course the morning after they arrived they were up bright and early to go out in the grass and play, and as a great treat their mamma permitted them to go barefoot.

"It was lovely out in the fields. The dew was still fresh on the long grass, and they were permitted to run through it all they wished, too, without being told to keep off the grass, as they were in the city parks.

"Then all of a sudden Marjorie gave a shrill scream and, taking hold of little Ben's hand, began to run as fast as she could, dragging the little boy along with her.

"What do you think she had seen, kiddies? Why, a red and white spotted cow walking toward them, peacefully chewing her cud!

"But the funny part comes now. They crawled through the fence into the barnyard, and then such a quacking and hissing and squawking! They had got into the midst of a flock of geese that were lusily drinking a big pan of delicious sour milk.

"Then they ran faster than ever, and big Tommy, the barnyard pet, a rooster their aunt had had in the family for several years, thinking no doubt that all this was a game played for his especial benefit, began running after the children.

"When the door of the farmhouse was reached the children ran, sobbing, into mother's arms.

"Their aunt laughed, but their mother knew that the scare was not a laughing matter."

The Wife's Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Oh, Madge, have you heard the news?" asked Alice Dunston, entering the house accompanied by a gust of wind that swept the papers from the library table.

"What news do you mean?" asked her sister, repairing the mischief of the gale and putting the table in order.

"George Hunter has lost his position!" and Anna Thurston took off her hat and sat down with it on her lap, with her hands on the radiator.

"Why, how did that happen?" asked Madge, taking the hat and putting it away.

"I'm afraid it's just another case of 'down and out.' You know he's way past fifty. I can't imagine what they will do," and Anna knitted her brows in thought.

"They can't be very hard up. George has always earned a good salary and Constance has taught ever since the baby was big enough to leave with the grandmother. She hated housework and when they offered her the position the salary looked good to her. I suppose George consented; anyway, Constance always did exactly as she pleased."

"Take off your gloves. You'll ruin them on that hot radiator," and Madge began unbuttoning her young sister's coat in a motherly fashion.

"May Fisk is Ethel Hunter's most intimate friend," continued the girl. "She was talking about the situation this morning. She assures me that they have always lived up to their income, that they have nothing but their home."

"I can't understand how people can do that," came from the closet where Madge had gone to hang up the coat. "Surely they know that the salary earning days are limited."

"Oh, they are frightfully extravagant. The mother spent almost all her salary on herself and Ethel. Such loads of clothes as they bought! The father's salary kept the house going in the most extravagant fashion. Their electric bill must be enormous, for the house is a blaze of light every night, and May says the waste in the kitchen is unbelievable. She has seen Ethel throw away the yolk of an egg because the recipe called only for the white, when eggs were forty cents a dozen, and all the butter left on the butter plates was given to the dog," said Anna, seating herself with the darning basket.

"They still have Mrs. Hunter's salary, but it will take some time to adjust themselves to living on that," said Madge, bringing her thimble and seating herself by Anna.

"That is what they will have to do, I am afraid, for Mr. Hunter has never done but the one thing. He went into that business as soon as he finished high school and has worked up from the bottom. He is the dearest man, but he has no push. I can't imagine him getting on in a new business," continued Anna.

"How about Ethel? Can't she help out?" asked Madge.

"She is not through college. I do not know what she is fitting herself to do."

"Well, it will be necessary to learn to economize. Some girls never learn it until they are face to face with a hard condition. She never had any example at home, so it is not strange that she knows nothing of it. It will be very hard for all of them and it is all unnecessary. If they had looked ahead and prepared for a rainy day everything would have been easy."

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

At this season of "Peace on Earth, Goodwill Towards Men," when all through the world gifts are being given and received in honor and memory of the birth of the Prince of Peace, it must surely seem more fitting to present the following appeal than to forward political propaganda, either of aggression or protest.

It is useless to question whether or no the war clouds have been prevented.

They envelope a large territory and without questioning the causes, we must do all in our power to alleviate the suffering which is the effect of their presence.

It has been asked that this cry for help for thousands of men, women and children should be given the widest possible publicity, and so at this moment it is issued in the name of the Saviour, who relieved suffering and gave His help and blessing wherever they were needed without questioning if that suffering was caused by Sin or Error.

R. A. LAWRENCE.

To the Editor of The Times:

Your readers will be gratified to learn the results of the appeal you recently published from my sister, Mrs. Nina L. Duryea, in behalf of the wounded and Belgian refugees at Dinard. They are described in a private letter to me, which has just arrived, dated October 22, to wit:

"I have received over 2,000 francs already, from my appeal in the Times. I sent 500 francs to London, and bought splendid flannel and yarn. Then I advertised in the tiny paper here for knitters and plain sewers, and I pay them a small wage to back large chest and back protectors. The yarn I am having knitted into wristers and stomach bands—so nice and warm for the poor soldiers. Thus, the poor are helped to earn, and the wounded are benefitted. I have Mrs. Bell to help select the workers, because she knows well who of the poor are most deserving and wretched. Only yesterday a poor creature whose husband had been killed, had a baby. I gave her all the clothes the poor little naked stranger needed. It was heart-touching to see her thankful surprise. We now have over 4,000 wounded soldiers here, besides several thousand homeless and helpless starving Belgian refugees. We are so far in the west that no Red Cross help has reached us and yet the whole country is filled with sufferers, who are wholly dependent upon the limited help we can furnish. If possible, get people to ship me a case of half worn coats and trousers. The slightly wounded have to stay in bed while their ragged uniforms are cleaned and mended. A group of eight little girls arrived recently with a batch of refugees, having partly walked and partly carried nearly 200 miles, their parents having either been killed, or lost in the wild flight, and so young that not one of them knew their names or where their homes had been. Paris has its millionaires, with many splendid hospitals, while we are dependent upon our own personal means. So, do ask people to deny themselves just a little—a cigar or a cocktail each day, or an evening at the play, and send up each their contribution. We have had not one adequate surgeon, but at last a fine Englishman had come, but he has exhausted his supply of anesthetics, and many are dying from the shock and pain of operating without it. It is sickening! Ask people to help us, and they will receive blessings forever."

The undersigned will gladly receive contributions of money or clothing, which will be promptly accounted for and acknowledged.

Yours respectfully,

WAR HORRORS IN WESTERN FRANCE.

A Private Letter From the Legation for Sweden.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16, 1914.

George Stuart Smith,
18 Broadway, New York.

Dear Sir:

I saw in the New York Times of November 15, Mrs. Duryea's letter from Dinard, and I am greatly interested, as my sister, Mrs. Deming Jarves, is now there, co-operating with your sister, Mrs. Duryea. I will send you a box, as I know Mrs. Duryea, and admire her very much, and am anxious to help.

I will enclose a letter from my sister, and also my husband's card. (The card of the Minister from Sweden.)

Dinard, France, Oct. 16.

Since the war began and especially since the great battles of the Marne and the Aisne, the number of the wounded has been overwhelming, over 450,000.

We have here in Brittany alone over 42,000 and with the great demands on London and Paris, and all France from the Alps to the Pyrenees and from Nice to Calais, the supplies have practically given out.

Doctors and nurses are almost impossible to get, and as for bandages, medicines and ambulance necessities they are like the treasures of kings.

The French Red Cross was very rich, but in the retreat after the disastrous defeats of Mons and Charleroi, they lost immense supplies. All their sheets, compresses, medicines, outfits entire, in fact many of the nurses and doctors were wounded and killed.

The British and French soldiers threw away even their coats, so you may imagine there was no time for hospital necessities. No one who has not been here and seen the mere fragments of men who are brought in here daily, can realize the deadliness of the modern guns.

We are doing what we can, but alas! we are poor and feeble, and far removed from help.

Even if we had the money it is impossible to buy things. Almost all wools have been exhausted, gauze and anti-tetanique serum are very difficult to get and cotton is disappearing.

Let me tell you a few things we are doing here in Dinard. We have now and shall have in their neighborhood, within a radius of five miles, until the war ends over 5,000 wounded. In Dinard we have turned all the large hotels and casinos into hospitals, ten in all, not including two private ones, about 3,000 beds. At St. Lunaire, "a suburb," 4 hospitals, 680 beds. At St. Malo and Parame, two miles away, five others with between 1,200 and 1,500 beds.

The trains are full of soldiers going to the front, or wounded coming back, besides the immense food trains, and to write to Paris for necessities is hopeless. Either the shops cannot supply you or the railroad company refuse to bring large consignments so far.

The whole of Belgium and the north of France, where the great factories were, is a blackened desert. The desolation and destruction in Belgium is impossible to describe. But to return to Dinard: All able-bodied women are nurses, no matter how ignorant, but one cannot leave the poor suffering creatures without some help. Last week 380 men were sent in at 6 o'clock in the morning without warning. We all went at once, but there were so few doctors that some of the men did not get their wounds dressed until the following day and they had been travelling for four days, and some died. A friend sent word to say that she had sixteen dressings to do at once, and not one bandage. All the old linen, and many new sheets, have been used and now we have no gauze for compresses, no anti-tetanique serum, very small quantity of iodine and almost alcohol, the latter being used to make powder.

Many of the men have lain in marshes and wet ditches for weeks. As you know, the battle of the Aisne has lasted for four weeks. When the wounded come in the first thing is to wash their feet, hands and face—one man whom I helped told me that his boots had not been off since August 12.

I have founded a little sewing class to make mufflers, chest protectors, wristlets and socks to give to those who are in danger of pneumonia or rheumatism. Of course it is impossible to give to all who go, as with thousands constantly coming and going, no one could attempt it, but we give to the most urgent cases, praying it may save the poor fellows some extra suffering, perhaps their lives.

Now what I want especially is good wool, either to knit into socks and wristlets, or to make up by the yard for mufflers and chest protectors. That fleecy woven wool is especially good.

I have written an endless letter. Pray believe that I would not bother you by such voumes, if we were not in such pressing need.

Household Hints

TEACHING MANNERS TO THE CAT.

So many of us have pet cats that have the bad habit of climbing on the table. To break them of this habit, try this plan:

Have a piece of fish or meat in the middle of table, with several sheets of sticky fly paper around it. Then leave the room, and when pussy goes after the meat she will get on the sticky paper; after she has worked a while trying to free herself, only to get in a worse fix, help her to get off the paper and see if this does not teach her better manners.

If you keep both a cat and bird, take Kitty up to the bird cage, and as she grabs for the bird, give her a dose of snuff. This will keep her forever away from the bird cage.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

To Kindle Coal Fire With Paper—Tear any wastepaper into pieces a foot square. Twist each piece in the middle, leaving the ends fluffy. Use 15 or 20 twists. Push all rubbish to the back of firepot, so the grate is clear. Pile papers in clearing and on them put a shovel of coal about size of walnuts and smaller. Close door and put lighted paper in ashpan. The burning paper lights the coal and you have a fire in less time than with wooden kindlers.

When laundering tablecloth never wring through the wringer; just squeeze out enough to hang up. When dry it does not contain the little dark lines so hard to iron out of linen, and irons much easier. When ironing tablecloth, fold twice lengthwise and then begin at one end and fold cornerwise, pressing well each time, until all folded up. This looks very pretty when unfolded. Napkins look nice ironed to match.

THE TABLE

Corn Bread—One cup sweet milk, one-half cup sugar, two tablespoons butter, two cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one cup corn meal.

Old-Fashioned Ginger Snaps (inexpensive and good)—One cup molasses, two-thirds cup white sugar, half cup shortening, one teaspoon ginger, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon soda dissolved in two tablespoons vinegar; flour to roll quite stiff. Bake in quick oven. This amount will make 50 cookies, ginger snap size.

Snow Cake—Cream one cup butter, beat into it gradually two cups sugar; then add alternately one cup milk and four cups sifted flour sifted again with six level teaspoons baking powder; flavor with one teaspoon vanilla extract, and add, last, the whites of six eggs beaten dry.

Baked Oyster Loaf—Use a round loaf of stale bread. Cut off top crust and scoop out all the inside, being careful not to break crust. Break up crumbs very fine and fry in four tablespoons hot butter. Cook together one tablespoon butter and two tablespoons flour; add two cups milk and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Season with one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper; set aside to cool. Drain about 1½ pints oysters (saving the liquor for soup or flavoring sauces, etc.). Put layer of cream sauce in the loaf, on this a thick layer of oysters, sprinkling with one-fourth teaspoon salt; then scatter over sweet chopped green peppers, then a layer of the fried bread crumbs. Fill loaf in this way, having top layer crumbs. Bake in moderate oven one-half hour.

Squash Pie—Beat two eggs, add half cup sugar, then two cups prepared squash, one-fourth teaspoon salt, half teaspoon each of ginger and cinnamon; then add one tablespoon flour, and, lastly, one cup milk gradually. Line pie plate with pastry and pour on it the mixture. Bake slowly. Can also be made without eggs by adding more flour.

Christmas Caraway Cakes—Into one-fourth pound sifted flour stir one pound sugar, one ounce caraway seed, one teaspoon baking powder, a little salt; to this add a piece of butter size of a large egg, beaten to a cream, and three eggs well beaten. Roll thin and cut with a round or fancy cutter. Bake in moderate oven 15 minutes. Brush top of cakes with milk, then sift over soft sugar. If you do not have caraway seed, use coriander or dried currants.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR
You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur.
When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally so evenly. Preparing this mixture though, at home is mussy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears and, after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.
Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger.—Adv.

3COOP, THE CUB REPORTER — THE INTERNATIONAL FLAG OF TRUCE — BY "HOP"

HUNT FOR SAN FRANCISCO CONSUL IN SHANGHAI

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 26.—International complications are believed to have been averted by the action of John C. Davis, collector of the Port of San Francisco, when he refused to permit the steamer Olson & Mahoney to leave port, on suspicion that its cargo of supplies was intended for the German fleet, recently wiped out off the Falkland Islands.

Maurice A. Hall, acting Turkish consul in San Francisco, and agent of the North German Lloyd steamship line, is believed to be the mysterious "Arthur S. Hall" who paid by check for the cargo of food supplies aboard the steamer. It is understood that the British government is on the watch at Shanghai, China, for Hall and his companion in mystery, Arthur S. Williams, who sailed December 5 from Puget Sound on the lumber steamer Christian Bors under the Norwegian flag.

Hall is the son of the Turkish consul, and was acting consul until he disappeared the first of the month. He is an American citizen, and as such would be liable, if found guilty of violating this country's neutrality, to a fine and imprisonment. As consul of Turkey the civil laws could not reach him, but the federal government could proceed either by criminal process or diplomatic methods to effect punishment.

It has developed that $130,000 was deposited, in four checks, on November 23; then $9,000 in currency and again $12,000 in currency were deposited, and the whole sum was drawn out within the next week by checks for the supplies for the Olson & Mahoney.

THE young married man of 30 faces many responsibilities.

None of these is more important than that of the future welfare of his family.

He can provide well for this if he can afford to save, say, about 50 cents a day.

If he does this it will buy him a life insurance policy for $10,000.

And, of course, his family is surely worth that saving to him.

SERVICE

A 4% SAVING PLAN

The opportunity is presented to the people of Plainfield to acquire the "habit" of systematic saving. We have been a nation of spenders, but there is ample evidence that people are now seriously considering the matter of laying aside a portion of their income regularly, and no better method for saving in a systematic way can be found than that offered by our four per cent. saving bond plan, which we heartily commend to anyone having a regular fixed income as a method by which he may lay aside automatically a regular amount monthly, to be used when the unexpected happens or for some particular purpose.

Many objects for such saving readily suggest themselves—a fund for the higher education of son or daughter; a capital fund with which to take advantage of investment opportunities; a fund to start a son in business; money to pay off a possible mortgage on the home; money to defray the expenses of some long onticipated trip; and last, but not least, a fund to provide against the exigencies of misfortune that may some day overtake you. Any of these objects should be sufficient to stimulate a desire to make a beginning, and a beginning once made will be easy to continue.

The operation of the plan is as follows: An Installment Bond in denomination of from $40 to $1,000 is purchased, the first payment being from $1 to $25. A similar payment is made monthly, and at the end of 38 months, all that has been paid in may be withdrawn, together with 4% interest. In the meantime, if necessity requires it, 80% of the paid-in value may be borrowed. OR payments may be discontinued and the amount paid in withdrawn at any time. Begin now while the suggestion is before you. Save to save and not to spend.

MANY ENJOYED CHRISTMAS MUSIC

Church Choirs Present Elaborate Yuletide Programs.

ORCHESTRAS ASSISTED

The Singing of Cantatas and Old-Time Carols and Other Numbers Please Large Congregations—Sunday Schools Celebrate.

Many of the local churches observed Christmastide, yesterday, when choirs and quartets presented special musical programs and the pastors preached sermons appropriate to the season. The edifices were thronged with worshippers and the services were greatly enjoyed. The programs were as follows:

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Christmas services were held at the First Presbyterian church, yesterday morning, the children of the beginners' and primary departments taking part in the program. The church was decorated with greens and red bells and a large star hung over the organ. The exercises were in charge of R. H. Radford in the absence of Superintendent L. H. Gates. The children marched into the church where the exercises were held.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring gave the little children a short talk and Miss Ruth Sadler, soprano soloist, rendered "Holy Night" for the offertory. The choir also sang an anthem, "There Were Shepherds." The program was as follows: Beginners' department, recitations, Robert Morton, Adele Texier, Mildred Bonham and Claude Banghart; song, Katherine Koch; song, by the class; song, Katherine Koch and the class; primary department, song, "Once a Golden Star," class; recitation, "A Serious Question," Phillip Russell; song, "The Dear Baby Jesus," class; recitation, "A Precious Gift," Elizabeth Price; recitation, "He Gave Us Je-

RECREATION COMMITTEE TO HAVE A NEW YEAR'S DANCE

Plans have been completed for a reception and dance to be given under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee in the Plainfield High School auditorium Friday night. An elaborate program of entertainment is in the course of preparation and Squires' orchestra has been engaged to furnish the terpsichorean music.

The High School auditorium has the finest dancing hall in the city, and despite the fact that several other social functions have been arranged for that night the Recreation Committee is making arrangements to entertain a large number. A subscription fee of fifteen cents has been set for the affair and dancing will be enjoyed until 12 o'clock on this night instead of 10:45 as has been the rule previously.

SPRUCE TREE STOLEN FROM GEORGE P. MELLICK'S LAWN

George P. Mellick, of 218 East Seventh street, has offered a $25 reward in another column of this issue for the arrest and conviction of the individual who destroyed a spruce tree on his bungalow property on Woodland avenue. The depredation was committed shortly before Christmas and the culprit evidently cut down the tree to use it as an Xmas ornament.

Other property owners in the residential section of the city have been annoyed by similar thefts in other years and should the culprit be caught he will no doubt be dealt with severely.

MADE MANY HAPPY HEARTS AT THE HOSPITAL

The pupils of The Plainfield Seminary were the means of making many happy hearts on Christmas Day by their generous gifts to the hospital. Christmas trees, greens and pretty toys for the children were much in evidence and the eight children in the new children's ward had a happy time.

Miss Arnold and the Seminary pupils did much in making a Merry Christmas at the hospital. Miss Margaret Yates, in memory of her mother, also sent to the hospital a handsome Christmas tree with the usual Christmas ornaments.

DAVID W. KING DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Well Known Resident Passed Away at His Home in the Borough Last Night.

David Webster King, aged 56 years, one of the best known residents of North Plainfield, died about 9 o'clock last night at his home on Craig place, following an illness of more than a year with complications. Throughout his long illness, during which he was a great sufferer, he bore his affliction with unusual patience until the end. He made a brave fight to recover his health and strength, but without avail.

Mr. King was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James King. His father died many years ago and his mother died within the past year at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. B. Heath, on Greenbrook road, the borough. Mr. King was born at New town, L. I., and had been a resident of the borough for more than thirty years. He married Miss Amanda Smalley, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William L. Smalley, who with two daughters, the Misses Ethel and Gertrude King, and one sister, Mrs. A. B. Heath, of the borough, and one brother, Mott King, of Waverly, N. Y., survive.

Mr. King was employed for a number of years by the late Edward White when he was engaged in the dry goods business and in later years held a position with The Prudential Insurance Company. He was a members of the First Baptist church. The funeral will be held at the late home Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong of the First Baptist church, will be in charge.

50TH ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING DAY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Buckelew Observe Happy Event.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Buckelew of West Fifth street, quietly observed their sixtieth wedding anniversary at their home, yesterday, with their children and grandchildren all present. Mr. Buckelew was originally from New Brunswick and was married in 1854. He is the last of a family of eight children and his wife is the last of a family of seven. They came to this city in 1868. He was United States inspector of steam vessels until his retirement about a year ago.

Mr. Buckelew is a member of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers and is a veteran of the Civil War, having been an engineer in the navy. For twenty-five years he was manager of the New York office of the Ashton Valve Company, and his son, Charles W. Buckelew, of North Plainfield, now holds his father's position. Mr. and Mrs. Buckelew have three children and several grandchildren, all being present at the gathering yesterday. The couple received many value and useful gifts in commemoration of the event.

Mrs. Buckelew is the daughter of Asa Fitz Randolph and Raphael Van Fitz Randolph and is the only living grandchild of Edward Fitz Randolph who guided General George Washington to Washington Rock during the Revolutionary War.

INFORMAL DANCE GIVEN AT THE PARK CLUB

The informal dance at the Park Club, Saturday evening, was attended by a large number of members and friends, and proved to be an enjoyable social function. The music was furnished by VanEps Brothers, the program, as usual, being a popular one. During an intermission late in the evening refreshments were served.

The affair was given under the direction of the entertainment committee, which has arranged a number of similar functions for the winter season.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

Mrs. Louis Augusta Kegel, of West Fifth street, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Augusta Kegel, to Robert Jahn, formerly of Scotch Plains, but at present living in the West. Mr. Jahn is visiting in the city over the holiday season, and will return to Billings, Montana, after the first of the year to take a position as manager of a sheet metal concern. Both Miss Kegel and Mr. Jahn have a wide circle of friends in this city. No date has been set for the wedding.

FEATHERED STOCK BEGINS ITS REIGN

Prize Beauties Being Shown in Columbus Club Auditorium This Week.

INSTRUCTIVE FEATURES

Evening Program An Interesting One—Exhibits From All Parts of the State—Judging in All Classes Begins Tomorrow Morning.

Choice specimens of the feathered tribe are arrayed in the Columbus Club auditorium for the annual Great Quality Poultry Show, which opened today under the auspices of the New Jersey Association for Poultry Improvement and present indications point to one of the finest exhibitions ever conducted in this section. Numbering close to a thousand, the birds represent every class and breed and have been sent by fanciers in all parts of New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania. The Columbus Club offers an ideal setting for such an event and the success of the organization in securing this rendezvous is expected to play a big part in placing the 1914 show on a high pedestal of superiority.

Many fine pens and individual prize winners have been placed in the show room and more birds are expected to arrive before the judging starts tomorrow morning. Numerous handsome prizes and ribbons have been offered and it is expected that local entrants will come in for a big share of the awards. The general survey indicates that the show this year is bigger and better than any of its predecessors and will probably attract interested poultry raisers from a wide radius. The judging will be in charge of Henry P. Schwab, of Irondequoit, N. Y.; Reese V. Hicks, of Brown's Mills, N. J., and Louis Paul Graham, of Vineland, N. J., and will begin at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. A new idea which will prove advantageous to both the judges and visitors has been adopted this year. This method does away with the old-time catalogue system and substitutes the name and address of the exhibitor on every cage and pen.

Special features have been arranged for the night exhibits this week, instructive demonstrations being the leading numbers. Thomas Lindsey, owner of the Netherwood Farms, will have charge of this work. William J. Trembath is the show secretary and he is being ably assisted by a large corps of busy workers.

AUTO VICTIM TRIED TO RUN WITH BROKEN LEG

Displaying stocism characteristic of his race, Alphone Guaunio, a nine-year-old Italian boy, was hit by an automobile in the crowded section of West Front street, Saturday afternoon and, although his leg was broken the youth picked himself up and made an effort to escape the clutches of his would-be benefactors. Despite his protests against being removed to the hospital the youth was finally landed in that institution where the break was set.

After being placed in a ward he started another rumpus and made further efforts to escape from the hospital. In order to prevent him from disturbing other patients and to keep him at the hospital it was necessary to place him in a semi-private room.

MAJOR MARTIN 30 YEARS IN THE GUARD

Former Plainfield Rifle Expert Observes Anniversary Quietly.

Major William B. Martin, formerly of this city, has just completed thirty years of continuous service in the National Guard of New Jersey. Although he did not observe the honorable record with any celebration he has received congratulations through the mail from all parts of the State and nation. Beginning as a private in Company C, Third Regiment, he has promoted as a result of faithful and efficient service, until today as major he is commander of the First Battalion of the Second Regiment Company C having been transferred to the Second in 1899.

Recognized throughout the country as one of the leading figures in the National Guard, Major Martin has gained even greater fame as a marksman. Competing with the best sharpshooters in the world he has been successful in many famous competitions. Returning from the Olympic games in England in 1908, where he competed as a member of the victorious American team, and tied for the world's individual championship, he was tendered a public reception by the citizens of Elizabeth. In 1909 he again distinguished himself as a marksman, winning the military championship of the United States which is considered as equivalent to the championship of the world by military men.

Since the war with Spain, Mr. Martin's rise in the National Guard has been steady and consistent. The year 1902 brought him three promotions. From battalion adjutant he was chosen captain and inspector of rifle practice of the Second Infantry. Four months later he was elected captain of Company K, in this city. After serving five years he was appointed major, in which he is now serving his eighth year.

COLD HAMPERS FIRE FIGHTERS

Threatening Blaze Discovered in Eames' Hat Store Early Yesterday.

DAMAGE HELD TO $800

Fire Captain Slightly Injured in Fall Through Trap Door—W. W. Warnock's Place Again Affected by Smoke.

An early morning blaze, the origin of which is unknown, was discovered shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday in the cellar of the Eames' hat store on West Front street by a patrolman. When Chief Doane arrived with the fire fighting corps from the central portion of the city, in response to an alarm from box No. 12, the entire one-story structure, of which the Eames store is a part, was enveloped in smoke and the fire was eating its way through from the Eames cellar to that of W. W. Warnock, the baker, whose place adjoins the hat store. Good work by the firemen in checking the flames kept the loss down to a minimum figure and it was said this morning that the aggregate damage would amount to but $800, which is fully covered by insurance.

The fire had evidently been burning for some time when the firemen forced their way into the hat store. The thick, black smoke made the task of getting at the heart of the flames a difficult one and for sometime it looked as though the structure, which is owned by Harry Dreier and Morris Abrams, was doomed.

The blaze ate its way through the side walls and the flooring of the hat store and the entire stock, much of which had been recently received, was destroyed. The large plate glass windows and doors in the hat store were broken to bits by the intense heat. Finding its way through crevices and flooring the smoke rapidly filled the bakery store occupied by Mr. Warnock, and his entire stock was totally destroyed by the fumes.

This is the third blaze that has affected Mr. Warnock's place of business during the past year. On December 3, 1913, when he was a tenant in the Dey building at Park and North avenues, a fire in the barber shop next door caused a large amount of water and smoke damage in his store and shortly afterwards a blaze in another portion of the same building caused some water damage to his stock. It has been a peculiar feature in each of the fires, however, that Mr. Warnock has not been affected by the flames, water and smoke being his worst enemies. None of the blazes started in his part of the two buildings and in each case not even the walls dividing his store from the heart of the fire were demolished. Mr. Warnock has been forced to discontinue his business temporarily pending an adjustment from the insurance companies, but will resume trade again on Wednesday. Some idea of the density of the smoke may be obtained when the fact that a valuable cat which was asleep in the front part of the Warnock store, was found suffocated, and layers of black soot are visible on all parts of the mouldings and show-cases.

In bringing a line of hose into the building, Captain Feiring, of Engine Company No. 1, slipped through a trap-door and sustained a bad shaking up. The open space was hidden from view by the thick smoke and the men knew nothing of it until the captain disappeared into the cellar.

Yesterday morning was one of the coldest of the year and the firemen suffered intensely during the time they worked on the blaze. The water froze solid as fast as it was thrown on the building and the men were coated with layers of ice.

1915 XMAS CLUB IS OPENED TODAY

The Plainfield Trust Company Building Thronged With Patrons Eager to Save.

The new Christmas Club was opened this morning by the Plainfield Trust Company and all day its building has been thronged by those who are eager to save their money through the agency of this very effective plan. Hundreds have already joined and it is anticipated that the 1915 Club will be more popular than the three preceding ones. There is something about the plan which induces people to save money in spite of themselves and a great many of those who received checks last week from the 1914 Club testified to the fact that they had never before been able to accumulate so substantial a sum. The Company's suggestion that the Club be used as a means of meeting taxes, coal bills, etc., has met with a hearty response in the past and will doubtless do so again while the original plan for saving for Christmas gifts will always make a strong appeal to the people, as well as to the merchants who, of course, reap the benefit of it.

The 1915 Club is operating four classes: The 5c class which begins at 5c and progresses at the rate of 5c each week till it reaches $2.50; class 5-A which begins at $2.50 and decreases by 5c each week till it reaches 5c; class 100 in which even payments of $1.00 are made weekly, and class 500, the new feature of the 1915 Club, calling for weekly payments of $5.00. Members will be received between now and January 9th and the club will run for fifty weeks.

SUES THE BOROUGH OF BOUND BROOK

Lewis T. Churchill Seeks to Set Aside Awarding of Contract.

Trenton, Dec. 28—Lewis T. Churchill, of Dunellen, has brought a suit in the Supreme Court against the Mayor and Council, of Bound Brook, to set aside the awarding of a contract to make an assessment map for the borough.

Churchill alleges that his bid for the work was $500 while the borough authorities gave the contract to Franklin A. Dunham, of Plainfield, upon his bid of $1,125. Justice Parker has made an order requiring the Mayor and Council to show cause in Jersey City, January 9, why a writ of centiorari should not be issued to review the awarding of the contract.

SOME ADVANCES MADE IN BELGIUM

French War Office Says 800 Yards of Trenches Have Been Taken by Allies.

AIR BATTLES REPORTED

Attacks Made on Cuxhaven by English Aviators and on Metz by the French—Little New in Russian Situation.

Paris, Dec. 28.—Some advances in Belgium, and cannonades at several points and the yelding of 800 yards of trenches by the Germans are announced in the official bulletin given out by the French war office at 2 o'clock this afternoon. It says:

"In Belgium we continue to advance. To the west of Lombaertzyde we have actually gained a foothold upon which the enemy had established his lines of resistance. To the south of Ypres we have lost part of a trench.

"Near Hollebeke, in the region of Lens, and near Carency the enemy has yielded 800 yards of trenches of the first line before our attack.

"In the valley of the Aisne and in Champagne there have been cannonades, particularly intense in the region of Rheims and in that of Ferthes where the enemy has paid particular attention to the position which we captured west of that locality.

"On the heights of the Meuse there has been slight progress by our troops along the entire front. In the Vosges the enemy has bombarded the station of St. Die, but the railway service has not been interrupted. In upper Alsace to the northeast of Steinbach a German counter attack has been repulsed."

TO PRESENT TRAGEDY, A FARCE AND A ROMANCE

The Yale University Dramatic Association, which will present four one-act plays in the New Plainfield Theatre on the evening of December 31, was seen here two years ago in Tolstoi's "Fruits of Culture." This, it will be remembered, was a play of Russian life.

The reasons for the change of policy from producing plays of considerable length to that of giving a number of short ones is that this latter course affords a more ample opportunity for a wider scope of dramatic portrayal. It is believed that two tragedies, a farce, and a romance will embody all the more important phases of dramatic action.

Plainfield will be the ninth stop of the 1914 itinerary. The association will appear first in Springfield, Mass.; Providence, Boston, Albany, Montclair, Washington, Pittsburgh and Scranton. The last performance will be given at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn on the following day.

LEROY VOORHEES IS THROWN FROM HIS AUTO

The part of the front axle of a Stoddard-Dayton "5" passenger touring car known as the knuckle, broke on New Market road, Saturday night, between Seventh street and the Whittier School, throwing the sole occupant of the car, LeRoy Voorhees, son of Edward V. H. Voorhees, of the Plainfield grain firm of VanZandt & Voorhees, into the roadway. Although the roadway was hard and the fall by no means a gentle one, young Voorhees, strange to relate, sustained no injuries. Young Voorhees had been to New Brunswick and was on his way to the Park Club in Plainfield to attend a dance. He was driving his car at a fairly good rate at the time of the accident. What undoubtedly saved him from being thrown out more violently than he was was the fact that when the kunckle broke the liberated front wheel instead of falling away from the car was caught and held for a second or two by the mudguard, this lessening the forward and to the side pitch of the car.

The car was left by the roadway during Saturday night and taken to the repair shop of the Allen B. Laing Company, at Plainfield, yesterday morning.

There's a sage farmer not many miles from this town who once told us this sure formula to tell a mushroom from a toadstool.

"IF YOU LIVE ITS A MUSHROOM."

There's a similar element of risk in the buying of cheap clothes.

AT ROTHBERG'S you can buy a $15.00 suit or overcoat as good—and probably better—than you can get anywhere else in this country.

But for $5 or $10 more we can give you a Stein Bloch or Society Brand suit or Balmacaan—and a suit or Balmacaan of either of these makes is what best be described as a "dead sure thing."

Ralston Dunbar, the New Market milk dealer, had a narrow escape from serious injury about noon yesterday, when his milk wagon was struck by a car of the Public Service Railway Company, known as the "line car," opposite Prospect avenue.

Dunbar was coming down Prospect avenue and the trolley was going east. When Dunbar saw the trolley coming it was too late for him to pull his horse up and so he applied the whip to the animal and endeavored to cross the car's path in safety. He almost succeeded as the car merely hit the rear wheel of the wagon swinging it around. The wheel of the wagon that was struck was broken, as were some of the window lights and a quart of milk was spilled into the street. Dunbar appeared to be unhurt and after securing a wheel from the Park Hotel Stables to replace the smashed one he proceeded on his route.

Marshal Smalley performed a brave deed, Saturday, when he dashed into North avenue at a point somewhere between Washington and Lincoln avenues and caught a horse belonging to the grocery firm of Kuldoshes Brothers, which was running away, making the third runaway that he has stopped in the past six months. The horse was standing in front of Kuldoshes Brothers' store at the corner of North and Lincoln avenues, when it became scared. It bolted east along North avenue and tore itself lose from the grocery wagon when the heavy ice wagon of George A. Scaenck was sideswiped, through the breaking of the whiffletree. Mr. Schenck's ice wagon, fortunately, was not damaged in the slightest. The damage was confined to the runaway's rig.

The Netherwood Reformed church was filled to its utmost capacity last evening, for the Christmas carol service of the Sunday-school. The service given was "Realms of Light," by Adam Geibel, and was beautifully rendered by the school. The music was led by the orchestra, consisting of the following: Organist and pianist, Miss Elva Force; violins, Miss Elizabeth Herbst and Charles Fisher; cornet, E. H. Guest; trombone, Frederick Gorup; clarinet, H. Vogt; mandolins, Miss Ruth Ralston, Herbert Adams and Horace Adams. Recitations were given by Norman Staats, Harry Hansen, Alice Leacock, Mabel Rhodes, Madeline Hansen, Mabel Montross, Reggie Haines, Bertha Laird, Ethel Rhodes, Marguerite Gollins, Evelyn Johnston and Glaudia Gonod. The superintendent, Claude Gonod, presided over the exercises, and Horace J. Martin as precentor led the singing. The pastor, Rev. Edward S. Ralston, told a story of a western cowboy Christmas. The audience lingered at the close, as if unwilling to have the beautiful service end.

GRACE METHODIST CHURCH.

Christmas was observed at the Grace Methodist Sunday-school, yesterday, at which time a pleasing program was presented by the children. The following were included in the program: "Christmas Salute," Irving Dodge; "Making Christmas Presents," Myrtle Jones; an unaccompanied solo, Jane Cain; "Santa Claus Land," Mabel Voorhees; "My Dolly," Mary Voorhees; "Christmas Marketing," Mazie and Florence Garretson, Marietta Coddington, Madaline Uhrhahn, Elizabeth Wallace and Alice Conover; "I Wonder," William Schuck; "He Gave Us Jesus," Evelyn Culver; song, "We'll Hang Up Grandma's Stocking;" "Mother's Gift," Kenneth Lippincott; "Christmas Secrets," Adelaide Jones; "An Important Errand," Harold Apgar, "Dolly's Present," Doris Elliot; "Christmas Dolls," Edna Jones, Mary Nichols and Myrtle Jones; "A Puzzler," Grebert Koechlin; "My Grandma," Ella Schuck.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST.

The Christmas exercises of the Park Avenue Baptist Bible school were held yesterday morning in the church auditorium at 10:30 o'clock, and included the following recitations and songs by the elementary department: "A Welcome," Florence Leveridge; "The Christmas Night," Helen Parker; "Good Cheer," Jean Vail; "The Prescription," Benjamin Hadley. Alice Spangenberg delighted the audience with her recitation, which was given with marked sympathy and expression. Songs, "Christmas Bells," "Savior of All," Elementary department.

The Christmas carols were sung by the choir and school led by William N. Runyon. The song, "Holy Night,' was rendered by Mrs. Grace Robinson. Mrs. Manley presided at the piano and Miss Iona Wood at the organ. A short Christmas talk was given by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Christmas services were held at the Congregational church yesterday. In the morning the pastor gave a Christmas sermon and Christmas music was rendered. A special program was arranged for the Sunday-school exercises, in which many of the little children took part. The program consisted of recitations, carols and group recitations, and was as follows: Recitation, Arthur Davis; group recitation, "We Wish You Merry Christmas," by Ruth McClymont, Edith Ganthier, Phyllis Hooker and Shirley Way; carol by several of the classes; recitation, Alice Suffern and Marion Hylan; recitation, "A Christmas Recipe," Helen VanAlstyne; recitation, "A Christmas Riddle," Gordon Fuller; carol, High School quartet, Lillian Whitall, Margaret Rice, Holmes Clawson and James McClymont; recitations, Katherine VanDeveer, Welles Clawson, Elizabeth Marshall; recitation, Lillian Rice; group recitation, "Our Christmas Tree," Evelyn Mundy, Ruth Barrett, Margaret Barrett, Leona Burtis, Donald Morgan, Louise Beck and Herbert Hooker; selection by High School orchestra, led by Mrs. J. C. Evans.

In the evening, Rev. Phineas B. Kennedy, who has been a missionary in Albania for a number of years, gave an illustrated lecture showing the condition of the country as a result of the war. Mr. Kennedy showed some pictures showing the destitution of the families of that place. Special music was sung.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

The quartet choir of the First M. E. church, under the direction of Clifford Braider, organist and choirmaster, gave special Christmas music both morning and evening, yesterday. In the evening "The Coming of the King," by Buck, was sung, and both services were enjoyed by large congregations. The quartet was comprised of Miss Gabrielle Drosse, soprano; Miss Ethel Kinnaman, contralto; John Matthews, tenor, and Edgar Cole, baritone. Fay Maupin, violinist, assisted at both services.

CAROL SERVICE ENJOYED BY LARGE CONGREGATION

The Crescent Avenue church was thronged with worshippers, yesterday afternoon, when the quartet choir, under the direction of E. Mettler Davis, organist, gave a recital on carol theme of Western England. The service was of unusual interest by reason of the fact that the musical numbers included "The Song of Peace," written by Rev. Dr. William Hude Neilson, of this city, and set to music by Mrs. Elizabeth Bowen Foster, also of this city.

The hymn was the first on the program. The exultant faith of the hymn in the final triumph of the peace which is to be brought by the Christ child was well expressed in the beautiful setting composed by Mrs. Foster. This hymn was first sung at the "Community Christmas" tree celebration in the City Park, Christmas eve.

Among the other selections that deeply impressed the large congregation was a French carol and one entitled "Bethlehem," one of three carols from the old German. The work of the quartet was up to its usual high standard and was thoroughly enjoyed by the congregation.

BAPTIST CHOIR SINGS "THE SHEPHERD'S VISION"

The Christmas music by the quartet and chorus choir of the First Baptist church attracted a large congregation to that edifice, last night. The assisting artists were Miss Florence Wohlfert, violinist and Udo Gossweiler, 'cellist. The program included the cantata, "The Shepherd's Vission," by Parker, and other numbers. The solo parts were taken by Mrs. Edith Frank, soprano; Miss Leontine de Ahna, contralto; George Smith, tenor, and William Holmes, baritone.

The service opened with a prelude, "Melodie," for violin, 'cello and organ, and was followed with an anthem by the choir and a German folk-song. Features were a soprano solo by Mrs. Frank in the cantata, and a bass solo by Mr. Holmes, as well as a solo number by Mr. Smith. The singing of three German Christmas songs by Miss de Ahna were greatly enjoyed. The offertory was "Romance," for "cello and organ, and the concluding number by the choir was from the "Messiah." The postlude, "Adagio," was for violin, 'cello and organ. Howard M. Case, organist and choir-director, had charge of the service. During the evening, Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor, preached a short sermon.

If there be such a creature as "a jewel of a maid," for many reasons, it must be the character of Norah in "Twin Beds." If fidelity, loyalty and independence are the cardinal virtues of a maid, then Norah has them, to say nothing of a penchant for swooping down on burglars, while engaged in the active pursuit of their profession, blinding and locking them up in a closet and then telephoning for the police. Not the least of the light and laughter in Margaret Mayo and Salisbury Field's farce comedy, which is the merriment festival of the present theatrical season in New York, is contributed by Norah. She has little use for the acquaintances of her mistress and deferentially makes that fact plain. When the Hawkins family has moved into the new apartment house and "things commence to happen," Norah is in her element when she attempts to retail to Mrs. Hawkins the "things the neighbors above and below are saying about her via the dumb waiter shaft." Even those unfortunate cliff dwellers in the big cities will laugh at the truthful picture. When a man tells a maid servant to do something in his own house, there is always a lingering suspicion that his instructions will be ignored. When Hawkins points out that any clothes left on a couch are to be sent to the tailer. Norah obeys without question, wondering at the number of suits which need pressing and causing her mistress the deepest terror and an Italian tenor abject fear. It is the naturalness of "Twin Beds" together with its rapid fire funny situations, which have given it its great vogue in New York, to say nothing of the brilliancy and wit of the dialogue. All of these have made its sixth month at the Fulton Theatre, where it is still playing to undiminished audiences, the talk of the town. In preparing a company and production for a tour, Selwyn & Company have used the same care which characterizes all of their offerings. "Twin Beds" will have its local debut at the Plainfield Theatre tonight.

The announcement that a new Bosworth-London feature film is to be shown at the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow, is always one of special interest to the patrons of that theatre. The latest London story from the Bosworth studio, "Burning Daylight," will be shown tomorrow. This is a sparkling and delightful story, full of romance and dramatic interest, featuring Hobart Bosworth in the title role, one of his finest impersonations, with a remarkably strong cast, including Myrtle Stedman, whose riding is a feature of the picture, Rhea Haines and Elmer Clifton. George W. Hill's work is cinematographer is of his characteristically fine quality.

"LOLA."

Sam Liebeul, the well-known and popular comedian, assisted by a capable supporting company, will head the bill at Proctor's Theatre commencing today. He will present his farce comedy playlet, "The Wedding Day," an offering as full of laughs as an egg is of meat. Another headline act will be the De Bonugh Sisters, described as "those little French epicksters," presenting a magic and elusion number replete with originality. LeRoy and Goff, a team of clever artists, will offer a comedy sketch entitled "The Elevator Boy," and Baldwin, Batonx & Carter, a colored trio, are sure to please with their singing, dancing and instrumental music. The vaudeville program will be completed by Mack & Stillwell in an original piano and singing act. The World Film Corporation's latest feature photo-play, "Lola," by Owen Davis, the author of many successful melodramas, will be shown at Proctor's today and tomorrow, and on Wednesday the fourth episode of the thrilling serial, "Zudora," will be shown. Other feature films have been secured by Messrs. Proctor & Sanderson for early presentation and lovers of the very best photo-plays should watch for the announcements.

"There is a Divinity that shapes our ends, rough hew them as we may." The truth of this saying is exemplified in the unfolding of the thrilling story of "Lola." The story of "Lola" is one of the most remarkable that has ever been put on the screen and there is no doubt that on its release it will become a subject of widespread discussion and divergence of opinion. Was Lola really dead? Was her father justified in his scientific experiments? Was Lola to blame for the inexplicable change in her character or was she but the victim of some inscrutable fate? These are some of the questions that will be asked. Whatever the answers may be, it will be universally conceded that in the adaptation of Owen Davis' play, picturized by James Young, the favorite picture star, Clara Kimball Young, has found a vehicle which enables her to give full vent to her unique gift of emotional characterizations and at the same time portray a story of extraordinary interest.

"Lola" will be shown for the first time at Proctor's today and tomorrow.

"THE CITY OF GOOD WILL."

Scores of people in City Park last Thursday night asked "Who is paying for this Community Christmas Tree celebration, anyway?" They were unanimous in agreeing that it was a fine thing for the city, and not a few said that they would have gladly helped bear the expense, had they been asked. They knew that the newspapers had announced that none of the money raised for the Community Christmas would be used for the tree, but there was absolute silence on the subject of who provided funds for that purpose.

Now that it is all over, except the lighting of the tree each night until New Years, it is only fitting that proper credit should be given to those who so generously provided such an inspiring ceremony to usher in the Christmas season, which this year is especially appreciated by Americans, because of the fact that we are at peace with all the world, and have so much to be thankful for. The idea originated with the members of the local Sunday School Superintendents' Association at a dinner held a few weeks ago, and the members then and there decided that they would give the tree as their contribution to the city's observance of the day. Their action in the matter, and the whole hearted way in which the plans were carried out earned for them a debt of gratitude from the whole people of the city.

During the campaign for the Community Christmas Plainfield was termed "The City of Good Will," and no more telling demonstration of the fact has been given than that in City Park on Thursday night, when thousands of residents gathered to sing carols. If any person failed to receive Christmas cheer this year it was because it was impossible for those who had the Community Christmas in charge to find them, and the park celebration made it possible for all to say that "they had a Christmas tree." Plainfield's Christmas was one of which any community might be proud.

1915 SUGGESTIONS.

If Plainfield is to grow to any great extent, the present population must show signs of progressive energy. All will agree that this is a statement of fact. We offer the following program for 1915 to individual citizens and civic organizations alike, in order that Plainfield may develop and prosper in the coming year:

1. Special election when citizens will vote on the consolidation of borough and city, followed by commission form of government.

2. Re-opening of the agitation for a trolley line to South Plainfield, New Market and Metuchen.

3. A thorough public discussion on the benefits to this city from a bridge for pedestrians, wagons and automobiles over Newark Bay.

4. A central publicity bureau through which decriptive matter of Plainfield may be sent out to prospective home seekers and manufacturing concerns.

5. A concentrated advertising campaign through which Plainfield may be brought before the outside world.

6. A thorough exchange of fraternal delegates among the various civic bodies, that local problems might be properly solved, and that the whole people may understand the movements of civic importance in the city.

7. A systematic study and research of local civic questions, by citizens and organizations with frequent visits to the Common Council meetings.

8. Patronize home merchants and mechanics.

9. Know your city.

10. Do it for Plainfield.

SOCIAL DOCTORS DISAGREE

One man in close touch with the public declares in an address that 70 per cent. of the poverty is caused by economic conditions beyond the power of the individual to control. The other 30 per cent. may be charged up to individual shortcomings. Another says the demon rum is the one great cause. Others say other things.

The man who is candid enough to admit, says the Pittsburg Leader, that no man is strong enough to lift himself out of and beyond his environment is more courageous than any of them, although the social worker who admits that 70 per cent of the poverty is due to conditions the individual cannot reach, has made considerable progress. In time he will see that 100 per cent. of the poverty is chargeable to causes the individual cannot control or even touch. Some day he will understand that the same causes that make for the 70 per cent. of the poverty also produce the other 30 per cent., and breeds what he now classifies as individual shortcomings.

The good brother who cannot see any cause for poverty except the demon rum evidently has not progressed far in his investigations, and does not look upon the universal data on poverty with respect. Nor has he apparently seen the poverty that strikes as cruelly into the heart of the sober, righteous man as the drunkard and the unrighteous. In spite of the rapid advances the world has made into social relations that have hit the old individualistic idea such a stunning blow, there are still those who imagine that they are strong enough to proceed without regard to the rest of the world.

But the strongest individualistic propagandist would find himself in a sorry mess if he went out on the street and proclaimed to the world that he proposed to get on in spite of it.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Martine's Sacrifice.

Was it Artemus Ward or Petroleum V. Nashby who explained that while he would not enlist in the Civil War he was willing to show his patriotism by sacrificing all of his wife's relatives therein? Some such sentiment seems to influence the senior Senator from New Jersey, who is willing to sacrifice one of Mrs. Martine's relatives for the job of Collector of Internal Revenue in the First New Jersey District in order to uphold "Senatorial courtesy."

"But it must be a trifle disconcerting to Senator Martine, and other spoils-seekers to be told by the President that he recognizes the right of the Senate to reject any nomination he may make, and at the same time intimating that he regards it as one of his constitutional rights to do the nominating.

What profiteth it a Senator to have a relative ready to fill a job if he is unable to get the relative's name before the Senate? There are as the President says, bigger and broader things to engage in than the dispensing of patronage, yet when it comes to giving out favors in his home State the President might be accorded his constitutional right to "nominate, and by and with the advice of the Senate, shall appoint."—Trenton Times.

The cradle roll and the beginners departments of the Netherwood Reformed church, are holding their Christmas entertainment this afternoon, while the primary and junior departments enjoy the tree Wednesday afternoon. The older departments meet tomorrow evening.

A New Year's Eve party is to be held at the Netherwood church Thursday evening from 8 to 12 under the auspices of the Altruistic Bible class. Rev. and Mrs. Ralston will receive members of the congregation at the parsonage Friday afternoon from 4 to 6.

KENTUCKY EDITORS CONFER.

Facts About Our Club Plan

There are those who, while not possessing much in the way of tangible assets, like to have well furnished homes and who take as much pride in them as the wealthier people. Situated as they are it is somewhat difficult for such people to secure a credit account; and if they could they would not be able to pay in thirty days as charge customers are expected to pay. It is to these people that our Household Club Plan appeals most strongly, because it enables them to buy at the lowest cash price and to arrange for the payment according to their ability to pay.

THIS IS NOT AN INSTALLMENT PLAN as installment plans are generally known, and "anybody's" credit is NOT GOOD. Only worthy persons are entitled to club membership, and they are not taxed exorbitant prices to cover the losses occasioned by selling indiscriminately as installment houses do.

It is not a plan to make more profits on goods, but to make buying EASIER for you, and thus broaden our field of operations.

ON THE CLUB PLAN you can buy Furniture, Carpets, Rugs, Lace Curtains, Blankets, Sewing Machines, Kitchen Cabinets and General Housefurnishings at our REGULAR CASH PRICES, which are all plainly marked. Pay a certain amount down and after that you pay by the week or month whatever amounts are agreed upon.

There are no embarrassing features connected with the Club Plan—no publicity, no unexpected demands. We have hundreds of satisfied customers enrolled on our books and the scheme is working out to the entire satisfaction of both our patrons and ourselves—every courtesy being extended to the Club members that is extended to customers running the biggest regular accounts.

We invite steady-going people to take advantage of the Club Plan.

PRACTICAL STUDY IN MATHEMATICS

High School Aims to Fit Girl to Perform Household Duties.

ON A $1,200 INCOME

Proper Study is Made in Detail of the Operating Expenses of the House and the Pupil is Required to Make a Report.

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

A week or so ago the Press had an interesting editorial on the training of the girl to fit her for performing the duties of a housewife. Very much of it was in line with what the Plainfield High School is trying to do in its household arts department, in the science department and in the mathematic department.

The position of housewife today is, as you say, one that needs special preparation for its efficient administration, and we believe that the girl should be given the widest opportunity to learn the practices, methods and details that will best fit her for that work.

Our course in practical mathematics is so novel and yet touches practical life so closely, and I have thought your readers would be interested in seeing it. Accordingly I have asked Miss Katherine F. Ball, the teacher of that department, to write off a brief account of what we are attempting to do, to make mathematics a live subject for girls.

Sincerely yours,

H. M. MAXSON.

Course in Practical Mathematics, Plainfield High School.

By Miss Katherine F. Ball, Instructor

"This course in practical mathematics begins with the study of the household budget, taking up in detail each of the divisions of the family expense account, rent, operating expenses, food, clothing, savings, and the higher life. A study of the proper amount to be spent on each of these various items is made from tables prepared by the government. Using $1,200 as the typical income for a family of five, the girls in the class make a study of the houses in Plainfield that can be rented on that income, each girl visiting at least two houses and making a report. They are then taught how to keep a cash account, on all important matter to a family attempting to live within a small income. They learn not only how to make their cash balance, but how to keep their accounts so as to show, at any time, the exact amount that has been spent on each division of the family budget. Each girl is encouraged to keep her own personal cash account, and is given credit for this outside work.

"Whether or not to buy a home is a question of great importance in any family. In this course the girls study the necessary expenses incurred by the owner of a house; taxes, inside and outside repairs, insurance, interest on investment, etc., and then compare these expenses with the cost of renting the same type of house. They learn that the rent must bear a certain relation to the cost of investment, and must be high enough to include the expense of keeping up the house. In this connection the little cottage owned by the Board of Education furnishes an excellent opportunity for first hand study of all these matters. The girls have made drawings to scale of the rooms of the house. They have figured the cost of papering, painting, covering floors and making repairs and alterations, and in connection with the home arts department are training their taste and judgment in selecting colors and designs and determining harmony. In their estimate of expenses they are limited to the kind of repairs that would be suitable for such a cottage, and for an income of $1,200. These estimates are then turned over to the home arts department, and the boys and girls, under direction, will do the actual work of papering, painting, and making repairs. While the manual work cannot, of course, be repeated each year, still each successive class of girls can do the computations and preliminary study.

"More important, almost, than the housing problem is the problem of preparation and cost of food. Here is where the housewife has her greatest opportunity to show her skill in providing nourishing and attractive meals at a minimum cost. The number of calories of food necessary for each member of the family must be considered, as well as its proper composition. The girls learn in the home arts department the meaning of a balanced ration. In their mathematics class they learn how to figure out the percentage of protein, fats and carbohydrates in each recipe, as well as the cost of the meals. They learn also how to adjust a recipe for a larger or smaller number of persons. All these are problems requiring not only training in cooking, but skill in mathematics. A girl must understand fractions, and she must be able to use decimals and percentage readily if she is to get the best results in her household planning and we are trying to give her this skill in a way that will be intensely practical by reason of its close connection with actual life conditions.

"A knowledge of mathematics is required also in the making of clothes. How to ascertain the amount of material needed for ruffles, tucks, and hems requires no little skill, and when it comes to bias ruffles there is many a housewife who has puzzled her head over the difficulties presented.

"If the income has been wisely managed, there should be a small balance to put away for a rainy day. The girls in this course are taught how that money shall be invested. They study savings banks, life insurance and annuities, building and loan associations, stocks, bonds and mortgages. They learn the significance of life insurance, and are made to realize that it is a duty for every man to protect his family by having his life insured.

"There is scarcely an aspect of the family life that does not involve some consideration of mathematics. This course is designed to make girls fitted to manage their homes skillfully and economically."

TRY TO PREVENT PASSAGE OF IMMIGRATION BILL

Washington, Dec. 28—A determined effort will be made by President Wilson and his adherents in Congress to prevent the passage of the immigration bill this week. The President will veto the measure if it comes to him with the literacy test included, as now seems inevitable.

It is hoped that when the House and Senate realizes the fact they will refrain from pressing the question and make further efforts to reach a compromise. Senator Lewis will lead the administration fight in the Senate against the literacy test.

There will be practically no important legislation in either branch of Congress until after the new year. Although sessions will be held tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday there is no likelihood of any important matters being considered as there is no quorum of either the House or the Senate in the city.

TENNESSEE TAKES 500 REFUGEES FROM JAFFA

Washington, Dec. 28.—Five hundred refugees, including Americans, French and English subjects and a number of Hebrews have been taken to Alexandria, Egypt, from Jaffa, the seaport of Jerusalem, on the American cruiser Tennessee. This information was received at the Navy Department today in a cable despatch from Captain Decker, commander of the warship.

Captain Decker failed to make any mention of the reported threat of the cruiser North Carolina to bombard the port of Tripoli, because of an attempt to prevent the embarkation of a number of French and English citizens on the American steamer Virginia.

Trade In Plainfield and Grow With Us

The growth of a city depends largely on the amount of money spent within its borders. Are YOU buying in Plainfield? Are YOU selecting our own men to do your work instead of outsiders? Are YOU helping Plainfield to grow? Ask yourself this question. Are you?

Plainfield is one of the prettiest cities in New Jersey. She can point with pride to her magnificent High School, excellent graded schools, elegant homes and beautiful streets. What have you done? If you take Plainfield money and spend it in other cities, are you helping Plainfield to grow? Spend your money home where you and your children are enjoying the splendor of our city. Do YOUR part for a better and bigger Plainfield.

Interesting to Men--But to Women

The question of cultivation of good taste in a home means the purchase of whatever improves the appearance, comfort and welfare of every one connected with it. The woman is the purchasing agent of the American home; keenly interested in high grade merchandise and table goodies; the kind presented by Plainfield merchants, backed by prompt courteous attention, a stock of large variety to select from, and prices that are no higher than the stores of other cities.

Trading in Plainfield is the easiest, safest, and most profitable, and when you purchase an article that is not entirely satisfactory you experience no difficulty in having it exchanged or your money refunded. On the other hand, can an article purchased in stores in these other cities afford you the same protection as our Plainfield merchants? Sometimes an article can be exchanged, but then it is necessary to have it travel 20 or 25 miles back to the store where you purchased it, and the second selection forwarded to you, and if you wern't fortunate enough to make a second selection on the day you did your shopping you are either obliged to make it from a catalog or take another trip yourself to straighten the matter out. Do your shopping in your home town and avoid any unnecessary risks or delays. Help your city to grow.

RECREATION NOTES

The Municipal Dance on Saturday was unusually well attended. There were some interesting features added to the usual program of dancing. Mr. LaVere and his partner gave an exhibition of the proper way to dance the one-step and the fox trot. A quartet of male voices sang some of the popular songs very acceptably.

There is to be a special dance on New Year's night in the High School auditorium. The dancing will continue until 12 o'clock. A program of special features will be given on the stage during the evening. This will include numbers by the Italian orchestra, vocal solos, fancy dancing, etc.

Tonight the Stillman School will be open for the use of several clubs. The Italian orchestra will meet for rehearsal. The Needlecraft Club will continue its dressmaking.

In the auditorium the Hebrew Social Club is to have an especially large gathering. An interesting program has been planned and the best kind of a good time is expected.

The schools will open again in the evening for the regular club meetings on Monday, January 5. The Recreation Committee will be pleased to welcome any new clubs under their supervision). Application may be made at the office of the Public Recreation Committee at Stillman School building.

SILK CITY ELKS ARE LEADING THE ROUTE

Patersonians Covet All Honors on the Senior League Circuit.

Harry Taylor, of Paterson, the most consistent top-rung man on the Elks' Senior Bowling League circuit, again heads the list of individual pin artists with an average of 196 for 30 struggles. Taylor's mark is an unusually good one and although Mahlenbock has managed to creep up to a 195.2, Taylor's consistency will probably assist him in holding his own during the remaining games. The Jersey City bowler is the runner-up and Coyne, of New Brunswick, comes in third.

Paterson leads the team record with a 909.29 and for the most part the relative positions from last week remain unchanged. Plainfield is one rung above the cellar with Rahway doing the pit honors.

TWO ALUMNI TEAMS READY FOR P. H. S.

Aggregations Composed of Former Red and Blue Players in Action Tonight.

A double header has been carded to take place in the Plainfield High School gym tonight, when the representative girls' and boys' teams of the Ninth street institution will meet the corresponding Alumni teams. This will be the first meeting of the boys' teams, but the ex-girls' squad has already one game to its credit against the school sextet. Both Alumni teams will be composed of former stars who have played for the red and blue, and both games should be interesting.

Ten players will be on the floor in Alumni uniforms and in case the High School team makes things too hot for them a new team can be rushed into the battle. Mr. Bostwick and Miss Sminck will be the officials and the first game will start at 8:15 o'clock. The teams will probably lineup as follows:

SPORTING NOTES

Salt Lake City is to be taken into the Pacific League.

Charlie Taft, son of the former President, is blossoming in basketball at Yale.

Honus Wagner admits his "legs have slowed up," but considers himself useful at the age of 41.

Joe Bedell and Tommy Gary, lightweights, are booked to meet at Memphis tomorrow night.

The Federals have postponed the "branding-iron" meeting, when the herd is to be distributed.

Newark, N. J., is hunting already for the 1916 national boxing championships, to celebrate the 225th birthday of the Jersey metropolis.

Charlie Herzog establishes another record. He is the first manager in years to get a two-year contract to lead the Reds, even though they finished last.

M. H. Huggins, world's champion quoit player, is dead. He represented England in international matches last year.

The Philadelphia fan, according to Mack, has been fed on so much rich food that he has acquired the gout in his spending arm.

The Central League may enlarge to 8 teams, taking into the fold Youngstown, Erie and Wheeling. Springfield, Ohio, is out.

Since sport upsets are so frequent, we expect to see the Chink infielder Win Loo, beat out Eddie Collins for the second sack position.

Russell Ford shines as star twirler of the Federals, with 16 victories and only 6 losses wished onto him.

George Bothner has quit wrestling. He began at 13, and never trained by the usual methods. He is now 48, and recently threw Myake, the Jap, in New York.

Now that Jimmy Austin has jumped to the Feds, Rickey will be compelled to find another sinner who is willing to manage a baseball team on the Sabbath.

The cable tells us Karl Miehl, Austria's best athlete, has been killed in battle. He was a weight thrower, and though only 19 was a marvel.

The Southern League figures show that Harry McCormick, of Chattanooga, hit for .322 last season. He wasn't a pinch hitter, either.

The Havana track is nearly ready for the big meet which opens January 7, for sixty-eight or more racing days. The liberal offerings are praised by horsemen.

Thirty-six rifle clubs in twenty-one states have begun competition for the championship of the United States. Each club has 10 men, and the range is 75 feet on a 10 ring target. Results are tabulated each week in Washington.

FOUR POINT DEFEAT FOR 1912 CHAMPIONS

N. P. H. S. Aggregation Sets Pace Throughout a Hotly Contested Game.

Urged on by the largest crowd that has visited Saengerbund Hall, this year, the North Plainfield High school basketball team defeated a five composed of 1912 champions, Saturday night, by the score of 30 to 26. Both sides had a large number of rooters, who kept the hall ringing all the time, especially in the last half, when the graduates tied the score and it looked as if they might come out in the lead. The High School team displayed some of the best teamwork it has shown this season and in the initial period of play completely outclassed its opponents in every department.

The five players that successfully went through two championship series two years ago started against the present title holders, but for the first half of the period could not get a basket. Conroy started the High School "rooters" cheering when he dropped in a foul and followed this up with a pretty field goal. Both teams fouled considerably and Bill Taylor scored the first point for the ex-champs. The half ended with the school team eight points to the good, the score being 15 to 7.

Roy Love replaced "Curly" Taylor in the second half and the 1912 players started off this session with a rush. They played their opponents off their feet for a few minutes and about the middle of the half the score stood 22 to 22. Both teams played hard, but field goals by Conroy, Townley and Hebert put the game safely away, Bill Taylor and Love making the only baskets for the Alumni after that. The final whistle blew with the former champs four points behind their opponents.

The score:

N. P. H. S.

	G.	F.	P.
Townley, f	4	1	9
Conroy f,	5	3	13
VanMater, c	3	0	6
Hebert, g	1	0	2

REGULAR HURRICANE IS KID WILLIAMS, THE ONLY CHAMP WHO'S A REAL FIGHTER

Kid Williams.

Considering his great work in the ring and since winning the bantamweight championship, Kid Williams has made remarkably few friends. It is hard to account for this. According to all precedent, the Baltimore Viking should have the fistic world at his feet, for he is the only champion who is doing any real fighting worth mentioning.

In the ring Williams takes all sorts of chances. He has more fighting ability to the square inch than any other boxer of today of any degree or class. When he jumps through the ropes he seems to forget that he has a title to lose. Instead of playing safe, his one object is to land a crusher with the very least delay possible. And the number of times he succeeds is really remarkable when it is considered that he is a member of the lightest class.

As a rule the percentage of knockouts varies according to the size of the men engaged. The heavyweights, of course, lead on account of their superior brawn and the great weight behind their wallops. In the other classes the proportion of knock-outs becomes smaller as the weight decreases. Yet Williams, the bantam, can point to as many decisive victories as any first-class man of the heavier divisions.

If Williams were merely a crude slugger, his reckless way of risking his title would be less worthy of note. But he is a clever boxer when he cares to play the game that way. He proved that when he out-boxed Johnny Coulon in that ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden. Terry McGovern, Battling Nelson, Ad Wolgast and others of that type, who are constantly referred to as ideal champions, were hard fighters, but they knew no other way of milling. Had they been adepts at the hit-and-get-away style they might not have been so willing to make a fight of all their bouts. Williams, having two courses to choose from, deserves all the more credit.

"FLICK" LUYSTER WANTS UNCONDITIONAL RELEASE

"Flick" Luyster, who formerly played with the Plainfield baseball team, may not return to the Lawrence club, of the New England League, next season, but would like to get his unconditional release. Luyster played on Crescent Oval during the Central New Jersey championship series and the following year found him playing in fast company. He has been with the Lawrence club, which copped the championship last season, for four years.

At first he was a pitcher, but was later molded into a fielder because of his hitting ability. Last year was the first of his big league career that he has hit below the .300 mark. Last season Luyster captained the team and had the distinction of being one of the most feared batters in the league.

PLAINFIELD SECOND ON JUNIOR CIRCUIT

Locals Doing Good Work on Elks' Infant Schedule This Season.

Plainfield Elks in the Junior Bowling League enjoyed a second place berth this week, according to the averages issued today by Secretary V. W. Nash, Jr., the honor being shared with the New Brunswick trioe. Although the localites and the Brunswick squad are in a percentage tie the Plainfielders have an average that exceeds Brunswick's by a margin of 18.4 pins and the locals' high score record is just fifteen pins better than that of the college town five.

During the week, Blythe, of Elizabeth, displaced Sorter, of Newark, as the individual leader, the latter having fallen from his 202 in his initial series to 183.1 in his second trio of contests. Blythe holds an average of 185.7 and a teammate by the name of Feihl, has crept up to third place with a mark of 180.6. VanBergen, of Elizabeth, has managed to hold fast to his 239 high individual score tally during the week, although MacKee, of Jersey City, came dangerously near passing it. He set up a 234.

Newark's 1,001 for a single game continues to predominate as the high team record. Jersey City, although in the cellar in the standings, is second in the high team score record with a 952.

MANY INJURIES MARKED 1914 SEASON; COBB, SMITH AND PASKERT AMONG PLAYERS HURT

The year 1914 was peculiarly fruitful of baseball injuries and mishaps. In the National league Red Smith's injury on the last day of the season was, of course, the most spectacular damage of the year. The most consistently injured was George Paskert of the Phillies. Ty Cobb turned up a lot of trouble by breaking a thumb while thumping a butcher in Detroit, and was otherwise injured earlier in the race.

The year 1914 was peculiarly fruitful in baseball injuries and mishaps. Some of them upset teams chances for pennants. Others were confined to the personal discomfort of the damaged player. But the chapter of accidents probably was more extensive and far-reaching this year than ever before.

It is true that no signed club ran into as tough a streak of luck as did the Cubs of 1908, when that peerless machine came within a razor's edge of being knocked off the pennant limb by a run of illness and injury that at one time, along in July and August, put eight regulars out of the game at one time, but the 1914 casualties were broadcast in a notable degree.

In the National League, Red Smith's injury on the last day of the season was, of course, the most spectacular damage of the year. Smith broke a leg in a game with Brooklyn and was out of the world's series, which, however, had no appreciable effect on the outcome of that event.

Ty Cobb turned up a lot of trouble by breaking a thumb while thumping a butcher in Detroit and took part in a few more than half the games of the schedule, being otherwise injured earlier in the race. This did not keep Ty from replacing as leader of all the batsmen.

Undoubtedly the most consistently injured was George Paskert, of the Phillies. Dode's list of mishaps would be funny if it were not so serious. It seemed that everything Dode tried to do got him in bad.

Even before the season opened George strained his side while sliding to second in an exhibition game at Baltimore. As soon as he got back in the game he twisted an ankle while sliding to the plate in a game with the Giants. After recovering from this maschance George tried stick one of his fingers through a line drive in the outfield and a few minutes later the digit was placed in splints and George was on the bench again. Three weeks before the season ended George made another disastrous slide and pulled the muscles in his right leg, returning to bench duty once more.

COLORDED CHAMPS HERE.

The Plainfield All-Stars, a local colored basketball team, will play the St. Christopher aggregation, of New York, in Saengerbund Hall, Wednesday night. The New Yorkers are considered the colored champions of America and will undoubtedly put up a good game. Another game between the Athenians and North Plainfield High School second team will also be played. Dancing will follow the games.

WILL TAKE A REST.

The North Plainfield High School basketball teams will lay off this week and enjoy their vacation, no games being scheduled until Saturday night, when the boys are scheduled to meet Woodbridge in a return game in Saengerbund Hall. Manager Lillian Spencer has no game booked for her charges this week, but is trying to arrange a game with the P. H. S. Alumni.

WAR NEWS

on Nancy, in the centre of the city, and without military reason. Our aviators, in contrast, bombarded the aviation hangars of Frescat, one of the railroad stations of Metz, where movements of trains were noted, and the barracks of St. Privat, at Metz."

Berlin, Dec. 28 (by wireless via Sayville).—The following official statement was given out here this afternoon:

"In the western theatre of war the enemy unsuccessfully renewed his attacks at Nieuport. He was supported by firing from the ships at sea. This did not damage us but killed and wounded a few inhabitants at Westende. An attack on the hamlet of St. Georges, referred to in the French official reports, also failed.

"South of Ypres we captured a trench. We took some dozens of prisoners in this attack.

"Several violent attacks by the enemy northwest of Arras were repelled. The enemy unsuccessfully repeated his attacks southeast of Verdun. He similarly failed in an attempt to capture the heights west of Sennhem, in Alsace, for which we fought yesterday.

"There is no news from East Prussia nor Poland, north of the Weichsel (Vistula). Our attacks are developing on the left bank of the Weichsel, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather."

London, Dec. 28.—The German naval base at Cux-Haven was damaged considerably by bombs dropped by the British air raiders Christmas Day, according to a Copenhagen despatch received today.

The official press bureau here announced that a lone British aviator dropped twelve bombs over an airship shed at Brussels. Six are believed to have hit the shed.

The official press bureau gave out the following regarding the raid

"On Friday, December 25, the German warships lying off Schilling Roads off Cuxhaven were attacked by seven naval seaplanes, piloted by Flight Commanders Oliver, Hewlett, Boss and Kilner, Flight Lieutenants Miley and Edwards and Sub-Lieutenant Blackburn.

"The attack was delivered in daylight, starting from a point in the vicinity of Heligoland. The seaplanes were escorted by a light cruiser and destroyer force, together with submarines.

"As these ships were seen by the Germans from Heligoland, two Zeppelins and three or four hostile seaplanes and several hostile submarines attacked them.

It was necessary for the British ships to remain in the neighborhood to pick up the returning airmen, and a novel combat ensued between the most modern cruisers and the enemy's air craft and submarines. By swift maneuvering the enemy's submarines were avoided and the two Zeppelins were easily put to flight by the guns of the Undaunted and the Arethusa.

"The enemy's seaplanes succeeded in dropping their bombs near our ships without hitting any of them. The British ships remained for three hours off the enemy's coast without being molested by any surface vessel and safely re-embarked three out of the seven airmen with their machines. Three other pilots returned later and were picked up by British submarines which were standing by. Their machines were sunk.

Six out of the seven pilots returned safely. Flight Commander Hewlett is missing. His macrine was seen in a wrecked condition about eight miles from Heligoland and the fate of the daring and skillful pilot is at present unknown.

"The extent of the damage by the British airmen's bombs cannot be estimated, but all were discharged at points of military significance.

"On Thursday last Squadron Commander Richard B. Davies, of the naval air service, flew to Brussels in a Farman biplane for the purpose of dropping twelve bombs at an airship shed reported to contain a German Parseval.

"Eight of these bombs, of which six are believed to have hit, were discharged at the first attack, the remaining four on the return flight. Owing to the clouds of smoke which arose from the shed the effect could not be distinguished."

Petrograd, via London, Dec. 28.—The belated cold spell reported in Poland is expected to precipitate a definite result in the German Polish campaign now practically at a standstill.

The weather factor has become paramount since the whole German invasion of Poland is predicated on the freezing of the soft, miry ground, which impedes the transport of heavy guns and favors Russian trench digging.

The activities around Mlawa have reached a complete lull, and after unsuccessful attempts to cross the Bzura River the Germans are still resting on the left bank of the river near Sochaczew. They have in the meantime shifted their attack southward toward the river Pilica, near Rawa, where the ground is not marshy.

The Austrian activity in the Kielce region and along the rivers Nida, Donajez and both sides of the upper Vistula continues.

If the Vistula, Bzura and Pilica rivers freeze the German attacks at Sochaczew, Ilow and Bolimow will recommence, and the Austrians again will attempt to cross the upper Vistula, where the river narrows and is shallow. The new year, it is expected here, will thus usher in the long-waited definite dash between the Russian and German armies, upon the result of which may hinge the outcome of the whole war.

It is stated here Germany's total army consists of fifty-nine corps, of which twenty-nine are operating on this side, and which, with the Austrian forces, aggregates between forty and fifty corps.

The Russians expect the Germans will bring heavy guns from Thorn and Kalisz as soon as the ground is hard, but they doubt if this will materially improve the German chances of taking Warsaw.

It was put off for one week.

WOMEN OF WORLD SHOULD STOP THE WAR,

SAYS MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK.

Famous Singer Declares Burden of Misery and Suffering Caused by Titanic Struggle Falls Most Heavily Upon Women, Who Alone Have Power to End It.

MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK ON THE WAR.

The women of the world have the power to end the war.

There should be a great uprising, a universal protest of the women of all countries.

Back of the marvelous prosperity of Germany stands the German hausfrau. It is she who has contributed most to it.

It is a glorious thing to fight and die for one's country, but it is the women who suffer most cruelly.

Cannot all the women of the world unite to stop this horror? We have seen the suffragettes fighting for a cause infinitely less important.

I appeal to every woman's heart to unite to stop this bloodshed.

THERE is probably no woman in the world who could better voice the true feelings of womankind toward the world war than Mme. Schumann-Heink, the well known operatic star. While her career as a singer has been a long and busy one, she has retained through it all a genuine womanly fondness for domestic life and has reared a large family of children. Though born in Austria, she has made her home in this country for many years and has taken American citizenship in order that her children may be true Americans. At the outbreak of the war Mme. Schumann-Heink was in Germany and was able to see what it meant to the women of that country and the other countries involved. Out of the fullness of her knowledge and sympathy for the silent, suffering victims of war's folly she speaks in the following interview:

"I would gladly lead a band of women between the battle lines if I could help to end this frightful war. I would be willing to die in the cause." Mme. Schumann-Heink spoke quietly, almost gently, and yet with an intensity of feeling that thrilled the interviewer, who somehow had not expected such an utterance.

"The women of the world have the power to end this awful war," continued Mme. Schumann-Heink. "There should be a great uprising, a universal protest of the women of all countries. Women have the power, and it is they who suffer most cruelly from the horrors of such a struggle. It is time to take heroic measures. We have seen women parading with flags, even fighting, for the right to vote, which is infinitely less important.

"Think, for example, of the women of Germany. I speak of them because I know them better than the women of the other warring countries, but the suffering of all is the same. The Germans love their homes perhaps more than any other people in the world. They are passionately devoted to their firesides and the beautiful family life which one finds in all classes throughout the empire. Has not the German Christmas had its influence in every country in the world? The German love for children, young and old, and their effort to make them happy are ideal. The German Santa Claus, the Christmas tree, German toys and German folklore are familiar the world over. Every one who loves children owes a debt of gratitude to the German genius for making children happy, especially at the Christmas season.

"Nowhere is the education or training of children carried on with more intelligence and love than in Germany. The kindergarten methods in use all over the United States come from Germany, and throughout the educational system, even of our universities, German methods are admired and copied. Is it reasonable, is it sane, to believe that we rear our children with the fondest care to have them mowed down like animals? It is absurd to suppose that the Germans who love their children so dearly should desire to send them out to serve as 'cannon fodder.'

"The women of Germany have contributed in very large measure to the prosperity and greatness of the fatherland. We read a great deal nowadays about the wonderful wealth of Germany, which will enable her to carry on this frightful war. It is the thrift, energy and frugality of the German women which have made this possible. Back of the marvelous prosperity of Germany in recent years stands the German woman. It is she who has learned to live economically and raise a large family and put by a little money regularly on an income which would be considered very small indeed in America.

"In all Germany there is no dire poverty such as we find in most other countries. The German cities have no slums such as are to be found in the great cities of most countries and even in many smaller cities and towns. Germany is a small country comparatively, but her people have made the most of their opportunity and as the result of years of patient effort have made it a great and rich land. Why is it that the German farms produce so much more for their size than the farms of any other country? The land is no better, it may not be as good, and yet from this limited territory has been developed a wonderful degree of prosperity. And if you look into the causes you will find the patient, industrious hausfrau back of it all.

"And is all this labor to be thrown away and worse than thrown away in this frightful war? The Germans would be fools to rush willingly into a war which would in a few weeks destroy the labor of years. No; they did not want war. It is against the German ideals of home and thrift and love of family. No one who knows the German people can accuse them of wanting this war.

"There seems to be a general misapprehension here in America as to the attitude of the German people toward the Kaiser. The German people do not think of him as the exalted, unapproachable figure, the 'war lord,' as he is called here. Every German, even the humblest citizen, on the other hand, regards the Kaiser with affection. They look upon him as one of themselves. They know that he has their best interests at heart. He would be the last one in the empire to sacrifice their lives merely to gratify a personal ambition.

"How absurd it is to picture the Emperor as a selfish, ambitious ruler, who is willing to crush his people to advance his own interests! If any proof were needed to refute this idea there is the fact that the Kaiser has sent his six sons to the war to face exactly the same dangers as the common soldiers. He has sent even the most studious of his sons, who would in times of peace be in some university, and by a curious chance he has been the first to be wounded. Is it any wonder that the German people throughout the empire love and admire the Kaiser? It is easy to understand why the whole German people have risen as one man to respond to the call to arms.

"Germany did not want this war. I was in Germany when the struggle commenced, and I know from my own observation that no German man or German woman desired it. It was forced upon them. They are fighting because they must fight to defend their homes and their families. I cannot say too often that this is a war of self defense which the Germans have entered with the greatest reluctance.

MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK.

"I was singing in opera at Bairenth at the very hour when war was declared. The news was passed from one to another throughout the great audience. I could feel the unrest, the suppressed excitement, although no word was uttered. The excitement was infectious. And when finally the curtain fell upon the act I hurried to the wings to ask what could have happened. We were wholly unprepared for the news. I had been touring the German cities, and everywhere I had found large audiences, wonderful enthusiasm, peace and plenty, and no thought of this frightful war. The news came to us all with the same awful shock.

"The opera was continued that night, difficult as the task was. The audience began to disappear, and the last act was given to an almost empty house. The audience rushed to the carriages and automobiles and hurried away to respond to the call to arms and take their places in the struggle. I remained for a few days. I saw two trains leaving with soldiers for the front. It was heartbreaking. I could not stand it, and I hurried away to the mountains to try to escape from such scenes.

"The trains went out crowded with laughing, cheering men. They were delighted to serve their fatherland and went willingly to face the enemy. It is a glorious thing to fight and die for one's country. But I realized then as never before that it is the women who are left behind who suffer most cruelly. It was a scene never to be forgotten. Until the trains actually started the women, the wives and mothers, who had come to say farewell, bore up with wonderful bravery and self possession. And then the trains carrying their loved ones drew away, and I saw hundreds of women driven almost mad with grief. They rushed after the train shrieking and calling the names of their children, their loved ones, weeping in despair."

Mme. Schumann-Heink rose, with her arms extended, and repeated the cries of the distraught women with intense dramatic expression.

"No one could watch the suffering of these poor women," she continued, "without an aching heart. I realized as never before the unspeakable horror of war and the bravery and fortitude of these German wives and mothers. Their bravery is greater than that of the men on the battlefield, and their suffering is more intense. They saw their loved ones leave, many of them never to return, and they must remain quietly and take up the burden of their lives unaided. And if their land is invaded, such is the spirit of the German women, they will themselves take up arms if need be in its defense.

"To try to escape from these heart-rending scenes I left the cities, going to a hotel far up in the mountains. Even there, however, I could not get away from these horrors. I stopped at a hotel which had been run by a family that had spent a lifetime in this work. They had commenced in a humble way and gradually built up their business. It was a typical German family, a happy German home. With the call to arms, however, the father and the sons had dropped everything and hurried to the front, leaving the women of the family to shift for themselves. The family was broken up, all the beautiful plans for the future destroyed in an hour. Here again it was the women who must struggle on alone.

"Wherever one goes in Germany it is the same. A little later I saw the wounded being brought back from the front. It was all so pitiable. And the wounds in this war, I am told, are so frightful. Many of the men have been wounded in the face, from lying in trenches. I saw these poor fellows blinded for life, with their faces horribly mangled. Many of the bullets make great torn wounds which are very difficult to treat.

"I am not a politician, and I am not discussing the rights or wrongs of the causes leading to this frightful war. I am only a woman, but I am a mother, and as such I protest with my heart and soul against this wicked, horrible war. We call ourselves civilized, and we coolly invent and build these weapons which now mow down rows upon rows of living men. This is not war. It is slaughter, horrible and unthinkable. And they say the war is hardly commenced. What unspeakable suffering are we to endure before it is over?

"Within a few hours I have heard from Germany that the children of my dearest friend have been lost. I call them children, for I have known them since I held them on my knee. I never weep or I should cry for them. The thought of this suffering almost drives me mad. I have not slept since I heard of it. What gain can come with victories which will in the slightest degree justify such a war? What is the gain or loss of some small piece of land compared with the suffering to millions of families, wounds which will not heal for generations?

"Cannot the women, not alone the German women, but all the women of the world, unite to stop this horror? We have seen the suffragettes fighting for a cause infinitely less important. If they can organize and argue and even fight for a vote, why do they not rise now in a vigorous protest? I am not criticising any one. I do not wish to antagonize any one. The great problem before us women is too great for that. I am sick with the horror of it all, and I would appeal to every woman's heart to unite to stop this bloodshed.

"Here it is the Christmas season, the time of 'Peace on earth, good will to men,' and the war still goes on. What a mockery! At the time when only happiness should enter our homes I read only of millions of human being destroyed."

He Piled on Wood.

"MY, but this feels pretty good!" cried Jack, standing before the fire in the fireplace.

Outside the cold north wind was howling shrilly, and Jack had just run down to the grocery store to get some things for mamma before it closed, and now he and Evelyn were waiting for the evening story.

Daddy smiled. "Yes, Jack; I guess it does feel very good," he agreed. "By the way, did you ever hear how the first little boy got warm?"

"Why, no, daddy! What do you mean?" asked Evelyn, wide eyed, for this sounded quite like a promising story. Jack just waited, for he had come to know that daddy's stories about boys were pretty interesting to boys.

"Well, it was ever so long ago," said daddy. "The world didn't look much then as it does now. There were no houses, and there was no telegraph nor wireless and no telephone."

"Oh, I know!" cried Evelyn. "You mean away back when people lived in caves."

"Exactly," agreed daddy. "And this brings us to the cold little boy. In one of those caves up on a mountain lived a man and his wife and their little boy, and in the winters the little boy was so cold, for you see, to say nothing of furnaces, they had not learned then even how to build a fire. They ate all their food raw, and I guess they must have escaped freezing to death only through running.

"His daddy was awfully sorry because his little boy was so cold, but he didn't know what to do to help him. One day in the autumn he sat very much distressed over a pile of dry leaves, rubbing a pair of hard sticks of wood together in an absentminded way while he worried over the coming winter, when his little boy would be cold again. And all of a sudden sparks came flying from those sticks and set fire to the leaves. You can't think how scared he was at first, but he noticed how warm the fire was as well as pretty. Then he got an idea, and he piled wood on the fire and got it going nicely and ran and told his family, and the poor little boy and the other little boys everywhere weren't cold again, for the daddies ran telling each other that the world had learned how to be warm."

"That was certainly a great discovery, daddy," said Jack.

"Were there any little girls there, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"Yes, indeed!" laughed daddy. "And now you kiddies will find it nice and warm in bed."

"Goodnight, daddy."

The Wife's Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Is your husband well insured?" asked Mrs. Garfield, passing her friend a cup of tea.

"He took out some insurance when we were first married; not much, for he couldn't afford it at the time. When he spoke of increasing the amount, I asked him to pay me the money regularly every year instead. He gave me $50 twice a year at first; now he has made it $100 every six months," answered Mrs. Maxfield, helping herself to a slice of lemon.

"Why do you prefer the money to insurance?" asked the hostess.

"I buy shares at $50 each in the building and loan company, and they draw six per cent on first class security. With bigger sums I sometimes take farm mortgages at seven per cent. The advantage is that if Harry should be sick or out of a position there would be no danger of a lapse. We could use our savings in an emergency, though we shall never touch the money except under pressure that would drive us to borrow on life insurance."

"That way is all right if one takes it seriously, as one would meet the insurance premiums when they fall due."

"We take the thing very seriously," Mrs. Maxfield continued, "and nothing is allowed to interfere with the payments."

"We are great believers in insurance here. Mr. Garfield has insured both the children so that they will both have $1,000 when they are ready for college. A little set aside each year lessens the strain of sending two young people to college at once."

"We are preparing for that, too," rejoined Mrs. Maxfield. "When our oldest boy was a year old my husband deposited $52 in the savings bank, in his name, and he adds a dollar a week. At the end of the second year $100 was taken out and invested with mine. The boy has $350 in building and loan shares and something like $20 in the bank besides. My husband treats the girls the same as the boy. Ruth has over $200 and baby about $100, including interest. That provides for their education or marriage portion or whatever they need to use it for. He figures that each child will have $1,200 when twenty-one."

"That is a little better than we are doing, but it is taxing you more heavily," said Mrs. Garfield.

"We have three children and you have only two. Harry gives me $200 a year and each child $52; that makes $356 a year. That is pretty heavy, but we feel that we can get more pleasure out of the feeling of security it gives us than we could any other way," said Mrs. Maxfield.

"I guess there is not so much difference after all in the cost per thousand. Your returns are a little better, but you have the trouble of attending to it," said Mrs. Garfield.

"Oh, I do not consider it any trouble to buy my shares, and a friend of mine places the farm mortgages. I suppose it is all a matter of how you look at it," and Mrs. Maxfield sipped her tea.

"Yes, I supose so. Everything is," replied Mrs. Garfield.

ZUDORA

Remarkable Mystery Photo Play Being Shown Serially at Proctor's Theatre Each Wednesday.

Fourth Episode Shown December 30.

"THE SECRET OF THE HAUNTED HILLS."

With the life of Zudora suddenly placed in jeopardy and help apparent nowhere within reach, the fourth episode of "Zudora," Thanhouser's production of Dr. Daniel Carson Goodman's serial photo-play, reaches a climax after two reels of most mysteriously interesting drama. Once more the baneful influence of Hassam Ali reaches out to injure the young lawyer, John Storm, his niece, Zudora's, sweetheart. Once more the mystic detective almost accomplishes his end. Once more his niece unravels a mystery that threatens the peace of mind of her sweetheart, but in doing so she falls victim to an infuriated, half-witted boy, who has been inspired to evil doing by Hassam Ali, and almost loses her life. She is rescued by John Storm and together they discover the solution of the most baffling of the cases which Zudora thus far has been called upon to solve.

Storm's parents, good country people who have given him a heritage of clean blood and excellent traditions, live in a village surrounded by hills that seem veritably to stand guard over the small town's security. However, on those very hills and in the very homes of the people, themselves, the wrath of a monstrous, fleshless, bullet thridded hand has recently appeared without explanation. The people are wild with a fright occasioned by something they cannot explain, and Storm receives an urgent letter from his parents to come to them.

Sending a note to Zudora, he rushes home to his parents and is welcomed, not only by them but by the maid servant and a half-witted boy, whom, by mistake, he once had shot through the hand during his boyhood. Zudora, too, comes to see his parents and is welcomed by them as a future daughter-in-law. As they are all rejoicing together, suddenly on the wall of a further room the spectter hand appears. Storm's father rushes for his shot-gun, and fires at the uncanny hand. The lead hurtles through the wall and strikes the serving maid in the arm. Suspecting that her uncle, Hassam Ali, is at the bottom of all this Zudora and John Storm hasten back to town. Zudora sees the famous mystic first, and is met, of course, with a baffling denial. Then Storm comes and after a painfully heated exchange of words the older man tries to shoot the young lawyer. In the struggle that ensues Hassam Ali is gradually overcome and bent back across a table top only to be rescued by Zudora just as Storm is about to be stabbed in the back by the mystic's Hindu servant.

Going back to the excited townspeople who have gathered at the station to meet him, Storm comforts them by saying that the wonderfully clever Zudora is coming to their rescue and Storm finally decides that the source of the mysterious apparition is in the upper room of one of the farm's outbuilding. While Storm makes some other investigations Zudora runs to this place and is caught in the garret by the idiot boy, tied, gagged, and a rope wound round her neck. She closes her eyes hopelessly as a bandage is tied about her head. Then the scene shifts and John Storm is seen walking across the fields in the direction Zudora has taken. He has finally decided that she has hit upon the right idea and that he went off on a false scent. As he walks slowly along, of a sudden he feels a sense of impending evil. He begins to run. As if directed by some unseen guide, Storm rushes up the stairs of the outbuilding and grapples with the idiot boy, subdues him and rushes to Zudora. Swiftly he unties the ropes. They climb to an upper room and discover the stereopticon machine which has thrown on the landscape the X-ray photograph of the skeleton hand.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

A little oxalic acid dissolved in boiling water is excellent for removing rust, fruit stains, etc., from white goods. Let the fabric stand for a few minutes in the solution when boiling hot, then wring out and rinse in clear water.

Castor oil is an effective brass polish for use on jardinieres, stands, beds and all articles of brass. First wash article with a good white soap and warm water to get dust off, then dry with a soft cloth (I use flannel). Then apply the castor oil, just a little on a flannel, and polish dry. The oil is to give the brass a good polish after it's washed; it doesn't scratch or injure lacquer, like some polishes do. Have tried this with good results.

To remove rust from ironware, cover rusted article with grease and set it in a hot oven for half an hour. Afterwards wash with soap and water and the rust will be removed.

BREADS AND MUFFINS

Whole Wheat Muffins—Stir together one pint new milk and one pint graham or "entire wheat" flour. Add one beaten egg and bake in hot muffin rings. Salt must not be used with any bread that is made light with egg.

One-Egg Muffins—One can make a dozen large muffins using the following recipe: Two cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, three tablespoons sugar. Sift dry ingredients, then add one and one-quarter cups of cold milk, one tablespoon melted butter. Beat one egg in the milk and melted butter; after stirring all together (not mixing it very much), bake in very hot oven in muffin rings. These muffins served with jam and tea or coffee will make a nice light lunch for a tea circle or card party.

Quick Graham-Raisin Bread—Two cups graham flour, one cup sour milk, one-half cup molasses, two tablespons sugar, one teaspoon soda in a little hot water, one cup raisins. Mix well and bake 40 minutes in moderate oven.

THE TABLE.

Panned Oysters With Toast—Separate the oysters and juice, let juice come to a boil, add butter size of an egg, salt and pepper to taste. When boiling, add oysters, cook till oysters are done. Have toast nice and brown and buttered well. Cover each slice of toast with the panned oysters and serve hot.

Eggplant Fritters—Peel and cut an eggplant into smal pieces and cook in salt water until sufficiently tender to press through a sieve. Add a little butter, white peper and salt. Break in one egg, beat mixture well, and sift in sufficient flour and a pinch of soda to give a consistency to the batter that it may be dropped from the mixing spoon into a pan of deep hot fat. Fry, drain and serve.

Chop Suey—Two pounds veal, cut in dice; one tablespoon lard or any fat; season to taste with salt and pepper. Stew one hour. Add one cup water, four onions, two stalks celery, cut in small pieces; one cup mushrooms, half teaspon flour. Boil altogether one hour. Boil half pound rice separately and serve separately. This is a meal for five adults.

Sponge Gingerbread—One cup light colored molasses, one-half cup granulated sugar, one cup boiling water, piece of butter size of a butternut, one teaspoonful of ginger, one teaspoonful of cinnamon (if you like), a large teaspoon soda, one egg, pinch of salt and two cups flour. Bake in dripping pan. Boiling water should be added last thing. The mixture will be very thin, but when baked will be light and spongy. Cut into squares with a hot knife while warm.

3COOP, THE CUB REPORTER — THE DEVIL AND THE DEEP SEA — BY "HOP"

PLAN FOR "EVERY VOTER CAMPAIGN"

Miss Florence Leech, of Montana, Engaged as Field Worker by Suffragists.

Plans for the "every voter campaign," which the New Jersey Woman's Suffrage Association will conduct in the State between now and election were discussed at the monthly meeting of the executive board of the State association held at the local headquarters, this afternoon. The executive board comprises the State presidents, together with the chairmen of committees.

One of the most important matters taken up was the discussion of plans to be undertaken in the State by Miss Florence Leech, of Montana, who comes to New Jersey next week as the paid field worker for the association. She has had remarkable success in the West. She will be assisted by a half-dozen volunteer workers.

There was a resolution adopted a copy of which will be forwarded to Washington requesting Congressmen to support the suffrage amendment. The women are much encouraged in this State, and feel assured of considerable support to the suffrage amendment on the part of the legislators. Mrs. E. F. Feickert, State president, who presided at today's session, named the following heads of committees:

Literature committee, Mrs. Esther G. Ogden, of Elizabeth; enrollment, Mrs. A. E. Cameron, of Glen Ridge; church work, Mrs. M. Faraday, of Arlington; press, Miss Elizabeth Pope, of Jersey City; finance, Mrs. C. L. Becker, of East Orange; ex-officio chairman of organization committees, Mrs. E. F. Feickert.

CHILDREN ENJOY A GIVING SERVICE

Attractive Program Presented at the Seventh-Day Baptist Church.

The impressive feature of the Christmas giving service at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, on Saturday, was the illumination of a large electric cross, to which the audience brought its gifts, wrapped in white. The orchestra was composed of members of the Symphony Orchestra, who recently played for the rendition of the "Messiah." Miss Jessie M. Utter presided at the organ and Mrs. Roland M. Davis at the piano. The school had for some weeks been practising a service of carols under the leadership of Miss Utter.

The program was as follows:

Music, pastoral symphony, "Messiah," organ, piano and orchestra; song, "Break Forth Into Joy," school; prayer, Rev. Edwin Shaw; Lord's Prayer, school; recitation, "Welcome," Anna Frances Wells, Donald Earle Lewis; recitation, "The Christmas Time," primary department; exercise, "The World's Gifts," Stephena Shaw, Violet T. Johnston, Margaret Kimball, Helen Dalberg Titsworth; song "Holy Night," school; recitation, "In Bethlehem," Jean E. Cottrell; recitation, "A Christmas Carol," Robert Spicer; song, "The Prince of Peace Appears," school; recitation, "Again the Angel Hosts," Elizabeth M. Kellogg; song, "Star of Wondrous Glory," school; recitation, "Remember the Poor," Mrs. Frank R. Kellogg; explanation of the giving service, Superintendent W. C. Hubbard; reading, "The Legend of Cathay," Superintndent W. C. Hubbard; music, organ solo, "I Gave My Life for Thee," Roy E. Titsworth; bringing of gifts to the altar; song, "Love Divine, Almighty," school.

The committee in charge of the program comprised Mrs. W. C. Hubbard, Mrs. Nathan E. Lewis, Mrs. Franklin A. Langworthy, Franklin A. Langworthy and Roy E. Titsworth. The committee in charge of refreshments comprised Mrs. Charles P. Titsworth, assisted by the members of Mrs. Wardner's class. Franklin A. Langworthy was in charge of the decorations.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY.

THE Household Loan Company, a local corporation, licensed, bonded and supervised by the Banking Dept. of the State of New Jersey, now offers a limited amount of its preferred stock to the public. Its par value is $10 per share, and may be purchased by people of small or large means, desiring to help the deserving. Six per cent. interest is guaranteed, and all loans are amply secured by chattel mortgage. The number of worthy people desiring loans is very large, and we are not able to serve them all. It is planned, therefore, to extend our work by taking the investing and interested public into partnership with us. We thus hope to be the medium of bringing supply and demand together to their mutual advantage. We invite careful investigation. A statement with our little green book will be sent anyone on request. SERVICE

A 4% SAVING PLAN

The opportunity is presented to the people of Plainfield to acquire the "habit" of systematic saving. We have been a nation of spenders, but there is ample evidence that people are now seriously considering the matter of laying aside a portion of their income regularly, and no better method for saving in a systematic way can be found than that offered by our four per cent. saving bond plan, which we heartily commend to anyone having a regular fixed income as a method by which he may lay aside automatically a regular amount monthly, to be used when the unexpected happens or for some particular purpose.

Many objects for such saving readily suggest themselves—a fund for the higher education of son or daughter; a capital fund with which to take advantage of investment opportunities; a fund to start a son in business; money to pay off a possible mortgage on the home; money to defray the expenses of some long anticipated trip; and last, but not least, a fund to provide against the exigencies of misfortune that may some day overtake you. Any of these objects should be sufficient to stimulate a desire to make a beginning, and a beginning once made will be easy to continue.

The operation of the plan is as follows: An Instalment Bond in denomination of from $40 to $1,000 is purchased, the first payment being from $1 to $25. A similar payment is made monthly, and at the end of 38 months, all that has been paid in may be withdrawn, together with 4% interest. In the meantime, if necessity requires it, 80% of the paid-in value may be borrowed, OR payments may be discontinued and the amount paid in withdrawn at any time. Begin now while the suggestion is before you. Save to save and not to spend.

MACMURRAY TO BE RE-APPOINTED

Councilmanic Caucus Decides to Retain Him as City Clerk.

CARROLL WITHDRAWS

Clerk's Fees May Be Turned Over to City—Question of Erecting a Municipal Building is Discussed—Clay for President Next Year.

James T. MacMurray, the present incumbent, was the choice of the Councilmanic caucus, last night, for the city clerkship for another term, it being announced that John J. Carroll, who was a candidate for the place, had withdrawn from the contest. This action on the part of Mr Carroll simplified matters considerable and the councilmen in consequence were much pleased. According to the decision reached at the caucus, Mr. MacMurray will be named as his own successor at the organization meeting of the Council on Friday night.

Mr. MacMurray was invited to attend the caucus and it is understood that he and the councilmen quickly came to an understanding regarding the clerkship. Mr. MacMurray's efficiency and ability were recognized and there was complete harmony, it is said, as to his continuation in the office of city clerk.

The question was raised at the caucus that possibly during the next three years the city might erect a municipal building, placing all of the city offices under one roof. In this case, it was suggested that it might be advisable to have a city clerk that would give his entire time to the office. For this reason it was thought that it might be well to continue Mr. MacMurray in office, without a reappointment, until such time as his successor might be named. Whether this will be done is not known, but it seems to be the opinion that Mr. MacMurray will be appointed on Friday night for a three-year term.

There has been some talk of giving the city clerk a flat salary, which, it is said, is now possible under a new law, and then having all fees of the office turned over to the city treasurer. The clerk's present salary is $1,200 and in addition that official gets fees from the issuance of dogs and hunters' licenses. But Mr. MacMurray has employed his own help in the office, paying for the same out of his salary. In the event of establishing a flat salary no doubt the present figures would be increased to some extent if the fees were to be turned over to the city treasurer.

It is understood that Mr. Carroll decided to withdraw from the race after making a careful investigation into the duties of the office and especially the salary, not being willing to give his entire time to the office under the present arrangement. Mr. Carroll is at present employed in the legal department of the New Jersey Central, a position, it is said, that pays him a larger salary than that of city clerk.

The caucus, as stated a week ago, decided on Councilman George S. Clay for re-election as president of the Council, there being no opposition to him. Both Mr. Clay and Mr. MacMurray will be re-elected Friday night, at which time the president will name his standing committees for the coming year. There was no discussion last night as to the probable make-up of the committees, that matter being left entirely to the president-elect.

EDUCATIONAL CLINIC TO OPEN HERE JANUARY 1

The educational clinic for the psychological examination of children which the National Association for the Study and Education of Exceptional Children is about to establish in this city by the first of the new year, is arousing considerable attention throughout the State. Dr. Maximilian P. E. Groszmann, the educational director, received this letter from Dr. J. J. Savitz, assistant commissioner of Education, at Trenton, in which he expressed his great pleasure at hearing the news: "This is a movement which should commend itself to all people who are interested in differentiating between defective children and children who are merely backward. I will be very glad to co-operate with you in every possible way."

PASSED STATE TESTS.

John J. Casey, who has been employed by the local Board of Health for several months as an inspector, successfully passed the New Jersey State tests for sanitary inspectors recently. The announcement of the result of the examination taken in Trenton reached him today.

COMMUNITY XMAS PLAN A SUCCESS

A. M. Harris Thanks All Who Helped to Carry Out the Idea.

Arthur M. Harris, president of the Plainfield Sunday-school Superintendents' Association, under whose auspices the "Community Christmas" plan was carried out so successfully, expresses the thanks of the committee as follows:

"In behalf of the 'Community Christmas' Committee, I wish to extend to all who have helped in any way to bring to the homes of many of our own people something in the way of Christmas cheer, the thanks of this committee.

"It is impossible to mention by name all who have assisted in this splendid work, but in a general way it is a pleasure to refer to the chairmen of the sub-committees and those who were associated with them in their committee work; to those who have contributed of their means, and especially to those who have so kindly volunteered in helping pack, sort and distribute the gifts; and, further, to the owners of automobiles who have made it possible to distribute the gifts so quickly and so easily.

"Last, but not least, I wish to thank the press of our city for the way in which they have so generously contributed to the success of this work by opening the columns of their papers for the presentation of the news and needs of the work to their readers."

DIVORCE DECREE FOR JOHN PARKER HILL.

Local Man Wins Suit for Separation and Custody of Three Children.

Vice Chancellor William J. Magee has granted a decree of divorce to John Parker Hill, of this city, from his wife, Mrs. Martha D. Hill, following proceedings instituted in the Court of Chancery in Elizabeth last Tuesday. As a consequence of the decree the local man gets possession of his three children. Mr. Hill was represented in the court proceedings by Robert Newton Crane, of this city, and Springstead and Gordon appeared as counsel for the defendant.

In the hearing last week Counsellor Crane caused startling revelations to be made regarding the trouble that caused the breach in the couple's marital relations and the case created a sensation in the Chancery Court. Hill alleged that his wife was intimate with one John Ricketts, who was named in the suit as co-respondent, and cited misconduct said to have occurred on August 20 last, at the home of Ricketts in Westfield. Mrs. Hill was housekeeper in the home of Ricketts and it was alleged by witnesses for the plaintiff, Detective John Cleary, of Elizabeth, and Counsellor Crane, that they found the defendant and Mr. Ricketts in a compromising position when they broke into the house unannounced on the evening of August 20.

At the trial Mrs. Hill made a general denial of the charges and lodged a counter-charge regarding misconduct on the part of her husband.

SKATER BREAKS HIS SHOULDER

Leo Keating, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. James Keating, of Essex street, is confined to his home with a broken shoulder, the result of an accident on Tier's Pond yesterday afternoon. While skating rapidly he lost his balance and fell on the ice with great force, causing the break. He was assisted to his home by companions and Dr. Frederick J. Hughes was summoned. The boy will be laid up for several weeks.

PLAN ANOTHER RECEPTION.

Members of the local Elks' Club are completing preparations for another of their series of winter receptions to be given in the clubhouse on Watchung avenue, January 14. Friends of members will be the invited guests.

—The demand for Smalley Brothers' famous sausage this year is greater than ever before, and shipments are being made to all parts of the country by parcel post, particularly to Washington, where Mr. Smalley has several regular customers among members of Congress. The sausage, because of the flavor which the Smalley firm has been able to give to it, has no equal, and it is hard to supply the demand. The firm is also making a specialty at the present time of their own rendering of lard, which has gained for them a reputation all over this section of the State. The market is located in the city building on North avenue.—Adv. ***

BOARD CONFERS ON NEW SCHOOL BIDS

No Decision Reached Regarding Proposals That Have Been Offered.

The Plainfield Board of Education held a meeting at the High School, last night, to consider the bids submitted for the construction of the Evergreen Avenue School. A comparison of the proposals of the two low bidders, the Berry-Goodwin Co., of Philadelphia, and John Lowry, Jr., of New York, and a consideration of the alternates on the contracts, to be finally selected by the Board, occupied the meeting until a late hour.

No decision was announced by the Board last night, but it was understood that the matter will be decided at an early meeting, as soon as some further investigations, now being made, have been completed.

The two low bids on the general contract are so nearly the same when the alternates are selected that it is a matter of uncertainty which will be the successful bidder.

No award of the plumbing, heating and ventilating, or the electrical contract will be made until the successful bidder on the general contract is announced.

"THE GHOST OF JERRY BUNDLER" TO BE GIVEN

"The Ghost of Jerry Bundler," one of the four one-act plays which the Yale University Dramatic Association will present here at the Plainfield Theatre on Thursday evening, was first produced at St. James' Theatre, London, on June 20, 1899, with Cyril Maude in the leading part. Mr. Maude, it will be remembered, met with unusual success as the leading man in "Grumpy," which had a prolong run at Wallack's in New York, last season.

"The Ghost of Jerry Bundler" was revived at London in Her Majesty's Theatre, on June 20, 1902, with the same cast as before, except for the appearance of one of its authors, Charles Rock. Later in the same year it was presented 138 times at the Haymarket and Avenue Theatres.

It is seldom that a one-act piece enjoys the prosperity that this short tragedy has, and the Yale association is to be congratulated on having secured it for its holiday repertoire.

BORO MOTHERS GAVE DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

Masquerade Dance for Young People in Debele's Hall Last Night.

Dressed in various kinds of costumes to conceal their identity, about one hundred young people of North Plainfield, attended a masquerade dance held in Debele Auditorium last night. The affair was arranged by twelve mothers of the borough for their daughters and friends and was a great success. The hall was decorated with crepe paper, holly and mistletoe, and Squires' four-piece orchestra afforded fine music for the dancers. Clowns, burlesque dancers and dominos appeared with cards of admittance and danced the first three numbers unbeknown to their closest friends.

After several dances, when the party was going in full swing, a grand march was held and after the girls were placed on one side of the hall their unknown partners on the other, the unmasking took place. Dancing was then enjoyed till 1 o'clock when the happy festivities came to an end. Punch was served throughout the evening and during the intermission, ice cream, cake and coffee were served by the mothers. There were several visitors present from out of town.

The parents who arranged for the dance were Mrs. Frank Rowley, Mrs. M. H. Ewart, Mrs. A. G. Spencer, Mrs. D. R. Douglas, Mrs. Murray Burtis, Mrs. John M. Hull, Mrs. John T. Green, Mrs. John F. GIVE A CHARMING YULETIDE DANCE

A. B. Beers, A. D. Beers and Miss Edith Beers Entertain at the Park Club.

One of the delightful social events of the Yuletide season was the dance given at the Park Club, last night, by Albert B. Beers, his daughter, Miss Edith Beers, and son, Albert D. Beers, of Watchung avenue. More than two hundred guests from Brooklyn, New York, Montclair, Boston, Stamford, Conn.; Chicago, and this city were present to enjoy the festivities.

Mr. Beers, his daughter and son were assisted in receiving the guests by Miss Helen Dean Andrews, of Stamford, Conn., and Miss Esther Kelsey, of Montclair.

The dancing began about 9 o'clock and continued until 3 o'clock this morning. The music was furnished by VanEps Brothers, there being a five-piece orchestra. The program was a popular one, including all of the latest dance numbers, and the orchestra responded to numerous encores.

Supper was served at 11 o'clock, after which the dancing was continued. Included among the guests were many college boys and girls who are home for the holiday season. Previous to the dance there were a number of private dinner parties throughout the city and borough.

BORO COUNCIL MAKES AWARD OF CONTRACTS

Joint Sewer Construction Work to New York and Paterson Concerns.

Following considerable discussion and examination the bids for the borough's share in the joint sewerage collecting and disposal system were awarded at an adjourned meeting of the Borough Council held last night. Frank Puglio, of Paterson, was the successful bidder for the installation work on contract No. 2, and the Harrison-Burton Company, of New York city, was awarded the work on contract No. 1. The first named work includes installation east of Grove street and the New York firm will complete the sewer west of that thoroughfare. The aggregate of the two contracts amounts to about $155,000. These proposals were offered at a meeting of the Council two weeks ago and were singled out from a batch of thirty-six last week. Considerable detail work was done by the committee in an effort to ascertain the merits of the bids and comparing the items.

It was announced last night that the final meeting of the year would be held tomorrow night, at which time reports for the fiscal year will be made and the remainder of the 1914 business disposed of. Frank Mobus, the newly elected councilman, was sworn in at the meeting. He will take the chair vacated by Edmund Rushmore, whose term expires with tomorrow night's meeting. Mr Mobus' advent into the Council means the introduction of the lone representative of the Democratic party. Republicans having held forth during the past year.

KIDDIES ENJOY ELKS' XMAS THEATRE PARTY

Two and Three in a Seat They Squeezed into Proctor's Theatre This Morning.

Two thousand happy youngsters, through the kindness of Manager Harry S. Sanderson, of Proctor's Theatre, enjoyed the annual Christmas party given by Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., this morning. The theatre has probably never before housed such a group of humanity, or so enthusiastic an audience. Every seat in the house, with rare exceptions, did duty for two "kids" and it was not an uncommon thing to find three little fellows squeezed into one chair. There was nothing lacking for their enjoyment. Under the chairmanship of Elias H. Bird, the committee consisting of Garrett T. Dunham, Walter Apgar, William Demler, Clarence Mundy, Alva Carey, E. P. T. Smith and Clarence Teel, were here, there and everywhere, seeing that the little guests were comfortable. Several reels of humorous pictures, and two acts of vaudeville, a dancing, singing and instrumental act by Baldwin, Braxton and Carter, and a performance of magic by DeBourg Sisters, made up the program. The performers donated their services, and that they were appreciated was shown by the lively applause which greeted them.

After the performance was over the children were marched out of the building in sections, and each was given a toy which had been generously provided by A. E. Force & Co. There were tin horns, whips and all sorts of things to delight the hearts of the kiddies, and seldom has Front street heard such a din as when they trooped out of the theatre.

The event is an annual one with the Elks, and it serves to brighten the hearts of hundreds of children each year. Manager Sanderson has donated either the Front street house or the Plainfield Theatre in the past, and the lodge has made the arrangements.

PLAN FOR A FULL PAID DEPARTMENT

Six New Men to Be Added to Fire Fighting Force January 1.

Arrangements are practically complete for the introduction on January 1 of a full-paid fire department in Plainfield. The councilmanic fire committee met last night, and talked over the details for the change to be made on Friday, when the "call" service will go out of existence.

It is proposed to put on six extra men to complete the full-paid force for the present. Harold Gloak, son of former Councilman W. L. Gloak, and George Leland, both of whom have been employed in the department for some time are included among the six. The other four to be appointed tomorrow night are Roy McDonough, Matthias Hefti, Floyd Carroll and Thomas R. Collins. Carroll has an honorable discharge from both the army and navy.

The new appointees will be put on a six months' probationary period of service and if found satisfactory will be made regulars. The new automobile engine which was built by the Nott Company, of Minneapolis, is expected to arrive any day and will, after the usual test, be put into regular service at once. On January 1, the fire alarm whistle will also go out of commission, but alarms will be received as usual through the fire boxes located throughout the city.

BROKE ANKLE IN FALL.

An X-ray examination conducted Monday disclosed the fact that Mrs. Charles L. Ryder, of Grant avenue, who fell on a slippery walk at her home ten days ago, had sustained a broken ankle in addition to severely torn ligaments. The injured member will be placed in a plaster cast by Dr. Pittis today and it will be several weeks before Mrs. Ryder will be able to be about. The accident happened as she hurriedly stepped from a porch without noticing the ice coated walk.

TRAIN RIDERS ARRESTED.

George Donohue and Frank Pfeiffer, both giving their address at 441 West Thirty-sixth street, New York, were taken from a blind baggage at the North Avenue station, last night, by Patrolman John Kelley. Arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, charged with illegal train riding the men pleaded guilty and said that they were searching for work. Sentence was suspended.

FRENCH TROOPS CAPTURE VILLAGE

St. George's, in Belgium, is Taken—Bombardment Continues.

NO CHANGE IN RUSSIA

Zeppelin Flew Over Warsaw, Says Berlin, Causing Czar to Beat Hasty Retreat—English Merchant Ship Loss £10,000,000.

Paris, Dec. 29.—The war office gave out the following statement at 3 o'clock this afternoon:

"In Belgium the village of St. Georges was captured by our troops, who have established themselves there. From the Lys to the Somme the enemy has very violently bombarded our positions. In the region of Echelle, St. Aubin, Le Quesoy, Pouncholr and northwest of Roye, calm prevails.

"Upon the front between the Somme and the Argonne we have made some advances. In the Argone, in the forest of Le Grurie, in the forest of Bolante and in the forest of Courtechausse we made some progress. Upon the heights of the Meuse several counter atacks of the Germans have been repulsed.

"In the forest of Lebouenot to the northwest of Troyon the enemy who had captured our trenches near the redoubt of the forest of Brule to the west of Premont have been forced to give up the captured positions after three successful counter attacks made by our troops.

"In upper Alsace, after a very violent battle, we are investing Steinbach and we have captured the ruins of the chateau to the northwest of the village."

Berlin, Dec. 29 (By wireless via Sayville).—The following official statement was given out here today:

"In the western theatre of hostilities we gained some ground in Nieuport, near West Flanders, and also southeast of Ypres. After unimportant engagements three French attacks west of Senheim were repulsed.

"In East Prussia and Poland on the left bank of the Vistula our attacks have resulted in progress along the Rawka and Bzura. South of Ilow and Lodz strong Russian attacks were repulsed."

A Zeppelin flew over Warsaw during the presence of the Czar, who fled with his staff in automobiles across the Praga. Several bombs were dropped.

London, Dec. 29.—Data compiled by the Liverpool and London War Risks Insurance Association show that in the first four months of the war 54 British foreign going ships, valued at about 2,280,000 pounds, with cargo of 3,760,000 pounds were captured or destroyed by the Germans.

The storm which swept over England and northern continental Europe last night continued unabated today.

Petrograd reports today declare the Russian army which cut apart and defeated the two Austrian armies in western Galicia has turned and is marching back toward Cracow to begin another siege.

General Von Hindenburg's army has been halted in its advance on Warsaw, according to the report, and the Russians, now apparently free from danger of being outflanked, have assumed the offensive along the shortened battle front.

Russian despatches state that the Austrian army of General Boehm-Ermolli, and the western Austrian army, are in full retreat through the Dukla and Lupkow passes in the Carpathians following their decisive defeat by the Russians in Galicia.

These Austrian armies were marching to the relief of Cracow and Przemysl when they attempted to join and drive a wedge through the Russian lines. Before they could unite they were met in turn and defeated by the Russians, who retreated fifty miles east from Cracow to accomplish it.

Petrograd claims these defeats not only effectually broke up the Austrian offensive, but have placed Von Hindenburg's forces in a dangerous position. He must now face the entire Russian force, the despatch says, or retreat along the whole line.

The Austrian general staff have admitted the defeats in Galicia, but declare the Russian attacks north on the Dunajec and on the Nida failed, and that heavy fighting continues on the Pilitza.

The Russian general saff announced today that 22,200 Austrians and forty mitrailleuses were captured in these battles. More than 3,500 prisoners are reported to have been taken in the fierce bottle of Tuchow on Christmas Day.

DUNELLEN COUNCIL EXECUTES CONTRACT

Considerable Discussion Heard Regarding Proposed Sewer Work.

The contract between the H. K. Corbin Company and the borough of Dunellen in the matter of constructing the borough's collecting sewerage system was executed at last evening's adjourned meeting of the Mayor and Council, as was the Corbin Company's surety bond of $41,302.10 furnished by the Globe Indemnity Company, of New York. The Mayor was asked after the meeting whether the successful contractors were going to be able to commence work on the sewer as soon as they had hoped, which was within three weeks, and the Mayor said that it looked very much now as if the work would not be started before spring, as there is at present 10 inches of frost in the ground.

Bills totaling $847.58 were ordered paid. Richard M. Ryan, chairman of the committee appointed by the Mayor to ascertain whether those who affixed their signatures to the petition presented at the last meeting of the Council requesting that a storm sewer be laid along North avenue between Washington and Madison aveues, represented at least 51 per cent. of the front footage of the property to be affected by the improvement, reported that an insufficient number of frontage feet was represented by the petitioners, as they only represented 1,480 feet against a total frontage of 5,840 feet. The petition was returned.

Lewis Schneider, of Front street, was given a hearing by the Mayor on the storm sewerage matter. Mr. Schneider, who was one of those who had been circulating the storm sewerage petitions said that it has been a very hard matter for him to persuade Front street property-holders to sign the Madison avenue petition as they wanted a petition to have a drainage system laid on their thoroughfare as well as on Madison avenue. Mr. Schneider said that if he hadn't promised a number of the Front street property-holders that such a petition would be circulated he would never had obtained their signatures to the Madison avenue sewer, as during stormy weather the water runs along Front street from Washington avenue to Lincoln avenue and then runs in all directions. Mr. Schneider seemed to think that a system laid from 300 feet east of Lincoln avenue in a westerly direction to Madison avenue, would aid the Front street situation materially and the Mayor agreeing with him, instructed the borough attorney, Rene P. F. Von Minden to draw up such a petition.

There's a sage farmer not many miles from this town who once told us this sure formula to tell a mushroom from a toadstool.

"IF YOU LIVE ITS A MUSHROOM."

There's a similar element of risk in the buying of cheap clothes.

AT ROTHBERG'S you can buy a $15.00 suit or overcoat as good—and probably better—than you can get anywhere else in this country.

But for $5 or $10 more we can give you a Stein Bloch or Society Brand suit or Balmacaan—and a suit or Balmacaan of either of these makes is what best be described as a "dead sure thing."

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Described on the program as "those foolish little French epicksters," the De Bourg Sisters lived up to their description when they made their debut at Proctor's Theatre, yesterday, presenting an original magic and illusion act. They performed many mystifying feats that elicited constant applause and ended up with a thrilling finale in which one of the sisters pushes numerous swords through a folding box in which another sister reposes. This feature act is closely followed by another in the Baldwin, Bracton & Carter Trio, three colored singers, dancers and instrumentallists. The dancing in this number is among the most difficult seen at Proctor's in a long time. Mack & Stillwell offer an excellent piano and singing act; LeRoy & Goff present a skit, "The Elevator Boy," and Sam Lebert & Company are seen in a comedy playlet entitled "The Wedding Day." The feature film, "Lola," pleased the big audiences yesterday and will be repeated this afternoon and tonight. The fourth installment of the serial film, "Zudora," will be shown at the theatre tomorrow. Don't fail to see it.

FARMERS PAY FOR WAR.

Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford University, writes an interesting article entitled "The Farmer and the War," in Farm and Fireside, in which he shows how farmers everywhere, including farmers of America, lose as a result of the war abroad. He says that we are all in the same boat and that whatever harms prosperity in one part of the world injures us all. For some of his products the American farmer may get a little more. For other articles he may have no market at all. Whoever buys of him must have money to buy with. Food is cheap in England today because so many go without their usual food, buying only the cheapest articles. In London a month ago the finest fruit was sold for next to nothing. In war there is no demand for luxuries, no care for comfort, no continuity of industry, no demand to buy, and among millions of people nothing to buy with. The interest of one nation is the interest of all so far as farmers and workmen are concerned. As Dr. Jordan says:

The farmer has no greater enemy than war. The war of today has its primal motive to keep the farmer down. It is, at bottom, the fight of pride and privilege against the common man. It is the last stand of imperialism against democracy. It is the last supreme effort of those who believe that some men and some nations are good enough to rule other men and nations against their will. This is not the whole story of the war, but it is what the war has come to mean. No nation can make money out of any war, and no nation that begins a war can tell how it will end. But in every war there are some few men, contractors, gunmakers, iron-plate makers, who make a good deal of money. And so long as the Krupps, the Vickers, and the Schneiders of Europe, the "armor-plate patriots" of Germany, England, and France, have their way there will always be war, and the farmers of the world will pay for it.

Probably no organized movement to encourage systematic saving has been received with such general approval by the people of the country as has been the Christmas savings plan, which has been adopted in hundreds of communities. Here in Plainfield the Plainfield Trust Company in three years' time has developed the idea until this year $200,000 was placed in its care for use at the holiday period. By laying away a small sum of money each week, so small in fact that in a majority of cases it was not missed at the time, the people of this city have been able to brighten the holiday period by being able to purchase many articles for which they could not have saved the money in any other way. We would not be surprised to learn that $300,000 has been saved by the same method when the period for 1915 is ended.

While every Plainfielder is expected to do his share toward relieving the needs of the unemployed in our city, we hope that no one who can spare a mite to aid the suffering Belgians will hesitate to send his or her contribution to the Daily Press. With conditions as bad as they are among some of the residents of this city, they are a thousand times worse in Belgium for those who have not a roof over their heads and no place to get a bite to eat. "A food ship a day," is the slogan of those in charge of the relief work, and it is to be hoped that this end will soon be accomplished.

It certainly seems as if some method could be found to curb the men who masquerade under the title of "railroad detective," and who shoot promiscuously at persons whom they happen to see along the tracks. Only last week there was indiscriminate firing of revolvers by some of these fellows, and it is a wonder that someone was not injured. It is not an unusual thing to find that some of the men employed by the roads are little more than strong arm men, picked up in the tough districts of the big cities.

Just because you see a man coming out of a saloon it is no sign that he has been drinking. Many a person, including some of our city fathers on tours of inspection, visit the local saloons, who do not go in to drink. That's what makes the liquor traffic as respectable as it is possible to be in this city. The saloonmen take pride in running model establishments.

A cat with nine lives has nothing on the Emperor of Austria. He has been "reported dead" about a dozen times since the war broke out, but somehow or other he seems to be in a position to say with Mark Twain that "the report is grossly exaggerated."

It is by no means necessary to wait until Friday to make good resolutions. As long as they are made with a firm intention to keep them, one day is as good as another. In fact the fellow who makes his resolutions right now gains two days more in which to keep them.

A man well known by his good works has written the contributed editorial for Saturday. It will be a New Year editorial, and will be most timely. This is only one of the many treats which we have in store for our readers from the pens of well known Plainfielders.

By this time next week we will have become accustomed to writing it 1915.

These are busy days for the stores—exchanging Christmas presents.

Facts About Our Club Plan

There are those who, while not possessing much in the way of tangible assets, like to have well furnished homes and who take as much pride in them as the wealthier people. Situated as they are it is somewhat difficult for such people to secure a credit account, and if they could they would not be able to pay in thirty days as charge customers are expected to pay. It is to these people that our Household Club Plan appeals most strongly, because it enables them to buy at the lowest cash price and to arrange for the payment according to their ability to pay.

THIS IS NOT AN INSTALLMENT PLAN as installment plans are generally known, and "anybody's" credit is NOT GOOD. Only worthy persons are entitled to club membership, and they are not taxed exorbitant prices to cover the losses occasioned by selling indiscriminately as installment houses do.

It is not a plan to make more profits on goods, but to make buying EASIER for you, and thus broaden our field of operations.

ON THE CLUB PLAN you can buy Furniture, Carpets, Rugs, Lace Curtains, Blankets, Sewing Machines, Kitchen Cabinets, and General Housefurnishings at our REGULAR CASH PRICES, which are all plainly marked. Pay a certain amount down and after that you pay by the week or month whatever amounts are agreed upon.

There are no embarrassing features connected with the Club Plan—no publicity, no unexpected demands. We have hundreds of satisfied customers enrolled on our books and the scheme is working out to the entire satisfaction of both our patrons and ourselves—every courtesy being extended to the Club members that is extended to customers running the biggest regular accounts.

We invite steady-going people to take advantage of the Club Plan.

NOVEL CANTATA BY BIBLE SCHOOL

"The Interrupted Program" Will Be Given at Park Ave. Baptist Church.

"The Interrupted Program," which is the subject of the cantata to be given by members of the Park Avenue Baptist Bible school this evening, is the story of a Sunday-school that has assembled for the celebration of Christmas. The superintendent calls the school to order and explains the true meaning of this joyous occasion. They do not proceed far, hwever, before two little waifs who have been selling matches in the street, ask to come in and get warm; they sing a song that is sweet and quaint. The superintendent makes another attempt to continue the exercises when a poor bootblack is ushered in, and upon request sings a bootblack song with splendid effect.

At this point Santa Claus is caught sight of by the school who at once manifest extreme eagerness and impatience and he is led in by several of the scholars. The school then sings the song "Hail to Santa the King," but Santa hastens to impress upon them that there is only one King and that is Jesus; to emphasize this truth Santa sings the song "I am Not the King," followed by the school singing "Sing on of Jesus." Santa then asks permission to furnish a little entertainment of his own, which he is allowed to do, much to the amusement of the audience. He then whistles for his little carpenters, who help him make the toys for the children; this is the signal for the Carpenter's song. Santa whistles for his friend Jack Frost, who immediately sets the school shivering and then sings his song.

Not feeling satisfied with his own singing, he calls for the Frost Fairies to come forth; immediately ten little girls all in white come tripping in, and sing their pretty song. At this point the cantata superintendent succeeds in introducing several members from the Park Avenue Baptist school, who give very pleasing recitations; after which the "Good Night Chorus" follows, and both the superintendent and school agree that, although they have not rendered the program as originally planned, they have done far better—they have given a happy Christmas to the children of the poor.

PLEASING CANTATA AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The cantata, "The Night Before Christmas," was given at the Christmas exercises of the Sunday-school of the First Baptist church held in the church parlors, last night. There were five characters, which included Santa Claus, this part being taken exceedingly well by William Holmes. The other characters were Mrs. John G. McLaughlin and Mrs. F. K. Anderson, and Everett Case and Miss Bessie Case. The cantata pleased the large audience. The rest of the program consisted of recitations, music and readings. Mrs. Robert Lowrie gave two readings from Dickens.

After the program was concluded a general good time was enjoyed and oranges were distributed to all present. The program was as follows: Recitation by Miss Murphy; recitation, "The Shiny Dime," by Allyn Macnabb; recitation, "The Old Striped Stocking," by Harold Allen; lullaby sung by six girls; readings from Dickens, Mrs. Robert Lowrie, violin solos, Miss Florence Wohlfert, quartet, Mrs. Howard Case, Miss Lillian Fountain and Harry Drake, accompanied by Howard Case and Miss Florence Wohlfert.

CHURCH OF THE HEAVENLY REST CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Christmas party and tree for the Sunday-school of the Church of the Heavenly Rest was held in the Parish House, last night, with a large attendance of members and friends. The party was preceded by a children's Christmas service held in the church. Carols were sung and the rector, Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery, gave a short talk.

After this service the children adjourned to the Parish House, where a short program of recitations and music was enjoyed. It consisted of a piano duet by the Misses Eva Chamberlain and Helen Babcock, and recitations by Jessie Stillwell and Elsie Stucke. Louis DeBrigard, of Clinton avenue, acted the role of "Kris Kringle," and distributed the gifts and candy from the tree. The children went up to the tree to receive their presents.

CHILDREN'S XMAS PARTY.

Fifty children of the cradle roll and younger departments of the Netherwood Reformed church, together with their mothers, enjoyed the Christmas party planned for them by the committee of the Sunday school yesterday afternoon. The usual Christmas tree and Santa Claus featured the program, while refreshments were served at the departments of the affair. The school entertainment for the adult departments will be held this evening.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

How Elam Harnish, an Alaskan prospector, "struck it rich," made eleven million dollars, came to San Francisco and "sat in the big game there," makes up a feature film of extraordinary realism and interest. It is all told in "Burning Daylight," by Jack London, the latest release of Bosworth, which will be shown at the Plainfield Theatre today. Hobart Bosworth plays "Harnish," nicknamed "Burning Daylight," and those who have seen his other impersonation of London's heroes, do not need to be told that he makes of "Burning Daylight" one of the strongest and most delightful characters of film drama. He has surrounded himself with a cast of screen favorites, including Myrtle Stedman, Rhea Haines, Jack Conway and Elmer Clifton. The first reel shows some snow scenes of rare beauty. The riding scenes played by Mr. Bosworth and Miss Stedman are also a feature of the production. In fact, the photography of the entire production is of the high quality picture fans have come to expect from the Bosworth cinematographr, George W. Hill. Much favorable comment has also been aroused by the skill and care with which even the minor roles are played, such as the miners in the Alaskan scenes, and the club men in San Francisco. Every least detail has received careful attention, under Mr. Bosworth's personal direction. An air of unusual realism is given the interior scenes by the use of actual rooms in the place of the customary "studio sets."

recognizing the gravity of the action in warning Great Britain about the treatment of American merchant vessels and inferentially the other powers engaged in the war, the White House today authorized an informal and unofficial explanation. This laid most of the blame for violation of the laws of neutrality on American shippers.

Chandler Anderson, former counsellor of the State Department, returned to Washington today, after making a tour of inspection of the detention camps of the belligerent powers of Europe.

"No European nation can complain of the treatment given prisoners," Mr. Anderson declared.

"Fully 450,000 prisoners are being held in Germany," he said, "and while there is some suffering from lack of clothing, they are being well fed."

Explanation was made today by Captain Oman, of the cruiser North Carolina, of the reports that his ship had threatened to bombard Tripoli because of interference with the embarkation of British and French refugees on the American steamer Virginia. Captain Oman sent the following cablegram:

"On December 25, Russian cruiser Askold sent boats with armed men on a reconnoissance near Tripoli, Syria. At the village of Banias, before arriving at the beach, the boats grounded in shoal water and the crews of the boats were jeered by the populace. At the threat of the Turkish authorities to imprison the boats' crews they were informed that the Russian cruiser would bombard the village in such event, and consequently no one was made prisoner. No shots were fired. The Russian boats' crews left the vicinity after the boats were floated.

"Since December 9 no American merchant vessel has been south of Alexandretta, Syria. Reconnoissances of Beirut, Syria, are frequently made by British, French and Russian cruisers. Everything is quiet at Beirut."

RECREATION NOTES

A Municipal Dance will be held Friday evening, in the High School auditorium. Dancing will continue from 8 until 12 o'clock. During the evening a concert program will be provided, including: Selections by the Italian orchestra, interpretive dancing, by Shubert's Moment Musicale; violin solo, by Angelo Sorbo, modern dances, by Mr. LaVere and Miss Hammond, and vocal solos.

CHRISTMAS AT ST. STEPHEN'S.

The children of St. Stephen's church enjoyed Christmas tree and entertainment last evening, at the parish house. The singing of carols formed the major portion of the program, the feature of which was the singing of a carol by the youngest of the pupils of a carol written by Martin Luther. During the course of the evening, Rev. Henry Meiser, the rector of the church, was presented with a set of twenty volumes by St. Margaret's Guild, as well as several other volumes presented by the officers and teachers of the Sunday-school.

TROLLEYMEN TO GATHER.

The motormen and conductors of the Public Service Railway, together with their wives and families, will enjoy a Christmas tree and entertainment tomorrow evening at the Dunellen carbarns. A good time has been arranged for the occasion. Gifts for the children from the tree will feature the gathering.

TRINITY SCHOOL GIVES A CANTATA

Superintendent F. E. Smith is Also Presented With a Gold Fob.

The Christmas entertainment given at Trinity Reformed church for the Sunday school last night, was in the form of a cantata, entitled, "Santa Claus and His Toy," which was presented by eighty members of the school under the direction of Miss Etta Raybert, who trained the children for their parts and conducted the rehearsals. She was assisted by Miss Helen Smith, Mrs. Russell C. Doeringer, Mrs. Henry Seader, William Kriney and Edgar Sheppard.

Those who took the principal parts in the cantata were: "Santa Claus," Charles Harvey; "Mrs. Santa Claus," Miss Jennie Sears; nurse, Miss Maud McAffee; mending men, John McAffee and Leslie Leland. Miss Helen Woodruff was the piano accompanist and throughout the evening the school orchestra gave a fine program. The cantata will be repeated tonight for the Home department and friends.

One of the features of last evening and a great surprise, was the presentation of a handsome gold fob to Superintendent F. E. Smith by the officers and teachers of the school. The fob bears a picture of Trinity church engraved on one side. Edgar F. Sheppard made the presentation, and Mr. Smith made a happy response.

YEZZIR, IT'S TOUGH TO BE A BALLPLAYER

They Have to Draw $10,000 a Year for Two Hours' Work Each Day.

Don't you wish that you had taken up the study of ball playing instead of frivoling your time away at mastering law, medicine, linotyping, stenography, bricklaying, chief clerking, secretarying or presidenting a big corporation?

What a bunch of misguided youths we were when we went in for the trades and professions and passed up baseball, because we thought baseball an underpaid occupation and a low-brow life!

Are you drawing from $5,000 to $10,000 every six months? Are you able to go South each winter and bask in the sunshine and sniff in the balmy breezes while your brethren in the North contract colds, pneumonia, coal bills and frozen ears? Has any vaudeville manager ever waved a contract in your direction for from $400 to $700 a week for your efforts in doing a 10-minute monologue twice a day?

Pity the poor- downtrodden ballplayer—

Have you ever made a trip around the world, all expenses paid and been given about $1,000 besides? Have you ever been wined and dined by European royalty, by the high officials of the Orient or Australia? Did the United States ambassador of France ever welcome you with a banquet and reception?

Well, that's just what has happened to those "underpaid, lowbrow" ballplayers. Isn't their life a hard one?

In other years the winter quiet has been fractured by the "more salary" shrieks of a large number of ballplayers. How could they live on a paltry $3,000 or $4,000 a year? They couldn't—that was all there was about it. And if those magnates didn't "come through" with another thousand or two those fellows never would play ball again; no, sir-e-ee; they'd go right back to the trades from whence they came, such trades as whitewashing, plumbing, barbering, mining and driving express wagons.

But this year the wails have been absent. The Federal League horned in at the phychological moment, hoisted salaries to the highest notch in history and for once the ball-playing folk seem quite satisfied—because some of them are drawing more money for six months "work" than presidents of some of the largest banks and corporations do in twelve months.

Back in the days when Willie Keeler was in his prime, when ballplayers didn't draw the huge salaries they are contracted for in this day and age, Willie remarked that a ballplayer ought to pay for the privilege of playing—not be paid for playing.

"It's a shame to take the money," remarked Keeler. "Every time I get my check I have a feeling I am taking something that doesn't belong to me. And every time I hear a ballplayer who is getting from $400 to $1,000 a month for two hours' work each day roaring for more money I have to laugh.

"Playing ball is not work. It's fun—and fun of the rarest kind. Every man that plays ball plays it because he loves the game. How many ballplayers have quit the game when in their prime and gone into other work?

"Baseball affords a man a chance to see the country. It gives him a trip to the Southland each year that he never would have been able to afford otherwise. It takes him from one big city to another and satisfies his every desire for travel. He stops at the best hotels, eats the choicest foods—and it doesn't cost him a penny.

"And on top of all this it affords him daily and healthful exercise, keeps him out in the sun and the open air, and adds to his healthy condition and unless he dissipates, insures him a long life. Also, it gives him a lot of free advertising that he may cash when he quits the game and wants to start in some business that needs public patronage for its success."

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

Scattered Sport Gleanings

Here's one that's got that European war tangle beaten to a frazzle. North Plainfield lost out on the basketball court to Woodbridge by three points. Somerville walloped Woodbridge and also took a fall out of Plainfield High School. Granting that the boroughites performed on the Woodbridge court, that Somerville entertained the Woodbridge clan on the Somerset county court and that P. H. S. succumbed on its own court, we'd like to know "who's which" and why. By the time you get that nut cracked the war'll be all over.

Another indication that all nuts are not resting under six feet of terra firma. That Y. M. C. A. basketball team (and a few others of the same species) are planning to "autobus" it to Hasbrouck Heights tonight for a mid-week tilt. It's one safe bet that by the time the bus reaches the Queen City on the return jaunt there will be no need for headlights.

Local basketball fans will be treated to their annual burlesque exhibition tomorrow night on the Saengerbund Hall court. A double-header has been arranged between a couple of speedy colored aggregations and two Plainfield contingents. Somethings is due to fly besides the spheriod they dub a basketball.

Those basketball stars who take a skyward flight when an opponent sticks them in the ribs ought to go around to the Columbus Club alleys some night and swallow a dose of the joshing administered by the Rooters' Club to pin splitting celebreties. Anyone who can maintain a stiff upper lip while being the target for the cross fire of the rabid bowling rooters can face the shells of the 42 centimeter German guns without flicking an eyelash.

A recapitulation of the Plainfield High School basketball schedule for 1914 is far from encouraging. The red and blue schoolboys will have to show a whole lot of improvement within the next month to have any kind of a show for the Interscholastic League gonfalon inasmuch as the first few games have failed to evidence any brilliancy along the shooting line. A team may be good in the passing game but you've got to have the points to win a decision.

TRIP FOR Y. M. C. A. FIVE.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team will take a trip to Hasbrouck Heights tonight and play the Hasbrouck Heights Field Club five, champions of Passaic county. The local aggregation will start at 5:45 from the Y. M. C. A. and will be accompanied by a large delegation of supporters. The trip will be made in an auto truck. The regular Wednesday practice may be postponed because of the heavy schedule for the team this week. Games will be played on the local court next Friday and Saturday nights.

ENDURANCE CONTEST.

Seven teams have entered in the twelve-hour endurance contest to be staged on Gates' borough alleys starting at 12 o'clock New Year's Eve and ending at 12 noon New Year's Day. Entries will be received up to Thursday night.

HALL IN FAST COMPANY.

Murray Hall, of Scotch Plains, who captained the Scotch Plains Parish House second team last season, is playing centre on the first team of the Morningside A. C., of New York, this year. Hall played guard on the Parish House five last year, but his height makes him a good centre.

LEAL'S IN ACTION.

The Leal School basketball team will play the Staten Island Academy on the Y. M. C. A. court tomorrow afternoon at 4:15 o'clock. These teams have always been great rivals and a good game is expected.

COLUMBUS CLUB BOWLING.

The Quail and Doves will meet tonight in a match of the Columbus Club five-man bowling tournament. This will be the only game of the week.

SCHOOLBOYS SURPRISE VETERAN BASKETEERS

Alumni Humiliated by Fast Traveling Undergraduate Quintet.

The boys' basketball team of the Plainfield High School gave the Alumni a trouncing last night, on the High School court. The final score was 34 to 24. The undergraduates led all the way and rolled up a score of thirteen points before "Jap" Manley dropped in a field goal. The game was fast and hard, but the High School forwards made their shots good while the Alumni wasted many sure points. Ricketts was the only man on the Alumni who could find the basket, and he caged six pretty goals. "Jap" Manley and Woodhull were the only other two men on the Alumni who could score and they each caged two baskets. Rosenson was the high score man for High School, bagging six baskets. He was followed closely by McNamee, with five field goals. In the first half the schoolboys had things pretty much their own way, leading by thirteen points before their opponents scored. The first half ended with the score at 15 to 7 in the High School boys' favor.

The second half was closer than the first, with the High School boys scoring nineteen points and the Alumni seventeen. The lead gained by the High School in the first half gave them an advantage which their older opponents could not overcome.

Waldorf	1	1	.500
Todd	1	1	.500
Cose	0	2	.000
Hoyt	0	2	.000
Van Buren	0	2	.000

Team No. 8, of the Elks' Clubhouse bowling tournament, triumphed in a pair of alley engagements on the Watchung avenue lanes last night, trimming Jack Todd's charges by a twenty-two pin margin in one and taking a thirty-one pin fall out of Van Buren's colts in the other. Team No. 9, piloted by Jack Todd, came through the evening with an even break, cancelling the defeat by humiliating Van Buren's squad by a margin of thirty-six wooden men. The No. 7 aggregation suffered a double beating.

In copping the pair of contests Stout's men failed to establish any phenomenal scores, but pinned consistently and to this feature may be attributed their success. Crist's 179 and Leonard's 177 in the engagement with Van Buren's contingent were outstanding features, while Dilts' 162 and Leonard's 159 helped to turn the trick at the expense of Todd's understudies.

Jack Todd's team annexed its verdict by virtue of Harry DeMeza's 180 and Banks' 168. Van Buren tallied a 180 in the same contest, thus splitting the individual high score honors of the evening with DeMeza.

Considerable interest has been manifested in the tourney and success in completing the schedule is assured. By winning a brace of decisions last night, Chauncey Stout's pin artists climbed into the first place tie already held by Causbrook and Howard Woolston's quintets, these two having copped a double verdict in the initial rolls of the league. Van Buren gets into the tie for last place by virtue of his team's double defeat of last night, Cose and Hoyt already holding fort on that rung. Todd tied up the .500 percentage matters with Charles Woolston and Waldorf.

INITIAL MATCH OF SERIES ON TONIGHT

Park Club Pinners Will Meet Elks on Watchung Avenue Drives.

The first match of the annual Park-Elk Club bowling series will take place tonight on the latter's alleys on Watchung avenue and women supporters of both teams are invited to attend the opening tilt. A large crowd is expected to be present as these meetings are always spirited ones and are closely contested. Both teams will have their strongest pinners. The Watchung avenue team will be composed of the Senior League players, while Barlow, Long, Lyman, Daniel and Mulford will be among the Park Club representatives.

Last year the Park team took two games and the third was not necessary, but the local "Bills" hope to get back the decision this year and have the advantage of their homes drives for the opener. The home team will be composed of Captain Nash, Campbell, Kiely, Vail and Blatz.

MISS CRANE LEADS QUINTET TO VICTORY

P. H. S. Girls Scored Win Over "Grads" Through Her Sensational Work.

The girls' basketball team of the Plainfield High School defeated the High School Alumni basketball five in the High School gymnasium, last night, by the score of 27 to 11. The score was 8 to 5 in favor of the Alumni at the close of the first half. In the second half the High School team started to play real basketball and ran away from their rivals.

The prettiest goal of the game came in the latter part of the first period when Miss Brynairski made a clean basket from near the centre of the floor.

The Alumni held the upper hand throughout the entire first period, and played so well that it seemed certain that they would repeat their performance of a few weeks ago and trounce their younger opponents. With the beginning of the second half the game took a decided change, and Miss Dorothy Crane started a spurt for the High School team when she caged two pretty baskets in succession. The second half of the contest was a complete walk-away for High School, for they scored twenty-two points to the Alumni's three. "Dot" Crane scored the most points for her team, caging seven field goals and four foul goals.

RIGHT IN LINE WITH THE POULTRY SHOW NOW UNDER WAY.

In the "Poultry Raising" department of the current issue of Farm and Fireside, the national farm paper published at Springfield, Ohio, a contributor tells in part as follows his experiences as a beginner at poultry raising:

"The first of November, 1913, I bought 24 White Leghorn hens and 22 of the larger breeds for mothers.

"The first eggs were sold December 5. As I write, September 20, 1914, I have sold 176½ dozen eggs and received therefor $41.

"I set 35 dozen Leghorn eggs from which were hatched 300 chicks. No record was kept of the eggs eaten, but a close estimate shows that not far from 20 dozen were thus used, making a total of 231 dozen eggs produced. I then began setting hens again and hatched 70 chicks and 3 dozen Runner ducks.

"My income from eggs and broilers sold and young stock on hand up to September 20, 1914, was $111. The cash outlay to that date for feed was $35, leaving a balance of $76 for labor and interest in the investment in the hens at the start.

"Wheat was purchased at 90 cents and oats at 50 cents per bushel. A good many carrots were fed for green feed. They cost $5 a ton. The yards were never empty of green chopped grass or some other green stuff, for I have learned that grain is not the only feed necessary to produce results with laying hens. I keep all our chickens, young and old, in parks or yards of 50 by 100 feet, well littered with straw, and sow the grain fed in this straw in fair weather. One pint of oats is fed in the morning and a pint of wheat at night to each 12 hens.

"Crushed quartz rock is kept before the chickens all the time, also plenty of charcoal and lime. The hens had no oyster shell and no meat except now and then a jack rabbit which I had killed. I shall feed both oyster shell and meat scrap next season. I shall also try an incubator next spring, and dispose of the large hens, keeping only Leghorn hens and Runner ducks."

WILL INTRODUCE DUPONT HANDICAPPING SYSTEM

The members and friends of the Independent Gun Club will hold a prize shoot on their Maple avenue grounds on New Year's Day.

Chickens and merchandise useful to shooters, shell holders, cleaning tools, etc., will be given as prizes. The shooting will begin at 10 o'clock. The management will try to have three prizes in each event. Another interesting feature for the poorer shooters will be the adoption of the DuPont handicapping system, which gives an equal chance to all. Hot coffee and sandwiches will be served.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally If You Eat Meat Regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

FRELINGHUYSEN ON FARMERS' NEEDS

He Speaks to Conference About More Profitable Agriculture.

UPHOLDS MODERN IDEAS.

State School Board, of Which He Is Vice President, Thoroughly In Accord With Anything That Produces Better Results For Children of Agriculturists and of Other Residents of New Jersey.

New Brunswick, N. J., Dec. 29.—Farmers from every county in the state were in attendance at the "Soils and Crops day," the second in the annual conference which was planned by the late E. B. Voorhees, the former director of the state experiment station here, and Franklin Dye, secretary of the state board of agriculture. The session today was replete with interest, and there was a larger attendance than yesterday. Men versed in the practical and experimental tilling of the soil gave the visiting delegates the benefit of their knowledge.

The Hon. Joseph S. Frelinghuysen president of the state board of agriculture and vice president of the state board of education, was the chairman of today's session. The topic of his address was "A More Profitable Agriculture In New Jersey," and, while he told the farmers much about the trend of the times being "back to the soil, he gave a comprehensive and interesting review of the public school system

What State Does For Farm Boys.

The senator spoke of what was being accomplished in the state in agricultural and vocational training and said that a better education for the boys brought up on the farm would fit them for a life of independence and comfort and make them proud of their calling. He brought out the fact that the sustenance of the people was of far greater importance than any other line of endeavor.

Throughout his address it was apparent that Senator Frelinghuysen, a farmer himself, had a clear idea of the farmer's viewpoint, particularly with reference to the cost of the maintenance of the school system in the shape of taxes. In a comprehensive review of the school situation for ten years Senator Frelinghuysen described many of the weak points of the system before its reorganization. He said it was a known fact that many schools were unfit for the school children, that financial matters were handled with gross carelessness, there was little cooperation from the school department the sale of bonds was controlled by a few brokers, the railroads were allowed a year to pay taxes—in brief, he reviewed thoroughly the conditions that brought about the investigation and reorganization of the system.

High Tribute to Associates.

Some of the things that had already been accomplished by way of contrast were described. The senator paid a high tribute to Calvin N. Kendall, the state commissioner, and his assistants, J. Brognard Betts, Albert B. Meredith, J. J. Savitz, Lewis N. Carris, Thomas D. Sensor and Herbert N. Morse.

That a better relationship between the state body and the many local boards of education exists was shown by the senator, and the spirit of cooperation that is thus fostered is helpful. He mentioned the higher standard of teaching as having a good effect throughout the state and spoke of the fact that practically all of the county superintendents indorsed the state board and its excellent work.

He said the state board advocated an additional normal school for south Jersey, which he hoped might be realized in the near future. He spoke of the excellent work done by the summer schools. The raising of the qualifications of the teachers had succeeded.

Senator Frelinghuysen impressed upon his hearers the fact that the present state board of education was strong in its advocacy for better training in the "three R's." He said that much had been accomplished by the removal of the defective children from many of the schools, which was of benefit to the normal children as well as the unfortunates, and that the board had done its best to bring about a wider use of the school buildings by the people for community purposes.

Children's Lives Better Protected.

He said that the lives of the children of the state were better protected than formerly because of the more rigid requirements in the matter of fireproof construction of schools. "I will not, so long as I am in any way responsible, give my consent that schools may be built in a flimsy or unsafe manner, even though the platform of every political party should explicitly so declare," he said.

After speaking of some of the excellent results that had followed the establishment of a thorough medical inspection in the schools, the senator declared: "Universal education is not only the best and surest, but the only sure foundation for free institutions. True liberty is the child of knowledge. She pines and dies in the arms of ignorance."

The address made a splendid impression upon the large gathering of farmers, and Senator Frelinghuysen was complimented for his excellent review of the work of the education board.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — Greatest Scout The World Ever Knew.

The Panther Fell, Shot Through the Heart.

"YOU hear a lot these days about the boy scouts," observed daddy as the children snuggled down for the evening story.

"Yes," sighed Jack; "I wish I belonged to a troop."

"Well, we will have to see if we can organize a troop here in our town," said daddy. "And now if you wish me to I will tell you about the greatest scout the world has ever known.

"His name was Daniel Boone, kiddies, and he is all mixed up with the early history of the United States, and his fame is as great as that of William Tell or King Arthur of the Round Table.

"When Daniel Boone was born in 1734 Philadelphia, sixty miles from his home, had a population of 10,000 persons, but the country around Boone's home was a wilderness.

"When he was quite small, about twelve years old, I think, his father gave him a gun and taught him how to use it.

"One day he started out with a number of other boys to go squirrel shooting, for, of course, the pioneer families depended upon the supply of game for their daily food.

"But this day the boys aroused a panther, and it began to snarl. The boys all ran but Daniel. He had heard somewhere that panthers were terrible cowards and would not attack unless very hungry.

"Of course this particular panther might have been hungry, and then Daniel might have had a serious time of it, but he took the chance and crouched low, leveled his gun and fired.

"The panther fell, shot through the heart, and then the boys ran back and helped Daniel drag it home on a sort of land boat which they made of saplings.

"When he was quite young he was very adventurous, as this story about the panther shows. He wanted to explore the streams and forests and find out all he could about them. He knew that the streams must be filled with fish and that big game abounded in the forests.

"But the tales of Indian warfare were, after all, what fired his imagination most, and before he died he had many opportunities to fight them.

"In 1769 Daniel, with five other young men, entered the wilderness and remained there two years, roaming about through the forests.

"His companions were soon killed or captured by the Indians, but Daniel, either because of his superior skill in woodcraft or as a marksman, escaped, although later he was captured by a band of Indians, who adopted him and allowed him much liberty of action.

"So much that he finally escaped."

The Wife's Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"You will take these three magazines, beginning with the January number? All right. I'll see that the order goes in tonight. Yes, that is just the amount. Thank you," and Mrs. Ross followed her caller to the door.

"How did you happen to get into this magazine subscription work?" asked Lulu Farley, seating herself at the piano and turning over the music.

"I was looking around to find a way to earn extravagance money and discovered that I could do this here at home and earn a tidy sum during the year," answered Mrs. Ross.

"Extravagance money! Please explain," and her friend wheeled around on the stool and looked at her questioningly.

"Will earns the necessities, but there is small margin for extravagance. His salary has not been increased very much since we were married ten years ago. What was a comfortable living then has been pinched almost to a mere existence by the soaring prices and we have never departed from our original determination to lay a little aside every month. We dare not do otherwise. There are so many things I want that I never think of buying. Will puts his salary in the pocketbook in the drawer and both have access to it, and very little he takes out for personal expenses. In fact, as I said, it takes it all to live in the most careful fashion," and Mrs. Ross straightened her writing desk and closed it.

"How long have you been doing this?" asked Lulu.

"A year and a half," answered the hostess. "You see Will was getting extra jobs. He balanced the books of Foster & Myer and two or three other firms last year. He got anywhere from $5 to $20 a set. With that he satisfied some of his secret longings, bought books or concert tickets, or got something that he needed in his work and had not felt able to buy. It fired me with a desire to earn some extra money that I could spend with a clear conscience.

"If you have never been pinched for money you cannot imagine the feeling of wild freedom that comes from being able to buy something that you want desperately, but do not have to possess in order to sustain life in polite society."

Lulu laughed and asked: "Doesn't it take a good deal of time to do all that writing?"

"Oh, yes, but I work it in between other things and it pays," replied Mrs. Ross.

"What have you done with this wonderful own money of yours? I am curious to know," and Lulu again faced the piano and softly touched the keys.

"Well, I bought Will this fine table lamp for Christmas. That did me more good than anything. I always felt that I was like the woman who gave her husband a box of cigars every Christmas. When her friend asked her how she knew what brand to get she said, 'Oh, I just take five or six out of every box that he brings home and when my box is full I soak an old label off a discarded box and seal it up.'" They laughed over the story.

"Well, he would have paid for anything she got him anyway," continued Mrs. Ross. "This money did not come from the salary, so I felt it was really my present in every sense, and dear old Will was so pleased. He had wanted a lamp a long while. When he works on sets of books at home the light must be just right. Oh, yes, the work pays," and Mrs. Ross went to the kitchen to begin dinner.

A WONDERFUL YEAR.

Europe.

Notwithstanding the breaking out of the greatest and the bloodiest war of history, the nation-wide and world-wide temperance movement has won its greatest victories.

The abolition of the sale of vodka throughout the Russian Empire, which covers one-seventh of the area of the Globe, has been followed with such beneficent results to the health, happiness and prosperity of the people (and that in spite of the war) that the Emperor has made the decree permanent, and has extended it to alcoholic beverages of all kinds. France has prohibited the sale of absinthe and like beverages. Old England has greatly shortened the hours for the sale of intoxicants and prohibited them entirely in the army. The Kaiser has notified all German brewers that if the war continues they will be prohibited from turning any more of the grain of the Empire into beer (which they have long contended to be food) lest the people and the army suffer want. Other nations of Europe have gone steadily on in the war against inebriety.

OUR OWN COUNTRY.

State Prohibition.

In our own country the abolition of the traffic has been lifted to the place of a supreme national issue. In all seven of the great States that voted on the question during the year that has passed, more people went to the polls than on any Presidential election, and five out of the seven States adopted the policy of State prohibition, namely: Arizona, Colorado, Oregon, Virginia and Washington,—a combined area equal to sixty times the State of New Jersey, and capable of sustaining a future population of from seventy-five to a hundred million people. We now have a total of fourteen prohibition States and it is confidently expected that from five to seven more will join them in the next year. Interest grows in the constitutional amendment.

In all of this New Jersey has had her part by contributing her per cent. of support to the national work.

Local Option.

In addition to this, thousands of saloons have been closed in other States through local option elections. Eleven hundred and thirty-four in one State alone. Liquor has been prohibited in the United States Navy and on most of the railroads of the nation. Colonel Goethels has commanded prohibition for the Panama Canal Zone. Not a bad record for one year, but it does not begin to tell the real story.

A Losing Battle.

Old Booze is fighting a lonely and losing battle. Industry opposes him today as the enemy of efficiency; business as a parasite; science as a poison; government as the chief promoter of crime and dependency of every kind; society as the enemy of the home and childhood; and the Church as the destroyer of souls. About the only friends he has left to fight for him outside of his immediate family, which includes the dive keepers and gamblers, are a few concerns that are tangled up with him in business, relations, and some old-line politicians, who will desert him very shortly like rats from a sinking ship.

NEW JERSEY.

Organization.

It is probably true that the year just closing has been the most industrious one the League of New Jersey has ever experienced. The staff has been greatly increased and the work of building up an effective permanent organization the main object. County superintendents were placed over about one-half of the counties, local committees formed, the poll lists secured and divided up amongst our friends in the various municipalities and communities in the counties where we made our strongest efforts. These committees and their friends carefully canvassed these lists and marked the names as to party affiliations and temperance or anti-temperance sympathies. The attitude of the various candidates was then ascertained and more than fifty thousand letters were sent to individual voters, just before both primaries and elections. Never have the people been so thoroughly informed as this year.

Progress.

The results have abundantly justified our campaign, and developed a situation in which we believe we shall be able to get our Local Option Bill through the Senate at the coming session. We have also made large gains in the House. We ought to get some definite advance temperance legislation. We are satisfied that any bill proposing aid and comfort to the liquor interests is without a ghost of a show of passage. The wet Democratic leaders in the Senate last winter "put one over" on the Anti-Saloon League. They were warned at the time that their party would be held responsible for their actions and they are paying for their trick this year by the loss of the control of the Senate, as well as the House.

Victories.

Perhaps the most conspicuous contest this year was in Salem county, where by defeating Senator Smick,—the member they had used to keep the bill from coming to a vote,—notice has been served on Trenton politicians that the church people and those representing them are not children to be fooled, deceived and ridiculed. Battles were fought and won, in whole or in part, in Gloucester, Camden, Somerset, Union and Monmouth; and in Cumberland, Cape May, Hunterdon and Ocean those endorsed by the League were elected. In Warren county, the wet candidate's majority was reduced two thousand below that of the Senator on same ticket. In many instances where the candidates of a minority party were endorsed, though they were defeated they ran ahead of their ticket. In some other cases we were defeated because the drys had two candidates, while the wets but one.

Law Enforcement and Literature.

Aside from our earnest endeavor to build an organization that will give us ultimately what every other State in the Union, excepting Pennsylvania, has received, namely, some form of local option on the liquor traffic, the League has been constantly engaged in assisting communities throughout the State in enforcing the law and giving publicity to law violations, in preventing the granting or renewals of licenses, and has distributed upwards of five thousand scientific temperance posters and the equal of four million book pages of literature. All work has been done with a view of making it the foundation for the work of the coming years.

Last Legislature.

In the last State Legislature the vigilance of the League's representatives prevented all reactionary liquor legislation, and secured the defeat of bills legalizing the Sunday sales of liquor, and permitting holders of local wholesale licenses to deliver their goods anywhere in the State.

Appreciation.

Our one great embarrassment has been the lack of sufficient funds to anywhere measure up to the opportunities for service, but in behalf of the field force, the Headquarters Committee and the State Board of Trustees, I wish to thank those who, by continued loyalty and sacrifice, are making progress possible.

JAMES K. SHIELDS,
State Superintendent.

Household Hints

CANDIES

Popcorn Balls—Cook together one cup molasses and half cup sugar. Just before ready to form soft ball in cold water, put in one-fourth teaspoon baking soda. Take off stove, pour on popped corn, mixing into corn. Let mixture cool till it can be handled, then shape into balls. Put on greased platter or paraffin paper to cool.

In Dipping Chocolate Creams, the coating will not be thin and brittle as in most home-made creams if a little fondant is melted with the chocolate. Use more or less of the fondant according to whether you wish the coating to be sweet or bitter. A lump of fondant the size of a walnut will not be too much for two squares of unsweetened chocolate.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

To Stuff a Turkey—After stuffing a turkey or fowl, do not sew up the opening. Instead insert wooden toothpicks and with a piece of string or stout thread lace back and forth, closing the opening. When the bird is taken from the oven, slip out toothpicks and string will come off. The opening will be closed and no unsightly marks left.

To keep waste pipes from freezing, put a little kerosene oil in waste pipes; will save a plumber's bill.

Give your umbrella box to a small boy for a track. Open one end of box and lid, place one end on a chair and let all your junior's rolling stock get in motion on the hill. Balls, autos, spools, trains, anything that rells will go a long way when started on this incline.

Many people suffer extremely from cold these nights, no matter how many covers they have on. Cover the springs of the bed with two or three layers of paper and replace the mattress. This is especially good for the baby's bed.

THE TABLE

Hungarian Paprika Chicken—Two or three-pound chicken, three bay leaves, three tablespoons chicken, goose fat or butter, one to three onions, one-half clove garlic, three-fourths teaspoon paprika, four carrots, salt, pepper, ginger, one can peas, small potatoes. Cut chicken in small pieces to serve, add salt, pepper and little ginger, stand all night. In morning, roll in flour, melt fat in skillet, brown sliced onions and celery, add paprika. Brown chicken, put in casserole or iron kettle, add everything but potatoes and peas. Allow one-half hour for potatoes, 10 minutes for peas; add three or four cups water; cook very slowly two to four hours. If gravy is not brown, add more paprika. Salt and pepper to taste.

Orange Two-Story Biscuit—Sift together two cups bread flour, two teaspoons salt, one tablespoon sugar. Beat one egg, add two-thirds cup sweet milk for wetting dough. No shortening is used. Knead dough lightly and roll thinner than biscuits are usually made. Cut rounds with cooky cutter. From half of the rounds remove centers with a small cutter. Spread whole rounds with melted butter, lay one of the dough rings on each and fill centers with stiff orange marmalade before baking.

Clover Biscuits—Use any standard recipe for regular biscuit dough. Cut into rounds an inch in diameter. Place the tiny rounds in threes in greased gem cake pans and glaze the tops with egg yolk mixed with a little water. When baked, the group of three from each mold will come out in trefoil shaps. They are nice to serve with cheese.

Nut Drop Biscuits—Sift together a pint of flour, one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder. Rub in a generous tablespoon butter and stir to consistency of thick batter, using sweet milk to moisten. Add one-half cup chopped nuts and drop dough with spoon upon a greased baking sheet, leaving an inch between drops for swelling.

Mock Cherry Pie—Thicken one cup boiling water with one tablespoon cornstarch wet in cold water; add a little salt, one cup sugar and one tablespon butter. To this mixture add one cup chopped raisins and one of cranberries cut in halves. Flavor with vanilla and bake between crusts.

CAPITAL $100,000. SERVICE

A 4% SAVING PLAN

The opportunity is presented to the people of Plainfield to acquire the "habit" of systematic saving. We have been a nation of spenders, but there is ample evidence that people are now seriously considering the matter of laying aside a portion of their income regularly, and no better method for saving in a systematic way can be found than that offered by our four per cent. saving bond plan, which we heartily commend to anyone having a regular fixed income as a method by which he may lay aside automatically a regular amount monthly, to be used when the unexpected happens or for some particular purpose.

Many objects for such saving readily suggest themselves—a fund for the higher education of son or daughter; a capital fund with which to take advantage of investment opportunities; a fund to start a son in business; money to pay off a possible mortgage on the home; money to defray the expenses of some long anticipated trip; and last, but not least, a fund to provide against the exigencies of misfortune that may some day overtake you. Any of these objects should be sufficient to stimulate a desire to make a beginning, and a beginning once made will be easy to continue.

The operation of the plan is as follows: An Instalment Bond in denomination of from $40 to $1,000 is purchased, the first payment being from $1 to $25. A similar payment is made monthly, and at the end of 38 months, all that has been paid in may be withdrawn, together with 4% interest. In the meantime, if necessity requires it, 80% of the paid-in value may be borrowed, OR payments may be discontinued and the amount paid in withdrawn at any time. Begin now while the suggestion is before you. Save to save and not to spend.

DENIES ALLEGED PROMISE TO WED

William A. Coddington Will Fight Suit to Recover $50,000.

TO FILE ANSWER JAN. 9

Miss Vera Meyer DeVine, of Valley Cottage, N. Y., the Petitioner, Claims That She Received Three Proposals of Marriage.

Newark, Dec. 30—A suit to recover $50,000 damages from former Judge William A. Coddington, of Plainfield, for an alleged breach of promise of marriage, became known yesterday, when Harrison P. Lindabury, associate attorney for Mr. Coddington, obtained an order from Judge Rellstab in the Newark branch of the United States District Court, granting him an extra ten days in which to file his answer to the suit.

Papers were filed in the suit by Warren Dixon, of Jersey City, on behalf of Miss Vera Meyer Devine, who gives her address as Valley Cottage, Rockland county, N. Y. Miss Devine alleges in her complaint that on three different occasions former Judge Coddington asked for her hand in marriage and that on each occasion she accepted.

Judge Rellstab granted Mr. Lindabury until January 9 to file his answer to the allegations of Miss Devine. He stated that it would be a general denial of the promise of marriage and other allegations made by Miss Devine as to the alleged courtship.

Miss Devine says that in September, 1911, Mr. Coddington first asked her to marry him. The promise was renewed in February and December, 1912, the complaint states, and "there was a mutual agreement of marriage" to take place after April, 1914.

It is further alleged in the complaint that the "plaintiff devoted her time to the defendant and bestowed her affections upon him," and that by reason of his failure to marry her, she "has suffered humiliation, disappointment and injury."

Mr. Coddington married Elizabeth St. Ives, his second wife, in June, 1914, according to the complaint.

Assemblyman William N. Runyon, with whom Harrison P. Lindabury is associated as counsel for Mr. Coddington, when sought for a statement today regarding the suit, declared that his client at the proper time would make an absolute denial of everything as charged by the plaintiff. He said that for sometime the latter had sought to secure a money settlement from Mr. Coddington, but that he had refused to listen to any such proposition. Hence the plaintiff's decision to start a suit.

"It will be noticed," said Mr. Runyon, "that two of the plaintiff's allegations of promises of marriage are made prior to the death of the first Mrs. Coddington, at a time when she was enjoying perfect health. Mrs. Coddington died in November, 1912, after a short illness. It was Mr. Coddington's second marriage that undoubtedly led to the suit.

"My client does not deny that he knew Miss Devine. He had met her in a social way, but he does deny her allegations of his promise to marry her, and he proposes to fight the action and vindicate himself. He will file his answer to the suit on January 9."

The plaintiff in the suit has visited Plainfield, but she never lived here.

The uncle, Isadore Isenor, of New York, appeared as complainant.

CLAIM ALLEN HAD NO PERMIT TO TAP MAIN

Public Service Gas Corporation Will Prosecute Borough Man.

Officials of the Public Service Gas Corporation have brought action against David C. Allen, of 27 Harrison avenue, the borough, whom they charge with connecting the gas with his dwelling without first obtaining a permit from the corporation's office. The matter came up for hearing before Justice of the Peace Thomas A. Snape in the borough police court, yesterday afternoon, following the execution of a warrant for Allen's arrest, and upon the motion of the defendant's counsel, City Judge William G. DeMeza, for a postponement, the matter was put over until January 6.

It is understood that but one parallel case has been heard in this State and the outcome will be the object of considerable interest, both from the corporation carrying on the prosecution and legal authorities. The alleged offense is said to have been committed on December 18 last and it is charged that Allen has been supplying himself with "free" gas since that time.

EXPLANATION AS TO NOTE OF PROTEST

Rosin and Turpentine Considered as Contraband of War.

Washington, Dec. 30.—It was learned here today that the incident that had caused the administration to despatch the recent note of protest against unwarrantable interference to United States commerce was the holding up of resin and turpentine. Sir Cecil Spring Rice, the British ambassador, recently placed in the hands of Secretary of State Bryan a communication stating that these articles would no longer be regarded as contraband and southern shippers were notified immediately to this effect. Shippers of these commodities in the south were pleased as the articles formed excellent ballast for cargoes of cotton.

After some vessels with rosin and turpentine and cotton aboard had put to sea for European ports Great Britain announced that rosin and turpentine had again been placed on the list of contraband it was learned. Such cargoes were seized wherever found, the excuse offered by England was that it had been discovered that Germany was utilizing rosin and turpentine in the manufacture of a new type of bomb. The State Department was criticized for exposing American shippers to the risk of having their cargoes seized.

GIVE A DEBUTANTE DANCE AT PARK CLUB

The dance given at the Park Club, last night, by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Hatch for their daughter, Miss Eleanor Hatch, following the debutante tea in the afternoon, was a delightful affair. Supper was served about midnight by Mrs. Henry Johnson.

The tea given in the afternoon, at which time Miss Hatch was formally introduced to society, was a charming function. The large number of guests present showered congratulations on the young woman and she was also the recipient of many gifts. Many of those who attended the tea were also guests at the dance.

GIVEN OPPORTUNITY TO PURCHASE STOCK

Employes of Bell System Invited to Join Profit Sharing Plan.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company announces that arrangements have been made by which employes of the Bell System who have been two years or more in the service and who so desire may purchase stock of the company for $110 per share on easy term of payment.

No employe can purchase more than one share for each $300 of annual wages he receives nor more than ten shares whatever his wages. The terms of payment will be $2 per share per month beginning with March, 1915, and the quarterly dividends paid on the stock will go towards paying for it after deducting interest at 4 per cent. per annum on the unpaid balances.

The American Company has paid 8 per cent. dividends for seven years and it is calculated that dividends at this rate and the $2 per share per month payments by employes will pay for the stock in full by November, 1918. An employe who so desires can after March 1, 1917, but not before, pay in the balance on his stock and receive his stock certificate.

Should an employe leave the service or die before his stock is fully paid for, the amount he has paid in plus the accumulated dividends (less 4 per cent. interest) will be paid back.

CITY NATIONAL BANK STOCKHOLDERS LIABLE

It is Alleged That They Failed to Pay the Bank Tax on Their Stock.

Elizabeth, Dec. 30.—Failure on the part of nine stockholders in the City National Bank of Plainfield to pay the bank tax on their stock is the basis of actions to be instituted against each of them by County Collector Leavitt, he announced today. This institution is the only one in the county that did not pay the taxes for the stockholders.

Those who have not paid and are to be made the defendants in the proposed suits are: John W. Coddington, W. A. Coddington, J. F. Hubbard, the estate of F. J. Hubbard, the estate of Frank DeLacey Hyde, the estate of William Tunphear, Mrs. Mary S. Marsh, Mrs. Josephine Taylor and the trustees of the Seventh-Day Baptist church. The total amount due from them is $199.18.

These suits are the first to be brought in any county of the State under the terms of the act, which is specific to county collectors as to how they shall proceed. The law says that in default of payment of the levied tax, the county collector shall sue the stockholders and levy against the bank. This means that after the judgments are obtained, no dividends may be paid on the stock until the tax is first paid. Another section gives the county collector authority to levy on and sell the stock, if the money is not forthcoming from any other source.

The sale is to be conducted in the same manner as other chattels are sold to satisfy an execution of judgment.

In an interview with a Plainfield Daily Press reporter, this morning, William F. Arnold, cashier of the City National Bank, alleged that Mr. Leavitt was overstepping his bounds and that this was only one of a series of acts attempted by the county collector with the local banking institution as a target. Mr. Arnold says that the law specifically sets forth that the tax shall be paid by the stockholders and that they shall be held personally liable for it. If they fail to comply with this order the bank has the right to withhold their dividends and see to it that the claims are satisfied. Mr. Arnold says that the local institution would take such steps in the event that any stockholder attempted to elude the payment of the bank tax.

Dinner will be served at Churchills after which adjournment will be made to the Knickerbocker Theatre, where the men will see Miss Hazel Dawn in her latest vehicle, "The Debutante." The party will number twenty-five in all.

CLINIC IS NOT CHIEFLY FOR "DEFECTIVE" CHILDREN

Dr. M. P. E. Groszmann, in speaking of the clinic which his association is about to open in the Frost building, is very emphatic in guarding against the misconception that it is intended mainly for so-called "defective" children. While the clinic will of course be of help in determining degrees of defectiveness and in suggesting methods of dealing with subnormal and abnormal children, it must be understood that the number of these is relatively small.

But there are a great many who are handicapped in some way, or who have difficulties in adjusting themselves to ordinary school routine. Some of them are really bright, even exceptionally intelligent and would do great things in life if properly and early understood and directed along individual lines. Dr. Groszmann is most interested in these. He will report on types of exceptionally bright children at the meeting of the American Academy of Science, which is to convene at Philadelphia the middle of this week.

VIOLENT ATTACK ON ST. GEORGE'S

Germans Compell Allies to Prepare State of Defense.

RUSSIANS REINFORCED

A Storm and Cloudburst Damages the Positions on Both Sides in Flanders and Northern France—Little Progress is Reported.

Paris, Dec. 30.—The French war office gave out the following statement this afternoon:

"In Belgium we have gained a little ground in the region of Nieuport to the north of Lombaertzyde. The enemy has violently bombarded St. Georges, which we are placing in a state of defense. We have captured a point of German support southeast of Zonnebeke on the road from Becelaere to Paschendaele. From the Lys to the Oise there is nothing to report. In the valley of the Aisne and in Champagne the enemy has manifested activity which is demonstrated everywhere by a violent bombardment, in which our heavy artillery has responded effectively.

"In the Argonne we have made slight progress in the region of Four De Paris. Between the Argonne and the Moselle there is an artillery engagement along the whole front, particularly intense on the heights of the Meuse. In upper Alsace we are strengthening our positions. The heavy artillery has silenced the German howitzers, which were bombarding upper Aspach."

Vienna, Dec. 30 (Via wireless to London).—The following statement was given out last night by the army staff headquarters:

"The old Russian army which about a week ago commenced an offensive campaign against our forces which had crossed the Carpathians has been reinforced with supplementary troops and fresh divisions in such a manner that it is necessary for us to withdraw our troops along the entire eastern front and in the plain of Gorlice, north of the Carpathians and east of Nova Sandec. The situation in the north has not been changed by the movement."

Berlin, Dec. 30 (By wireless via Sayville).—The following official statement was given out here today:

"In the western theatre of war we are still fighting for the hamlet of St. Georges, southeast of Nieuport, which we were compelled to evacuate owing to a surprise attack. A storm and a cloudburst damaged the positions on both sides in Flanders and northern France. On the rest of the front the day passed quietly. In East Prussia the Russian cavalry has been driven back in the direction of Killkallen. The situation is unchanged on the right bank of the Wiechel (Vistula). Our offensive continues on the west bank of the Weichel and the east bank of the Bzura. Fighting continues on the east bank of the Rawka and also Inowlodz to the southeast. Reports from outside sources give the impression that Lowicz and Skierneiwice are not in our possession. We captured these places over six days ago. Skierneiwice is situated far behind our front.

Amsterdam, Dec. 30.—There is no question but that the Germans are evacuating Roulers, says a despatch from Sluis to the Telegraaf. Despite the progress that has been made by the Allies in this direction the Germans have ordered the inhabitants of Sleyhage to leave that village, which is situated at the crossing of the highways between Ypres and Bruges and between Roulers and Dixmude. This village must be evacuated, according to the orders of the Germans, because of the bombardment of the Allies. The village of Staden, which is a short distance nearer Dixmude, still remains in the hands of the Germans.

The requisition of food and supplies of all kinds by the Germans from the civil population of Belgium continues without ending. Many of the demands are beyond the means of the people and a number of municipal officers have been arrested and are held in an attempt to force the people to meet the needs of the German army.

The most advanced line of the Allies on the sea coast is in the vicinity of Mariakerke, about two miles west of Ostend, according to the Sluis correspondent of the Handelsblad. Belgian soldiers made prisoners by the Germans were brought to Bruges on Saturday, who were, according to their statements, captured while scouting near Mariakerke. The despatch emphasizes the reports that the Allies have made prisoners northeast of Nieuport.

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

SUGGEST AN INCREASE FOR DUNELLEN POLICE

Annual Report Submitted to Council at Meeting Held Monday Night.

Presenting his annual report to the Dunellen Borough Council at its final meeting of the year, Monday night, Judge Rene P. F. Von Mipden spoke as follows of the work accomplished during the fiscal year:

"It has been an opportunity and pleasure to me to serve as borough attorney during the year that is waning and I want to thank the Mayor and members of the Council for the uniform courtesy received at their hands during the year. The coming year will see two new faces in the Council to take the places of Councilmen Shively and Bolard.

"The Borough of Dunellen during the past year has made great progress and done great things. I can look back a quarter of a century and see the marked improvement made in this community from a small town and part of a township it has blossomed out until today it has become one of the principal boroughs in the county of Middlesex. As a residential place, with its beautiful homes, well laid out streets and magnificent shade trees, it is unsurpassed and it can well be said that the builder who built this borough built it well.

"When I first came here the territory within the present borough limits was principally pasture lots and places adorned with bushes and brambles. Many of us who pass through the main street and rarely have gone through the back street hardly realize the wonderful progress than has been made.

"Dunellen of today can well be called the 'Emerald of the Plains.'"

The law and ordinance committee made the following report for the year:

"In rendering our report for the year 1914 for the law and ordinance department of the borough, would like to preface our report by saying that the police department has done efficient work and the morale of the chief and his five assistants is worthy of commendation. We would also strongly recommend an increase in the patrolman's salary as same is inadequate for the service rendered. There have been 98 arrests in the borough during the first year, all of which were tried by the borough recorder. Out of the 98 arrests 35 were fined various amounts, making a total of $156.35.

"In our appropriation at the beginning of the year we asked for an appropriation of $1,200. This amount was to cover the patrolman's salary, supplies for the department's use, salaries for extra marshals and up to the first of December there had been paid out and expended for this work $1,161.88, leaving a small balance on the credit side. In addition to this the department has on hand several uniforms with an outfit of clubs, bracelets and revolvers for each man.

"The department has on the instructions of the Mayor put in force an identification card system, together with borough docket register, to be used by the recorder and judge in trying cases.

"We would recommend that the department be provided with such law books as the borough attorney recommends for the use of the officials in determining their powers, and the enlightenment of the borough officers. We also recommend that the chief marshal receive $10 per month as compensation to reimburse for his expenses."

Casselberry, a former pastor of the church, who was obliged to go to Redlands, Cal., on account of a tubercular affection of the thoat, Mr. Casselberry states that he has entirely recovered from the affection and tips the beams at 180½ pounds. FIRM FOUNDATION.

Nothing Can Undermine it in Plainfield.

People are sometimes slow to recognize true merit, and they cannot be blamed, for so many have been humbugged in the past. The experience of hundreds of Plainfield residents, expressed publicly through newspapers and other sources, places Doan's Kidney Pills on a firm foundation here.

A. K. Mattis, 127 West Fourth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was troubled for years by a dull backache and pains in my head. I believe that it was due in a great measure to a bad fall I had. Nothing seemed to help me and when I read of the good Doan's Kidney Pills was doing in similar cases, I got a supply at Randolph's drug store. They drove away the aches and pains and gave proof of their merit. I confirm the endorsement I gave Doan's Kidney Pills when they cured me a few years ago. The cure has been permanent."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Mattis had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

ANCIENT CLIPPING TELLS ODD TALES

Gives 1839 Railroad Time Table and Report of An Election.

While delving among a number of ancient papers a few days ago, Herbert P. Grant, the North avenue real estate and insurance broker, discovered an interesting clipping, evidently taken from the Plainfield Union, the city's first newspaper. It bears the date of April 1, 1839, and was probably kept because of a new schedule it contained, telling of the train service and rates of fare on the Elizabethtown and New York Railroad. The number of trains and the service furnished was meant for passengers from Plainfield who embarked at Elizabethtown and furnished a striking contrast with the scores of trains now furnished daily by the New Jersey Central for local traffic. The railroad announcement is as follows: New arrangement, commencing April 1st, 1839. New Jersey Railroad and Transportation Company. New York, Newark, Elizabethtown, Rahway and New Brunswick, from Jersey City to New Brunswick, from Jersey bethtown, 37 37½ cents; Elizabethtown, 37 cents, and Newents; Rahway, 50 cents. Brunswick train to New Brunswick, 75 cents. Leave New York (at the foot of Liberty street) at 4½ p. m. o'clock, at 8 a. m. daily; Sundays excepted, at 6 p. m. daily. Sundays excepted, at 12½ at noon. Leave New Brunswick at 7 a. m. Sundays 9 p. m. daily. Newark daily; at 7 a. m. and at 2, 4, 6 and 12 p. m. Leave Newark at 5½, 7, 8½ and 10½ a. m., and at 1½, 3½ and 5½ p. m. Newark night line, every night except Sunday, leave New York at 12 o'clock, leave Newark at 10½ o'clock. (Phil. trains.) Fare in the night line, 37½ cents.

Passengers who receive their tickets at the ticket offices, receive a ferry ticket gratis and besides prevents confusion from delays after crossing the river. Tickets are received by the conductors only on the day when purchased. The ticket offices in New York is at the foot of Liberty street and Cortlandt street immediately adjoining the ferries, where the boats start punctually at the above named hours. At Newark the office is at the foot of Market street, and at New Brunswick at the starting place of the trains. The town tracks in the city of Newark have been and passengers will be carried to and from the depot, to meet the arrival and departure of the trains.

On the reverse side of the clipping is an account of the spring election in nearby towns which is quoted in full for the sake of comparison with the election reports given nowadays a few hours after the polls close: Westfield township. We have not yet been able to obtain a complete list of the officers at the town meeting last week, but will print the result as far as we have heard. Zachariah Webster, Whig, moderator. Chosen Freeholders, Zachariah Webster, W.; Judge Cote, Administration. Town clerk, Cornelius Boice, Whig; assessors, Trustum Manning, Adm.; John M. Clark, Adm.; collectors, J. M. Hand, Adm.; Eli Marsh, Whig; constables, Elias Kirkpatrick, Adm.; Moffat, Adm.; judge of election, Caleb Freeman, Whig; inspectors, J. M. Hand, Adm., and J. M. Clark, Adm.; town committee, Martin Runyon and Randolph Marsh, Whigs; William Osborn and Joe Littel, Administration, the other name we have not heard. Martin Runyon, Whig, is one of the commissioners of appeal, who are the other we know not. It was voted that one day of election shall be held at G. W. Anderson's Hotel, Plainfield. Newark charter election took place on the 2nd inst. Two tickets in part were run, one the regular Whig ticket; Garthwaite, Mayor, the other with Miller for mayor, nominated by the disaffected Whigs, in support of which the Van Buren men united. The latter ticket generally succeeded. The vote was not a full one. Miller's majority over Garthwaite was 424. In Warren township, Madison Terril, Administration, was elected moderator. We understand the two parties divided the offices between them pretty equally. In New Brunswick, the Whigs carried their whole ticket by a larger majority then ever before. In Woodbridge, the VanBuren men elected the moderator, and a judge of election, the Whigs elected all the other officers. Patterson, the VanBuren men elected their whole ticket except the town clerk.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet this evening instead of tomorrow. The semi-annual election will take place at this time.

The American Nest of Owls will contiue its euchres next month.

THE "BIG SIX" SPECIAL.

For those of our readers who enjoy the excellent fiction provided by the serial stories which appear in the Daily Press from time to time, we have an unusual treat in store during 1915. Of such material are the "big six" serials which we will publish, that it can be truly said that no local newspaper has ever offered to its readers such an array of fiction by famous writers. Each of the stories are of the "talked about" kind, and the fame of the authors is such that the mere mention of their names guarantees the highest type of stories.

The first of this series is "Smoke Bellew," by Jack London, and will be started within a few days. It will be followed by "Peg O' My Heart," a novel founded on the play by J. Hartley Manners; "A Fool and His Money," by George Barr McCutcheon; "The Master Mind," by Marvin Dana, a new play story by the author of "Within the Law;" "Penrod," delightful boy stories by Booth Tarkington, which all admit is the finest series of boy stories since "Tom Sawyer," and "The Forester's Daughter," a romance by Hamlin Garland.

If the readers of the Press purchased these stories in book form they would cost many times the price of a subscription to the Daily Press for a year. The six will probably be completed within six months and they will be followed by other excellent fiction, by famous writers.

ADVERTISING REDUCES COST.

Who pays the cost of advertising? Five years ago a certain automobile manufacturer's output was a few thousand cars which he sold for about one thousand dollars each. During the present season he is building more than two hundred thousand cars which are vastly better than the former output, and his price for them is less than five hundred dollars each. Extensive advertising has brought this vast number of buyers, thus enabling him to equip an enormous factory where cars in such large numbers can be turned out much more cheaply.

The same condition is found in practically all lines of business. Advertising reduces the cost to the consumer and improves the quality because of the large volume of sales it brings. In buying advertised goods you not only get the best value for the money, but a reliable manufacturer's guarantee of "satisfaction or money refunded."

It might be well to take steps to have the much-abused town clock in the steeple of the First Methodist church properly regulated at this time. If something is not done prior to Thursday night Plainfield is apt to be ten minutes ahead of time in ushering out the old year, for the big timepiece has maintained a pace during the past few weeks that has had the other clocks about town beaten to a frazzle" for speed. The City Council provides a certain sum each year to have the timepiece kept in proper running order, but recently those dependent on the clock as a guide for catching trains and closing up stores, have been subjected to no little amount of inconvenience. The timepiece has varied from five to ten minutes with the railroad record and residents have long since ceased to rely on the clock. Before merchants placed clocks on West Front street variations of this kind were not so noticeable or kicks would probably have been lodged long ago. If the clock is to be allowed to continue to run as it pleases it might be better to do away with it altogether

We don't suppose that the mail service was ever worse than during the Christmas season just past. Three important letters for The Daily Press from Newark were seriously delayed, one of them mailed two days after Christmas taking thirty-eight hours to reach us from that city. The local postoffice officials say that the fault is not in this city, but the fact remains that there is something radically and inexcusably wrong somewhere. The three instances are the only ones that were specifically brought to our attention, but no doubt there were hundreds of others. It seems to us that the local postoffice should have arranged to have more than one window at which packages could be weighed, as has been the case in past years. Postmaster Hoagland says that they have had no complaints at the office about the Christmas service, and if such is the case there must have been a whole lot of people considerate of the feelings of the postal employes who did not hesitate to express their opinions in other places.

The demands upon the Charity Organization Society for clothing are greater this year than ever before. Plainfielders could do much to aid the Organization if they would hunt out the old clothing tucked away in garrets and old trunks. In almost every home there is an accumulation of old clothing, out grown, "out of style," and partly, but not nearly outworn. Some of it is being worn by those who can afford new clothes, and who ought to put the money, and the old clothes where they are needed, to stimulate trade and relieve the suffering. But most of those old clothes are only cluttering the attics and increasing the fire risk. Rummage your store rooms, old trunks and boxes, and in the cellars. 'Phone the C. O. S. and they will see that the things brought to light are put to a good use, giving prompt and practical relief to much suffering among the unfortunate in Plainfield.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

The following quotation from Count Tolstoy's "The Kingdom of God," seems so apropos in the present state of European affairs, that I venture to submit it for consideration. What he says was written and published a few years since, and today appears truly prophetic. The lesson inculcated, is that man, in the mass, should realize his own potentiality.

GEORGE I. SILL.

"Science has devoted all her energy these twenty years to the invention of destructive weapons, and soon a few connon balls will suffice to destroy an army; not the few thousands of wretched mercenaries whose lifeblood has been bought and paid for, but whole nations are about to exterminate each other; during conscription their time is stolen from them in order to steal their lives with more certainty. By way of stimulating a thirst for blood mutual animosities are excited, and gentle, kind-hearted men allow themselves to be deluded, and it will not be long before they attack each other with all the ferocity of wild beasts; multitudes of peace-loving citizens will obey a foolish command. God only knows on what pretext, some stupid frontier quarrel, perhaps, or it may be some colonial mercantile interest * * * They will go like a flock of sheep to the slaughter, yet knowing where they go, conscious that they are leaving their wives and children to suffer hunger; anxious, but unable to resist the enticement of those plausible and treacherous words that have been trumpeted into their ears. Unresistingly they go; although they form a mass and a force, they fail to realize the extent of their power, and that if they were all agreed they might establish the reign of reason and fraternity, instead of lending themselves to the barbarous trickeries of diplomacy.

"So self-deceived are they that bloodshed takes on the aspect of duty, and they implore the blessing of God upon their sanguinary hopes. As they march they trample underfoot the harvests which they themselves have planted, burning the cities which they have helped to build, with songs, shouts of enthusiasm and music. And their sons will raise a statue to those who have slain them by the most approved method."

Facts About Our Club Plan

There are those who, while not possessing much in the way of tangible assets, like to have well furnished homes and who take as much pride in them as the wealthier people. Situated as they are it is somewhat difficult for such people to secure a credit account, and if they could they would not be able to pay in thirty days as charge customers are expected to pay. It is to these people that our Household Club Plan appeals most strongly, because it enables them to buy at the lowest cash price and to arrange for the payment according to their ability to pay.

THIS IS NOT AN INSTALLMENT PLAN as installment plans are generally known, and "anybody's" credit is NOT GOOD. Only worthy persons are entitled to club membership, and they are not taxed exorbitant prices to cover the losses occasioned by selling indiscriminately as installment houses do.

It is not a plan to make more profits on goods, but to make buying EASIER for you, and thus broaden our field of operations.

ON THE CLUB PLAN you can buy Furniture, Carpets, Rugs, Lace Curtains, Blankets, Sewing Machines, Kitchen Cabinets and General Housefurnishings at our REGULAR CASH PRICES, which are all plainly marked. Pay a certain amount down and after that you pay by the week or month whatever amounts are agreed upon.

There are no embarrassing features connected with the Club Plan—no publicity, no unexpected demands. We have hundreds of satisfied customers enrolled on our books and the scheme is working out to the entire satisfaction of both our patrons and ourselves—every courtesy being extended to the Club members that is extended to customers running the biggest regular accounts.

We invite steady-going people to take advantage of the Club Plan.

CANTATA DELIGHTS LARGE AUDIENCE

"The Interrupted Program" Given at the Park Avenue Baptist Church.

"The Interrupted Program," a Christmas cantata, was given, last evening, by members of the Park Avenue Baptist Bible school before an audience that filled the room. It is the story of a Sunday-school that has assembled to celebrate Christmas and appropriate exercises have been arranged for the occasion, but the superintendent doesn't get very far into his program before two waifs seek shelter from the storm, followed by a poor boot-black. Santa is discovered and brought in, and he in turn calls for his little Carpenters and Jack Frost, followed by ten Frost Fairies. Spirited conversation and bright, pretty songs in solos and choruses render the cantata a very pleasing one. There is a beautiful spirit running throughout the cantata, teaching the children not to forget the poor at the happy Christmastide; and although they were unable to give the program as originally planned, they all agreed that it gave far more happiness to listen to these needy ones, and give them their first real Christmas joy.

A cast of forty characters took part in the cantata, including the following: Superintendent, Howard Melick; Santa Claus, Harry Runyon; Jack Frost, Karl Wilson; Boot-black, Irving Manley; Waifs, Clara Hadley and Mary Louise Casner. Frost Fairies, Grace Mosher, Gladys Hadley, Mary Hunt, Violet Hunt, Irma Mowen, Gladys Barrett, Lois Lord, Amelia Bishop, Emily Van Winkle, Freda Mowen, Queen of the Faries. Carpenters, Douglas Van Winkle, Victor Chamberlain, Nicholas Cody. Chorus, Mrs. Charles Hellyer, Misses Martha Casner, Edna Groff, Rosamond Rogers, Ora Bush, Evelyn Manley, Edna Mowen, Elinore Stutsman, Anna Clark, Eunice Waller, Grace Hunt, Marion Hudson, Elizabeth Mills, Walter Weber, William F. Doane, Fred Mills, Joel Ollearr Thomas Fitch, William Watts, Charles Hellyer, Burton Casner.

The following recitations were given in connection with the program. "Good Cheer," Jean Vail, "Bud's Chritsmas Stocking," Alice Spangenberg; "A Prescription," Ben Hadley.

Mrs. John Manley presided at the piano and accompanied the solos and choruses. The Christmas committee included: David M. Runyon, chairman; Chester Gaskell, Miss Elinore Stutsman, Miss Florence Hawkins.

TEMPLE BAPTIST CHURCH TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

The prayer meeting at the Temple Baptist church tonight will be in the nature of an anniversary service. As an organization the church is six years old. A special program has been prepared appropriate to the occasion. There will also be special music.

A cordial invitation is extended, and it is hoped that any who have been in any way connected with the work will be with us. All of our members are urged to be present. We are anticipating a pleasant and profitable evening.

PLEASING XMAS PROGRAM GIVEN AT WARREN CHAPEL

Professional entertainment was enjoyed at the Christmas exercises of the Warren chapel Sunday-school at the chapel, last night. Miss Powell, of New York, entertained with songs-talks and monologues. The former were talks with piano accompaniment. Miss Try. Mattox gave several recitations and Oswald Love and John Richards rendered vocal solos

Lloyd Snell also entertained with harmonica selections. Refreshments were served after the program had been concluded by a committee from the Missionary and Aid Society, which was in charge of Mrs. John Higgins. Superintendent Joseph Gavett made a presentation of a traveling bag to Charles Place, on behalf of his Bible class.

TEMPLE BAPTIST SCHOOL PRESENTS A CANTATA

"What Happened to Santa," was the title of the cantata given at the Temple Baptist church, last night, by members of the Bible school, for which much credit is given to the committee in charge for the excellent program rendered, which was in every way a success. There were about thirty members of the school in the cantata, all of whom took their parts in an excellent way. The prominent parts taken were by Harry Bouton, as the "Old Sexton;" Edward Baker, Jr., as "Jack Frost;" Jack Stewart, as "Santa," and Jack Farlan, as the "Rag Doll."

At the close of the entertainment, G. E. Hall, superintendent of methods, presented in behalf of the school, to the pianist, Miss Bessie Carson, a box containing gold coins, and to the janitor from the Ladies' Aid an envelope containing a check, after which the superintendent, L. W. Randolph, in behalf of the church, presented Rev E. C. Conover, the pastor, with a well filled wallet. The committee in charge comprised Mrs. Edward Baker, Jr., Mrs. P. J. Minton, Mrs. Harry Bouton and Frank Stewart.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival, which comes to the Plainfield Theatre on January 1 and 2, is enjoyed as much by men and women who have been on the long trails leading to the great scenes in the wide, wide world, as it is by stay-at-homes. Those who have travelled enjoy the Howe's reproduction because of their almost delight fidelity and the reminiscences they awaken. Indeed the extraordinary merits of this exhibition are now so firmly established that it seems needless to urge anyone to attend. By the sheer force of its excellence it has advertised itself so well that a crowded house is a foregone conclusion. The new program has its intense moments such as are imparted by a ride on a runaway train, which in itself is exciting enough, but the thrills are intensified and made more thrilling by means of those realistic "effects" which always distinguish Howe's from all others. Then also there are some spectacular moments experienced during a trip down into the crater of Vesuvius—to the very edge of the vast cauldron of boiling lava. Some of the mysteries of Nature's handiwork are revealed in a series showing the growth of plants and the development of flowers from bud to blossom. The manifestations of science and chemistry are also shown in a film depicting the electrolysis of metals and the fantastic formations created by the process. Foreign travel experiences are provided by a trip to ever enchanting Venice during which Howe travelers will glide up and down the canals and see the quaint city under the wizardy of superb color effects at sunset and by moonlight. A railroad ride through Greece, bird studies in the colors of nature, and entirely new animated cartoons are some of the other features.

STANLEY W. BURKE A MEMBER OF THE CAST

The Yale University Dramatic Association, which will give a performance in Montclair on December 23, and in Plainfield tomorrow evening, has two New Jersey men in its casts this season. Stanley W. Burke, a member of the sophomore class, who lives in Plainfield, takes the part of a French maid in the farce by Stephen Leacock, "Behind the Beyond." In W. W. Jacobs' and Charles Rock's tragedy, "The Ghost of Jerry Bundler," he takes the leading role of Hirst, who at the end of the piece appears as the "ghost." Burke took the part of a jester in the spring production of "Quentin Durward" and was elected an active member of the Dramatic Association this fall.

The other New Jersey man is Francis T. Tweddell, also a member of the sophomore class, who comes from Summit. He takes the parts of three different persons in "Beyond the Beyond," that of George, the valet, in "The Ghost of Jerry Bundler," and in the romance, "St. Bartholomew's Eve," is seen as Charles IX, King of France. Tweddell made the association team as a freshman and went on the Christmas trip last year. He also appeared in the spring production.

PLAYLET GIVEN AT THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

A cantata entitled "Mr. Stocking or a Swedish Christmas," was given at the Christmas entertainment of the Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church, last night. The playlet was very well acted and pleased the large gathering that was present. The characters that were in the cast were, Mrs. Freeman Shotwell, the Misses Marion Searing, Ethel Hazel, Margaret Bennett and Donald Wear.

During the evening the Misses Edith Shotwell and Charlotte Fowler rendered duets on the piano. The usual boxes of candy were distributed to the children of the school by Miss Clara Karner and Miss Cave.

SMOKER TONIGHT.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association will meet this evening at its club rooms on West Front street to hold a smoker and general good time. An interesting program has been planned for the occasion.

S. S. ENTERTAINMENT TONIGHT.

The Christmas entertainment of the Church of the Holy Cross Sunday-school will be held this evening at the church at 7:30, and at the parish house at 8 o'clock.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

Scattered Sport Gleanings

Plainfield High School athletes sprang the surprise of the season Monday night when they vanquished the Alumni forces on the Ninth street court. That's a little better, now we can revive a little hope for the Interscholastic League rag. They had the passing down pat before and now that they've found their shooting eyes something may be expected.

If the delegation of rooters that accompanied the Y. M. C. A. basketball warriors to Jersey City last night is to be taken as a criterion, it's about time someone conferred the iron cross of neutrality on the Association squad. North Plainfield and Plainfield High School warblers with a generous sprinkling of "unattached" noise makers were "among those present."

One team that we'd like to see brought to Plainfield this year is the Y. M. H. A. aggregation from Elizabeth. After clearing up on everything that lurks around Betsytown in the way of "minorities" the Y. M. H. A. quintet has challenged the Company F combination. It is one safe bet that the Elizabetheans would make the Y. M. C. A. five step a few if an engagement were signed up and the event would probably prove a big drawing card.

Fans who witnessed the contest at the Y. M. C. A. gym Friday night with the New York University Law School representatives will be given an opportunity to get a line on collegiate rules. One half of the encounter will be played with the college regulations in force and the other half with the A. A. U. code.

Trap shooting is a sport that has taken a sudden grip on local sportsmen and the holiday shoots on Christmas were classic events. New Year's day several similar competitions will be run off and local experts are expected to turn out in large numbers.

POINT A. C. TEAM NEXT ON SCHEDULE FOR HOPE

One of the best attractions of the year booked for the Hope Chapel basketball aggregation will be played New Year's afternoon on the Chapel court, when the strong Point A. C. team from College Point, New York, will be the opponents of the local quintet. This game should prove a good drawing card as the quintet from New York has a speedy reputation.

All of the Hope regulars will be in the game to give the visitors the stiffest fight possible. On Saturday the local team will go to Bloomfield and meet a five of that place.

JERSEY LAD OUTPOINTED HIS WESTERN OPPONENT

New York, Dec. 30—In one of the fastest and most brilliant glove battles fought here since the Frawley law went into effect, Joe Shugrue, of Jersey City, outpointed Charlie White, of Chicago, before a big crowd in Madison Square Garden, last night. Shugrue started forcing the milling at the first clang of the gong.

White cut loose in the eighth round and came like a whirlwind at the end, but the Chicago Cyclone made his bid too late and failed to overcome the lead Shugrue piled up in the earlier rounds.

N. Y. U. L. S. NEXT.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball squad will not practice tonight, but will rest up until Friday night, when the association team will meet the N. Y. U. Law School five in the annual encounter. The college team put up two good games last year and are coming in full force for a victory.

TELLS WHY THERE IS NOT MORE GOLF INTEREST.

Christy Mathewson, the Giants' star pitcher, who spends much of his spare time on the Plainfield Country Club links, says a greater number of persons would get the benefit from golf if they had a more concrete idea of how to go about taking up the game. The ordinary convert becomes one because some friend devoted to golf asks him out to the links. Then he likes the taste and begins to play on public links, if he is fortunate enough to live near any.

The average beginner will strain to become a good driver first. That, to my notion, is the wrong end at which to start, although I went at it myself from this direction. The explanation of this probably is that it feels so good to make a long drive.

But a messed-up drive can be recovered and made up for, while a missed putt or a bad approach has lost many a match. Therefore, I would recommend to the beginner that he practice the short game as much as possible—the approach and putting.

N. P. H. S. GIRLS TO PLAY.

The North Plainfield High School girls' basketball team will inaugurate the New Year with a basketball game against an aggregation consisting of former High School players, although the team will not be an Alumni aggregation. Manager Lillian Spencer signed up this game to keep the borough players in trim as the time is not long distant before the first clash with the city team for the title. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

The tweny-four hour skating race champs are Freddie Martin and Frank Bacon. They reeled off 293 miles and 3 laps. Only eight teams finished, and they were "all in."

LONG TRIP MADE TO GIVE A WALLOPING

Y. M. C. A. Basketball Team Went to Hasbrouck Heights for Easy Victory.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team annexed another victory last night, when it won over the Hasbrouck Heights Field Club aggregation at that place by the score of 53 to 15. This is the first game the locals have won on an outside court and the home players were completely lost when the Y. M. C. A. passing machine started. The entire squad was used during the game and in the second half the most scoring was done.

Ricketts started the locals on the road to victory as soon as the ball was put into play by caging a neat goal from the field, which was followed by one from Brynairski, who played guard. During the first half Gavett made a half dozen which counted for two points each. The home players were held down to three goals and the first half ended with the score 25 to 6. In the second half Taylor, Moulton and Burner started to play and the home players were at their best. For a short time they led the Plainfielders by one point, but after getting warmed up, the association players rolled up the score at will and went three points higher than the mark set in the first half.

The local aggregation made the trip in a large auto truck and was accompanied by a large delegation of rooters.

Those who accompanied the team on the trip were the Misses Marjorie Burtis, Jubilee Rowley, Margaret Brizzie, Dorothy Crane, Lucy Douglas, Ida Hummel, Elizabeth Hillpot, Lillian Spencer, and Andrew Stiglitz, George Hummel, Carroll Taylor and Ralph Smalley. Mrs. Frank Rowley and Mrs. W. O. Taylor chaperoned the party.

TWO OUT OF THREE FOR ANTLERED MEN

First Series With Park Club Marked by Good Scores With Home Five Ahead.

After getting away to a poor start in the opening tilt, the Elks' Club pin-knights came back with a rush in the remaining brace of contests in the initial series with the Park Club representatives on the Watchung avenue chutes, last night, and managed to end up with a decision of two out of three. The jinx that trailed the home stars in the opener was delegated to the visitors in the second and third contests and the boroughites fell far below par in both of the settos.

Twenty-two pins was the margin that separated the Elks from victory in the curtain raiser, bad splits being offered as the excuse for the antlered players' downfall. Nothing unusual in the way of high scores was accomplished in the inaugural tilt by either team. Lyman, Long and Mulford managed to cling to the 170 class and their consistency was largely responsible for the victory. Blatz, Vail and Captain Nash sank to the 150 group and Johnny Campbell's 180 was the individual high score tally.

The midway combat furnished a direct reversal of form on the part of the ten pinners. Blatz crept up to a 202, Nash and Campbell touched 198 and 190 respectively, and Vail stopped at 189. Lyman and Barlow, both of whom had held the Parks above water in the first match, took a big slide in the second and their low scores were directly responsible for the downfall of the "Canadians." Their scores in this tilt were the lowest of the season. The 946 returned by the Elks was the high team tally of the evening and topped the rival clan's by a margin of 187 pins.

In the final engagement of the evening Kiely, who had pinned consistently in the 160 class for the Elks in the first two, climbed to 194 and Blatz and Nash each set up 190. An even 900 was hung up by the winner and sixty-six pins separated the rivals.

Throughout the match and especially in the final two, Nash, Campbell and Blatz did some good work on the chutes for the winners, and Daniels, Long and Barlow did the best work for the losing side. Long's 204 in the final was the high individual record of the evening. No date has been set for the return match on the Park Club lanes.

SPORTING NOTES

The scouts are losing some soft jobs in baseball.

Jim Jeffries has retired from the lobster palace business in Los Angeles.

The Giants are the first baseball club to own their own training grounds. Marlin, Texas, looks good to McGraw.

The honor of closing the boxing period in California fell to Eddie Moy and Red Watson, who finished with the clock on December 18.

The Indianapolis motor speedway will seat 75,000 this season, running the Yale bowl a close second for accommodations.

Walter Johnson's aeroplane flight will get him the big money, no matter where the lawyers' guns bring him down.

And Rube Marquard's little Zeppelin raid won't make him poorer, whether his doubtfulness is bought by the Giants or the Federals.

The boxers are in the limelight for New Year's Day. Several new clubs are to open, including Washington, where the solons want some pointers.

Davy Fultz has prepared his regulations that the fraternity will try to put over on the National Commission when it meets next April.

Over $2,750,000 was bet on the races at the Pimlico meets this year, according to the figures of the Maryland Jockey Club.

Huggins is disappointed at Magee's jumping his signed contract, but says he saw the inevitable when the managerial bee began to buzz.

The Hoppe-Slosson billiard match is still in the air, because the veteran Slosson fears the cold weather of Minneapolis might hurt his stroke.

Five different boxing bills are ready for the Illinois Legislature in January. Out of the lot one ought to come through, for sentiment is with a revival.

Willie Ritchie, erstwhile ring general, is raising bull pups to pass the time away. An English gent started him in the business with a real winner.

The Carlisle Indians have been tamed sufficiently to play Harvard. It was said when the redskins were dropped that they were a trifle too strenuous.

CY GIVES RECIPE FOR A "COME BACK"

Cy Falkenburg.

The greatest come-back in the history of baseball has told how he accomplished the seeming impossible. Fred P. (Cy) Falkenburg, who was sent from the Cleveland Naps to the Toledo club, of the American Association in 1911 as a baseball hasbeen, gives his recipe for recovering pitching ability for the benefit of others in the national pastime who seem to have reached the end of their usefulness in the big leagues.

Cy's recipe must be a good one, for it is the one he followed in coming back from the minors to fast company and making a record as the second best hurler in the game this year. The plan is a simple one.

"Two winters of stuffing curled hair into automobile cushions, plenty of bowling during the cold months and careful attention to my physical condition were the means of my coming back," said the elongated twirler in a recent interview. "Sounds simple—doesn't it? And it is."

CARDINALS' GREAT INFIELD.

Konetchy, Huggins, Hauser and Mowrey Were Stars.

James Jerpe, baseball expert of the Pittsburgh Dispatch, has this to say about the 1911 Cardinals:

"I was in on a discussion of great infields, past and present, the other day. If a three months' period counts in the discussion we will fix our choice on the first line of defense of the St. Louis Cardinals in 1911, the year that Roger Bresnahan brought the Cards to the top and nearly ran away with the flag. No more glittering infield ever shone for a three months' space than that one which was composed of Mowrey at third, poor little Arnold Hauser at short, Miller Huggins at second and Hurdler Konetchy at first. That quartet during the given period showed a fielding skill above any seen before or since."

BUSH THE FASTEST SHORTSTOP IN A. L.

Donie Bush.

Although Donie Bush of the Tigers doesn't top the list of American league shortstops in fielding perfection, he is the real master of them all in covering ground. He covered just enough ground last season to enable him to average one-half a chance more per game than his nearest rival, Buck Weaver of the White Sox.

COCHRAN GIVES PROMISE.

Newsboy Billiardist Looks Like a Coming Champion.

Welker Cochran, who is now but sixteen years of age, is one of the leading billiard players of the world, and his friends declare that within a year he will make a strong bid for the championship title now held by Willie

WELKER COCHRAN.

Hoppe. Cochran is now on tour playing in the tournament of the Billiard Players' league.

Cochran first attracted attention to his skill with a cue when he was only ten years of age and was making a living selling papers in Hanson, Ia. His family moved to Chicago a few years later and there Welker received proper instruction in playing billiards while continuing to sell papers and go to night school. He later entered the Lane Technical college in Chicago and will be graduated next summer.

While playing against the best amateurs in Chicago he made an average of 40 and a high run of 165. In another amateur match he ran out a game of 150 in two innings. His stroke reminds one of Frank Ives, and in match play he possesses a poise and temperament that are never disturbed. He devotes at least six hours a day to practice, and his advancement has been steady since attention was first directed to him.

BIG TIME TONIGHT.

The first game of the double header scheduled to be played in Saengerbund Hall tonight, will start promptly at 8:20 o'clock and will be between the N. P. H. S. second team and the Athenians. In the main attraction, a fast New York aggregation will meet the Plainfield All-Stars.

—Classified advertising does not work miracles—it merely brings logical results. And these are more to be desired than miracles.

NEGRO CHARGED WITH $200 DIAMOND ROBBERY

Paterson, Dec. 30—George Hallstock, a negro, was arrested here today charged with a $2,000 diamond robbery from the store of Leon Friedman. Hallstock was a trusted employe, but had been suspended for some time through the disappearance of a $125 watch which was later found to have been pawned in a local money lending shop. Hallstock is being held for the Grand Jury.

GEN. OBREGON WINS AN IMPORTANT BATTLE

Washington, Dec. 30—By a swift advance General Obregon, in command of Carranzista troops, has fought and won an important battle close to the gates of Mexico City. This was the information contained in a despatch from the Carranza war department at Vera Cruz today, to the Carranza agency here. Approximately 9,000 men were engaged and the casualties were heavy.

IN ENGAGED COUPLE'S HONOR.

Mrs. Frank Cullen, of South Second street, gave a dinner party at her home last night, in honor of Miss May Marl and Harry J. Forristel, of this city, whose engagement was announced a few days ago. Covers were laid for twenty. During the evening an informal program of music and dancing was enjoyed. Both Miss Marl and Mr. Forristel have many local acquaintances and all have extended congratulations. No date has been set for the wedding.

CHILDREN'S ENTERTAINMENT.

The primary, beginners' and cradle roll departments of the First Presbyterian church Sunday-school held their Christmas entertainment yesterday afternoon, and the program that was given in the church last Sunday morning was repeated. It consisted of singing and recitations and two more were added from the primary department. The Misses Mary VanCleef and Mary Cramer spoke. There was a large attendance present and Rev. Louis Bond was Santa Claus. He gave out the gifts from the tree.

CHAS. VAN ARSDALE'S FUNERAL.

The funeral services of Charles VanArsdale, of West Third street, who died Sunday at Muhlenberg Hospital after a two weeks illness, were held from his late home yesterday afternoon. Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, with which Mr. VanArsdale was associated, officiated. Interment was made at Hillside cemetery.

A daughter arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Stack, of 632 West Fifth street, at 2 o'clock this morning.

FINDS WIFE AFTER AN ABSENCE OF SEVENTEEN YEARS

New York, Dec. 30.—After an absence of seventeen years, Thomas Nethercott, who enlisted in the navy at the outbreak of the Spanish American War, located his wife at Canarsie, L. I., early today, only to find that she had married Robert Cook. He said that he had searched for his wife ever since returning to this city at the conclusion of the war and had just discovered her whereabouts.

When Nethercott appeared at the Cook home and presented himself to his wife she fainted. On being revived the story came out that a body had been shipped to her during the Cuban conflict as that of her husband with the request that the casket should not be opened owing to the state of the remains. Later she remarried.

Nethercott found a seventeen-year-old young woman in the Cook home who he was surprised to learn was his daughter. The returned man is said to have made some dire threats against Cook who fled the house and sued out a warrant for his arrest.

NOISELESS NORWAY.

A Country of Quiet Voices, Gentle Manners and Placidity.

The population of Norway is nearly 2,500,000, but if the entire population met in a given area I venture to say that their coming and their going and their meeting would not make as much noise as one may hear every five minutes on dozens of street crossings either in New York or in Chicago.

Norway is the country of quiet voices, gentle manners and no noise. The steamers dock almost without a sound and depart as silently. At Christiansand, where we touched first on Scandinavian soil, people got on and off the steamer, farewells were waved, the crowd on the dock moved about deliberately, but no voice was raised, there was no shouting, no physical unrest expressing itself in squirming bodies or twisted features; they were almost as calm as the stars above them.

All over Sweden and Norway one is attracted by the smooth skins, unwrinkled cheeks and unfurrowed brows of both the men and the women. They have placid faces, as of men and women who have not yet been in contact with our disease of striving to live all of life in a day. The trains slide away from the stations at the sound of a scarcely audible whistle, and there are no bells or shouted warnings; the crowds in the streets or elsewhere seem to pitch their voices out of the range of hearing of ears accustomed to the catarrhal rumble of London, the strident gabble of New York or the sibilant cackle of Paris.—The Late Price Collier in Scribner's.

Queer Happenings In the War News

German women have declared war on all conspicuous attire and the frivolity of show and have issued an appeal to wear only "plain dresses."

Trofim Iosevitch earns a living in Petrograd by reading soldiers' letters to illiterate relatives and writing replies and by writing love notes for Russian maids.

Many of the German troops recently sent to the trenches are provided with electric heaters small enough to be carried in the pocket and operated by a dry cell.

A small glass tube no larger than a pencil filled with iodine and containing a tiny brush is being supplied to French soldiers to render wounds aseptic and to minimize risk of blood poisoning.

It is suggested Uncle Sam start a matrimonial bureau in Europe with the hundreds of photographs and life histories pouring into the London embassy in compliance with the new passport regulations.

So many Belgian soldiers in France, England and Holland have lost track of their families that Belgian newspapers are printing "trench editions," the feature of which is columns of "personals" telling the men the whereabouts of relatives.

LETTERS OF GENERAL GRANT TO HIS FATHER ARE SOLD.

In One He Declares He Voted For Buchanan to Beat Fremont.

Among the letters and documents of notables and relating to them sold in the Anderson galleries, New York from the library of the late Mrs. Gertrude Beekman of Tarrytown was a letter from General Grant to his father, dated July 3, 1861, when he had tendered his services to the war department.

"I see my name has been sent in for brigadier general," he wrote. "At Springfield I saw so much pulling and hauling for favors that I determined never to ask for anything and never have, not even a colonelcy. I wrote to Washington tendering my services but then declined Governor Yates' and Mr. Trumbull's indorsement." J. R. Thomas paid $45 for this letter.

In September, 1859, Grant had applied for the position of county engineer in St. Louis. The Democratic commissioners voted for him, but the Free Soilers beat him. He asks his father in a letter not to suppose from the defeat that he is strongly identified with the Democratic party. "I never voted an out and out Democratic ticket in my life," the letter says, "although I voted for Buchanan to defeat Fremont." Thomas Snyder paid $30 for this letter.

A letter from Thomas Jefferson, Aug. 10, 1806, to the secretary of the navy, concerning the release of a prodigal son, said: "I have always thought that where an enlistment was made in a moment of inconsideration it was more interesting to the public to restore a lost member to his family, that he may again get into an useful course of life, than to retain him rigorously to the end of his term." D. F. Madigan bought this letter for $12.

The best price at the sale was $660 for a manuscript diary of the Revolution, from May 6, 1776, to July 22, 1778, kept by Ambrose Searle, who accompanied Admiral Howe to America and returned to England with him. George D. Smith was the buyer. F. W. Myers paid $450 for Hugh Gaines' "Laws and Statutes of the City of New York and Montgomerie Charter," printed in 1774. This was the last volume of city laws published under the British rule. Only two other copies are known.

ARMY RATIONS HIGHER.

War Freight Rates Also Affect Naval Coal Shipments.

The cost of the American army ration has increased to such an extent on account of the European war that it will cost $130,000 more to feed the soldiers during the coming year than during the present year. Even the price of horse food has so increased that $100,000 more must be paid next year for army forage than this year.

These are some of the results of the war affecting the army which have made their appearance. The navy also is affected. The war freight rates have made it impossible for the navy to meet out of its appropriations the cost of sending coal to its various stations. Congress will be asked to authorize the use of the money ordinarily spent in paying freight rates on coal for the maintenance of naval colliers to be used instead of commercial vessels for this purpose.

National Banks Gain In Cash.

Substantial gains by the national banks of the country in cash, but losses in deposits since September are shown in a statement of the call of Oct. 31, made public by the comptroller of the currency. The statement shows a gain of $21,846,026 in cash and a decrease of $60,186,662 in individual deposits. The New York banks did not participate in the decrease of deposits, but reported gains in both cash and deposits.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The King's Flute And the Pot of Rosemary.

But One Day Her Nephew, the King of Spain, Stole It.

"IN our eyes, kiddies, holly and mistletoe come first as Christmas greens. Of course we inherited this tradition from our English, Dutch and German ancestors.

"But there are in the south of Europe many other Christmas plants, chief among which is the rosemary.

"The Spanish peasant of the Latin church thinks that its perfume in the house on Christmas eve bears happiness and prosperity to the family. On its branches they say that the blessed Virgin used to hang the infant Christ's tiny clothes.

"But there is a tale popularly told about the rosemary which is much like a fairy tale and which I think will interest you.

"A childless queen had a pot of rosemary of which she was very fond.

"But one day her nephew, the king of Spain, stole it. He kept it alive with goat's milk until it grew so fresh and green and beautiful that he never ceased to gaze upon it and admire it.

"He was a wonderful flute player, and one day when he had poured out his soul in music he noticed that the leaves of the plant were quivering with joy at his music, and while he looked there rose out of the plant a beautiful princess.

"Of course he fell in love, and his love was returned. But there was a war, and he must go, so the princess returned to the rosemary bush to remain until he should return from the war.

"The king gave the rosemary bush into the keeping of the head gardener, secure in the knowledge that only his flute playing could bring Princess Rosa Marina to life.

"But during his absence his sisters practiced on the flute and learned a tune, and then the beautiful princess came to life.

"But when the sisters saw how beautiful she was they jibed at her and struck her.

"Then the princess disappeared, but the pot of rosemary began to droop and was almost dead when the gardener, fearing the king's displeasure, fled to the woods.

"There he heard two dragons talking. They were talking of the death of the rosemary plant, but they said that dragons' blood would restore it to life.

"The gardener rose up, slew the dragons and, carrying off some of the blood, watered the plant, and the princess rose up more beautiful than ever.

"Then the king returned, rewarded the gardener handsomely, married the Princess Rosa Maria and lived happily ever afterward."

The Wife's Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"I am sure Mr. Solon's success in his greenhouse is more than half due to his wife," said Mrs. Brady, standing with her elbows on the back fence and holding her shawl on her head with a firm grip.

"Tell me about it," said Mrs. Tracy, leaning against her side of the fence in a listening attitude.

"When they were married Mr. Solon had a tiny greenhouse and was nursing a puny business to keep it alive. They had hardly returned from their wedding trip before he commenced making plans to enlarge his business. Mrs. Solon took over the bookkeeping and made all the funeral wreaths and set pieces and did it so well that it became a Solon specialty. When they put more space under glass she bought all the material and paid the men," and Mrs. Brady tucked her hands under her shawl to keep them warm.

"What was Mr. Solon doing all this time?" asked Mrs. Tracy.

"He was putting in his time where it counted best, in making plants grow. He is a perfect genius with plants, and not much of a hand at business. Now his whole time could be devoted to the plants," replied Mrs. Brady.

"Who did the housework?" persisted the neighbor.

"She did. You see, the little office was a wing of the house in early days, and she kept the work going in both places, all in good order. Every dollar saved went right back into the business those first years. They began their wholesale trade then, and bought several acres at the edge of town for the nursery business. In fact, she was the engine, and she kept up steam all the time. The business end flourished from the time she took it up," replied Mrs. Brady.

"They certainly have a lovely home and the children have every advantage. Where did she get her business ability?" asked Mrs. Tracy.

"Where most people get it," replied Mrs. Brady; "by bumping up against the business world. She studied bookkeeping in Y. W. C. A. classes when she was sixteen and began work with Reed, White & Co. as assistant bookkeeper. She was pushed out of the home nest early. Her father's health had failed and they were absolutely destitute. She kept them going, and after her marriage took care of them right along She felt that she was helping in the business enough so it was not a drain on her husband. Since they have become so well to do she has built the dearest bungalow for the old people. It does one good to see such loving devotion in children. Mrs. Solon is as fine a character as I ever knew. I suppose it was rising to meet a great responsibility that developed her so wonderfully," and Mrs. Brady turned her back to the wind.

"Really, I must go in the house or I shall freeze to death," said Mrs. Tracy.

"I'm going to have Mrs. Solon over to lunch next Thursday," continued Mrs. Brady, "and I want you to come and meet her."

"Thank you so much. I shall be delighted to come. You have made me very anxious to meet her," answered Mrs. Tracy, as she raced for the kitchen door.

"You will not be disappointed in her, I am sure," called her friend as she disappeared inside the house.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

SUFFRAGE GAINS TO DATE.

(By Alice Stone Blackwell)

With each New Year's Day, the list of enfranchised States and countries lengthens.

Ninety years ago, women could not vote anywhere, except to a very limited extent in Sweden and a few places in the Old World.

In 1838, Kentucky gave school suffrage to widows with children of school age. In 1850, Ontario gave it to women both married and single. In 1861, Kansas gave it to all women. Municipal suffrage was granted to women in Finland in 1863, and in New South Wales in 1867. In 1869, England gave municipal suffrage to single women and widows, Victoria gave it to women both married and single, and Wyoming gave full suffrage to all women.

In 1871, West Australia gave municipal suffrage to women. School suffrage was granted in 1875 by Michigan and Minnesota, in 1876 by Colorado, in 1877 by New Zealand, in 1878 by New Hampshire and Oregon, in 1879 by Massachusetts, in 1880 by New York and Vermont. In 1880, South Australia gave women municipal suffrage.

In 1881, municipal suffrage was extended to the women of Scotland, and Parliamentary suffrage to single women and widows in the Isle of Man. In 1882, Iceland gave municipal suffrage to single women and widows. Nebraska gave women school suffrage in 1883. Municipal suffrage was given by Ontario and Tasmania in 1884, and by New Zealand and New Brunswick in 1886.

In 1887, municipal suffrage was granted in Kansas, Nova Scotia and Manitoba, and school suffrage in North and South Dakota, Montana, Arizona and New Jersey. In the same year Montana gave taxpaying women the right to vote upon all questions submitted to the taxpayers.

In 1888, England gave women county suffrage, and British Columbia and the Northwest Territory gave them municipal suffrage. In 1889 county suffrage was given to the women of Scotland, and municipal suffrage to single women and widows in the Province of Quebec. In 1890 school suffrage was granted in Oklahoma, and in 1891 in Illinois.

In 1893, school suffrage was granted in Connecticut, and full suffrage in Colorado and New Zealand. In 1894, school suffrage was granted in Ohio, bond suffrage in Iowa, and parish and district suffrage in England to women both married and single. In 1895, full State suffrage was granted in South Australia to women both married and single. In 1896, full suffrage was granted in Utah and Idaho.

In 1898, the women of Ireland were given the right to vote for all officers except members of Parliament; Minnesota gave women the right to vote for library trustees; Delaware gave school suffrage to taxpaying women; France gave women engaged in commerce the right to vote for judges of the tribunals of Commerce, and Louisiana gave taxpaying women the right to vote upon all questions submitted to the taxpayers. In 1900, Wisconsin gave women school suffrage, and West Australia granted full State suffrage to women, both married and single.

In 1901, New York gave taxpaying women in all towns and villages of the State the right to vote on questions of local taxation, and Norway gave them municipal suffrage.

In 1907, Norway gave full Parliamentary suffrage to the 300,000 women who already had municipal suffrage. Denmark gave women the right to vote for members of boards of public charities, and to serve on such boards, and England, with only 15 dissenting votes out of the 670 members of the House of Commons, made women elegible as mayors, aldermen and town and county councillors.

In 1908, Michigan gave taxpaying women the right to vote on questions of local taxation and the granting of franchises; Denmark gave women who are taxpayers or the wives of taxpayers a vote for all officers except members of Parliament, and Victoria gave full State suffrage to all women.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

If clasps come out of your gloves when the glove is otherwise good, mend the holes neatly and sew on dress fasteners; saves many a glove.

For cold feet, make slumber shoes of the best part of worn blankets or underwear. These are so "comfy" for persons suffering from cold feet.

To save darning stockings, buy 10-cent socks, cut off half way between heel and toe, put on foot, then pull good socks on over and you will be surprised the darning it will save if you have three or four to mend socks for.

To mend small breaks or pin pricks in hot water bottle, cover hole with good-sized piece of adhesive plaster and bottle will be as good as new.

When using furniture polish you know nothing about, try it first on an inconspicuous place, and leave for a few days to ascertain results. People who have lots of woodwork and furniture, and cannot afford the best polish, should try this simple and inexpensive recipe: Get any quantity of sweet oil you desire and mix with vinegar—three parts sweet oil, one part vinegar. Use plenty of soft, clean cloths and be sure to get all off. You will be delighted with results and need not worry about injury to your furniture.

To beautify flower pots, give them a coat of aluminum paint.

If your beds are the single ones, fold your double blanket crosswise, so it is in three layers. It will be plenty large enough for single bed and two blankets will do the service of three.

THE TABLE

Cheap Fruit Cake—One and one-half cups light brown sugar creamed with one-half cup shortening (butter and lard), 1½ cups cold apple sauce, two level teaspoons soda dissolved in apple sauce, a little more than level teaspoon salt, two cups flour, two [illegible] teaspoons cinnamon, one-[illegible] cloves, [illegible] chopped and dredged with one-half cup flour. Currants may be omitted. Do not cut cake under one day old; the older the better. Bake in layers, then ice.

Sugar Cookies—Two and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon soda—slightly rounded, 1½ cups brown sugar, one-half cup butter, one half cup hot water, one-half teaspoon vanilla. Sift dry ingredients together. Melt butter in the hot water and stir, with the vanilla, into dry ingredients. Drop on well greased tins; dredge with sugar. Bake in quick oven.

Potato Caramel Cake (better than fruit cake)—One cup butter, two cups sugar, one cup mashed potatoes, four eggs, one cup milk, one-half cup cocoa, one cup chopped English walnuts, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon allspice, one-half teaspoon cloves, 1½ cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder. This is for a layer cake with Missouri caramel filling: Three cups dark brown sugar, one cup cream, one teaspoon butter, one teaspoon vanilla. Put in pan on stove over slow fire, cook until thick as cream; put on cake while warm. This is a delicious filling.

Old-Fashioned Snitz Bread—Make a yeast as for ordinary bread. (Boil snitz, all kinds preferred, such as apples, pears, apricots, prunes, raisins, etc., the day before.) Set it as other bread and let raise, then after it has raised put ingredients in; the boiled fruits, spices, about one pint molasses and sugar to suit taste; put in flour and work stiff as other bread, let raise, form into loaves, then let raise again before baking one hour.

"Springerle" — Four eggs, one pound soft white sugar, one teaspoon pulverized hartshorn or baking powder. Beat eggs and sugar one hour, add flour till stiff, then roll and cut out with molds. Let lie over night, then bake.

Lep Kuchen (German cake)—One pint sour cream, one pint baking molasses, two teaspoons soda, one cup [illegible], one cup currants or hickory-nut goodies. Flour enough to stiffen. Roll, cut in squares, and bake.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The new year will be ushered in at Proctor's Theatre with a specially selected program for the last half of the week, commencing tomorrow. It will be headed by Blanche Parquet and her six "California peaches," presenting a tabloid musical comedy right up to the minute. A second feature number will be DeLeon & Davis, two "big time" performers with an original comedy skit as their vehicle. The remaining acts, all of which give promise of excellence, are The Livingston Trio, comedy bar acrobats; Millard, Raycob & Watson, comedy singing and talking, and LonDell, novelty instrumentallist. The next big feature film will be shown at Proctor's next Monday and Tuesday, under the title of "The Dancer and the King," featuring Miss Cecil Spooner. It is one of the latest and most sensational photo-plays issued by the World Film Corporation and has received flattering commendation everywhere. Patrons of the house are requested to keep January 8 in mind as on that date the first episode of the newest serial film, "The Elusions of Elaine," with Miss Pearl White and Arnold Daly in the leading roles, will be shown. The story is now running in the New York Journal.

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffing, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh.

SERVICE

A 4% SAVING PLAN

The opportunity is presented to the people of Plainfield to acquire the "habit" of systematic saving. We have been a nation of spenders, but there is ample evidence that people are now seriously considering the matter of laying aside a portion of their income regularly, and no better method for saving in a systematic way can be found than that offered by our four per cent. saving bond plan, which we heartily commend to anyone having a regular fixed income as a method by which he may lay aside automatically a regular amount monthly, to be used when the unexpected happens or for some particular purpose.

Many objects for such saving readily suggest themselves—a fund for the higher education of son or daughter; a capital fund with which to take advantage of investment opportunities; a fund to start a son in business; money to pay off a possible mortgage on the home; money to defray the expenses of some long anticipated trip; and last, but not least, a fund to provide against the exigencies of misfortune that may some day overtake you. Any of these objects should be sufficient to stimulate a desire to make a beginning, and a beginning once made will be easy to continue.

The operation of the plan is as follows: An Installment Bond in denomination of from $40 to $1,000 is purchased, the first payment being from $1 to $25. A similar payment is made monthly, and at the end of 38 months, all that has been paid in may be withdrawn, together with 4% interest. In the meantime, if necessity requires it, 80% of the paid-in value may be borrowed, OR payments may be discontinued and the amount paid in withdrawn at any time. Begin now while the suggestion is before you. Save to save and not to spend.
